PINE TAR CORDIAL

Advertisements under above heads, 20 words and under, one insertion, 15c.; 3 insertions, 25c.; 6 insertions, 40c.

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 50c. and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 25c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 50c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store—we make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., [illegible] George St., directly opposite Cressman's store.

MISTAKE BY NELLY

Thought She Saw Her Lover Kiss Another Girl and Was Much Peeved.

By AUGUSTUS GOODRICH SHERWIN.

The ice on the river was burnished by the bright sunlight till it shone like a sheet of gold. The air was like new wine. Half a hundred happy persons hovered about, and Nelly Blair was the center of her own little group of select friends.

There was a pout upon her lips and a discontented, almost angry expression in her eyes. She stamped her little foot till the skate blade rang.

"I will never speak to Lisle Jordan again!" she declared. "I have a good mind to send him back the engagement ring."

"Don't be foolish, Nelly," advised her sister. "You are making a great big mountain out of a very small mole hill."

"Big? Little?" gasped Nelly, her eyes full of tears. "I saw him skating away from everybody with one of the new academy girls. His arm was around her, and I am sure I saw him kiss her."

"Did he see you, Nellie?" inquired her sister.

"He acted as if he didn't want to see me," cried the vexed girl. "He was to be here to skate with me two hours ago and—"

"Why, there he is now, Nelly; there is some mistake. He must have just come from home."

But Nelly was not in hearing now and upon she was out of sight. She had glanced just once at an approaching figure. It was her lover, with his skates over his shoulder.

Nelly was soon far from the general throng. Every moment she felt more abused and perverse. When she came to where the river divided, she took the far western branch.

Here the ice was a clear, brilliant sheet, scarcely marked. Nelly rested for a moment. Then she casually noticed a man coming her way. He wore a very fancy skating costume, and his progress was the rarest poetry of motion.

Nelly drew back timidly. The stranger was a foreigner, with jet black eyes and a waxed moustache. He lightly kissed the tips of his fingers, he smiled and bowed with an excess of courtesy.

"Beautiful, very beautiful," he said, and Nelly was more astounded than ever. He described a wonderful circle on one foot, and then, with a flourish, made a series of quick whirls.

Nelly gasped and flushed at the audacity of the man. Plainly he had written on the ice with wonderful skill a name.

It was: "Nelly."

"How dare you!" flashed forth the little lady, but, with a delighted laugh, the expert skater was off on a long glide, and farther away Nelly saw him once more write that name on the glassy surface of the ice.

"Oh, dear! I am the most friendless and forlorn being in the world!" burst forth Nelly. "Everybody is cruel to me."

The expert skater was maneuvering between the spot where Nelly was and the junction of the rivers. Nelly was really frightened at the impertinent, airy fellow, as she judged him. She got out of his way by skating on. Finally she espied a cut-off leading to the other river branch. It had steep clay sides, and Nelly started along it.

Crack—swish—crack, crack! Nelly uttered a sharp, sudden cry of dismay. The frail rubber ice was bending under her weight. Then one foot went through it to the ankle. She darted for shore, but though at every step her feet broke through, she gained the bank.

A driftwood log was there, and Nelly sat down on it, breathless and with wet feet. All her sudden temper was subdued. How lonesome it was! How foolish she had been! In regaining the main river she might incur no actual danger, but her feet might sink in deeper.

"There is no Lisle to find me," mourned the dejected maid. "I suppose all men flirt. I wish—I wish I hadn't run away. Oh, dear!" and Nelly burst out crying.

She looked up at the sound of clanging skate blades and crackling ice. Her lover was coming towards her. She could read the anxiety and solicitude in his pale, earnest face. In his expertness he evaded breaking through the ice.

"Why, Nelly," he cried, in a glad, relieved tone. "I feared I should not find you. If it were not for a skater I met who had seen you come this way, I might have searched for hours. And in trouble, too, poor little girl!"

"Yes, I am in dreadful trouble," sobbed Nelly. "Was it a man in a fancy costume you met?"

"Yes, a stranger—looked like a foreigner."

"He is a bold, bad man," blazed out Nelly. "He smiled at me, and—and deliberately wrote my name on the ice. I never was so affronted in my

"He did, eh?" flared up Lisle, in his turn. "Well, we'll see about that. Now, little girl, I'll carry you over the rubber ice here, and we'll just go and bring that impertinent fellow to time."

Nelly nestled in his arms so gladly that she forgot all her pet grievances.

"Now you must skate to keep from freezing, dear," advised the thoughtful lover. "I must get you home just as quickly as possible."

His Progress Was the Rarest Poetry of Motion.

"Oh—I am not the least bit cold, and I don't mind the wet one bit," declared Nelly, with a joyous thrill at being under such lovable protection again.

"Ah, there is that insolent fellow!" exclaimed Lisle, as they came to a bend in the river and the man who had so frightened Nelly was in view. "You wait here while I attend to the gentleman."

"How strong, how brave is Lisle!" enthused Nelly, as she watched her lover approach the object of her complaint. Then, to her astonishment, instead of a stormy collision there was a perfectly friendly meeting. The stranger bowed and showed the most extravagant courtesy. Lisle skated back to Nelly, his face in a broad smile.

"Why," he observed, "there is, of course, only one Nelly in the world to me, but there are two Nellys mixed up in this skating experience."

"What do you mean, Lisle?" asked Nelly bewilderedly.

"That gentleman yonder and his wife are a roller skating team who are here with a vaudeville company. He was simply practicing on ice skates. His wife's name is the same as yours, and he was delighted to find he was able to write it on the ice."

"Oh, dear! what a foolish girl I have been," said Nelly.

"Your sister told me of your mistake about myself," pursued Lisle.

"Mistake?" repeated Nelly.

"Yes, dear. The person you mistook for me was a college friend, Jack Delmar. I loaned him my outfit this morning."

"Oh, Lisle! can you ever forgive me for doubting you?" almost sobbed Nelly. "That Jack Delmar, though, is a bold fellow—I saw him kiss the girl with him."

"Why not? She is one of the seminary girls, and Jack is engaged," subdued, contrite, but immensely happy. Then she glanced up archly, and said:

"And you are a fine fellow, too, Lisle!"

He was not averse to the delicate hint, and their kiss of reconciliation was as well the kiss of peace and perfect understanding.

Excavations in Old London Bring to Light Curious Relics

A part of the wall which once inclosed old St. Paul's was discovered in excavations at the corner of Paternoster Row and St. Paul's Alley. The wall which is about 60 feet long, is made of chalk and rubble, and was built in the 12th century. On the same site pieces of a Roman amphora, Roman vases, and some Samian ware also were found. Other "finds" included a camel's skull unearthed in High Holborn and a large quantity of pipes of the 18th century. Under some old stables in Bartholomew Close—one of the oldest parts of London—three Norman arches were found. They are close to one another, and are believed to have formed part of the cloisters of the priory which once stood on this site.

STRUCK BY A FLYING BLADE

Italian Aviator Met Death in an Extraordinary Manner

Signor Jughetti, an Italian Aviator, was killed at Rome by an extraordinary accident. He was dissatisfied with the working of the propeller of his machine, and placed upon the shaft six supposedly steel blades.

Starting the motor at high speed, he stood nearby to watch the effect. One of the blades, which proved to be of cast iron, snapped, and flying through the air, struck Jughetti, killing him instantly.

Weak, Tired Folks Given New Vigor

STRENGTH RETURNS, HEALTH RENEWED, VITALITY OF YOUTH RE-CREATED

Exhaustion and Bodily Tiredness Every Day Being Turned Into Vigor and Ambition by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

From Chebogue Pt., N.S., comes the following from Mrs. W. A. Reynolds: "A year ago my health began to fail, I lost my appetite, became nervous and sleepless. My weight ran down, I became thin, hollow-cheeked, and black rings under my eyes. I really felt as if the charm of life had left me and when springtime arrived I was in the 'blues.' I read of Dr. Hamilton's Pills and got five boxes at once.

"Within a month my appetite and color were good. I gained strength and felt like a new woman. New life and vigor returned, and my friends scarcely knew me. 'A medicine that will do this should be in every home."

Good health means much to you. Success and happiness depend upon it. The maintenance and source of health is found in Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers, or by mail from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

THE REPUDIATION OF FRIEDMANN.

Dr. Friedmann's reputation suffered another blow at the meeting of the Berlin Medical Society a few days ago, and when the enterprising promoter of turtle serum reaches home, after shaking the dust of this country from his feet, Uith the statement that he has not had a fair chance in America, he will find leading members of his profession in the German capital stoutly arrayed against further experimentation upon living human subjects with his so-called cure.

Professor Westenhoefer, of the University of Berlin, reports a post mortem examination of one of Friedmann's patients, who showed a marked acceleration of the tubercular process after the treatment, although Friedmann assured a cure. Other members of the same faculty gave similar evidence, and, although the proposed vote of lack of confidence in Friedmann failed of passage, it was made plain that the opinion of a majority of the body was either unconvinced of the value of the value of the treatment or enlisted in denunciation of it.

In Friedmann's behalf the statement is made that his vaccin? will be placed at the disposal of the physicians in Germany after his return. This announcement, coming after hundreds of patients in Germany and the United States have been subjected to his treatment still affords all the opportunity that is needed for the verification of his claims.

But the announcements in Canada and Berlin are emphatic enough to warrant the public in determining to have no more to do with the treatment until something definite and conclusive is known about it. So far, taking the sufferings of the disappointed ones into account, the Friedmann ?reatment has done more harm than good.

THE VIEWS OF A LIBERAL PAPER.

The Montreal Herald is a staunch Liberal sheet, but it cannot stand for the course of its party with reference to the Naval question.

Here is what it has to say in an editorial on the subject:

> "The effect of the Churhill announcement on the situation in this country will undoubtedly be to strengthen materially Mr. Borden's case. It makes abundantly evident the Admiralty's belief that the "emergency"—to use a well-worn expression—is sufficiently acute to render three extra dreadnoughts necessary two years from now. It was of the existence of such an emergency that the opponents of the Borden policy entertained the strongest doubts. To those doubts the Churchill announcement must be an effective reply.
> The Herald believes that there are thousands of Canadians who will be deeply stirred by the First Lord's speech. In this, in many ways the most important question Canada has ever been called on to face, party strife has cost us dear. The Herald believes that there was placed upon us a moral obligation to take our part of this particular burden of the Empire. Along with the moral obligation involved in it, there was as well a physical obligation of which the Churchill announcement has given ample proof Canada has been thwarted in what we believe is her desire, to meet these obligations. We have had months of party strife terminating only with the close of the session. The total result of it all has been to leave us just where we were when it commenced. We cannot feel that Canada's position in the eyes of the world has been enhanced thereby."

And these views, which the Montreal paper expresses with so much force and dignity, are, without any question, shared by thousands of other Liberals throughout the Dominion. There are many such in Peterborough, and the same is true of all other Canadian communities.

Apart from the national disgrace, Laurier in this instance has made even a worse tactical blunder that he did when he tried to ram reciprocity down the throats of the people.

MAKES MOUSE TRAPS

A London Woman's Big But Peculiar Business

Mrs. Mary Ann Eaton, London, is probably the most picturesque personality among those engaged in the queer trades of London, says the Mail. Mary Ann, as she is familiarly known in Homerton, has attained the age of 86. Her husband, the founder of this mouse trap business, died some years ago. Since then Mrs. Eaton has carried on the great work.

She does not make the mouse traps herself. This is done by workmen in the back room of her little home. Mrs. Eaton does the brainwork. She spends the day answering letters from her customers headed "Re mouse traps." The traps are those simple affairs of wood with wire bars and the little catch which the mouse in his greed for cheese sets free. It would be impossible to estimate the number of mice that have been lured to their doom by this simple device. The traps are small, but the machinery for their making is on a large scale. There are steam saws for cutting the wood, and the back of the little home is quite an engineering shop. Mrs. Eaton is not unnaturally convinced that the simple trap is best. "I do not believe in these new-fangled affairs," she said. "The old-fashioned ones are good enough for me." Mouse traps from Homerton are sent to all parts of the country and also to the Continent, and Mrs. Eaton's customers are chiefly the owners of large warehouses.

PUFF OF WIND, BANK WRECKED

Playful Breeze Played Hide and Seek With a Stocking Safe Deposit Vault.

A strong wind, not content with carrying hats aloft, turning umbrellas inside out and swirling women's skirts about in cyclonic and embarrassing fashion, has become a bank wrecker. The bank conducted by Mrs. Robert Stadle of the Latham hotel has been ruined by the wind. Its lone depositor, Mrs. Stadle, has lost $100 in cash and a fine silk stocking as a result.

As the new custom of women having pockets in their coats and skirts has not yet been placed in operation by the dressmakers and cloakmakers, Mrs. Stadle utilized the banking facilities so well known to her sex, but never until Boreas came did she lose a penny from the trusty repository. It was as secure in the silken safe, apparently, as it would be in the steel and concrete vaults of a Wall street banking house.

When Mrs. Stadle entered the bathroom of her suite she placed the always faithful bank containing $100 on the window sill. The window was up just a little bit. The wind gave a little puff. Out went the Stadle bank into Twenty-eighth street. Mrs. Stadle could not afford the time at the moment to look out to discover the trail the wind would follow with it. When she did, however, it could not be seen. She is willing to relinquish her claim on the bank, but would be thankful for the return of its assets.—New York Telegram.

BASKET BALL

New York, June 28.—Amateur Athletic Union officials announced today that the national basketball championship would be decided in Chicago. The titular games will be played earlyr games will be played early next month, in connection with the international athletic carnival planned by the Chicago Athletic Association.

The toruament, which will be without weight classification, is open to all registered fives of the United Stater and Canada.

POLO.

Chicago, Fune 28. — Play for the Middle Western polo championship will open Tuesday when teams representing the Kansas City Country Club and the Cincinnati Polo Club meet at Lake Forest. Despite its handicap of nine goals to Sincomnati's four, the Kansas City team enters the game the favorite.

TURF.

Cleveland, O., June 8.—Judged by the form he is showing there in his work-outs, Uhlan, C. K. G. Billing's trotter, has a good chance of succeeding when he tries for a world's record to wagon at the opening of the grand circuit races here, July 7. Today Uhlan circled the oval at North Randall in 2:04¼. The world's record of two minutes is held by himself. Trotting to a sulky, the great gelding did the mile in 2:03¼.

RING.

Cleveland, O., Dune 28.—On learning today that "Knockout" Brown of New York and Johnny Griffiths of Akron lightweights, have been matched for a 15-round bout at Put-in-Bay, O., during the Perry centennial celebration on July 4, officials of the Perry centennial commission sent a letter to Atty.-Gen. Hogan asking him to prohibit the contest. They say that the celebration is patriotic, educational and religious in character and that the prize fight would be a desecration.

BASEBALL.

New York, June 28.—Oh, yes, baseball betting in on the blink—for the present. After a while, when the reform wave has rolled overhead and broken on the shore like all other waves, you can again be perfectly safe from interence when you want to bet a straw hat with your old pal in the front row.

The baseball people have been haunted for some months by a dread that the reformers might swing around and take a few raps at baseball. You see, racing and racetrack betting have been practicallt a dead issue for so long a time that nobody toots any horns and sends the latest reformer's picture to the papers when the latter gentleman rears up on his hind legs and appeals to the police, the sheriff, the governor, the President and the W. C. T. U. to crush the betting evil. Palpitating publicity is hard to get nowadays without going to the trouble of caressing somebody with a meat axe.

With racing reform a dead issue, any really active and well-trained reformer could easily get his picture into the papers, with a full and detailed account of his important career, by simply denouncing baseball as the most iniquitous device of the Unrighteous One. Of course, it would be necessary to have some little angle of the game to "hang the holler on," and the only possible angle is grandstand betting.

There always has been a little betting at ball games. Sometimes there's more than a little. There's betting wherever there's a doubtful issue, whether it's the return for a missing vessel or the outcome of a ball game. If I feel like making a bet I'm going to make a bet, and so is everyone else. The desire to do what you please with your own property is mere human nature! And baseball is an exciting game, producing a lot of red hot rivalry among spectators as well as players, and inclining one toward some outward manifestation of partisanship.

Pie for the reformer!

New York, June 28.—A referendum vote taken among the mayors of fifty cities in New York State shows an overwhelming majority in favor of Sunday baseball, according to figures made public here today by Wm. P. Capes, secretary of the Conference of Mayors of the State of New York. Out of thirty-two mayors voting 27 endorsed Sunday playing of the game, five were against it.

A resolution has been sent to Gov. Sulzer, requesting that he place the matter before the legislature with a view of repealing statutes which prohibit professional ball on Sunday.

Trent Canal

Steel Pontoon Gate Lifter.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned and marked "Tender for Steel Pontoon Gate Lifter, Trent Canal" will be received at this office until 16 o'clock on Tuesday, July 29th, 1913.

Plans, specifications and form of contract to be entered into can be seen on or after this date at the office of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, and at the office of the Superintending Engineer, Trent Canal, Peterborough, Ont.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labour, which schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque for the sum of $1,000.00 made payable to the order of the Minister of Railways and Canals, must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The cheque of the successful tenderer will be held as security, or part security, for the due fulfillment of the contract to be entered into.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

By order,

L. K. JONES,

Asst. Deputy Minister and Secretary.

Department of Railways and Canals.

AMERICA'S CUP PRIZED TROPHY

Interesting History of the Great Sporting Trophy First Offered in England in 1851

The most prized of sporting trophies is the "America's Cup" which cost $500 and was offered by the Royal Yacht Squadron in 1851 for a race around the Isle of Wight. Foreign boats were invited to compete, and the America, owned by Commodore J. C. Stevens and several other members of the New York Yacht Club, was entered. There was no time allowance for tonnage, and the America won a very creditable race, since she was by no means the largest of the competitors. The trophy thereupon became the property of Commodore Stevens. In 1857 Commodore Stevens and the other partners deeded the cup to the New York Yacht Club, to be held as a perpetual challenge trophy for international races between vessels of not less than 30 nor more than 300 tons, measured by the Customs House rule of the country to which the vessels belonged. The original deed said that the "parties desiring to sail for the cup may make any match with the yacht club in possession that may be determined upon by mutual consent, but in case of disagreement as to terms the match to be sailed over the usual course of the annual regatta of the yacht club in possession of the cup and subject to its rules and sailing regulations."

One Against a Fleet

The deed thus gives the New York Yacht Club a very strong position, and permits it to dictate the terms of any match. The club's idea of sportsmanship was illustrated when the first challenge came from Mr. James Ashbury in 1869. Mr. Ashbury wished to race his yacht Cambria against any yacht the New York club might designate as defender, but the club declined to name a boat and insisted that the Cambria should sail against the whole yacht club fleet. This Mr. Ashbury consented to do, and an American yacht named Magic was the winner. In 1871 he returned to the attack, and on this occasion it was agreed that there should be a single defender. The Columbia defended the cup until she lost through an accident, after which the club substituted the Sappho. The cup remained in the United States, but the race ended in a protest.

A Canadian Challenger

The Countess of Dufferin challenged and lost in 1876, and in 1881 the Canadian sloop Atlanta challenged and was defeated by the Mischief. After this race the New York Yacht Club decided that the deed of gift was not adequate, and returned the cup to the surviving donor, George L. Schuyler, who amended the deed of gift by providing that challenging yachts should proceed to the port of contest on their own bottoms, and also that no vessel could race again until two years had elapsed. In 1882 the club revised its system of measurement, which determined the time allowance to be given or received. In 1891 the rule was again changed, and the present rule was put in force in 1906. In the meantime the Galatea and the Genesta had been defeated by American defenders. In 1887 the Thistle challenged, but was found to be longer than her official measurements. The dispute was referred to Mr. Schuyler, who decided that the difference should not invalidate the challenge, and the race was sailed, the challenger being defeated.

The Dunraven Charges

In 1889 Lord Dunraven challenged, but the Royal Yacht Squadron declined to approve his challenge on the ground that the new deed of gift was illegal and not in the interest of good sport. In 1893, and again in 1894, Dunraven challenged, but was tiwce defeated. After the second contest charges of sharp practice against the defender was made by Lord Dunraven, and a most unpleasant sensation was created. In 1898 Sir Thomas Lipton sent his first challenge, and a committee was sent across the Atlantic to arrange the contest. Shamrock I., Shamrock II., and Shamrock III. were all defeated in turn, and then Sir Thomas came to the conclusion that he could not win under the rules. So in 1907 he asked if the New York Yacht Club would consent to reduce the size of the defending yacht to the size of a challenger that he wished to build. This request was rejected, and the refusal has been repeated.

WHERE THE CASTLE WENT

Lord Dufferin tells a good tale concerning his estate in the county Down. At Clandeboye stood the ruin of an old stronghold of the O'Neils.

On a certain bright summer morning the first Marquis visited the spot with his steward, one Dan Mulligan, who was quite a character.

Drawing a line roughly with his walking stick round the crumbling relics of the castle, Lord Dufferin directed his factotum he was to build a protecting wall to the frontage marked.

Then he went to India, feeling assured of the preservation of what remained of the historic structure.

When he returned home his lordship hastened to visit Clandeboye.

There was in sight, seemingly, not a trace of the O'Neil relic. The Marquis sent for his steward.

"Where's the castle, Dan?" demanded he.

"The castle, my lord! That old thing? Sure, I had it pulled down to build the wall wid."

NEVER QUESTIONED HIS OWN METHODS

A Few Sidelights in the Life of J. Pierpont Morgan, Financier and Art Collector

Few men were more widely feared yet more generally trusted than J. P. Morgan. Those who met him only in a business way saw a man rough, emphatic, and repellent, inaccessible almost as the Emperor of Russia when he chose to be, known as the worst man in the world to interview, and as a man who believed absolutely in himself and apparently never questioned the correctness of his method. His friends, however, knew him as a simple, unaffected companion, an interesting conversationalist with keen wit and genial humor. Once a woman asked him why he kept on accumulating money when he already had more than he needed. "I do not love money," Mr. Morgan is said to have replied, "but I do enjoy the excitement, the fun of making it." His office hours were short, and at the close of his business day he left his office and his business behind him. Woe to the person who then approached him on business bent. He cared little for society, but was fond of a good dinner in congenial company, of rare wines, and big black cigars. Wines he partook of with moderation. To cigars he was almost a slave. He was a devoted churchman.

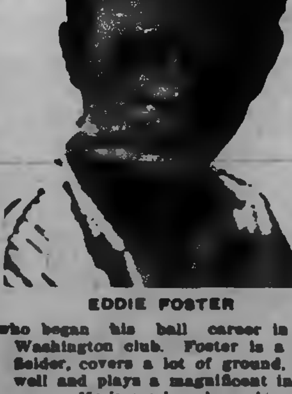
The collection of books and works of art was his chief pleasure, but he had numerous other diversions.

His favorite sport was yachting, and his steam yacht Corsair was one of the largest and most sumptuous private vessels afloat. He was fond of dogs, and kept a large kennel of collies at his country home. As a philanthropist Mr. Morgan was scarcely known publicly. He gave unostentatiously many millions of dollars and yet his name was never connected with a single gift.

Mr. Morgan's collection of art works probably is the most valuable individual one in the world. Once Mr. Morgan kept abroad a collection of objects of art valued at $3,000,000 rather than pay the duty on them demanded by the United States Government. It was not alone for his own satisfaction that Mr. Morgan spent millions in his collection of art, books, and antiques. He gave away his treasures almost as fast as he bought them—many of them to public institutions.

Many anecdotes are told of J. P. Morgan's methods and mannerism in business dealings and in social affairs. A firm of jewelers who had received a fine pearl decided to send it down to Mr. Morgan and let him have first bid on it. The price was placed at $5,000. The jewel was carefully sealed in a leather-covered box. Mr. Morgan read the firm's communication, opened the box, was delighted with the pearl, and thrust it into his pocket. Calling his cashier he instructed him to draw two checks to the firm of jewelers—one for $4,000, and the other for $5,000. The $5,000 check Mr. Morgan placed in the box that had contained the pearl. He had the package carefully tied and sealed. The $4,000 check he enclosed in a letter to the jewelers, in which he wrote that if the firm was willing to accept that amount for the pearl the box might be returned to him at once and the transaction considered closed. In the event, however, that the firm was unwilling to accept less than $5,000 for the pearl, the $4,000 check was to be returned without delay. Mr. Morgan, with the pearl in his pocket, sent the messenger back, bearing his letter and the box. In less than an hour the messenger returned, fetching the box in which was the $5,000 check. The jewelers had decided to accept the $4,000 offer. Mr. Morgan met one of the members of the jewelry firm at a dinner later, and told him the story of the two checks. The jeweler averred that his firm had lost money on the transaction. "If you were losing money," asked Mr. Morgan, "why didn't you keep the box with my $5,000 check?"

The jeweler answered: "I can understand now how it is that you have earned your place as the leading financier."



EDDIE FOSTER

who began his ball career in the Washington club. Foster is a fast fielder, covers a lot of ground, hits well and plays a magnificent inside game. He is a wise player in every way. The only possible objection to Foster might be that he is small. This does not appear to handicap him, for he covers as much ground as any third baseman and his speed in getting after the ball is enough to make up for any lack of inches. He throws to first accurately and fast and from almost any position.

MURDER RECORD IN THE STATES

Nine Times as Many as in England, Taking Population as a Basis

Some recent statistics call attention to the remarkable number of murders in the United States. There is no country in the civilized world where so many people are killed, and it is doubtful if uncivilized countries could show a worse record. The situation is so serious, that it has alarmed several life insurance companies, and they may increase rates to allow for murder risks, for when there are 85 murders in one year, as was the case in Memphis, Tenn., it is plain that the loss to insurance companies must be considerable, the victims of murders are as frequently and as heavily insured as the average member of the community. In many cases, indeed, they are still better insured, and murders for the sake of insurance alone are far from common.

Few Are Hanged

If the record of 1911 is taken there were nine times as many murders in the United States as there were in England, in proportion to population. Commenting upon the figures given, the Spectator, an insurance paper, says: "The comparison brings out in startling contrast the disregard of human life in the United States at the present time. The subject is obviously one of most serious importance, not only to life insurance com but also to the public at large, and, granting the defects in the available statistics, there can be no question of doubt but that the American homicide rate is exceedingly high and that the rate is on the increase. A condition of this kind is not compatible with the common assumption that actual progress is being made in the United States in all that is being summed up under the term civilization and national welfare."

Mr. Andrew White, former Ambassador to Germany, who made an examination of the record in the United States, believed that the great murder rate was brought about by the fact that only one murderer in about 84 is ever sent to the gallows or the electric chair. In 1911 there were 61 executions, and probably between 5,000 and 6,000 murders.

In the Black Belt

Murders are commoner in the large cities than in the smaller towns and in the country districts, Chicago leading the country and the whole world in the actual number of killings, being hotly pursued by New York. But, on a basis of population, there are more murders in the Southern States than in any other portion of the globe. The victims are for the most part negroes, and for the most part the murderers are negroes, too. The negroes' habit of using razors is still constant, but they have also become accustomed to the revolver, and even to the automatic pistol, whose increasing popularity may have not a little to do with the murder rate. The automatic pistol makes killing easy, and assists escape in those cases where a crime is detected and bystanders might interfere if it were not for the deadly automatic with which the assassin stands off pursuit. The gunmen of New York are all patrons of the automatic pistol.

Foreign Murderers

The foreign population of the United States is also responsible for a considerable percentage of murders. Probably in the large cities the foreign-born and the offspring of foreign-born parents would be accountable for three-quarters of the murders. The names of the gunmen in the Becker trial will serve as an index. It is an unobservant Canadian who has not observed in the course of the past ten or fifteen years the increasing frequency of foreign names in Canadian murder cases, especially those in the cities where the herding together of these foreigners results in many murders in which no one is brought to justice. What has happened in the United States in the matter of immigration is very likely to happen in Canada in the next ten years unless stringent preventative measures are taken. It is already happening. With the hard-working, inoffensive foreigner will come the foreign criminal, and the murder ratio is likely to increase.

POLLUTION OF WATER SHOULD BE STOPPED

The Ontario Fish and Game Warden Would Discontinue the Death Dealing Practice

The Ontario Fish and Game warden has this to say: "Some of our scientific authorities allege it is not practical to discontinue the death dealing pollution of our lakes, rivers and streams. The health and stamina of the inhabitants is absolutely necessary in our country to ensure their welfare and prosperity. Without digressing, it cannot be denied that the refuse of all that is taken from the surface of the land should be returned to it. This is one of Nature's laws, of which we have a most convincing illustration in our grand forest trees, growing on rocks in less than fifteen or eighteen inches of soil. If these trees had been deprived of the early stimulant accorded them by the decomposed leaves and other matter, these rocks would have produced only useless stunted trees. All we have to depend on comes from the land. This being an undisputed fact, we should be just, and also generous, to our best friend, by returning to it its proper share of what it produces for our benefit. We frequently hear of farmers leaving their farms on the plea that the land is played out. Land will never be played out if it receives common sense honest treatment. All sewage should be treated by an intelligent system of interception works, the solids from the tanks should be pulverized, put into coarse sacks and sold to farmers at cost of production, but with the substitution of lime, the residue so treated would have a considerable commercial value as fertilizer, and would do much in preventing land starvation. All deleterious waste products from manufactories should be destroyed by those producing them, on the same conditions as owners of sawmills are compelled to destroy sawdust. Deplorable events in several typhoid outbreaks is one of Nature's severe warnings, the deduction from which is that neither collectively nor individually can we ignore her laws with impunity. When an unfortunate and unsanitary state of affairs prevails in some of our most enlightened cities, with all the appliances known to Science at their command, what better can be expected from the farmers or dairymen who locate their stables and cattle sheds contiguous to their wells or springs, even though the results of so doing resemble those that occurred in a village near Manchester, England, a few years ago, when many of the inhabitants died from typhoid fever, resulting from the use of milk from cows having access to water polluted with sewage. The vexed question of defilement of public waters can be settled permanently only by making it too expensive for those who continue endangering the public welfare. Unrestricted sewage has already destroyed many of the best spawning grounds in the Great Lakes and rivers. With increased population, of course, there will be an increased demand for fish. Then everything possible should be done to put a decided stop to anything having a tendency to decrease the supply of this most valuable commodity."

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Public Building, Lakefield, Ont.," will be received until 4.00 p.m., on Monday, July 21, 1913, for the construction of a Public Building, at Lakefield, Ont.,

Plans, specification and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained on application to the Postmaster at Lakefield, Ont., at the office of Mr. Thos. Hastings, Clerk of Works, Postal Station "F," Yonge St., Toronto, and at this Department.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. Polish For Oilcloth

Clean the oilcloth with some nice soapy water and a soft scouring brush. Put some glue into a jelly jar and fill with water. Stand whole in a saucepan of water on the fire. Boil till the glue is melted. Stir with a stick (it only needs to be very thin); take a clean, soft piece of rag and dip into the glue. Rub it over the oilcloth, taking care not to miss any parts, and leave it until quite dry. The result will be a nice shine equal to new, and no fear of one's slipping, as is often the case when the linoleum is polished with beeswax.

New Hot-air Register

So that a hot air register can be easily cleaned a New Brunswick man has patented one in which the covering grating is hinged and hooked to the frame instead of being screwed to it.

Famous "Bone Cave."

An extraordinary "bone cave" may be seen in the island of Teneriffe. It is situated near the summit of a lofty sea cliff near Orotava, close to the small plain of Le Paz, where peace was finally made between the conquering Spaniards and the Guanches, the original inhabitants of the island. Here the Guanches made their last stand, and this cave formed a shelter for the small remnant left of the tribesmen after the Spanish had finished with them. In former times the place had evidently been a burial ground for the Guanches, and when first discovered a number of mummies were found in it; now, however, only a huge pile of bones remains. Access is obtained by descending a rope through a hole dug in the roof, but the original occupants must have had a difficult and dangerous scramble down the face of the almost perpendicular cliff to the natural entrance.—Wide World

COLONISTS FROM RUSSIA

Company Will Locate a Thousand of Them in British Columbia

M. Asancheyev, a Vancouver real estate man, has a big colonization scheme for the settlement of the Hazleton district, where he hopes to place one thousand Russian farmers within a short time.

"These settlers," said Mr. Asancheyev, "are all capable and experienced farmers who are well-to-do in their own country, but are anxious to come to Canada. The company I represent has acquired two pieces of ground each 4,000 acres in extent. This has been sub-divided into small farms of 40 acres each. One of the blocks is near Hazleton and the other at Morristown. The farms will be sold to the colonists on easy terms, and will be stocked with cattle and implements, which will be paid for on the same system. This will give the farmers a chance to start in their work without the drawbacks usually faced by the settler in a new country.

"A village will be built in each community, where the families will live, and close to it garden truck will be raised. This will be attended to by women and children while the men will labor in the distant fields."

SYNOPSIS OF DOMINION LAND REGULATIONS

ANY person who is sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties.—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties.—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Supplying Coal for the Dominion Buildings," will be received at this office until 4.00 P.M., on Monday, July 14, 1913, for the supply of coal for the Public Buildings throughout the Dominion.

Combined specification and form tender can be obtained on application at this office and from the caretakers of the different Dominion Buildings.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the contract. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

By order,
R. C. DESROCHERS,
Secretary.
Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, June 14, 1913.

Newspapers will not be paid for this advertisement if they insert it without authority from the Department.—42889.

WELLAND SHIP CANAL.
Section No. 1.
NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned and marked "Tender for Section No. 1, Welland Ship Canal," will be received at this office until 16 o'clock on Thursday, July 17th, 1913.

Plans, Specifications and form of contract to be entered into can be seen on or after June 4th, at the office of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, and at the office of the Engineer in Charge, St. Catharines, Ontario.

Copies of plans, and specifications may be obtained from the Department on the payment of the sum of fifty dollars. To bona fide tenderers this amount will be refunded upon the return of the above in good condition.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labour, which schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque for the sum of $200,000.00 made payable to the order of the Minister of Railways and Canals, must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The cheque of the successful tenderer will be held as security, or part security, for the due fulfilment of the contract to be entered into.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

By order.
L. K. JONES,
Asst. Deputy Minister and Secretary.

SETTING THE TABLE ON AN OCEAN LINER

Four Millions Expended in a Single Year on North German Lloyd Vessel

The many cafes aboard modern liner have the atmosphere of the boulevards. The old, long, baronial board, presided over by the captain, to which passengers were summoned by bell or trumpet, has given way to separate tables at which one is free to dine, lunch, or sup alone, at any hour, in any seat, at any one of a hundred small tables seating two, or to join a party at a table seating seven, all surrounded by decorations that rival those of the best restaurants ashore. And as in any first-class hotel, the guest is not restricted to a table d'hote menu, and can order from an epicure's bill of fare—but on shipboard all meals are included in the price of the passage. Cafes for those who do not smoke, a new convenience, have the air of such places as Vienna. These are distinct from the open-air verandah cafes with their teakwood tables.

Instead of the salt meats of 20 years ago, both cabin and steerage passengers have fresh meat daily. Twenty-eight thousand pounds of meat and 15,000 liters of beer were consumed by the passengers of a single North German Lloyd liner on one recent voyage, while on the same ship the cost of setting the tables for a single year was $4,000,000.

Ah, it is the expense, then, that deters you? This talk of de luxe accommodation sounds expensive? But you do not need to take these expensive cabins unless you are willing to and can pay for them. All of the other comforts, conveniences, and luxuries are as free to the poorest traveler as to the richest, and not the least interesting fact about ocean travel is that its cost is constantly growing less.

The voyage to England now costs on the best ships about half the rate charged by the Britannia, the first mail steamer to cross the ocean, 70 years ago. One can go first class for three cents a mile; second class for half that, and third class—with better accommodation than the best in the Britannia's day—for about 80 cents a hundred miles, and these rates include meals. Compare them with the standard railroad passenger costs and meals in the dining cars or station eating-houses extra.

GAVE PROOF OF HIS NERVE

Journalist in Sunny Venezuela Had It, and It Was a Lucky Possession for Him.

The Trinidad papers publish a story which tends to prove that romance such as delights the small boy and leads him away from home is still found in sunny Venezuela.

Thomas Herrera, a Caracas publicist, committed recently the unpardonable sin of writing a sarcastic pamphlet against President Gomez of Venezuela. One night the police swooped down on his house and extended to him an invitation to take a free outing on the torpedo boat El Rayo, which was waiting for him at La Guayra.

On board the small craft Herrera found, with very mixed feelings, the man whose presses had printed the pamphlet and a friend guilty of sending copies of it through the mails. The torpedo boat steamed toward the offing and but for the thought of possible untoward developments the three friends enjoyed the free excursion keenly. Yet the memory of things which had in the past befallen undesirable journalists in the course of like outings convinced Herrera that he had better look out for accidents.

A brilliant conversationalist, he ingratiated himself with the officers of El Rayo and quite naturally was asked after the noonday meal to take a hand at cards. In the course of the game he dropped a card under the table, bent down to pick it up and instead brought to view the captain's revolver, which he had wrenched from its holster. Three shots rang out and captain, lieutenant and first mate rolled on the deck wounded. Herrera's friends overpowered the second mate and secured all the guns. The crew was offered the choice between lead and a quick run to Trinidad.

When Trinidad was reached everybody followed the three daredevils ashore, for little did the crew care to face a court-martial for having allowed themselves to be captured. Herrera then indited a beautiful proclamation to the people of Venezuela, telling them how to get rid of the tyrant Gomez and instancing what a man of nerve had done, alone.

LONDON'S TALLEST SCOT

Nonagenarian Says Secret of Longevity is Two Meals a Day

Although Mr. Leslie Fraser Duncan is ninety-two, he is 6 feet 6 inches in height, and it is his boast that he is the tallest Scotsman in London. He attributes his good health and long life solely to the habit of taking only two meals a day. All his life he has never had more.

"I have not touched meat for seven years," he told an interviewer, "and I did not eat it until I was twenty. I never smoked, except for a year when I was a young man in Edinburgh, and I have rarely touched alcohol. For years my drinking has been confined to four glasses of champagne a year—one on my birthday, one on my wife's birthday, one on Christmas Day, and one on New Year's Day.

"Lord Strathcona was a boy at school with me, and he keeps working at his advanced age, a year older than myself, on two meals a day. Sir William Jenner, the famous doctor, was an advocate of this. He once said to me, 'If every man lived on two meals a day doctors would not be wanted.'"

After dabbling in law in Scotland Mr. Duncan went to London, and for a time worked as reporter. Then with James Grant, of the "Morning Advertiser," he started the "Railway World," for that was the time of the railway boom, and in four months made $10,000 as his share of the profits. When this had gone other ventures followed. He retired twenty-five years ago with a comfortable fortune.

HOUSEWIVES' HINTS

Removes Dust

A paint brush will remove dust from cracks better than any duster can.

Candy-making

In molding peppermints or other candy keep the hands dusted with confectioner's sugar.

Flush the Sink

Hot water in which soda has been dissolved should be poured down the sink every day.

Spoon Retards Cooking

You may not believe it, but a spoon left in anything cooking retards progress, as it is a conductor of heat.

Washing Shirts Easily

To wash a shirt easily take sour milk and dilute the water. Soak the shirt in it overnight. Then wash in the usual way.

Removes Finger Marks

Sweet oil will remove finger marks from varnished furniture. Kerosene is best to use on waxed or oiled furniture.

Cheap Jelly Press

A small wire broiler from a ten-cent store makes a handy press when making jelly, grape juice, etc. It is strong and may be cleaned easily.

Novel Laundry Bag

An old cotton dress skirt, sewed across the bottom, with loops at top to hang it by, then stiffly starched and ironed, makes a good laundry bag.

Removes Fish Smell

To clean a frying pan after fish or onion boil out the pan with soda water, washing clean, then put it on the fire and shake a little oatmeal in.

Stops Sticking

To prevent the stopper of a bottle of blue from sticking when replaced rub a fresh one with a little lard or grease of some kind.

Iron Rust

Remove iron rust from white goods by boiling the articles in water containing cream of tartar. Allow three tablespoons to a gallon.

Oven Needs Bath

At least once a week the inside of the oven should be thoroughly cleansed with hot soda and water. Scrub down the sides and shelves and scrape the door.

Shine Silver

The quick way to clean silver is to put it all into a bowl of soda and soapy water, wash well with a piece of flannel, dry with a clean towel and polish with a piece of chamois.

BAGGED A WHITE LYNX

Fine Collection of Northern Birds and Animals for Ottawa

N. Demers and C. S. Lewis, of Prince Rupert, B.C., who for several months were collecting the fauna of the Yukon for the Victoria Memorial Museum at Ottawa, were very successful. They went north in a specially constructed gasoline power boat of exceptionally light draft, which enabled them to ascend rivers and navigate shallows and sandbars with ease. The country in which the which the hunting and trapping was carried on was at the headwaters of the Liard, Nusetlin and Hoole rivers, a vast area that afforded opportunity for obtaining specimens of every known bird and animal in the Yukon territory.

Naturally, in making such a collection many wonderful and unique specimens were bound to be procured. Amongst such were two absolutely white lynx, and also two white porcupines with silver tipped quills. These albinos were, of course, freaks of nature that occur in animal life as they do amongst humans. Moose were abundant, and it was just a question of obtaining the best specimens possible. A scientific point of interest is the fact that in obtaining specimens a great deal of importance was attached to noting the altitude in which they were found and obtained.

PLEA OF HYPNOTISM

Grey-Headed Man Influenced Girl and Told Her to Steal Documents

Novel—at any rate, in England—was the defence of hypnotic influence set up by Elsie McLaughlin, a typist, of Barrow-in-Furness, who was tried for housebreaking. The girl was found in the front bedroom of a neighbor's house while the occupants were at the theatre. By way of explanation she told a strange story of meeting an old, grey-haired man, "who," she said, "asked me if I was a friend of those people. I said I was. He gave me the key, and told me to go to their side door, open it, and go upstairs. 'In the front bedroom,' he proceeded, 'you will find a top long drawer in a chest of drawers. In the drawer there are some papers. Bring them to me.' I did as directed."

The girl told the court that she had been under the spell of hypnotic influences since she was ten years old. She felt dizzy after the man spoke to her, and remembered nothing more until she was seized in the bedroom.

Nevertheless, she was found guilty. In binding her over as a first offender, the magistrate said it would have been bad for the morals of England if such a peculiar explanation of crime had been accepted by the jury.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—Mrs. Varney, wife of a Confederate general, has lost one son and has another dying from wounds. She reluctantly gives her consent for Wilfred, the youngest, to join the army if his father consents. The federals are making their last assault in an effort to capture Richmond.

CHAPTER II—Edith Varney secures from President Davis a commission for Capt. Thorne, who is just recovering from wounds, as chief of the telegraph at Richmond.

CHAPTER III—Capt. Thorne tells Edith he has been ordered away. She declares he must not go and tells him of the commission from the president. He is strangely agitated and declares he cannot accept.

CHAPTER IV—Thorne decides to escape while Edith leaves the room to get the commission, but is prevented by the arrival of Caroline Mitford, Wilfred's sweetheart.

CHAPTER V—Mr. Arrelsford of the Confederate secret service, a rejected suitor of Edith's, detects Jonas, Mrs. Varney's butler, carrying a note from a prisoner in Libby prison. Arrelsford suspects it is intended for Thorne. The note reads: "Attack tonight. Plan 3. Use Telegraph."

CHAPTER VI—Edith is indignant when Arrelsford tells her of his suspicions regarding Thorne. He declares the latter is Lewis Dumont of the Federal secret service and that his brother Henry is a prisoner in Libby. Edith refuses to believe and suggests that Thorne be confronted with the prisoner as a test.

CHAPTER VII—Edith detains Thorne while the prisoner is sent for. An order comes from General Varney for Wilfred to report to the front at once.

CHAPTER VIII—Edith is forced to carry out her part in the test of Thorne. She gives him the message taken from Jonas, which he reads without betraying himself. He suspects that he is being watched.

CHAPTER IX—The prisoner is thrust into the room alone with Thorne, who recognizes him as his older brother, Henry Dumont. They put up a fake fight. Henry implores his brother to shoot him in the leg. Thorne refuses and Henry accidentally kills himself. Arrelsford rushes into the room with the guard. Thorne nonchalantly says: "Corporal, here is your prisoner, we had a fight and I shot him."

CHAPTER X—Caroline goes to the war department telegraph office to send a message.

CHAPTER XI—Arrelsford refuses to let Caroline's message go through. It is a telegram to Wilfred simply asking forgiveness, but Arrelsford suspects a double meaning. He and Edith secrete themselves to watch Thorne, whose arrival Arrelsford expects.

CHAPTER XII—Thorne takes charge of the telegraph office and after satisfying himself that he is alone attempts to send a message, but is interrupted by the arrival of a messenger from the secretary of war with a dispatch.

CHAPTER XIII—Arrelsford and Edith see Thorne alter the secretary's dispatch. Thorne is shot in the wrist by Arrelsford when he attempts to send it. Arrelsford calls the guard, and when they appear Thorne turns the tables by ordering the arrest of Arrelsford.

CHAPTER XIV—The removal of Arrelsford is stopped by the arrival of General Randolph. Thorne again begins sending the dispatch. Arrelsford protests, declaring Thorne is sending a forged order to weaken the lines of defense. Randolph demands upon what authority Thorne has assumed command of the telegraph office. Miss Varney appears.

CHAPTER XV—She produces Thorne's commission as major in command of the government telegraph. She, having seen enough to convince her he is a spy, begs him not to send the forged order. After she leaves he tears it up.

CHAPTER XVI—Thorne plans to escape from Richmond.

CHAPTER XVII—Arrelsford calls at the Varney home and demands to see Edith. Mrs. Varney refuses. A sergeant appears with an order to search the house for Thorne. Wilfred Varney returns from the front wounded.

"There's your man, sergeant," said Wilfred; "I hand him over to you."

"You are my prisoner," said the sergeant.

His command was reinforced by a number of others, including Corporal Matson and his squad, and some of the men of the Provost Guard, who had been chasing Thorne through the streets. At this juncture, Arrelsford, panting and breathless, also joined the company in the drawing-room. He came in rapidly, thrusting aside those in his way.

"Where is he?" he cried. "Ah!" he exclaimed triumphantly, as his eye fell upon Thorne, standing quietly, surrounded by the soldiers. "We've got him, have we?"

"Young Mr. Varney, here, took him, sir," said the sergeant.

"So," returned Arrelsford to his prisoner, "run down at last. Now, you will find out what it costs to play your little game with our government telegraph lines."

But Thorne did not turn his head, although Arrelsford spoke almost in his ear. He looked straight at Edith Varney, and she returned his glance.

"Don't waste any time, sergeant," said Arrelsford furiously. "Take him down the street and shoot him full of lead. Out with him."

"Very well, sir," said the sergeant.

But Wilfred interposed. He came forward, Thorne's revolver still in his hand.

"Sergeant of the Guard, Captain Thorne Is Here."

"No," he said decisively; "whatever he is, whatever he has done, he has the right to a trial."

"The head of the secret service department said to me if I found him, to shoot him at sight," snarled Arrelsford.

"I don't care what General Tarleton said. I captured this man; he's in this house, and he is not going out unless he is treated fairly."

The sergeant looked uncertainly from Wilfred to Arrelsford. Mrs. Varney, who had entered with the rest of them, and who now stood by her daughter's side, looked her approval at her son. The mettle of his distinguished father was surely in his veins.

"Well done," said the woman softly, but not so softly that those about her did not hear; "your father would have spoken so."

Arrelsford came to a sudden decision.

"Well, let him have a trial. We'll give him a drumhead court-martial, but it will be the quickest ever held on earth. Stack your muskets here, and organize a court," he said.

"Fall in here," cried the sergeant, at which the men quickly took their places. "Attention! Stack arms! Two of you take the prisoner. Where shall we find a vacant room, ma'am?"

"Across the hall," said Mrs. Varney; "where the ladies were sewing this evening."

"Very good," said the sergeant. "Left face! Forward, march!"

Arrelsford and Wilfred followed the soldiers.

"I am the chief witness," said the former.

"I will see that he gets fair play," remarked the latter, as they marched out.

"I must go to Howard," said Mrs. Varney; "this excitement is killing him; I am afraid he will hardly survive the sight. Caroline is with him now."

"Very well, mother," said Edith, going slowly up the now deserted room and standing in the window, looking out into the night, thinking her strange, appalling thoughts. They would convict him, shoot him, there was no hope. What had he said? He was not ashamed of his work. It was the highest duty and involved the highest and noblest sacrifice, because it made the greatest demand; and they would shoot him like a mad dog."

"Oh, God!" she whispered; "if some bullet would only find my heart as well."

CHAPTER XIX.

The Drumhead Court-Martial.

It so happened that the soldiers who had thrust old Jonas back in his closet, whence they had taken him a short time before, in their haste, had failed to lock the door upon him. The negro, who had listened for the click of the key in the lock, had at once known of their carelessness. So soon as they had withdrawn from the room, and their search took them to other parts of the house, he had opened the door cautiously and had made his way toward the hall by the drawing-room, which he felt instinctively was the place where the exciting events of the night would soon culminate.

Thorne's entry and the circumstances of his apprehension had been so engrossing that no one had given a thought to Jonas, or to any other part of the house, for that matter, and he had been able to see everything through the hangings. He was a quick-witted old negro, and he knew, of course, that there would be but one verdict given by such a court-martial as had assembled. Now, the men who composed the court would of necessity be detailed to carry out their own sentence. The long room was filled with stacks of guns. Every soldier, even those under the command of Corporal Matson in Arrelsford's department, had gone to the court-martial. There was nothing else of interest to attract them in the house. Every gun was there in that room, unguarded.

A recent capture of a battalion of Federal riflemen had put the Confederates into possession of a few hundred breech-loading weapons, not of the latest and most approved pattern, for the cartridges in these guns were in cardboard shells, but still better than any the south possessed. These rifles had been distributed to some of the companies in garrison at Richmond, and it so happened that the men of the secret service squad and the provost guard had received most of them. Every gun in the stacks was of this pattern.

In his earlier days, Jonas had been his young master's personal attendant, his body-servant, and as such he had often gone hunting with him. During the war he had frequently visited him in camp, charged with messages of one sort or another, and he knew all about weapons.

As he stared into the long room after the departing soldiers, he did not know Edith Varney was still there, nor could he see her at all, for she was on the other side of the curtain, looking out of the window, and it seemed to him that the room was empty.

Jonas was a very intelligent negro, and while under any ordinary circumstances his devotion to his master and mistress would have been absolutely sure, yet he had become tinged with the ideas of freedom and liberty in the air. He had assisted many and many a Union prisoner. Captain Thorne, by his pleasant ways and nice address, had won his heart. And he himself was deeply concerned personally that the young man should not be punished for his attempt to bring about the success of the Union cause, which Jonas felt to be his own cause. Therefore he had a double motive to secure the freedom of his principal if it were in any way possible.

As he stared at the pyramids of guns, listening to the hum of conversation from the room across the hall—the door had been fortunately closed—a thought came to him. He pushed aside the portieres with which he had concealed himself, and entered the room by the back door.

He moved with cat-like swiftness in the direction of the first stack of rifles. He knelt down by it, seized the nearest gun, which lay across the other three, swiftly opened the breech-plug, drew out the cartridge, looked at it a moment, put the end of it in his mouth, and crunched his strong white teeth down upon it. When he finished, he had a leaden bullet in his mouth, and the cardboard shell in his hand. He replaced this latter in the chamber and closed the breech-plug.

A smile of triumph irradiated his ebony features. The gun could be fired, but whatever or whoever stood in front of it would be unharmed.

He had not been quite sure that he could do this, but the result of his experiment convinced him. All the other guns were of the same character, and, given the time, he could render them all harmless. He did not waste time in reflection, but started in with the same process on the others. He worked with furious haste until every bullet had been bitten off every cartridge.

The noise of Jonas' first entrance had attracted the attention of Edith Varney. She had turned with the intention of going into the room, but, on second thought, she had concealed herself farther behind the curtains. Between the wall and the edge of the portieres was a little space, through which she peered. She saw the whole performance, and divined instantly what was in Jonas' mind, and what the result of his actions would be.

When He Finished, He Had the Bullet in His Mouth.

In an incredibly short time, considering what he had to do, the old negro finished his task. He rose to his feet and stood staring triumphantly at the long stack of guns. He even permitted himself a low chuckle, with a glance across the hall to the court.

Now Edith Varney, who had observed him with mingled admiration and resentment—resentment that he had proven false to her people, her family; and admiration at his cleverness—stepped further into the room as he finished the last musket, and, as he started toward the lower end of the room to make good his escape, she coughed slightly.

Jonas stopped and wheeled about instantly, frightened to death, of course, but somewhat relieved when he saw who it was who had him under observation, and who had interrupted him. He realized at once that it was no use to attempt to conceal anything, and he threw himself upon the mercy of his young mistress, and, with great adroitness, sought to enlist her support for what he had done.

"Dey's gwine to shoot him, shoot him down lak a dog, missy," he said in a low, pleading whisper, "an' Ah couldn't ba'h to see 'em do dat. Ah wouldn't lak to see him killed. Ah wouldn't lak it noways. You won't say nuffin' about dis fo' de sake ob old Jonas, what always was so fond ob you chile sence you was a little chile. You see, Ah jes' tuk dem yeah"—he extended his hand, full of leaden bullets—"an' den dey won't be no ha'm come to him whatsomebah, less'n dey loads 'em up agin. When dey shoots, an' he jes drops down, dey'll roll him ober into de guttah, an' he off lak mad. Den Ah kin he'p him by an'"—he stopped, as, if his face had been full of apprehension before, it now became transformed with anxiety. "How's he gwine to know?" he asked. "If he don't drap down, dey'll shoot him agin, an' dey'll hab bullets in dem next time. What Ah gwine to do, how Ah gwine to tell him?"

Edith had listened to him as one in a dream. Her face softened a little. After all, this negro had done this thing for the man she—God forgive her—still loved.

"You tell him," whispered Jonas; "you tell him; it's de on'y way. Tell him to drap down. Do dis fo' ole Jonas, honey; do it fo' me, an' Ah'll be a slabe to you as long as Ah lib, no matter what Mars Linkum does. Listen," said the old man, as a sudden commotion was heard in the room across the hall. "Dey's gwine to kill him. You do it."

Nothing could be gained by remaining. He had said all he could, used every argument possible to him, and realizing his danger, he turned and disappeared through the back door into the dark rear hall. There was a scraping of chairs and a trampling of feet, a few words heard indistinctly, and then the voice of the old sergeant:

"Fall in! Right face! Forward—march!"

Before they came into the hall, Jonas made one last appeal. He thrust his old black face through the portieres, his eyes rolling, his jaws working.

"Fo' Gawd's sak, missy, tell him to drap down," he whispered as he disappeared.

Wilfred, not waiting for the soldiers, came into the room, and Caroline followed him.

"Where's mother?" asked Wilfred.

"She's gone up to Howard; I think he is dying," said Caroline. "She can't leave him for anybody or anything."

If Edith heard, she gave no sign. She stood motionless on the other side of the room, and stared toward the door; they would bring him back that way, and she could see him again.

"Wilfred, dear," asked Caroline, "what are they going to do?"

"Shoot him."

"When?"

"Now."

"Where?"

"Out in the street."

Caroline's low exclamation of pity struck a responsive chord in Wilfred's heart. He nodded gravely, and bit his lips. He did not feel particularly happy over the situation, evidently, but the conversation was interrupted by the entrance of the men. They came into the room in double line, Thorne walking easily between them. They entered the room by the door, marched down it, came back, and ranged themselves opposite the stacks of arms.

Edith had not taken her eyes off Thorne since he entered the room. She had watched him as if fascinated. He had shot at her one quick, searching glance, and then had kept his eyes averted, not because he would not like to look at her, but because he could not bear himself like a man in these last swift terrible seconds, if he did.

As the men moved to carry out their last order, the girl awoke to her surroundings.

"Wait," she said. "Who is in command?"

"I am, miss," answered the sergeant.

"I'd like to speak to the—the—prisoner," continued Edith.

"I'm sorry, miss," answered the sergeant respectfully, but abruptly; "but we haven't the time."

"Only a word, sergeant," pleaded the girl, stepping close to him, and laying her hand on his arm.

The sergeant looked at her a moment. What he saw in her eyes touched his very soul.

"Very well," he said. "Right face! Fall out the prisoner!"

Thorne stepped out in front of the ranks.

"Now, miss," said the sergeant, "be quick about it."

"No!" said Wilfred sternly.

"Oh, Wilfred!" cried Caroline, laying her hand on his arm. "Let her speak to him, let her say goodby."

There was an instant's pause. Wilfred looked from Caroline's flushed, eager face, to Edith's pale one. After all, what was the harm? He nodded his head, but no one moved. It was the sergeant who broke the silence.

"The lady," he said, looking at Thorne, and pointing at Edith. As he spoke, he added another order. "Matson, take your squad and guard the windows. Prisoner, you can go over to the side of the room."

The sergeant's purpose was plain. It would give Edith Varney an opportunity to say what she had to say to Thorne in a low voice if she chose, without the possibility of being overheard. The initiative must come from the woman, the man realized. It was Edith who turned and walked slowly across the room. Thorne followed her more rapidly, and the two stood side by side. They were thus so placed by the kindness of the veteran that she could speak her words, and no one could hear what they were.

"One of the servants," began the girl in a low, utterly passionless and expressionless voice, "Jonas, has taken the bullets from the guns. If you will drop when they fire, you can escape with your life."

In exactly the same level, almost monotonous voice, Thorne whispered a pertinent question:

"Shall I do this for you?"

"It is nothing to me," said the woman quietly, and might God forgive her, she prayed, for that falsehood.

Thorne looked at her, his soul in his eyes. If her face had been carved from marble, it could not have been more expressionless and indifferent. He could not know how wildly her heart was beating beneath that stony exterior. Well, she had turned against him. He was nothing to her. There was no use living any longer. She did not care.

"Were you responsible in any way for it?" he asked.

The girl shook her head and turned away without looking at him. She had not the least idea of what he was about to do. Not one man in a thousand would have done it. Perhaps if he went to his death in some gigantic way, he might redeem himself in her eyes, had flashed into Thorne's mind, as he turned to the guard.

"Sergeant," he said, saluting. He spoke in a clear, cool, most indifferent way. "You had better take a look at the rifles of your command. I understand that they have been tampered with."

Your Bad Taste In The Morning Is Due to Catarrh

Destroy This Poisonous Disease Before Your Health is Seriously Injured.

Perhaps you haven't thought of calling those unpleasant symptoms that affected your nose and throat by any particular name—but it's Catarrh just the same.

When the attack is severe, your eyes are watery and look weak. Your breath is offensive, due to inflammation in the nose and throat.

At last science has discovered a real remedy, a new scientific marvel which acts like no other Catarrh remedy on earth. "Catarrhozone" operates on a new plan; it is a direct remedy, goes instantly to the source of the trouble. Its rich, fragrant essences and healing balsams are breathed in vapor form through a special inhaler and give instant relief.

Catarrhozone doesn't stop at the relief stage—it goes further—keeps on going till a cure is affected. Bad cases are cured, as you can judge from the following letter:—"Every morning for six months last winter I awoke with a bad taste, an awful breath and stuffed up feeling in my nostrils," writes Rob E. Rutland, of Regina. "It was simply an awful case of chronic Catarrh. Relief first came from Catarrhozone. I used that inhaler twenty times a day and took it to bed with me at night. I am cured, and by the use of Catarrhozone stay well. Now I am free from irritable throat trouble, coughs, colds, headache, or catarrh."

No medicine on earth is so certain to cure every form of Catarrh or throat trouble as "Catarrhozone." Get the large $1.00 size, lasts two months and is guaranteed; medium size, 50c.; sample size 25c. all storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

John Pollard.

The death occurred on Friday afternoon at Nicholls Hospital of Mr. John Pollard, after a short illness.

The late Mr. Pollard was 48 years of age and had resided in Peterborough for two years. He came to this city from Manchester, Eng.

He was a member of the church and since his coming to this city he has won a large number of friends who will be very sorry to learn of his death.

He is survived by his sorrowing wife and one son, William, and one daughter Annie, of Peterborough.

The funeral will be held this afternoon from the family residence, 200 Antrim street.

Mrs. Robert Pollock.

Agnes Havery, wife of Mr. Robert Pollock, passed away Friday night at her home on Harvey street, after an illness of a few months. The deceased lady was born in Baltimore, Ont., and since her residence in this city has been a member of St. Paul's church.

She is survived by her husband, five daughters and one son.

The funeral will be held this afternoon to the Little Lake cemetery.

NO ONE TO BLAME FOR DYNAMITE EXPLOSION

Kingston, June 28.—At 2 o'clock this morning Coroner Dr. W. W. Sands concluded taking evidence at the inquest held at Parham over the ten Italians killed in the explosion by dynamite at the construction camp of the C.P.R. and an hour later the jury brought in a verdict that the cause of the explosion was unknown and that no blame was attached to the construction camp.

The remains of Nittorea, Dall and Antonio were the only ones found that could be recognized. Practically nothing has been located of the body of Michael Guirrey, the foreman of the gang. Only portions of three or four of the missing bodies have been found.

John Ellsworth Johnson, one of the Johnson Bros., contractors, said there were no particular regulations in handling dynamite. The men were supposed to use their own judgment. Guirrey was given a free hand to choose his own men, which he did.

KING OF GREECE CLASSED AS HERO

King Constantine was at one time most unpopular in his own kingdom, where to-day he is a hero classed with the ancient warriors of the historic land. He was born at Athens, August 2, 1868. He was educated by tutors who where brought from Leipsic, and one of the accusations against him was that he has shown the affects of German influence. Tall, soldierly in appearance, quiet, reserved almost to the point of shyness, in the ordinary court functions he has always made every endeavor to avoid the crowds. He is a soldier. Just as his sometime more popular brother, Prince George, took to the sea, so did Prince Constantine incline to the army and his military education was received from the best instructors in Europe. The King has always been known as a man with opinions of his own, even to the extent of going out after a ministry which he thought was going contrary to the best interests of the country. The Tricoupis Cabinet ran contrary to his wishes and the Tricoupis Cabinet went out of office. There was a great hue and cry at that time about the interference of the Royal family, but at the next election the people stood solidly by the Crown Prince. Undoubtedly King Constantine did much to keep his father on the throne for so many years. There had been threats to dethrone him, to none of which did the old King George seriously object. The only point he ever made was that he would not abdicate. But for years he preferred the lights of Paris and the baths of France to his own kingdom. During the meantime, King Constantine always acted as regent and he administered with all the firmness that an exceedingly jealous kingdom would permit him.

Carmangay

"The Star of Alberta"

PAST The splendidly strategic site of Carmangay was discovered by a far seeing, shrewd railway engineer attracted to the district by the lure of the finest wheat in the Canadian West. He snapped up lands where the wide canyons of the Little Bow River narrows to a point. Here must all railways cross. The C. P. R. came and the shipping centre created went ahead by leaps and bounds.

PRESENT Carmangay today is a thriving incorporated town, with not less than 53 business places. Her up-to-date electric and natural water supply systems are owned and operated by the people. Carmangay boasts an eight-roomed schoolhouse, two banks and four big elevators, shipping over a million bushels in 1911 and 1½ millions in 1912. Carmangay has coal mines operating, and the entire district is underlaid with coal of finest Galt quality.

FUTURE Carmangay grows as Alberta grows. That means a wonderful future. Four new railroads are heading for Carmangay. Four new elevators are trying to cope with the tremendous wheat yields of the district. The mines are opening up splendid prospects. Carmangay is being rapidly developed into one of the greatest towns in the Canadian West. YOU can just as confidently invest in Carmangay as her own people do, who are building in brick and stone for a tremendous future. Carmangay has her own supply of finest brick clay and stone right at her doors, and will soon supply her sister cities in Alberta.

VOL. XL, NO. 153 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, TUESDAY, JULY 1, 1913 PRICE TWO CENTS.

WHOLE LINE OF HUDSON BAY RAILWAY NOW UNDER CONTRACT

Energetic Work of Government Means Speedy Action--Fleet of Steamers Busy

Special to The Times.

Ottawa, July 1.—After fifteen years waiting and after fifteen years of election promises and lethargy on the part of the Liberals the West is at last seeing the much-promised Hudson Bay Railway being rapidly rushed to completion. All the Hudson Bay Railway was ever used for by the Liberals was an election cry in the West. Before every contest in the West posters were displayed with statements in regard to the speedy construction of the road and the promise that it would be at once built was made on every platform.

THEN THEY OORGOT.

After elections the project was conveniently forgotten for another four years. This kept happening election after election until by 1911 all that had been built was one pier on a bridge across the Saskatchewan at Le Pas. The first contract was also hurriedly let a couple of weeks before the date of election.

THIS MINISTER ACTED.

When Hon. Frank Cochrane came into office as Minister of Railways, he found the department without any practical information as to best routes, suitable ports or the feasibility of navigation in the straits and on the Bay. With all possible energy he set about securing this information, while the contract for that portion of the road which was common to either the Port Nelson or Fort Churchill routes was let so that there could be no delay.

PORT NELSON SELECTED.

An expedition was sent north with expert engineers on board to select the best harbor and to make a further enquiry as to the route. As a result Port Nelson was selected and an engineer with staff spent the whole fall and last winter on the ground laying out the new harbor.

ALL UNDER CONTRACT.

The contract has now been let for the whole line from Le Pas to Port Nelson and 185 miles of steel will be laid by this fall. Work is being rushed at the harbor end. During the next two weeks a whole fleet of steamers will leave Halifax for Port Nelson with no less than 240 men and loaded with supplies and equipments. The first two steamers along with a number of tugs and scows leave this week.

BULGARIANS BEGIN WAR ON SERVIA AND DEFEAT GREEKS

Hostilities Have Commenced Along The Whole Front in Macedonia

Belgrade, Servia, June 30.—The Bulgarians this morning opened an attack on the Servian troops along the whole line in Macedonia, according to despatches from the Servian headquarters.

The publication of the news created immense excitement in the Servian capital.

Battle in Macedonia.

Berlin, June 30.—Heavy fighting is in progress in Macedonia according to despatches received here. Hostilities opened between the Servians and Bulgarians in the neighborhood of Istip and between the Greeks and the Bulgarians in the vicinity of Drama.

Greeks and Bulgars.

Sofia, Bulgaria, June 30.—More fighting occurred to-day between the Greek and Bulgarian troops some distance to the east of Salonika. According to the Bulgarian account the Greek soldiers tried to cut the Bulgarian communications along the railroad from Serres to Drama out were driven off by the Bulgarians after they had burned a village.

THE INTERCOLONIAL RAILWAY TO BE DOUBLE TRACKED SOON

Much-Needed Improvement to be Undertaken By Minister of Railways

Special to The Times.

Ottawa, July 1.—The double-tracking of the Intercolonial Railway is to be undertaken by the Dominion Government. It is a much-needed work, one which is an absolute necessity if the people's railway is to compete on equal terms with the great privately-owned railways for the immense traffic destined for the Atlantic seaboard and westward from Halifax in the years that are to come.

GOVERNMENT WILL DO IT.

The present Government intends to deal with this question as a business and not as a political proposition. The whole road will be improved and developed without regard to the political complexion of the constituencies through which it runs. Hon. Frank Cochrane, Minister of Railways, and Mr. F. P. Gatelius the new General Manager, have both been looking over the ground since the close of the Parliamentary session.

IMPROVE THE GRADES.

It is announced that the plans for improvement include first the lowering of the grades so that the hauling power will be increased. Secondly, the road is to be double-tracked from Moncton to Halifax. The initial preparations for these improvements will likely be made during the present year and the work will proceed simultaneously with the construction of the magnificent new terminals planned for the city of Halifax. These works when completed will place the Intercolonial in a position to compete successfully for the bulk of the traffic to and from the Atlantic seaboard.

QUICK, PAINLESS WAY TO REMOVE HAIRS

(Beauty Culture).

A chance discovery by a chemist has resulted in a harmless way to remove hairy growths without possible injury to the skin. A paste is made with powdered delatone and water and applied to the hairs not wanted. After two or three minutes this is rubbed off and with it comes every trace of hair. The skin is then washed and is left white, firm and smooth. The delatone treatment is so simple and quick in action that no one is justified in employing the painful and costly electric needle.

Rubbing pyroxin on eyebrows with finger-end makes them grow thick and beautiful. Short, straight eyelashes will come in long and have a delightful curl if pyroxin is applied at [illegible] with thumb and forefinger. [illegible] ed.

POLICE GETS INSANE MAN; HAD LIVED WILD IN BUSH

Fort William, Ont. June 30—After a chase lasting several hours, the police captured in the woods just west of the city a man about twenty-three years of age, who hasbeen roaming in the bush for days at least half-naked and without food.. The man is thought to be Wasyl Wako, who became lost a week or so ago. He is almost blind from inflammation caused by fly bites, and there are more than a score of cuts and bruises on his bare feet and legs. He is demented.

MAN AND WIFE BOTH PUT UNDER ARREST

Woman Inquired at the Police Station Regarding Her Husband.

Toronto, June 30.—When Mrs. R. N. Cox, of Orillia, walked into the detective office this morning to inquire the whereabouts of her husband she was considerably surprised to be placed under arrest. The same thing had befallen her husband earlier in the day. He was picked up at the Union Station by Detective Young.

Cox and his wife left Toronto in February, 1909, and are charged with obtaining money from Hugh Smythe in that month. It is alleged that they sold Smythe the furnishings of the Maple Leaf Boarding House on Wellington street which they were formerly running, without disclosing to him the fact that there was a lien on the stuff.

A warrant was sworn out at that date but the police had been unable to locate Mr. and Mrs. Cox until he ran into Detective Young at the station this morning and she walked into the detective office.

ROOF GARDEN SERVICES FOR NEW YORK CHURCHES

Open Air Religion Popular This Year—Over Thirty Such Services held Sunday.

New York, June 30.—Open air church services have become so popular in New York that they were held yesterday in over thirty differentm centres. Some were held on church steps, some in tents and some in the roofs of parish houses. A number of very well known churches have added roof accommodations this year and find that the services held there are the most popular feature of the Sunday program.

LOCAL LADY LOVED PURE AND BEAUTIFUL

How some ladies do love the pure and the beautiful! This splendid attribute of woman was demonstrated last week. A local society lady, whilst walking through Little Lake cemetery and spiritually elevated with thoughts engenered by solumn reminders of man's mortality, spied a qig bunch of carnations lying on the grave of someone unknown to her. The pretty blooms looked pure and beautiful. She evidently had the story of Ruth and Boaz in her mind and became a gleaner. She "swiped" the bunch.

That evening she had a reception at her home. Her tables were decorated with the "pure and the beautiful."

NO PAPER TO-MORROW.

GENERAL SAVOFF OF THE BULGARIAN ARMY

GERMAN ARMY INCREASED BY 136,000 TO 870,000

Von Bethmann-Hollweg Secured Advance by Agreeing to Amend Court-Martial Code

Berlin, June 30.—The German Government to-day secured from the Imperial Parliament the entire army increase it had demanded, including the six new cavalry regiments.

Imperial Chancellor Dr. Von Bethman-Hollweg purchased this consent from the house by his acceptance of a proposal to reform the military code of justice introdused by the Socialists on Saturday in consequence of the severe sentences pronounced by a court martial at Erfurt on Friday.

Only the Socialists, the Poles and the Alsatian sections in Parliament voted against the final reading of the armament bill which increases the peace strength of the German army by approximately 4,000 officers and 15,000 non-commissioned officers and 117,000 privates, bringing the total of the permanent force up to nearly 870,000 men

ASQUITH, WEARY OF POLITICS, HAS DESIRE TO QUIT

Sir Edward Crey Would Succced Him---Strain Over Woman Suffrage and Marconi Affairs Has Undermined Strength

New York, June 30.—A cable to the Tribune from London this morning says: Rumors of Premier Asquith's intentions concerning his own political future are giving the Liberals some uneasiness. For some time past members of Parliament have been discussing hints about the expected retirement of the Premier and the succession of Sir Edward Grey to the First Lordship of the Treasury.

While it is highlyprobable that Mr. Asquith will resign the leadership of the Liberal party until the dissolution of Parliament or until the Home Rule bill has been steered through its third passage, under the Parliament Act, it is quite evident that the strain of the recent political crisis over the woman suffrage question and the Marconi affair has affected him severely.

TELLS OF PRIVATE DINNER.

"Reynolds' newspaper," the organ of advanced Radicalism, referring to a private dinner given by the political committee of the Reform Club to Lewis Harcourt on Friday night, says:

"The Prime Minister was in the chair, and the speech he delivered on that occasion was such as to cause the members of the party furiously to think. All that need be said about the matter is that Mr. Asquith left the impression on his hearers that he felt the recent political anxieties much more than even his intimate political associates had been led to imagine."

BASEBALL

The Petes went down to defeat to London yesterday after a hard fight, and only in the last innings did the Londoners put on the Petes. The game was fairly fast and the Petes had the homesters fighting all the way. The score at the finish stood 4 to 3 in favor of London.

PATRICIA NOT ENGAGED.

London, June 30.—Princess Patricia's betrothal to the Grand Duke of Mecklenburg-Strelitz is officially denied.

PINE TAR CORDIAL

Advertisements under above heads, 20 words and under, one insertion, 15c.; 3 insertions, 25c.; 6 insertions, 40c.

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 50c. and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 75c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 50c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the [illegible]movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., 3[illegible] George St., directly opposite Crossman's store.

ent until you come to our terms," continued the older officer.

"You make me a prisoner for life, then."

"You will see it in another light before many days, and it wouldn't surprise me if Miss Varney had something to do with a change in your views."

"You are mistaken, General Randolph," quickly interposed Edith. "I think he is perfectly right."

"Oh, very well," said the general smiling a little. "We will see what a little prison life will do. Sergeant?"

"Yes, sir."

"I have turned the prisoner over to Major Whitfield. He requests you to take the prisoner to his office, where he'll take charge of him."

"Very good, sir," answered the sergeant.

"What is it?" whispered Thorne to Edith. "Love and goodby?"

"No," answered the girl; "only the first." She stopped and looked at him, her face flushed, her heart throbbing, her eyes shining gloriously. "And that every day, every hour, every minute, until we meet again."

"Thank God," whispered Thorne. "Until we meet again."

"Attention!" cried the sergeant. "Carry arms! Left face! Fall in, the prisoner! Forward—march!"

AFTERWORD.

And so the great adventure is over, the story is told, and the play is played. It is hard to tell who lost and who won. It made little difference in the end that Marston's division had not been withdrawn, and that the attack on Cemetery Hill had failed. It made little difference in the end that Arrelsford had been thwarted in his attempts to wreak his vengeance upon Thorne. It made little difference in the end that Thorne refused to enter the service of the Confederacy, preferring imprisonment for life. For the days of the Confederacy were numbered. It was even then tottering on the verge of its grave, in spite of the brave front it kept up.

Three days after the events of that night, and Richmond had fallen, and presently the last of the Confederate defenders halted at Appomattox. The stars and bars were hauled down for the last time. The prisoners were released. There was a quiet wedding in the old house. Howard, happily recovering from his wounds, was present. General Varney himself gave away the bride—reluctantly, to be sure, yet he did. Wilfred took the place of the brother of Captain Thorne—to continue to call him by the name he had assumed—and acted as the best man. To whom should be given the coveted privilege of attending the bride but to Miss Caroline Mitford! And Miss Kittridge and the few other guests, including General Randolph, saw in the younger couple indications that when a few more years had made it suitable, the two who played the second part on this interesting occasion would be principals themselves.

There was much opposition, of course, to the wedding of Captain Thorne and Edith Varney, and many bitter things were said, but there was no restraining the young people. They had lived and suffered, they had almost died together. The years of peace and harmony and friendship that came to the sections at last, and the present happiness that was theirs immediately, convinced even the most obdurate that what they had done was exactly right.

Where Divorce is Easy

As to divorce neither Australia nor the United States leads the way, if we admit uncivilized tribes into the competition. Among some [illegible] tribes, for instance, a man need only uncover his wife's head and walk away; and the Eskimo has only to leave his house and stop away in pretended anger for a day or two.

In Nepal a woman can divorce her husband at any time by simply placing a betel nut under his pillow and taking her departure. And two chopsticks broken in the presence of a witness are sufficient to divorce a couple in Cochin China.

NEW FIRE ALARM

Young Canadian Adopts Scientific Principle in His Invention

The latest discovery in the world of science is an instrument that will be of priceless value as a means of detecting fire in a building before the blaze becomes serious. The credit of this invention belongs to William Musgrave, a young Toronto electrician whose device was satisfactorily tested by one of the largest institutions in Canada.

The chief features of this automatic fire alarm are strength and simplicity of construction, and inconspicuousness. It is so small that its presence in a room would hardly be readily detected by the eye. The device is shaped like a crown, four inches in diameter by an inch and one-half in depth. Inside the outer shield of nickeled steel is a delicate disc of super-sensitive metal. This thin disc acts as the transmitter of a heat phone. It can be set so accurately as to register an increase in heat from the lightness of a breath to the intense heat of a kiln. As the disc expands under the influence of a flame it completes a circuit of two concealed wires, which lead to and set in motion a set of gongs in a central portion of the building. The tongue of flame tells its story to the house-owner through the thermometer. By this means of prompt warning the flame is detected soon enough to be dashed out with a pail of water.

The new device will be of great value in homes, hospitals, schools, asylums, stores, factories, theatres, and all public buildings. For industrial commercial and public buildings a warning is sent to a central place, from which a call is sent to the Fire Department.

Growing Old Gracefully.

It is impossible to escape the [illegible] of time, but there is a becoming as well as an unbecoming way of donning and wearing it.

On a warm spring morning some years ago the late Captain Faulkner of Texas was walking along the highroad when he met an old negro proceeding slowly toward the village store, in order to get his stock of groceries for the coming week.

"Well, Uncle Primus," said the captain, "how are you?"

"Yas, suh; yas, suh; thank you, suh, Marse Faulkner; yas, suh," returned Uncle Primus. "Ah is feelin' good; Ah suttinly is feelin' fine. Ah doan' remember as Ah evah felt no bettah in mah life, but some way ruther Ah seem to be gettin' to de tahm of life w'en Ah's lookin' fer de low spots in de fence."—Craftsman.

THE CONGO TERRITORY

An important step in the Government of a vast and rich territory was taken a few days ago when Sir Edward Grey announced in the British House of Commons that the English government proposed to recognize the annexation by Belgium of the Congo Free State. The first chapter in the history of this region, as far as civilization was concerned, was written 35 years ago, when Stanley explored the territory in question.

At that time the scramble for African territory on the part of European nations had not begun. No country seemed anxious to possess the Congo territory and assume the responsibility for governing it. It was largely due to Stanley that Leopold, King of the Belgians, was induced to found the International Association of the Congo, with the object of exploring it and developing its commercial possibilities. The Belgian people, however, as a whole, would have none of it, and after the conference of Berlin in 1884, when the independence of the new territories was guaranteed, the Belgian Parliament, while recognizing King Leopold as the head of the new state, definitely placed it on record that the union with Belgian was only a personal one. For the next 15 years little was heard of this vast tract of the earth's surface, and it was not until 1901 that there began to filter through into the European press accounts of those outrages on the vast native population which for several years thereafter associated the name of the Congo, in the same way as Armenia, with the word atrocity. The adverse report of the Congo commission in 1905 brought matters to a head, and vigorous remonstrances of Great Britain and the United States in 1909resulted in a scheme of reform which passed into law in the following year.

Belgium having become really aware of the situation attacked the problem with energy. The Congo Reform Association was formed and practical and far-reaching steps were ta- The oppression of the natives was stopped and some offenders brought to justice. The formal recognition of Belgian claims by the British Government is proof that the cruelty and oppression which once prevailed so widely has been ended.

If Breathing is Difficult, If Nostrils Are Plugged You Have Catarrh

At Last a Remedy that already has Permanently Cured Thousands.

Perhaps you haven't heard of the new remedy—it's so pleasant to use—fills the nose, throat and lungs with a healing balsamic vapor like the air of the pine woods. It's really a wonderful remedy—utilizes that marvelous antiseptic only found in the Blue Gum tree of Australia.

The name of this grand specific is Catarrhozone, and you can't find its equal on earth for coughs, colds, catarrh or throat trouble. You see it's not longer necessary to drug the stomach—that spoils digestions—just simply inhale the balsamic essences of Catarrhozone, which are so rich in healing that they drive out every trace of Catarrh in no time.

"I look upon Catarrhozone as the most valuable medical discovery of recent years," writes R. V. Potter, of Prince Albert. "As a long sufferer from nasal and throat catarrh I was obliged to take considerable medicine and, although it helped me, my digestion was always disturbed and the catarrh didn't go away. With Catarrhozone it was different. It cleaned my nose and throat of all phlegm and discharged a stuffy feeling in my nose and frontal headaches. To-day I am entirely free from Catarrh, and I use my Catarrhozone Inhaler a little every day in order to prevent the disease from returning."

With Catarrhozone experimenting ends. A permanent curative action begins. Lasting relief from Catarrh results. The large size costs $1.00, last two months and is guaranteed. Small size 50c.; sample size 25. All storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

OUR COUNTRY!

By Rev. F. A. Conners, Peterborough

God bless our country,
Land of the noble free;
Of thee we sing.
Land of all lands above,
This tribute of our love,
To thee we bring.

O may our people be
From vice and crime kept free,
Upright and true;
And on her flag unfurled,
"Justice to all the world."
Red, white and blue.

So may we ever be,
Kept loyal and true to thee,
Firm to the end;
Then shall we do the right,
In Heaven's holy might,
Jesus, our Friend.

EATING A CHURCH

Of all the things that may befall a church, nothing could be much stranger than the destruction of a little house of worship north of Hudson Bay, as once reported by the Bishop of the diocese. He had attended a synod of the Canadian church at Winnipeg, and there had seen a missionary bishop who had been six weeks on the way, having come most of the distance in a canoe. The missionary bishop reported gravely that the diocese of a brother bishop had "gone to the dogs." Being asked for an explanation he said that the Eskimos in the diocese had built a church with whales' ribs for rafters, and covered it with walrus hide. The little church held eighty persons; but in the time that elapsed between two services the building was set upon by a pack of famished dogs, and actually devoured it in a few hours.

HOME BANK HAS GREAT GAINS DEPOSIT INCREASE A MILLION

Assets Have Grown Over $2,300,000 During the Year—A Well-Known M.P. and Prominent Young Business Man go on the Board—Large Attendance at Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Home Bank of Canada was held at the head office, 8 King street west, Toronto, on Tuesday.

The Vice-President, Mr. Thomas Flynn, was elected to the chair, and Mr. O. G. Smith was appointed secretary of the meeting. The following report of the directors was then submitted.

Directors' Report.

Four quarterly dividends at the rate of seven per cent. (7 per cent.) per annum have been paid and provided for; $200,000 added to the rest, making that account $650,000, and $40,000 set aside to be written off bank premises which will leave a net balance of $100,470,31 for profit and loss account.

Banque Internationale Purchase

Towards the close of the year, an agreement was entered into with the directors of La Banque Internationale du Canada, for the purchase of the assets of that institution, to be paid for by shares of the Home Bank at the price of $128 per share. These assets were carefully and thoroughly inspected by experienced officers of the Home Bank, whose valuation was accepted by La Banque Internationale. The agreement was submitted to the shareholders of that Bank at a general meeting, and approved and then having received the approval of the Governor-in-Council was formally carried into effect on the 15th day of April last. The result of this purchase is that the balance of our unsubscribed capital has been taken up, a substantial sum received for the rest account, and a connection established in Montreal and in the Province of Quebec which should prove valuable, and ten branches taken over and continued.

Authority was given under by-law No. 8 to establish a pension fund and you will be asked to vote a sum for that purpose. Some necessary changes in the by-laws will be submitted for your approval, and also a by-law to authorize the increase of the capital stock to $5,000,000.

During the year Mr. Parkyn Murray resigned from his position on the board and Mr. C. B. McNaught was elected a director in his stead.

No new branches of the Home Bank were opened, but arrangements are being made to open two more offices in the City of Toronto.

One hundred and sixty-five (165) shareholders have been added during the year, and the total number now is 1806.

The annual examination by the directors of the treasury and securities was made, and the branches inspected.

General Manager's Report

Senator James Mason, the general manager, then read the following report:

The net profits for the year are nearly 12 per cent. on the average paid-up capital—deposits show an increase of nearly $1,000,000. The whole of the authorized capital, $2,000,000, is now taken, and almost entirely paid up—the Reserve Fund or Rest has been increased by $200,000 and amounts to $650,000, being slightly more than one-third of the paid-up capital. The total assets amount to $14,735,100.29, an increase of considerably more than $2,000,000 over last year.

The purchase of the assets and the taking over of La Banque Internationale—referred to in the Directors' Report—increases the scope of the Bank's operations in various ways—one important feature being the increased circulation following on the increased paid-up capital. The Montreal branch should also grow in time to be of considerable usefulness, inasmuch as that city is becoming a very large grain export point, and in other respects the opening thus made in the Province of Quebec should in due course materially add to the volume of the Bank's business and profits.

Your approval will be asked for a by-law to increase the capital stock to $5,000,000—this will only be taken advantage of from time to time, as the growing business of the Bank may make it necessary to obtain increased paid-up capital and the correspondingly increased circulation.

The Bank Act, after long and careful consideration, both in and out of Parliament, has been extended for a further period of ten (10) years—the changes made being considered beneficial both in the public and the banks. Some slight alterations in the by-laws, will require to be made by reason of this new Act.

Much regret must be felt at the severance of an active connection, extending over a great many years with the Bank and its preceding institutions, of the retiring president Mr. Eugene O'Keefe, that gentleman having intimated that owing to continued ill-health and constant inability to attend the meetings of the board he is compelled to decline re-election. It should be added that the interest always taken by Mr. O'Keefe in the affairs of the Bank contributed largely to its success.

Mention should also be made of the death of Mr. R. B. Street, late inspector of the Bank. Mr. Street's connection with the Home Savings and Loan Company, the predecessor of the Bank, dated back to the year 1879, and he was ever a faithful and efficient officer.

Reviewing Finances Generally.

The financial stringency which prevails throughout the business world, chiefly caused by the Balkan war—not yet completely settled—is felt in Canada, and aggrevated by the unwise and unwarranted speculation in real estate, until recently so wide spread, and also by the great expansion of the business of the country. This stringency is likely to continue throughout the year, and more especially during the season when the crops require to be moved, but should prove more or less beneficial by checking over-borrowing on the part of our municipalities, and putting an end to speculative trading of all sorts. The large and steadily increasing immigration into Canada, the extensive railway construction, and the sound conditions generally of business and of the manufacturing and other industries, can be taken as a reassuring factor.

Crop condition in the Northwest may be considered fairly satisfactory, the acreage being somewhat increased and, from the most recent reports, an average crop may be looked for.

The advisability of establishing a Pension Fund has been for some time under consideration, and it is felt that it should be no longer deferred.

That Pension Funds are considered useful and necessary is evidenced by the fact that they have been in existence for years in almost every bank in the country. Where this fund is established bank officers feel that long and faithful service will be rewarded and a competency more or less adequate secured for themselves or their families, and this necessarily creates a feeling of loyalty that must prove beneficial to the institution.

The Grain-Growers' Interests.

In the discussion which followed the general manager's report, Mr. John Kennedy, vice-president of the Grain-Growers' Grain Company, addressed the meeting and referred to the three week's trip he had taken through the North-West Provinces before he arrived to attend the meeting of the Home Bank.

Mr. John Kennedy, one of the Western directors of the Home Bank, and second vice-president of the Grain-Growers' Grain Company, addressed the meeting and stated as follows: "I am pleased once more, at this very important meeting, to report good progress from the West, and to say that the Grain-Growers' Grain Company—the Home Bank's biggest customers in the West, and one of its largest shareholders—is having another successful year, and will handle more grain than the previous year, which was 28,000,000 bushels.

"The leasing of the Manitoba Government system of line elevators comprising 176 in number, was a very wise move, and gives every indication of being beneficial to producers at all points where they are located.

"The action of the company in also leasing from the C.P.R. one of their terminal elevators at Fort William, with a capacity of 2,500,000 bushels, is proving quite successful, and is giving us a wider knowledge of the grain trade. It is gratifying for me, as a director of the Home Bank, to say that the Home Bank is looked upon by many Western producers and others as being an important factor in helping to bring about conditions which are much desired by the farmers of the West.

"I am also pleased to say, and in no uncertain way, that the connection formed through the opening of a number of branches of the bank in Manitoba and Saskatchewan is being looked upon as mutually valuable, and requests for opening new branches are very frequently presented.

"Our shareholders and customers generally are well pleased with the accommodation received at the hands of the Home Bank throughout our Western provinces.

"I wish to point out as clearly as possible that by this connection the Home Bank depositors in the East are helping to a great extent at all points where our branches have opened in relieving the financial situation, which is felt very keenly in the West. I can see a great future for the Home Bank in the West, and I would like to assure you that it is the desire of very many of our leading farmers that the Home Bank keep pace with the ever increasing development and rapid growth of the present time by becoming still more identified with the West.

"At the last annual meeting, our general manager referred to the land speculation in the West, and it is to be noted that, this still continues, but in a modified way, and I hope that in the future our Canada banks will be enabled to more largely assist the farmers of the West, who are the real wealth-producers of the country.

"In conclusion, I would like to refer to the crop conditions in the West this year. I believe that eigh-[illegible] ces has had sufficient moisture to assure an average crop, some points not having sufficient moisture."

On a motion from Senator Alexander McCall, seconded by Mr. Edward Galley, the thanks of the shareholders were extended to the officers and directors for their attention to the affairs of the institution.

In moving a vote of thanks to the general manager and officers of the bank, the honorable attorney-general, Mr. J. J. Foy, K.C., referred to the attention that he had always observed was extended to the customers of the Home Bank. The Hon. Mr. Foy's motion was seconded by Mr. William Crocker.

Home Bank Pension Fund

On motion of Mr. F. E. Luke, seconded by Dr. J. A. Todd, the sum of $10,000 was appropriated for the purpose of establishing a pension fund for Home Bank clerks and officials.

The by-law to increase the capital of the Home Bank from two to five million dollars, according to the by-law No. 10 was moved by Mr. M. J. Haney, C.E., and seconded by Mr. H. S. Harwood.

Result of Poll.

The scrutineers reported the election of the following directors for the ensuing year: Messrs. Thomas A. Crerar, Thomas Flynn, E. G. Gooderham, John Kennedy, A. Claude Macdonell, M.P., Col. the Hon. James Mason, C. B. McNaught, John Persse.

Directors' Meeting.

At a subsequent meeting held by the board of directors, held immediately after the general meeting the following officers were reported as elected to office for the ensuing year: Colonel the Hon. James Mason, president; Thomas Flynn, vice-president.

AN INTERESTING BANK MEETING

Senator James Mason cannot respect the 13 superstition. This is 1913 and it is the year when Col. James Mason got his senatorship, and the year when he was able to submit to the shareholders of the Home Bank of Canada a statement of business affairs which conclusively marks him as a man of conspicuous ability.

It is not given to the general public to attend a bank meeting. One must be a shareholder in order to attend these annual affairs where finances are discussed. Nevertheless, the Home Bank annual meeting, held yesterday, would have provided interesting discussion for the ears of any outsider. To hear the attorney-general, the Hon. J. J. Foy, taking a sly dig at the bank methods and refer to the diplomatic way in which clients who are seeking loans are turned aside, was at once a compliment to the Home Bank and a weighty comment on the subject of collateral. The honorable attorney-general, Mr. J. J. Foy, is famous as a public speaker for the pith of his remarks, and it is not often that bank meetings are enlivened by such pleasant yet pertinent observations as the Hon. Mr. Foy expressed before the shareholders and directors of the Home Bank yesterday.

Then the remarks of Mr. Kennedy, vice-president of the Grain Growers' Association of the big Canadian west, who attended the Home Bank annual meeting, fresh from three weeks' business trip through the Northwest Provinces, were most particularly to the point. Mr. Kennedy spoke on behalf of the grain growers in the Northwest and when he thanked the Home Bank for the accommodation it had given the grain growers in the past, but at the same time very plainly intimating that he considered the Home Bank should follow a more liberal policy of extension through the Northwest and not refuse to open branches when petitioned, without very deep consideration he touched upon a point of national importance and spoke with as authority on the subject that was worthy of general communication to the public.

An increase of almost a million dollars in deposits and an increase in assets of nearly two and a half million, are the figures in the Home Bank annual report which point to its steady growth as a business institution and its wide popularity among the Canadian public.

The absence through illness of Mr. Eugene O'Keefe, who has attended every annual meeting of this institution for the past forty years, was an incident that received the respectful silence of every member who attended meeting. The new faces on the board are that of Mr. Claude Macdonell, M.P., possibly the best-known man of his years in Toronto, and Mr. C. B. McNaught, a young business man, enjoying an immense respect in financial circles.—Toronto World.

NO OPERATION FOR GALL-STONES

No operation will be necessary for Gall-stones, Kidney-stones, or Gravel—SANOL, the German remedy discovered by a great German scientist, will surely relieve the agony of the sufferer from these complaints. It will also cure with equal certainty and promptness kidney trouble, lumbago, and all other diseases caused by the presence of uric acid in the system. It is also most valuable as a preventive for these diseases and will often prevent a serious illness if taken when the first symptoms appear.

Save the pain, danger and cost of an operation by using

SANOL

Relief will be rapid, the deposits will pass off rapidly and without pain. We have addresses and strong testimonials—some written from residents of Winnipeg, to the number of 300. We have 27 testimonials from one small Alberta town. We have a most convincing testimonial from one Winnipeg lady who passed several large gall-stones, after taking one bottle of SANOL. We are willing and anxious to furnish you with the addresses of these people.

EMPLOYEES' HOLIDAY ANNEX

WEDNESDAY, JULY 2nd

Our Store Will Not Be Open For Business On THURSDAY, JULY 3rd

And this is because it is "Employees Day" at "Cressman's."

Upon this day, we shall hold our Sixth Annual Picnic and Excursion, but instead of taking half a day, as in former years, we are extending this outing to an "All Day Event."

The steamer has be chartered for the days cruise, and with music, sports, refreshments, etcetera, we purpose having a truly enjoyable "Day Off."

This means placing Thursday's business on Wednesday's shoulders, so to speak. To accomplish this, we've planned an

Exceptional Annex Accompanied by "Fetching Bargains" in Every Department of the Store

Naturally, the Annex will be thronged with purchasers, eager to take advantage of the big values that pertain. And we urge you to come early, re-visiting the department through the day, because new lines will replace those that become sold out. The Annex opens at 8:15 sharp and closes at 5:30.

Store Closed all Day Thursday, July 3rd

WHITE REPP SUITING, 14½c YARD

A good 20c quality, mercerized finish, white repp suiting, 28 to 30 inches wide. For the summer suit, the separate coat, or skirt, it is admirably suited; and extensively used. The low price for Wednesday presents an opportunity worth embracing. Per yard 14½c

CLEARANCE OF BLACK SATEEN WRAPPERS 55c

The former prices were $1.69, $1.75 and $2.00, because of their extra quality. The sizes are 34 and 36 only, and the remarkably low price we ask is evidence of our desire to clear them out. Holiday Annex 55c

LADIES' PARASOLS AND UMBRELLAS, 89c.

They are all black, and the usual values that sell for $1.19, $1.25 and $1.38. Silk and wool gloria tops, steel rod and frame, with good handles. Very neat and compact; sound value for the money. Each 89c

WHITE EMBROIDERY UNDERSKIRTS 78c.

Made of fine English Cambric, with deep twelve inch embroidery flounce and dust frill. A regular $1.09 skirt in lengths of 38, 40 and 42. A most worthy value at the "Employees' Holiday Annex for 78c

FORTY INCH FACTORY COTTON 8½c

The quality of this fabric can be judged by the fact that it was formerly marked at 12½c. And it was good value at that! It is firmly, evenly woven, and remarkably free from imperfections. Sold only in lengths of 5, 10, 15 or 20 yards. Holiday Annex, per yard 8½c

Full Sized Colored Bed Spreads 69c

A POPULAR DOLLAR SPREAD IN FULL DOUBLE BED SIZE AND HEAVY MARSEILLES WEAVE. Colors of pink and light blue; fringed all round, and forming a most desirable bed covering for the camp or home during the summer. In fact, useful the whole year round and certaintainly most reasonably priced lor the Holiday Annex, each 69c

Annex Laundry Soap 17 bars for 50c

THIS FINE SOAP HARDLY NEEDS AN INTRODUCTION, for so many people have used it, and received so much lasting satisfaction, that we only need to put it on the bill to insure a ready sale. The bars are full 5c size and possess sterling, cleansing properties. We quote a Special Price for the Big Employees' Holiday Annex .... 17 BARS FOR 50c

We Cannot Fill Telephone Orders for Soap

Lax Laws and Crime

According to authoritative figures, ten times as many murders take place annually in the United States as in any other country in the civilised world. There has been an annual average of nearly nine thousand murders in the United States for the last ten years. And it has been estimated that the number of murders which take place in the United States in thirteen years constitute as big a total death roll as that of the soldiers of the Union army who died on the Southern battle-field during the Civil War.

Cleveland, with a population of only a third greater than that of Toronto, has an annual average of fourteen times as many murders. The murder rate in the United States is nearly twenty times as great as it is in Great Britain.

During the year 1909, in London, with its vast population of between seven and eight millions, there were but nineteen murders committed, while, in the same year, in Chicago, the number of murders was nearly three hundred. The fact is that Great Britain hangs murderers—and (it may be on that account) has but few to hang. For nine thousand murders in the United States in one year, only a hundred and four persons were put to death by law.

There are weighty criminologists who say that the main reason why murder is more prevalent in the States than in Canada and England is because criminality is regarded far too lightly by the Americans. The criminal, they say, is often to be found among the powerful and socially highly-placed, and this has a two-fold result. It engenders a callousness on the part of the general public as to the heinousness of crime, and it also tends to hinder the crime being brought home to the criminal.

Ex-President Taft speaking in New York contrasted the inefficiency and looseness of American judges with the strict code of justice of the English bench, and (according to him) a percentage of American lawyers, and even judges, are themselves thoroughly criminal in character.

THORPE'S FINE TROPHIES

King of Sweden and Czar of Russia Reward the Great Indian

Two of the handsomest athletic trophies in the world are on exhibition in the Carlisle Indian School at Carlisle, Pa. They are the awards made to Jim Thorpe, the aborigine, winner of the pentathlon and decathlon in the Olympic games. He is now stamped the champion all-around athlete of the world.

The prizes are a massive bronze bust of heroic size, in the likeness of King Gustav V. of Sweden, and the gift of that monarch to Thorpe, as a personal mark of esteem, and a silver replica of a Norse viking ship, presented to the Indian by the Czar of Russia.

The bust is 4½ feet high and 22 inches square at the base, and the ship is 2 feet long, 18 inches high and weighs 30 pounds. The trophies will be held by Thorpe for four years, and will be up for competition again at the Berlin Olympic, 1916.

LIVED 185 YEARS

Oldest Man in the World Dead in Mexican Town

An official investigation into the claim that Jose Calvario, who died recently at Turpen, Mexico, was 185 years old, has been made, and it is pronounced that it was fully established by church records that he was born in 1727.

During a period of more than 75 years before his death he was known to the people of the town where he lived as the oldest man in the world.

He was active in getting about the streets until a few days before his death.

A Careful Man

Baron Marschall von Bieberstein, the new German Ambassador to Great Britain is said to have a novel method of avoiding any possible indiscretion on the part of his blotting-pad. He uses a typewriter specially constructed for him, whose secrets are known to himself alone. This machine marks cryptographic signs understood only by the Baron and his correspondents. It is kept locked up in the Ambassador's desk, and is only brought out when he has a confidential letter to write.

CHEATED GALLOWS IN OLDEN DAYS

Some Remarkable Instances of Unsuccessful Hanging are Matters of Record

A case of renewal of vitality in a man who had been certified as dead and laid in his coffin has drawn from out of the way sources some curious facts regarding resuscitation after hanging.

A very ingenious attempt to cheat the gallows was made by a man named Richard Johnson, who was hanged at Shrewsbury in 1696. He hung half an hour, and his body was about to be handed over to his relatives, when the hangman thought he detected some signs of life. On examination it was found that Johnson had wreathed cords round and under his body connected with a pair of hooks at his neck by which the usual effect was prevented, the apparatus being cleverly concealed under a frilled shirt and a flowing periwig. He was taken down and then promptly rehanged with success.

Perhaps the most startling story about resuscitation after hanging is told of the famous anatomist, William Hunter, under whose hands the body of a man who had just been hanged revived while being dissected. This was not all, however, for the fellow insisted on considering Hunter what lawyers term "in loco parentis," as being the author of his renewed existence. In this filial character he repeatedly applied for, and finally demanded, financial assistance. But, to Hunter's great relief, he one morning received as a "recent subject from Newgate," the same criminal executed a second time for some fresh offence. The experiment of resuscitation was not again attempted.

There is the case of Mme. de Balsham, who, in 1264, having been condemned to death for harboring thieves, was left hanging on the gallows from nine o'clock on Monday morning until sunrise on Thursday, but revived on being taken down. Henry III granted her a pardon.

Another instance of the kind occurred at Oxford in 1650, when Anna Green, a servant girl, hanged for child-murder, revived when handed over to the doctors for dissection. Eager inquiries were made of her as to her sensations after suspension, but she remembered nothing, saying that her revival was like awakening from a deep sleep.

JUNGLE ETIQUETTE

The Elephant Gets First Drink at Water-hole, the Rhino Second

A moving picture firm took some remarkable pictures at a water hole in Abyssinia of animals which come there from miles around to quench their thirst.

It is the etiquette of the jungle for the elephant to drink first. No matter how many animals are around the water hole they all stand aside for the greatest beast of all. Many of the animals come 40 or 50 miles for a drink, and there is a truce between even the most deadly enemies.

After the elephant comes the rhinoceros. Although most of the other animals observe the water hole truce faithfully, two rhinos will fight over their precedence. The cinematograph operator obtained wonderful pictures of two of these huge animals going at it hammer and tongs. The fight only ended by one of the animals being killed.

When the rhinoceros has finished the giraffes drink their fill, followed by zebras. Zebras always travel in herds and sometimes 40 or 50 will arrive at the water hole at a time. According to the etiquette of the jungle, however, they only come in fourth for the drinking stakes.

The first four animals are fixed in order, but the rest get a drink just how and when they can.

CANADA SUITS HIM

Here's a Birmingham Man With Unlimited Faith in the Dominion

Writing to the Birmingham Weekly Post, W. D. John, formerly a resident of that noted English city, but now living in Winnipeg, has many good words to say about the land of his adoption.

"If any one is wise," says Mr. John, "it is easy to earn enough in the season to live over the winter. Masons, carpenters, and builders can be assured of a good wage. Any one with a will can get on here, provided he keeps his mouth shut as to how things are done at home, and falls in with what is best in Canada. Openings are constantly going. Men with brains and good bodies are needed. John Smith is equal with Dr. Jones or Premier Wisshead here. The flag is a great rallying centre. Farm life is open for anyone with patience and a foresight, for the land does most of the work. A small amount of good work tells here, and friends are everywhere. The various religious boddies station many good workers all over the land, and good men are always cared for. Clerks can get a goodly wage. Those with a knowledge of business can always do something. In the great railway shops much remains to be done yet. Electrical engineers are greatly in demand. There is a huge demand for all kinds of labor here. Canada is moving at a great pace. Things are being discovered. She needs explorers, machinists, managers, laborers, teachers, harvest men; but she does not welcome the shirker and the boozer. It is the favored land. Land passes easily into the hands of poor men. There is room to move here. There is no limit to what a man down on his luck may not do. All you want is—no fear of want, watch the papers, be polite, remember the man nearest is struggling. Bring your best. Leave the bottle at home. A musical instrument, a pair of hands and eyes, and Canada is the place for those who think they can't make good."

Unkind Suggestion.

"Ladies and gentlemen," said the manager, before the curtain, "it is my unpleasant duty to inform you that Mr. C——, the star comedian, owing to illness, will not be able to appear tonight. His system has had a severe shock, and he is suffering from nervous prostration." "What's the matter?" shouted one of the gods from the gallery. "Did ye pay him in advance?"

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—Mrs. Varney, wife of a Confederate general, has lost one son and has another dying from wounds. She reluctantly gives her consent for Wilfred, the youngest, to join the army if his father consents. The federals are making their last assault in an effort to capture Richmond.

CHAPTER II—Edith Varney secures from President Davis a commission for Capt. Thorne, who is just recovering from wounds, as chief of the telegraph at Richmond.

CHAPTER III—Capt. Thorne tells Edith he has been ordered away. She declares he must not go and tells him of the commission from the president. He is strangely agitated and declares he cannot accept.

CHAPTER IV—Thorne decides to escape while Edith leaves the room to get the commission, but is prevented by the arrival of Caroline Mitford, Wilfred's sweetheart.

CHAPTER V—Mr. Arrelsford of the Confederate secret service, a rejected suitor of Edith's, detects Jonas, Mrs. Varney's butler, carrying a note from a prisoner in Libby prison. Arrelsford suspects it is intended for Thorne. The note reads: "Attack tonight. Plan 3. Use Telegraph."

CHAPTER VI—Edith is indignant when Arrelsford tells her of his suspicions regarding Thorne. He declares the latter is Lewis Dumont of the Federal secret service and that his brother Henry is a prisoner in Libby. Edith refuses to believe and suggests that Thorne be confronted with the prisoner as a test.

CHAPTER VII—Edith detains Thorne while the prisoner is sent for. An order comes from General Varney for Wilfred to report to the front at once.

CHAPTER VIII—Edith is forced to carry out her part in the test of Thorne. She gives him the message taken from Jonas, which he reads without betraying himself. He suspects that he is being watched.

CHAPTER IX—The prisoner is thrust into the room alone with Thorne, who recognizes him as his elder brother, Henry Dumont. They put up a fake fight. Henry implores his brother to shoot him in the leg. Thorne refuses and Henry accidentally kills himself. Arrelsford rushes into the room with the guard. Thorne nonchalantly says: "Corporal, here is your prisoner, we had a fight and I shot him."

CHAPTER X—Caroline goes to the war department telegraph office to send a message.

CHAPTER XI—Arrelsford refuses to let Caroline's message go through. It is a telegram to Wilfred simply asking forgiveness, but Arrelsford suspects a double meaning. He and Edith secrete themselves to watch Thorne, whose arrival Arrelsford expects.

CHAPTER XII—Thorne takes charge of the telegraph office and after satisfying himself that he is alone attempts to send a message, but is interrupted by the arrival of a messenger from the secretary of war with a dispatch.

CHAPTER XIII—Arrelsford and Edith see Thorne alter the secretary's dispatch. Thorne is shot in the wrist by Arrelsford when he attempts to send it. Arrelsford calls the guard, and when they appear Thorne turns the tables by ordering the arrest of Arrelsford.

CHAPTER XIV—The removal of Arrelsford is stopped by the arrival of General Randolph. Thorne again begins sending the dispatch. Arrelsford protests, declaring Thorne is sending a forged order to weaken the lines of defense. Randolph demands upon what authority Thorne has assumed command of the telegraph office. Miss Varney appears.

CHAPTER XV—She produces Thorne's commission as major in command of the government telegraph. She, having seen enough to convince her he is a spy, begs him not to send the forged order. After she leaves he tears it up.

CHAPTER XVI—Thorne plans to escape from Richmond.

CHAPTER XVII—Arrelsford calls at the Varney home and demands to see Edith. Mrs. Varney refuses. A sergeant appears with an order to search the house for Thorne. Wilfred Varney returns from the front wounded.

CHAPTER XVIII—Thorne appears, is arrested by Wilfred and turned over to the guard. Arrelsford immediately convenes a drumhead courtmartial.

CHAPTER XIX—Edith sees Jonas draw the bullets from the rifles of the guards. Thorne is sentenced to immediate execution. Edith tells him what Jonas has done, and suggests he feign death in order to escape. He refuses and tells the sergeant what has been done. The execution is halted by the arrival of General Randolph.

CHAPTER XX—The president, out of consideration for Thorne's honorable action in refusing to take advantage of his opportunity to send the forged order, revokes the sentence of the court and orders him held as a prisoner of war.

"What the hell!" cried the sergeant, seizing a piece from the nearest man. He snapped open the breech-plate and drew out the cartridge and examined it. Someone had bitten off the bullet! He saw everything clearly. "Squad ready!" he cried. "Draw cartridges!"

There was a snapping of breech-plugs and a low murmur of astonishment, as every man found that his cartridge was without a bullet.

"With ball cartridges, load!" cried the sergeant. "Carry arms!"

When this little maneuver, which was completed with swiftness and precision because the men were all veterans, was finished, the sergeant turned to the prisoner, who had stood composedly watching the performance which took away his last opportunity for escape, and saluted him with distinct admiration.

"I am much obliged to you, sir," he said.

How Edith Varney kept her feet, why she did not scream or faint away she could not tell. Thorne's words had petrified her. Her pride kept her from acknowledging what she felt. She had never dreamed of any such action on his part, and it seemed to her that she had sent him to his death again. How could she retrace her steps, repair her blunder? There was nothing to do But her countenance changed. A look of such desperate entreaty came into her face as fully betrayed her feelings. Of the people in the room, only Arrelsford observed her, and even his jealousy and resentment were slightly softened by her visible anguish. Everybody was staring at Thorne, for they all knew the result of his remarkable action, although no one could in the least degree fathom the reason

It was Wilfred who broke the silence. He walked slowly up to Thorne and thrust out his hand.

"I would like to shake hands with you," he said admiringly, and for the first time in the long hours a slight smile quivered about the man's lips. It was a generous, spontaneous tribute of youth that gave him that moment of melancholy satisfaction.

"Oh," thought Edith, watching her brother; "if only I dared to do the like."

"Is this for yourself?" asked Thorne, "or your father?"

"For both of us, sir," answered Wilfred.

Thorne shook him by the hand. The two looked into each other's faces, and everybody saw the satisfaction and gratification of the older man.

"That's all, sergeant," said Thorne, turning away.

At that moment a man, breathless from having run rapidly, entered the room by the window. His uniform was that of an officer, and he wore a lieutenant's shoulder straps.

"Halt!" he cried, as he burst into the room. "Are you in command, sergeant?"

"Yes, sir."

"General Randolph's on the way here with orders. You would please wait until—"

But Arrelsford now interposed.

"What orders, lieutenant? Anything to do with the case?"

The officer looked greatly surprised at this intervention by a civilian, but he answered civilly enough:

"I don't know what his orders are. He has been with the president."

"But I sent word to the department," said Arrelsford, "that we had got the man, and were going to drumhead him on the spot."

"Then this must be the case, sir. The general wishes to be present."

"It is impossible," returned Arrelsford. "We have already held the court, and I have sent the findings to the secretary. The messenger is to get his approval and meet us at the corner of the street yonder. I have no doubt he is waiting there now. It is a mere formality."

"I have no further orders to give, sir," said the lieutenant. "General Randolph will be here in a minute, but you can wait for him or not, as you see fit."

The sergeant stood uncertain. For one thing, he was not anxious to carry out the orders he had been given now. That one little action of Thorne's had changed the whole situation. For another thing, Arrelsford was only a civilian, and General Randolph was one of the ranking officers in Richmond.

"Move on, sergeant," said Arrelsford peremptorily. "You have all the authority you want, and—"

The sergeant held back, uncertainly, but the day was saved by the advent of the general himself.

CHAPTER XX.

The Last Reprieve.

General Randolph was evidently in a great hurry. Public affairs of great moment pressed upon him, and it was an evidence of the interest he took in the case of Captain Thorne that he gave him even a minute of his valuable time. He had come on horseback, and everybody could see that he was anxious to get through with his appointed task and get away.

"You'd Better Look at Your Rifles."

"Ah, sergeant," he said, answering the latter's salute as he brought the guard to attention, and then his eye fell upon Captain Thorne. "You have the prisoner, have you?"

"Just taking him out, sir," answered the sergeant, saluting again.

"To prison?"

"No, sir."

"Where then?"

"To execute the sentence of the court, sir."

"Oh!" exclaimed the general, looking hard at the sergeant. "He has had his trial, has he?"

But Arrelsford, who chafed at thus being left out of the game, now stepped over and took up the burden of the conversation before the sergeant could reply.

"We have done everything according to regulation, sir," he said, saluting in a rather cavalier manner. He did not like General Randolph. If it had not been for his interference, the affair would have been settled long ago, and he still cherished a grudge against the latter for having arrested a man so important as the trusted agent of the secret service. "The findings have gone to the secretary."

"Ah!" said General Randolph blandly. He did not like Mr. Arrelsford any better than Mr. Arrelsford liked him.

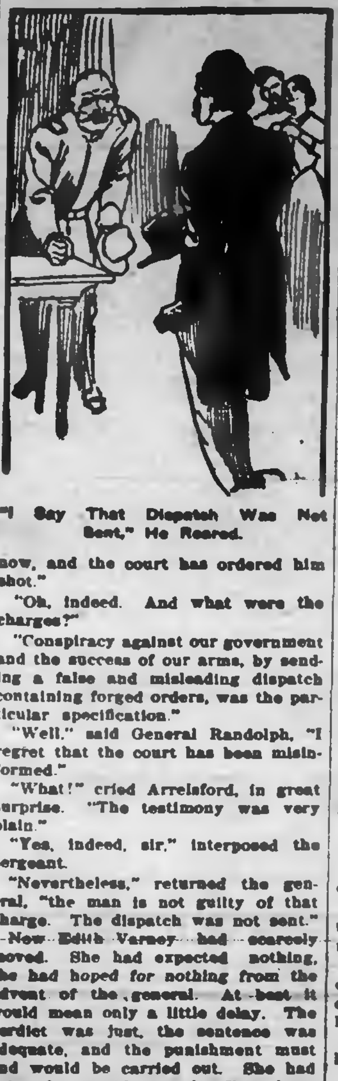
"Yes, sir."

"And he was found guilty, I presume?"

"Certainly, sir."

"And what are you going to do with him?"

"There is no time for a hanging now, and the court has ordered him shot."



"I Say That Dispatch Was Not Sent," He Roared.

"Oh, indeed. And what were the charges?"

"Conspiracy against our government and the success of our arms, by sending a false and misleading dispatch containing forged orders, was the particular specification."

"Well," said General Randolph, "I regret that the court has been misinformed."

"What!" cried Arrelsford, in great surprise. "The testimony was very plain."

"Yes, indeed, sir," interposed the sergeant.

"Nevertheless," returned the general, "the man is not guilty of that charge. The dispatch was not sent."

Now Edith Varney had scarcely moved. She had expected nothing, she had hoped for nothing from the advent of the general. At best it would mean only a little delay. The verdict was just, the sentence was adequate, and the punishment must and would be carried out. She had listened, scarcely apprehending, busy with her own thoughts, her eyes fastened on Thorne, who stood there so pale and composed. But at this remarkable statement by General Randolph she was suddenly quickened into life. A low exclamation broke from her lips. A hope, not that his life might be saved, but that it might be less shameful to love him, came into her heart. Wilfred stepped forward also.

The terse statement of the general had caused a great deal of excitement and commotion in the room. Only Thorne preserved his calmness. He was glad that Edith Varney had learned this, and he was more glad that she had learned it from the lips of the enemy, but it would make no difference in his fate. He was not guilty of that particular charge, but there were dozens of other charges for which they could try him, the punishment of any one of which was death. Besides, he was a spy caught in the Confederate lines, wearing a uniform not his own. It was enough that the woman should learn that he had not taken advantage of her action; at least she could not reproach herself with that.

"Why, general," began Arrelsford, greatly dismayed. "I hardly understand what you mean. That dispatch—I saw him myself—"

General Randolph turned on him quickly.

"I say that dispatch was not sent," he roared, striking the table with his hand. "I expected to arrive in time for the trial. There is one here who can testify. Lieutenant Foray?"

From among the group of staff officers who had followed General Randolph, Lieutenant Foray stepped forward before the general and saluted.

"Did Captain Thorne send out that dispatch after we left you with him in the office an hour ago?" asked the older officer.

"No, sir," answered Foray promptly, glancing from Arrelsford's thwarted and flushed and indignant countenance to Edith Varney's face, in which he saw the light of a great illumination was shining. "No, sir," he repeated; "I was just about to send it by his orders, when he countermanded it and tore up the dispatch."

"And what dispatch was it?"

"It was one signed by the secretary of war, sir, removing Marston's division from Cemetery Hill."

"You hear, gentlemen," said the general, and, not giving them time to answer, he turned again to Foray. "What were Captain Thorne's words at the time?"

"He said he refused to act under that commission, and crumpled it up and threw it away."

"That will do, lieutenant," said General Randolph triumphantly. He turned to Arrelsford again. "If you are not satisfied, Mr. Arrelsford, I beg to inform you that we have a dispatch from General Chesney at the front, in which he says that no orders were received from here. He got an uncompleted dispatch, but could not make anything out of it. Marston's division was not withdrawn from Cemetery Hill, and our position was not weakened in any way. The attack there has failed." There was a low murmur of astonishment from the group of men in the room. Edith Varney did one significant thing. She made two steps in Thorne's direction. That young man did not dare to trust himself to look at her. "It is quite plain," continued the general, "that the court has been acting under an error. The president of the Confederacy is, therefore, compelled to disapprove the finding, and it is set aside. He happened to be with the secretary when the finding came in."

Arrelsford made one last desperate effort.

"General Randolph," he said, and, to do him justice, he did not lack courage, "this was put in my hands, and—"

"I take it out of your hands," he said curtly. "Report back to the war office, or the secret service office, with my compliments, and—"

"But there are other charges upon which he could be tried," persisted Arrelsford. "He is a spy anyway, and—"

"I believe I gave you your orders, Mr. Arrelsford," interrupted the general, with suspicious politeness.

"But hadn't I better wait and see—"

"By God, sir," thundered Randolph, "do I have to explain my orders to the whole secret service of the Confederacy? Don't wait to see anything. Go at once, or I will have you escorted by a file of soldiers."

Arrelsford would have defied the general if there had been the least use in the world in doing it, but the game was clearly up for the present. He would try to arrange to have Thorne re-arrested and tried as a spy later. Now he could do nothing. He walked out of the room, pride enabling him to keep up a brave front, but with disappointment and resentment raging in his heart. He did not realize that his power over Thorne had been withdrawn. In the great game that they had played, he had lost at all points. They all watched him go, not a single one in the room with sympathy, or even pity.

"Now, sergeant," said the general, as they heard the heavy hall door close; "I want to speak to the prisoner."

"Order arms!" cried the sergeant. "Parade rest!" As the squad assumed these positions in obedience to his commands, the sergeant continued, "Fall out, the prisoner."

Thorne stepped forward one pace from the ranks, and saluted the general. He kept his eyes fixed upon that gentleman, and it was only the throbbing of his heart that made him aware that Edith Varney was by his side. She bent her head toward him; he felt her warm breath against his cheek as she whispered:

"Oh! Why didn't you tell me? I thought you sent it, I thought you—"

"Miss Varney!" exclaimed the general in surprise.

But Edith threw maidenly reserve to the winds. The suddenness of the revelation overwhelmed her.

"There is nothing against him, General Randolph, now; is there? He didn't send it. There's nothing to try him for!" she said.

General Randolph smiled grimly at her.

"You are very much mistaken, Miss Varney," he answered. "The fact of his being caught in our lines without his proper uniform is enough to hang him in ten minutes."

Edith caught her heart with her hand with a sharp exclamation, but General Randolph turned to speak to the prisoner.

"Captain Thorne," he said, "or Lewis Dumont, if that is your name; the president is fully informed regarding the circumstances of your case, and I needn't say that we look upon you as a cursed dangerous character. There isn't any doubt whatever that you ought to be shot right now, but, considering the damned peculiarity of your behavior, and that you refused to send out that dispatch when you might have done so, we've decided to keep you out of mischief some other way. You will be held a prisoner of war."

Captain Thorne was almost too dazed to realize the purport of the decree. He mechanically saluted, and, from his lips broke a murmured:

"Thank you, sir."

The general looked at him severely, and then, seeing Edith Varney, turned away and engaged in conversation with his staff. His intention was obvious, and Edith immediately embraced the opportunity.

"Oh!" she said; "that isn't nearly so bad as death," and before them all she stretched out her hand to him.

"No?" queried Thorne in a low voice.

"No," she said, forcing herself to look at him. "After a while perhaps—some time—"

"Oh!" said Thorne. "Some time? If it's some time, that's enough."

Mrs. Varney, having succeeded in getting Howard quiet and composed, had been in the room since the advent of General Randolph.

"Mamma," said Edith, "won't you speak to him, too?"

Mrs. Varney approached him, but Wilfred was quicker.

"I would like to shake hands with you," he said, with boyish enthusiasm.

"What, again?" said Thorne, smiling. "All right." He stretched out his hand. "Go ahead."

"And so would I," said Caroline, following the lead of her boy lover.

"Don't be afraid now," said Wilfred. "Everything will be all right. They will give you a parole, and—"

"A parole!" said Caroline. "Goodness gracious, they will give you hundreds of them, I am sure."

But General Randolph turned once more.

"One moment, please," said the officer. As he came forward, the others fell back. Only Edith Varney kept her place close by Thorne's side. "There is only one reason on earth why the president has set aside a certain verdict of death. You held up that false order and made a turn in our favor. You are not to be tried as a spy, but held as a prisoner of war. We expect you to make that turn complete and enter our service."

"Never," replied Thorne instantly. "That's impossible, sir."

"You can give us your answer later," said the general.

"You have it now."

"You will be kept in close confine-

Women's Ailments Caused By Neglect

Proper Treatment Will Quickly Bring Back Robust Health and Good Spirits.

Women are on the whole more sickly than men. One reason is that their system is more complicated; another and more important reason is they put off measures of relief too long. At the beginning, constipation is the cause of nine-tenths of women's ailments. The blood becomes weakened and polluted—the nerves suffer and a run-down condition takes root.

Because of their mildness of action as a system regulator, no medicine for women can compare with Dr Hamilton's Pills. The kidneys quickly responded to the remedial action of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and the result is as you would expect—pain in the back and side, shortness of breath, and bad color disappear—the functions of the body then operate naturally, congestion and pain are prevented and perfect health returns.

Thousands of happy women say Dr. Hamilton's Pills are the greatest and best blood-purifier, and finest complexion renewer, the most certain regulating medicine known. Sold by all druggists and storekeepers 25c per box, five for $1.00 postpaid The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Old Peterborough Boy Back

Mr. Henry Pengelly, an old Peterborough boy, born here, but now residing in Cleveland, O., is back to the city after an absence of 26 years. He is a manufacturer of leather saddles for motorcycles. Mr. Pengelly naturally sees a wonderful improvement in his native city. Mr. Pengelly left here 36 years ago for New York, where he lived 20 years. The visitor used to be a member of the Peterborough lacrosse team, when "Doll" Fortye, M. Tierney, Dolan, J. J. Sheehy and others known here were on the team. In conversation with the Times, he also recalled having often seen Mr. Tom Rutherford, and the late Mr. T. B. Clementi, D. L.S., wicket keeper, playing with the Peterborough Cricket Club.

WEDDING—BELLS.

Cunningham—Primeau.

A pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday morning when the Rev. Father O'Brien united in the holy bonds of matrimony Mr. J. D. Cunningham of Ottawa and Miss Aileen Primeau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Primeau of this city. The bride was given away by her father and was charmingly gowned in cream broadcloth and wore a Panama hat. She was attended by her sister, Miss Gertie Primeau, who was also gowned in cream broadcloth and wore a Panama hat. The groom was assisted by Mr. Leo. Clarey, of Toronto.

The happy couple left for an extended trip. They will reside in Ottawa.

Don't ever say that woman's understanding is inferior to man's! Judging by the liberal display of "understanding" made by a large number of ladies, reclining on the grass at Victoria Park, they were not afraid to have said understanding criticized.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

SPORTING NEWS

TURF.

Chicago, June 30.—Fifty indictments against 19 handbook makers yesterday, was the first notice of Assistant Chief Schuettler's renewed campaign against all forms of gambling in Chicago, Scheuttler furnished the evidence upon which the horse race gamblers were indicted.

Bets on the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs on May 10 formed most of the evidence furnished by the assistant chief.

Detectives were placed in the haunts of the handbook gamblers and a detective sent to Louisville to see the race. In former trials the state has had difficulty in proving that a race on which bets were made here was actually run.

The bookmakers had no warning and were hauled from cigar stores, saloons and barber shops last night. One was arrested in church, where he was attending the graduating exercises of his son.

Washington, June 30.—With all hope abandoned of securing the deportation of Jack Johnston from Canada officials of the department of state and justice today began an examination of extradition treaties with European countries to determine whether the negro can be extradited when he lands in Europe. His destination is said to be Havre.

No conclusion has yet been reached as to his extraditability from European countries he may visit. It was made clear, however, that if he could be extradited, immediate steps would be taken.

Cleveland, June 30.—The announcement of Manager Birmingham of the Cleveland American League Club that he intended to bench Nap. Lajoie, second-baseman of the team, has precipitated a feud between Lajoie and Birmingham, which threatens the success of the club. President Charles W. Somers admitted here today.

Lajoie, sort at heart over being made what he terms a "bench-warmer" when he is still able to play, is said to have appealed to Somers for reinstatement as a regular.

In statements made to local papers Lajoie also said that Birmingham has not the authority to bench him.

Birmingham, in a statement giving his side of the trouble, declares that he only benched Lajoie temporarily, because his broken hands had caused him to slump in his work. He says he intended putting the Frenchman back in the game as soon as he returned to form.

In 63 games this season, Lajoie has batted .327 and fielded .965.

President Somers this morning talked with Manager Birmingham over the long distance telephone. Afterward he says he found the trouble in no way menaces Birmingham's position as manager, and he will continue to direct the team as he sees fit. Lajoie will continue with the team as a player, he said. He added that he understood that the second baseman, reconsidering previous declarations he had made, says he will do as directed by Birmingham.

NATIONALIST IS CHALLENGED TO AN ELECTORAL BATTLE

By Mr. D. O. Lesperance, M. P.—Naval Contribution As A Matter of Duty—Anti-British Sentiment Strongly Rebuked

QUEBEC, JULY 2.—An obvious proof that the Nationalist agitation did not hurt the popularity of the Conservative members of the Province of Quebec, who voted for the Naval Aid Bill, was the representative and enthusiastic banquet tendered to Mr. D. O. Lesperance, M.P., by his electors and friends of Montmagny.

As this event came a few days after the vehement denunciations of Mr. Armand Lavergne, M.P.P., against his Federal colleague it is regarded here as a rebuke of the anti-British agitation. Not only was Mr. Lesperance cheered to the echo when he made the declaration that he was glad he voted the way he did, and would be ready to vote the same way again, but when the Hon. L. P. Pelletier, Postmaster-General, explained that the Canadian contribution was a matter of duty, and that he would rather leave public life for good than fail in accomplishing that imperative task. The farmers of Montmagny gave an ovation to the fighting spirit and sense of duty of the Postmaster-General.

THREE CABINET MINISTERS PRESENT.

Three members of the Cabinet and four colleagues of Mr. Lesperance in the House of Commons, a score of personal friends from Quebec, and 250 electors of Montmagny, were present at the banquet in the city hall of St. Thomas.

Mr. Albert J. Bender, mayor of the town, presided, having at his right the guest of the evening, Mr. D. O. Lesperance, the Hon. Martin Burrell, Minister of Agriculture; Sir Rodolphe Forget, M.P.; Dr. Eugene Paquest, M.P., Mr. Joseph Girard, M.P.; Mr. David Morin, M.P.P.; Dr. D. H. Pennington, ex-M.P.P.; Mr. C. L. Lockwell, Ald. J. Verret, and Ald. A. Dussault.

At the left of the Chairman were the Hon. L. P. Pelletier, Postmaster-General, the Hon. L. Coderre, Secretary of State; Mr. A. Sevigny, M.P.; Mr. M. Rousseau, M.P.; Dr. A. Gagnon Lorbe, Mr. C. Webster, Mr. D. Watson, Dr. P. V. Faucher, Dr. A. Langlois, Mr. A. Lemoine, Mr. J. Lachance, Mr. S. Osborne, Mr. Jos. Gosselin, and Mr. J. Leonard

All the other members of the Cabinet who [illegible] invited to the Banquet and were prevented by previous [illegible], wrote letters of apology and also congratulations to the guest of the evening. That of the Right Honorable R. L. Borden, written in French, and read to the Assembly, bore splendid testimony to the good work and public spirit of Mr. D. O. Lesperance.

Another feature of the Banquet was the presence of Mr. Lesperance's mother, who, at the age of 93 years, stood in the city hall during four hours to listen to the compliments paid to her son by the different speakers who proposed or answered the toasts of the evening. Mrs. Lesperance was given an ovation when the Hon. L. P. Pelletier presented her with a bouquet, and in the course of all the speeches, allusions were made to the venerable monagenarian.

Mrs. D. O. Lesperance, wife of the Federal member for Montmagny, with her daughters, and a score of ladies, were also present.

Mr. Lesperance made a fighting speech. He disposed of Mr. Armand Lavergne's accusation, by saying that if the latter were irresponsible enough to declare that the French-Canadians owed nothing to Great Britain, he was of a different opinion, and would do his best to see that Canada contributed to the peace of the Empire in the most practical manner. He described Mr. Lavergne as a gentleman of too much pride, but of very little sense, and invited him to cross swords with him in the next election.

"He'll never come back here" said a voice in the hall, and the remark was loudly applauded.

GROUND RENT FOR BOAT HOUSES

Not Yet Paid, and Will Be Collected at Once—Fine Crop of Hay on King Edward Park.

The city's Property Committee met last night and tranacted routine business. There were present Chairman Ald. Geo. Duncan, Mayor Bradburn and Aldermen Duffus and Johnston.

The citizen who has just built a boathouse on an island in the river near the C.P.R. bridge without the city's permission will be interviewed by the chairman re his infringement of the city's regulations in this regard.

The matter of disposing of the hay on the King Edward Park was referred to the chairman, with power to act.

R. P. Watt, J. J. Henderson, Mr. Godfrey, J. D. Craig have not paid to the city their $1 a year rental for the ground on which their boathouses are erected and will be notified to settle at once.

Mr. J. Meharry will be notified to paint his boat house at once in keeping with the other boat houses.

THIS HAIR REMOVER WORKS LIKE MAGIC

(Toilet Talks)

A paste made with water and powdered delatone and applied to the skin will banish hair or fuzz. The paste should be left on two or three minutes, then removed and the surface washed. This leaves the skin hairless, firm and white. If the growth is thick or stubborn, it may require a second application. You can get a small, original package of delatone from your druggist, and to those afflicted with superfluous growths this will prove a boon.

Thin eyebrows can be made to grow thick and lustrous by rubbing pyroxin on with finger-end, and short, straight eyelashes will come in long and curly if pyroxin be applied at lash-roots with thumb and forefinger. Be careful and don't get any pyroxin where no hair is wanted.

HOME BANK HAS SUCCESSFUL YEAR

The attention of our readets is respectfully drawn to the annual report of the Home Bank of Canada, which appeared in our issue of July 1st. An interesting feature, connected with the success attained by the Home Bank, during the past year, is that the able president, Col. James Mason, has been honored by his country, with a seat in Canada's Senate. No doubt Hon. Mr. Mason will contribute to the deliberations of that body the far seeing and progressive spirit that has characterized his control of the Home Bank.

MOTORISTS INJURED IN LONDON STREETS

Car from Detroit Skids and Hits Pole, Owner's Wife Being Hurt.

London, Ont., July 2.—When a motor car carrying a party of Detroit people touring through Western Ontario skidded on the slippery pavement at the corner of Dundas and Ridout Streets here to-day, Mr. T. E. Colwell, wife of the owner, was thrown to the road, sustaining serious injuries.

The machine crashed into a telephone pole and the force of the impact resulted in Mrs. Colwell's accident. She was attended by a physician at a hotel and was later sent back to her home by train. The motor was very badly damaged.

W. J. Holstein, of Toronto, was also hurt in a motor accident here today when he attempted to drive past the corner of Dundas and York streets. A street car turning into York street, crowded his machine against a telephone pole. Mr. Holstein's injuries included a fracture of the arm and bruises. The auto suffered to a considerable extent.

LIVE STOCK IN WESTERN CANADA

The Government Undertakes a Vigorous Campaign

Ottawa, July 2.—Another example of the interest of the present government in agriculture and in the progress of the West is shown by the announcement this week of the appointment of Dr. J. P. Creamer of Qu'Appelle, Sask., as live stock commissioner for Western Canada. Dr. Creamer who is an old-timer in the west, having practised as a veterinary surgeon from 1882, is thoroughly acquainted with the prairie provinces and the conditions and needs of the live stock industry in the west. He has been closely identified with the industry for years.

The appointment is a new one and is a result of the study of the live stock industry in the west by Hon. Martin Burrell, Minister of Agriculture. The Minister has decided that it is necessary to have a representative on the ground, who is thoroughly acquainted with western conditions. He will undertake a vigorous campaign to foster and encourage the live stock industry in Western Canada which in recent years has been seriously declining.

TO HAVE PERFECT SKIN THROUGHOUT THE SUMMER

(From the Guide to Beauty.)

These days the face and neck need special care and attention. Flying dust and dirt, the beating sun, are severe on any skin. Their despoiling effects are best overcome by the application of pure mercolized wax. This keeps skin and pores in a cleanly condition, the complexion beautifully white and spotless. Tan, freckles, blotches and roughened cuticle are actually absorbed by it. One ounce of mercolized wax, obtainable at any drug store, is sufficient to completely renovate a soiled complexion. It is used like cold cream, allowed to remain on over night, and washed off in the morning.

As the skin tends to expand in warm weather, causing wrinkles to form, a good astringent lotion should be used. Dissolve one ounce of powdered saxolite in one-half pint witch hazel. Bathe the face in this during the heat of the day or before going out for theatre or social affair. It is a remarkable skin tightener and wrinkle eraser.

DETECTS DIRECTIONS OF SOUNDS IN A FOG

Ottawa, July 2.—Officials of the Marine Department are greatly interested in an invention which has been tried on the Allan s.s. Victorian with conspicuous success. It is an installation whereby the direction from which sounds come is indicated. One of the worst dangers associated with fog is the fact that when blasts from fog horns, whistles, the ringing of bells, etc., are heard it often is impossible to tell in what direction is the station where they are produced.

The new installation proved a brilliant success. The inventor is being supplied by the department with particulars as to the pitch of the various fog alarms.

WHAT OUR LOCAL MEMBERS SAY RE INCREASED INDEMNITY

As is generally known, there has been considerable agitation, among some of the Dominion Members of Parliament to have the present sessional indemnity of $2,500 increased. In regard ta this question, the Times interviewed our local representations, with the following results.

MR. J. H. BURNHAM, M.P.

What is your opinion, Mr. Burnham, of the proposed increase of the members' indemnity?

Well, I may say that I was strongly opposed to it and am still until the people who pay the salary say that they wish to increase ot. If I am not satisfied with my wages it is open for me to quit. That is my view of the matter. It is true that at least ninety-five per cent. of the members on both sides of the House do not agree with this position, and it makes it very difficult for men like myself to keep from becoming exceedingly unpopular, for, as you know, to oppose an increase of salary is not a popular thing to do. Mr. Borden, however, insisted that the members should, during the summer, first find out the opinion of their constituents and for that reason the topic is a live issue in West Peterborough just now. I referred the matter to the County Council at its last meeting, and they recorded their opinion against the proposed increase. The Warden, Mr. Garbutt, however, has expressed himself openly as being against my opinion, and in favor of the members of Parliament voting themselves the proposed increase. Mr. Sexsmith, whose opinion is entitled to great weight, is very strongly of opinion that owing to the increased cost of living, members should be paid much more than at present. He, of course, must speak for himself, and I understand from you that you are giving his opinions in your present issue in this respect. Mr. Sexsmith states that unless the people wish Parliament to consist only of men who can afford to go there on their own resources they will have to increase the pay of the members. There can be no question that if this is true the salary should be increased, because Canada is in the same position that President Wilson says the United States is in, namely, in the grasp of the greedy ones. The man who deals in money, otherwise the financier and promoter, has all the cards in his hand and can make, as he does enormous profits profits at the expense of the people and these profits reflected in the enormous fortunes of these men. It will take a long time to work it out possibly not so long, but it is doubtful if the people will be flim-flammed in the future as they have been in the past. Therefore, if Mr. Sexsmith's statement is correct, the proposed remedy is desirable, but let us get down to hardpan. A member can live in Ottawa, unless he wants to put on side, very comfortably on $60 a month. Four months is the proper length of his term of service and if by reason of fighting for control of the treasury that time is extended it is not the fault of the people but of the members. $240—say $300—will pay a member's living expenses. If he has a wife this will be more than doubled. It is true that his business or profession suffers at home, but $2,500 is all that most men can make in four months even at the risk of injuring their other business. At any rate, in view of the wages paid the great mass of the people, I think the salary is high enough.

You must remember that during this last two years I have had the honor of being Chairman of a committee that inquired into the economic conditions of life in Canada,, and therefore I ought to know something about it, and I can tell you frankly that the solicitude for the increase of the pay of the average wage earner. For the latter to shrink means almost literal starvation for himself and his family, but the former could shrink without doing himself any serious damage and in many cases, speaking frankly, my own opinion is that a little shrinking would do many of our Canadian highfliers a great deal of good. On one occasion in the House, after I had made some remarks on another subject but of somewhat the same tenor as this, the Hon. George Graham remarked that such sentiments were worthy only of demagogues. I must say that I was amazed but not in the least bit terrorized, and if the Hon. George Graham had opposed the C.N.R. grant as stautly as he opposed the tenor of my remarks he would have shown, to my mind, much better judgment. Of course, I must not be understood at declining pay. That would be making too much of a saint out of myself altogether. I haven't reached that stage yet, but so long as I remain in politics, and that may not be very long, I shall most certainly not take my own pay out of the public treasury with my own hands whether it be large or small. Canadians are accused of having lost all pride because of their love for money, and I regret to say that for various other reasons to me it looks exceedingly like it. If our clergy insteah of preaching theology, would recall us to a sense of appreciation of consistency in the conduct of life it would be, I believe, a good thing. We are to my own knowledge in the position in many cases, of the little boy at the picnic whose stomach is too strong for his sense of personal dignity, and who takes away in his pockets that which he is unable to eat. I may be talking wildly, but I don't think it. In fact I am absolutely convinced that what I actually know that I am saying what is true, and it is an appalling thing to think that that portion of the community which has the greatest opportunity and the greatest leverage is willing to use both without even first asking the consent of that other portion which is so busy keeping itself from starving, that it has no time to think of politics.

Port au Prince, Hayti, July 2.—During the past ten days na case of suspected plague has occurred at the seaport of Jacmalen, 30 miles from here. NO STREET OILING IN CITY THIS YEAR

Another Watering Cart to Serve Centre City---This Section may also be watered on Sundays---Monaghan Residents Cannot Connect with City's Sewers

The city's Board of Works met in business session last night, Alderman Buller presiding. Mayar W. H. Bradburn and Aldermen Duffus, Anderson and Johnston were also in attendance, together with City Engineer Parsons.

The Little Lake Cemetery Company's request that a street light be removed into the centre of the plot near their new entrance was referred to the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

The Bell 'Phone Co.'s request for permission to erect three poles on the west side of Reid street, south of Charlotte, was granted.

Direct 'Phone Line to Ottawa

On motion of the Mayor, seconded by Ald. Duffus, the Bell 'Phone Co. was given permission to erect a set of poles on South street, east of George, the same side of the street on which the Machine Co.'s poles stand. These additional poles are needed to serve the Bell's new direct long distance line to Ottawa.

Babb's Lane Again.

On motion of Aldermen Johnston and Anderson, the question of the width of the street on Babb's Lane was referred to the Mayor, the City Engineer and the Chairman to straighten out.

Street Oil.

Tenders quoted road oil at 7½, 8, 9 and 10 cents a gallon in 5,000 gallon car lots, only were at hand. The City Engineer reported that but 3,500 gallons of oil would be needed to oil the cross street from George to Aylmer, but nothing less than a car of 5000 gallons can be purchased.

No appropriation having been made for oil, and no avenue in sight from which to secure $450 or $500 this year for oil, it was decided to put on the heavy iron water cart, with three horses, with which to give an additional street watering service for centre city.

His Worship offered that centre city should be watered on Sundays. Last Sunday he noticed that the dust was flying in clouds to the great discomfit of citizens. Such a nuisance should be abated. The Board decided that the additional watering cart above referred to shall be brought into requisition for Sabbath street watering in centre city.

Surface Drainage.

The City Solicitor will be asked to report on the legal situation in regard to the suggestion that surface drainage to relieve the De Laval Company be run into the river via North Monaghan.

Can't Connect With City's Sewers

Mr. Paine's request for permission to connect his property in North Monaghan with the city sewer, at his own expense, was refused.

Sewer Foremen.

The City Engineer was authorized to appoint foremen on sewer work.

School Sidewalks.

At last Council meeting, the engineer reported that the School Board's request that the city lay a sidewalk all round the new West Ward School would be an entirely unnecessary expense for the city to bear, and council adopted his report.

Last night Ald. Duffus suggested that it might perhaps be reasonable that the city lay a sidewalk along the south side of the school, but this suggestion was not entertained.

THE BALKAN SITUATION IS RENDERED OBSCURED

Servian Minister Says His Country is Now at War with Fighting Bulgaria

Lgndon, Wednesday, July 2.—At the moment of cabling, the situation in the Balkans is most obscure. Concurrently with Tuesday's news that the Servian Skupstchina had endorsed the decision of Premier Pasitch to submit the dispute with Bulgaria to the arbitration of Russia, came the statement that the fighting has ceased, and it looked as if the "unofficial war" would not develop any further.

Early this morning, however, telegrams from Bulgaria gave a different complexion to the situation. M. Protitch, the Minister of the Interior, had stated in the Skupstchina late last night: "We are at war with Bulgaria and directions have been given to the Servian commander-in-chief to be ready to defend our whole line as Bulgaria has attacked is all along the frontier."

News agency telegrams from Belgrade after midnight assert that the fighting was renewed with gteat vigor on Tuesday along the whole front and that bloody battles had been fought. None of these despatches can be confirmed.

No further fighting between the Greeks and Bulgarians is yet reported, but the latest despatches tend to confirm the report that Greece regards war as having began.

It is reported, but without confirmation that Russia has sharply called on the allies to stop their fighting.

SENATOR COX DONATED THE HOME FOR NURSES

Gave $275,000 for Magnificent Building in New General Hospital.

It has been learned that the money, $275,000, for the erection of the splendid nurses' home in connection with the new Toronto General Hospital, was donated by Senator George A. Cox, a former resident of Peterborough, a monument to his late wife, the second daughter of the late Daniel Hopkins, of this city. The donation was anonymous, the general public only knowing that $275,000 was given for the building without the donor's identity being disclosed.

The late Mrs. Cox met her future husband when he was sent to Peterborough as an operator for the Montreal Telegraph Company in charge of their office here. They were married in 1862, when the future Senator was 22 years of age. She was interested in many charitable institutions in later years.

Senator Cox has on other occasions proved a generous giver. In 1899 he contributed $35,000 to the Methodist Church, and $1,000 to the Victorian Order of Nurses. In 1905 he contributed $100,000 to the Toronto General Hospital. Senator Cox is a trustee of the Hospital for Sick Children and a Governor of Grace Hospital.

PROMINENT PARISIAN CALLLED AWAY, IN OLD AGE, BY DEATH

Henri Rochefort Was Long a Striking Figure in Political Life---Was Once Transported

Aix les Bains, France, July 2. — Henri Rochefort, for a long series of years one of the most prominent figures in French political life, died here to-day from a complication of maladies at the age of 83.

The real name of Henri Rochefort was the Marquis Victor Henri de Rochefort-Lucay, and he was the son of the Marquis Claude Louis Marie de Rochefort-Lucay, who was a most successful author of light plays.

Henri Rochefort was a Parisian of the Parisians, as he was born in the French capital and passed the greater part of his life there. He took part in its defence against the Prussians in 1870-71 as a member of the Government of National Defence, and at other times worked as a municipal official, as a deputy, as a journalist and as a playwright.

His ardent patriotism often led him to excesses in the expression of his opinions, and brought him into conflict with the law. In 1871 he was condemned to deportation, and was transported to Noumea, in Caledonia whence he, with several companions, in captivity, managed to escape in 1874, but was unable to re-enter his beloved France until the issue of the general amnesty in 1880.

Rochefort was a most picturesque figure, and was always ready to defend his own honor, or that of his country, and for this reason was engaged in a large number of duels.

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 25c. and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 25c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 25c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. we make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., 324 George St., directly opposite Crossman's store.

SALAD DRESSING

A Simple Method of Making Two or Three Quarts at a Time

Salads are easy to make if the dressing is ready. Here is a simple dressing which may be made in two or three quarts at a time and kept in jars ready for use. Five tablespoonfuls pastry flour, 2 tablespoonfuls butter, 1½ teaspoonfuls mustard, 3 eggs, 1 tablespoonful salt, 2 cups milk, 2 tablespoonfuls sugar, 1½ cups weak vinegar, 1 teaspoon onion juice. These are the right proportions for a quart of this inexpensive dressing. Mix together flour, mustard, salt, sugar, onion juice, butter and eggs in double boiler top; add milk slowly so it will not be lumpy; cook over hot water till thick, stirring constantly, then add vinegar, stirring until thickened again. Cool and serve.

SAW MANY CHANGES

Remarkable Centenarian's Reminiscences of Three Quarters Century

During a visit to Berlin, Ont., Mr Joseph Mantell of Toronto, a man 103 years old, gave a "News Record" reporter a very interesting interview regarding his early years in Ontario. In 1837 Mr. Mantell came to Canada from England, going almost direct to Berlin. At that time, he said, Berlin was a very small village, consisting of two stores and a few small houses. The language of the village was German, and very few conversed in any other tongue. The school was taught in German, and there was little opportunity to learn any other language. The educational system of Canada, he said, was much better, even at that time than that of England. There a slate, pencil, New Testament and spelling book were used. There they formed a large circle, and taught reading from the New Testament, reading verse about.

Newspapers were very dear, costing about 17 cents each. These, the hotels subscribed to, and left them for those who could read. Some took advantage of this to learn of the happenings outside the circle of their acquaintance.

"And the present system of education, what do you think of it?" he was asked.

"It is grand—grand," the old man replied. "The opportunities young people have are wonderful. Now, if one person desires he can rise to any position. When I was young, a man died as he was born. If he was penniless when he was born he died penniless."

Mr. Mantell spends a great deal of the day in reading, especially the newspapers. His intellect is good, memory marvellous and he reads without glasses.

"Have you never worn glasses?" he was asked.

"Well, I bought a pair once, but they were worn mostly on my forehead, so I have gave them up."

Mr. Mantell is very fond of walking of which he does a good deal. Stooping considerable, his favorite attitude when walking, is one hand on his hip, and the other on his walking stick.

"My first day's work," continued the centenarian, "was when I was 10 or 11 years of age, I worked for 16 hours and received as remuneration the sum of four pence, or eight cents."

Every year this old gentleman visits his children, some of whom are in London, and Tilsonburg, and also makes a visit to Berlin. These journeys are made alone and he finds little trouble, looking after himself. Sometimes he is away from home for four months at a time. He carries a type-written sheet, stating his name, age and with whom to communicate in case of accident.

EVERY LITTLE FRITTER HAS A TASTE OF ITS OWN

PLAIN FRITTERS.—One pint of sour milk, one teaspoonful of salt, three eggs, one tablespoonful of molasses or sugar, one handful of flour and corn meal enough to make a stiff batter. Lastly stir in a small teaspoonful of soda dissolved in a little warm water. This recipe is very nice made of rye flour also.

APPLE FRITTERS.—Make a batter in the proportion of one cup of sweet milk to two cups of flour, a heaping teaspoonful of baking powder, two eggs beaten separately, one tablespoonful of sugar and a saltspoonful of salt. Heat the milk a little more than milk warm, add it slowly to the beaten yolks and sugar. Then add flour and the whites of the eggs. Stir altogether and throw in thin slices of good sour apples, dipping the batter up over them. Drop into boiling hot lard in large spoonfuls, with pieces of apple in each, and fry to a light brown. Serve with maple syrup or a syrup made of clarified sugar. Bananas, sliced oranges or other fruit can be used in the same batter.

GERMAN FRITTERS.—Take slices of stale bread cut in rounds or stale cake. Fry them in hot grease, like crullers, to a light brown. Dip each slice when fried into boiling milk to remove the grease. Drain quickly, dust with powdered sugar or spread with preserves. Pile on a hot plate and serve.

HOMINY FRITTERS.—Take one pint of hot boiled hominy, two eggs, half a teaspoonful of salt and a tablespoonful of flour. Thin it a little with cold milk. When cold add a teaspoonful of baking powder. Mix thoroughly. Drop tablespoonfuls of it into hot fat and fry to a delicate brown.

PARSNIP FRITTERS.—Take three or four good-sized parsnips. Boil them until tender. Mash and season with a little butter, a pinch of salt and a slight sprinkling of pepper. Have ready a plate with some sifted flour on it. Drop a tablespoonful of the parsnip in the flour and roll it about until well coated and formed into a ball. When there are a sufficient number ready drop them into boiling drippings or lard as you would any fritter. Fry a delicate brown and serve hot. Do not put them in a covered dish. That would steam them and deprive them of their crispness. These are also very good in a frying pan, fried in a small quantity of fat and browned on both sides.

THE HOPE OF THE JEWS

The convention of the Federation of American Zionists in Cincinnati, will call the attention of the people in this part of the country to the movement to make Palestine once more a centre of Judaism throughout the world.

The Zionist movement will scarcely bring about any extensive movement of Canadian Jews to Palestine. It is the justifiable hope of the Zionist leaders, however, to make Palestine a place of refuge for Cews who are oppressed in foreign countries. It is thought that the Jews of Russia, in particular, can be induced to go back to Palestine in large numbers.

The mopement to establish Palestine once more as a great Jewish country is one to stir the imagination, not of Jews alone, but of all people who have any knowledge of Jewish history. It is a movement not only along practical but along romantic lines.

Old Winter Coughs Now Easily Cured

A New Remedy Now Cures Without the Use of Cough Syrups or Drugs.

Just think of it—you can clear away that hard, racking cough, drive it completely out of the system, make yourself perfectly well by the new breathing cure that employs no medicine at all.

You wonder how; a very simple, indeed; you simply breathe in through a Catarrhozone Inhaler rich balsamic essences that heal and soothe away the cough in a few hours' time.

In using Catarrhozone you bathe the lining of the nose and throat with that powerful antiseptic of the Blue Gum Tree of Australia, which is probably the surest cold and cough cure in the world to-day.

Clarence E. Cromwell, writing from Medicine Hat, says: "To cure a sneezing cold in about ten minutes the one thing I know of to do it is Catarrhozone. To relieve an irritated throat quickly, nothing can excel Catarrhozone. It simply eats up a cough or cold of any kind. I know of colds that hape hung on for months that Catarrhozone cured quickly. Nearly every man I know carries a Catarrhozone Inhaler with him day and night, and in this country it makes a wonderful protection against all winter ills."

Get the dollar outfit, including the hard rubber inhaler, and medication to last two months; medium size 50c. sample size 25c., at all storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Palestine at the present time is a sparsely settled country. In Jerusalem and the immediate vicinity there are about 300,000 people. The entire population of Palestine is not much more than 600,000. Under an efficient government and with an energetic and wide-awake farming population, it is estimated that the country would support from three to five millions of people.

GERMANY IS PINCHED

The nation upon which the financial stringency has descended most fiercely is Germany. The depression is ascribed by some authorities to the new war tax, which purposes taking millions from the pockets of the public for the maintenance of an aggravated military system. The country which has felt not the financial stringency at all, but in which commerce is booming, is Great Britain, which sticks to what the restrictions call an obsolete fiscal system. Draw your own conclusions.

CANADIAN FINANCES

Fifty years ago Mr. Beaudry the mayor of Montreal, at a public dinner given to Lord Monck, the governor-General, declared "that Canada might esteem herself a fortunate community in being protected by one of the most powerful nations of the world without its costing the Canadian people a dollar; no matter how many redcoats might be required, and the more there might be the better pleased they would be to see them. It would not cost the Canadians one single cent;" which was right enough considering that Canada owed Gngland nothing for protection!

Mr. Bourassa, in his speeches in the West, did not rise above that rather sordid theory. He said very plainly that he owed England nothing, and that it was her duty to foot the bill for our naval protection: indeed, that we should not contribute in any manner either to her naval or military armanents.

Mr. Bourassa has greatly encouraged those who are of his way of thinking, but as a matter of fact, the French-speaking population of the West does not agree with him. So far as one can ascertain three French-Canadians out of five are of the that the least we can do is to opposite opinion: they think pay something a reasonable share of England's expenditure on the navy, and that we should be ready at all times to send the Canadian land forces to any serious old wars in which she may be engaged.

Western Liberals do not relish Mr. Bourassa's views. They were quite willing that he should condemn Mr. Borden's naval policy but did not like his saying that Sir Wilfrid's policy was equally blameworthy. Just what Mr. Bourassa is driving at, independence or annexation, or stay as we are without contributing to the defence of the Empire, no one seems to be able to make out. He is essentially a poseur and a 'man of moods, and, like his grandfather Papineau in his latter days, appears to have no set purpose beyond stirring up discontent and figuring as an infallible tribune of the people.

WERE ALL MEN OF GENIUS

Darwin Family Probably the Most Famous on Record in the Annals of England.

Events have called attention once more to the wonderful Darwin family, perhaps most fertile in genius of all the families of England.

Dr. Erasmus Darwin, born in 1731, was a physician, poet, philosopher, and member of the Royal society.

His son, Dr. Robert Darwin, was a physician of very high standing and one of the earliest preachers of temperance.

Robert Darwin's son was Charles Darwin, author of the "Origin of Species," and unquestionably the greatest man of science of the nineteenth century.

Charles Darwin left five sons. The eldest did not become famous. The second son, however, George Howard Darwin, who died the other day, was one of the foremost astronomers in Europe.

The third son, Francis Darwin, is author, physician, and has been president of the British association for the advancement of science.

The fourth son, Maj. Leonard Darwin of the Royal engineers, has been president of the Royal Geographical society, and is now the head of the Eugenics Education society.

The fifth son, Horace Darwin, is president of the Cambridge Scientific Instrument company, and member of the advisory committee on military aeronautics.

Three of these men have sons of their own. The name and fame of Darwin are not likely to fail.

By his second wife, old Erasmus Darwin became the grandfather of Francis Galton, founder of the science of eugenics. The annals of British science would be sadly defaced if the work of the Darwin breed were lost.—George L. Knapp in Chicago Journal

Etched Pewter.

Very beautiful are some new pieces of pewter that come from the Orient, says the Ladies' Home Journal. The tea caddies are perhaps best of all, for they are absolutely air tight, an important thing in caddies if tea is to be kept fresh. These caddies have an outside cover, and an inside stopper of pewter which fits tightly. They come in sizes costing from $3 to $15. The pewter is subjected to a process which leaves it a dull brownish silver; the designs—each distinctively Japanese—are then etched with acid. Litter coasters—excellent for ash trays—designed in a dwarf pine are $1 each. A beautiful oddly shaped bowl with a wicker handle is $6. All of the pieces are very heavy.

Paid $1,575 for An Egg Boiler.

At a sale in London last week of the late Lady Caroline Lindsay's tapestries, furniture and objects of art Charles Davis gave $1,575 for a Cevres egg boiler. It is painted with landscapes and small figures, and has gilt scroll borders on gros blue. It was made by [illegible] in [illegible]. The same purchaser gave $1,312 for an ormolu-mounted Louis XVI. mahogany secretaire with a revolving cylinder front.

NINE TENETS OF FAITH

Fifty Years Makes No Change in Working Farm Creed

Here is the Canadian Farmer's Creed which, though written fifty years ago, holds good to-day.

I.—We believe in small farms and thorough cultivation.

II.—We believe that soil loves to eat, as well as its owner, and ought therefore to be liberally fed.

III.—We believe in large crops, which leave the land better than they found it, making farmer and the farm both glad at once.

IV.—We believe in getting to the bottom of things, and therefore in deep ploughing, and enough of it; all the better with a subsoil plough.

V.—We believe that every farm should own a good farmer.

VI.—We believe that the best fertilizer for any soil is the spirit of industry, enterprise, and intelligence. Without this, lime and gypsum, bones and green manure, marl and guano will be of little use.

VII.—We believe in good fences, good barns, good farmhouses, good stock, good orchards, and children enough to gather the fruit.

VIII.—We believe in a clean kitchen, a neat wife in it, and a clear conscience.

IX.—We firmly disbelieve in farmers who will not improve their farms; also in farms which grow poorer every year, in starving cattle, in farmer boys turning into clerks and merchants, in farmers ashamed of their vocation, or who drink whiskey until honest people are ashamed of them.

They Needed It.

Mr. Wabash—I see a stranger was arrested in Chicago the other day because he had $320 in his pocket.

Mr. Gotham—And wasn't it his own money?

"Oh, yes, it was shown to be his own money."

"Why did they arrest him then?"

"Why, he was trying to get out of own with it!"

CHEVALIER'S START

The Beginning is Not Always a Good Index

Mr. Albert Chevalier, the famous interpreter of "coster" life, had a somewhat disturbing experience in the early days of his career. He was giving a performance at a West End theatre in London but the audience failed to appreciate or respond to his humor. Just as he was nearing the end of his performance there was a terrific round of applause, and he thanked his stars that success was his at last. He was about to take an encore, when the manager siezed him by the arm and pulled him into the wings.

"Done well, haven't I?" asked Mr. Chevalier. "Hear the applause."

"You silly ass, they're not clapping you," replied the manager. "It's the Prince of Wales who's just come in."

On another occasion when a stage-door keeper at one of the theatres approached Mr. Chevalier's brother with a request for a couple of seats.

"With pleasure," was the reply.

"But I don't want 'em for myself," the man explained. "I've seed 'im. It's the missus that wants 'em. Like all the women, she just wants to say she's seed 'im."

"That will be all right," replied Mr. Chevalier's brother. "You send her along, and I'll see that she has good seats."

"Thank you, sir," replied the man. He drew a step nearer and whispered confidentially. "Don't worry about the places. Put 'er anywhere, but put 'er near the door, so that she can get out easy in case she don't like 'im."

Mr. Chevalier's most famous song is undoubtedly "My Old Dutch." The inspiration came to him one day when lost in a London fog, and he wrote out the verses under a lamp-post. Strange to relate, when he first tried the song at Manchester he was hissed off.

SPORTING NEWS

BASEBALL.

Cleveland, July 2.—President Charles W. Somers of the Cleveland American League Club today ordered "Rube" Evans, the sensational Southern League left-hand pitcher with New Orleans of the Southern League, to report immediately. Evans has been the property of the Cleveland Club for some time but has been allowed to remain at New Orleans.

Chicago, July 2.—Walter Schaller, utility outfielder of the Chicago Americans, is released to the Washington club at the waiver price. Schaller was secured by the same process from the Detroit club earlier in the season. Detroit obtained Schaller from Kansas City.

TENNIS.

Boston, July 2.—It has been said that America is "sport mad." That the general boom in interest in competitive events extends to tennis is proved by the figures which place the total gate receipts of the recent international matches at New York at $19,000. Of this surprising sum $7,000 went to defray the expenses of the American team. Of the net profits of $12,000 half was turned over to the Australian team. The West Side Lawn Tennis Club, on whose courts the matches were played, received $1,400, and the remaining $4,600 was put in the treasury of the National Lawn Tennis Association.

TURF.

London, July 2.—The Berkeley challenge cup, for four-in-hands, exceeding 15.2 hands, was won by Judge Moore's team of bays. Judge Moore's Lady Seaton also was awarded first in class 44, single harness horses, driven by ladies and shown to phaeton. In this class Rillington Nimble, owned by J. Sumner Draper of Boston, was placed second.

GOLF.

New York, July 2.—Philip Carter of the Nassau County Club, last year's interscholastic golf champion, won the Metropolitan junior amateur championship title to-day from Stuart D. Connolly of Rockland, N.Y., by 4 up and 3.

CRICKET.

Philadelphia, July 2.—Remarkable fielding and bowling kept the score of both sides down in the opening of what was to have been a three days' match between the Australian cricketers and the Gentlemen of Philadelphia at Haverford, and an inning and a half were completed before stumps were drawn for the day. The local players were all out for 115 runs in the first innings, while the Australians made only 105. In the second innings the Philadelphians were all out for 37 runs. The match will be concluded to-morrow when the Australians take their second innings.

It was decided to begin another match between the same players immediately upon the conclusion of their present match.

RING.

New Orleans, July 2.—"There will be no prize fight in Jefferson on July 4," asserted Gov. L. E. Hall. "No, I have not met any committee or representatives, but I can state now there will be no prize fight."

The Governor draws a distinction between a prize fight and a boxing contest.

"But," he added, when asked as to this distinction, "this affair is being advertised to the world as a prize fight, a 20-round knock down and drag-out affair, and I am determined that any such exhibition shall not take place. Boxing contests on points have been admitted under the law, and the ruling of the State's attorneys, but no such affair as is being carded for July 4 at the McDonoghville arena."

YACHTING.

New York, July 2.—Osborne Bay, Isle of Wight, will be the scene of the races for the British International trophy for motorboats this year, and the first race will be run on August 11, according to advices received from the Royal Motor Yacht Club, which took tae cup from the Americans on this side last summer.

As the trial races for the American challengers have been set for July 7 to 9, owners of the successful boats will have more than a month for the final turning up of the international races.

Kiel, Germany, July 2. — Emperor William arrived here on board the imperial yacht Hohenzollern for the beginning of Kiel regatta week. The German challengers for the sonderklasse cup to be raced for at Marblehead, Mass., next September, are to be selected during the series of races, beginning to-morrow and continuing on alternate days.

Good Ways of Other Days.

Not by a great deal are all the old-fashioned things admirable, but by no means are they all inferior and out of date because they are old-fashioned. The best of them may strain all our modern resources to equal, and not do it. The best products of old-fashioned training and education are still models for co-temporary seminaries. As far back as we can reach into the history of mankind we find great people, easily the equals, and often the superiors, of our very best in mental and moral qualities. Our good luck is not that we are superior to them in our human material, but that we have at our service an immensely greater accumulation of knowledge, mostly about material things. Thanks to that, we understand the laws of nature much better than our fathers did, and that has helped us to make wonderful machines, and put them to doing, after their fashion, what used to be done by fingers, brains and brawn. But spiritually we got our highest inspiration 2,000 years ago, and have been trying ever since to reach up to it; and mentally, though we use better tools, we are no better, surely, than Pythagoras or Aristotle or the author of the Book of Job and hundreds of thinkers who must have long preceded any of them.—Harper's Magazine.

His One Plot.

"Where did you get the plots for your new plays?"

"I have never used but one," replied the noted dramatist, "and I swiped that from 'Ingomar the Barbarian.' I have used that plot in a war play, two rural dramas, a problem play, and now I'm working it up into a musical comedy."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"I suppose the policy of the Whigs was one!"

TRUE DEMOCRACY

A Real Reverence for the Industrial Personality

Rev. Archdeacon Cody of Toronto has defined what true social democracy is in aim and methods of practical realization. "Three great propositions make up the principles of democracy," he said. "They are (1) the things that are common to all men are more important than the things that are peculiar to one man; (2) we say of all men that they are our own flesh and blood. This is the central principle of democracy; (3) the most vital things have to be left to the ordinary man, for example, the choice of rulers. I hold, therefore, that the test of democracy is reverence for personality." Dr. Cody then proceeded to trace the character of the relation of the individual to the social organism or State. And he found the individual, even in the ideal state of the Greek, was subordinated to the social organism. There was no reverence for the individual as a human, thinking being, as a social creature. "Now," said the speaker, "the modern State is based upon the Christian ideal of the brotherhood of man. Christianity widens the idea of citizenship to cosmopolitanism, and then it consecrates personality, the value of the individual in and for the State. The modern State preserves what is best from the ancient state and supplements and corrects it with ideas of personality. It is neither an atomism nor a swamping socialism. It insists that each individual must give of his best to the whole, but that he must give it freely and gladly. The Greeks exaggerated the idea of co-operation. The modern state tends to exaggerate the idea of individual initiative. Now, this is no academic discussion, for the same ideas are represented to-day in the civilization of the Orient and of the Occident. Reverence for personality is not fundamental in the ideals of Orient civilization, though they are in Japanese and the Chinese are beginning to adopt the Occidental ideas of civilization, and chiefly the Christian idea of reverence for personality in the conduct of life and the state. This is a fundamental moral principle, philosophically enunciated by Kant, Heyd and Lotze. And no man or nation can degrade personality in others without thereby degrading themselves. And what holds true of individuals holds true of nations in their international relations. In these there must be reverence for personality. This idea may exist in strange places. It exists in some artistocracies and it is absent from some democracies. A true democracy is one which is permeated with a real reverence for individual personality. Therefore, it is that the future of the Canadian people lies in the future of the Canadian conscience. For true democracy means moral service and the possibility of a man's life for every man."

THIS BALL PLAYER NEVER USED GLOVES

Jerry Denny Says Baseball is no Faster Now Than in the '90's

It was in the latter part of 1894 that Jerry Denny severed his connection with big league baseball. His passing marked the finish of one of the greatest third basemen in the world. Although Jerry Denny played in minor leagues as late as 1904, he never used a glove, and to the last was a marvel on hard hit ground balls His work in two games in 1882 and 1890 proves his class; with Providence he had five putouts and 11 assists in 17 chances, and with New York he had 11 assists and 2 put-outs out of 14 chances, one afternoon.

Denny began his career in 1876 when 17. His first professional engagement was with Providence in 1881; in 1883 he led the third basemen with an average of .875. In 1886, with St. Louis, he and Keterbrook led with an average of .895. He headed the league again in 1889, with a .918 average. Denny made his great reputation while playing against such men as Jim McGarr, Billy Nash and Ed. Wialliamson, the best men that ever played the position.

"The team work is better to-day than it was in the '80's and '90's, but baseball is no faster," says Denny, and many a veteran fan will probably admit that if Jerry was in his prime now and on third base, he would hold his own with the fastest infielders of this day.

The funeral took place at Ashford, Kent, of Mrs. Catherine Keeler, aged ninety-four, whose husband, a naval officer, was drowned in a shipwreck a few months after their marriage, and who was for seventy years a widow.

When the suet is melted, pour off, add a few drops of carbolic acid, and beat with a silver fork until it is [illegible]. Add a few drops of [illegible] perfume.

Rub into your hands [illegible] a day and at night before retiring.

NEW BURGLAR ALARM

How an Automobile May be Used for The Purpose

One of the surest and best sorts of burglar alarms can be fashioned in the home with no further appliances than a high powered well equipped automobile.

This simple device is recommended by a Chicago motorist who tried it with the best sort of success. There are a lot of people who might have difficulty in procuring the automobile, but those who have one can try it.

There are few people who are greater sufferers from petty thievery than motorists who keep their cars in private garages. There are so many little expensive things about an auto that are easily detached that they seem to attract thieves and as a result the garage set away off from the house becomes a favorite place for the light fingered fraternity to ply their trade.

The Chicago man who invented this preventive suffered in silence for a long time and then he provided a safe and sure relief by simply connecting his electric motor horn and headlights with the garage doors just as an ordinary burglar alarm is connected.

The result was that when Mr. Burglar opened the door the headlights flashed out and the horn started a rasping, deafening roar that continued until someone came from the house and closed the doors again. The noise was so sudden and so startling that the first burglar who started it was frightened off immediately and it was so loud and continuous that it aroused the entire neighborhood.

Cure for Balky Horse

Want to know how to start a balky horse?

That sounds like a foolish question and it has been echoed through all the ages since horses came into general use. Everybody who owns one would like to know how to start a balky horse. Here's a way that has never failed. Take an ordinary bamboo fish pole long enough to reach the head of the horse from the carriage seat. Attach a round wooden bolt crossways to the end of the rod and fasten copper rivet heads in each end of the bolt.

Then attach the two wires of an electric battery, one to each rivet head and let them run along the pole to the handle where they will be fastened to ordinary binding posts. Run wires from your battery, under the carriage seat, to the handle of the pole. When the horse balks turn on your current and touch the horse behind the ears with the rivet heads. He'll move—no matter how determined he has been not to do so.

New Ride Through Midair.

A new thrill for Alpine tourists will soon be a ride through midair from one point to another on a suspended cable. This will start from Chamonix, at an altitude of 3,600 feet; it will ascend to the Glacier des Bossons at 7,500 feet, with two intervening stations. It will have a grade of 50 to 60 degrees. The line will be finally extended to the Aiguille du Midi, at an altitude of 11,300 feet. The first section is to be completed in 1913 and the extension the following year. The road will be worked with three cables—the carrier, the tractor and a cable for the brakes. Each carriage will accommodate twenty-four persons.

YOU CAN MAKE MONEY IN

Carmangay

"The Star of Alberta"

PAST The splendidly strategic site of Carmangay was discovered by a far seeing, shrewd railway engineer attracted to the district by the lure of the finest wheat in the Canadian West. He snapped up lands where the wide canyons of the Little Bow River narrows to a point. Here must all railways cross. The C. P. R. came and the shipping centre created went ahead by leaps and bounds.

PRESENT Carmangay today is a thriving incorporated town, with not less than 53 business places. Her up-to-date electric and natural water supply systems are owned and operated by the people. Carmangay boasts an eight-roomed schoolhouse, two banks and four big elevators, shipping over a million bushels in 1911 and 1½ millions in 1912. Carmangay has coal mines operating, and the entire district is underlaid with coal of finest Galt quality.

FUTURE Carmangay grows as Alberta grows. That means a wonderful future. Four new railroads are heading for Carmangay. Four new elevators are trying to cope with the tremendous wheat yields of the district. The mines are opening up splendid prospects. Carmangay is being rapidly developed into one of the greatest towns in the Canadian West. YOU can just as confidently invest in Carmangay as her own people do, who are building in brick and stone for a tremendous future. Carmangay has her own supply of finest brick clay and stone right at her doors, and will soon supply her sister cities in Alberta.

DOOR 300 YEARS OLD

Unique Relic of French Regime in an Ancient Montreal Mansion

In the process of rebuilding Montreal, many of the memorials which have come down from the early French regime have disappeared; but in odd nooks and corners one may still encounter a bit of the antique, looking out of the mediaeval centuries.

The old Lacroix building on St. Jean Baptiste street is an instance of remarkable preservation.

The old place, with the sloping roofs, dormer windows, walls four feet thick and quaint old-world air, is intact.

It was originally both residence and warehouse. Mr. Lacroix was a fur trader, and south of the private residence is the old warehouse in which the furs where stored. The dwelling is of the old colonial style. The light comes in through the diamond panes, the roof slopes over the pavement. The cellar is almost fathomless. Cellars were built in these days not merely for storage, but protection. The civilization of the colony was young. There was constant fighting with the Indians. Uprisings were to be apprehended.

But the Gallic buoyancy could not be wholly suppressed, even amid danger; and the ball room of the Lacroix building is pointed to as an evidence of gay social life conducted with all the more zest in that it was liable to be interrupted at any moment.

The doorway of the Lacroix house possesses an antiquarian interest. It is carved by hand, and has been in its present place unimpaired nearly three centuries. Glass has been put into the panels of the door for utilitarian purposes, but otherwise the door and lintels remain intact.

It is proposed to remove the woodwork of the old door to the Chateau de Ramezay, and this will probably be done when the ancient building is demolished to make room for a more modern structure.

SYNOPSIS OF DOMINION LAND REGULATIONS

ANY person who is sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties.—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties.—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Supplying Coal for the Dominion Buildings," will be received at this office until 4.00 P.M., on Monday, July 14, 1913, for the supply of coal for the Public Buildings throughout the Dominion.

Combined specification and form tender can be obtained on application at this office and from the caretakers of the different Dominion Buildings.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent (10 p. c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the contract. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

By order,
R. C. DESROCHERS,
Secretary.
Department of Public Works,

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned and marked "Tender for Section No. 1, Welland Ship Canal," will be received at this office until 16 o'clock on Thursday, July 17th, 1913.

Plans, Specifications and form of contract to be entered into can be seen on or after June 4th, at the office of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, and at the office of the Engineer in Charge, St. Catharines, Ontario.

Copies of plans, and specifications may be obtained from the Department on the payment of the sum of fifty dollars. To bona fide tenderers this amount will be refunded upon the return of the above in good condition.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labour, which schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque for the sum of $200,000.00 made payable to the order of the Minister of Railways and Canals, must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The cheque of the successful tenderer will be held as security, or part security, for the due fulfilment of the contract to be entered into.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

By order

BROUGHT HIM VICTORY

Beulah Jones' Overcoated Chickens Prove Great Vote Getters in Political Parade.

By SELINA ELIZABETH HIGGINS.

Miss Beulah Jones was cutting up a cake with a piece of silk thread to prove its lightness, as there came a knock at the door. She passed through the sitting-room with many a hurried reach for scattered garments and fragments of cloth, in a hopeless effort at tidying up.

"I do hope it isn't the minister, or anybody but some neighbor," fluttered the neat and circumspect little lady.

"It's only me, Beulah," spoke the bluff voice of giantlike John Moore, her distant cousin. "About once a year I get around here. Why don't you ever come and see us, Beulah?"

Miss Jones flushed consciously, then her calm, pleasant eyes took on a serious expression.

"You know I never go anywhere—now," she said, briefly.

"Well," spoke John, plumping down into an easy chair, "I've heard some wonderful things about those pet chickens of yours, and I've come to find out about them. Well! well! well!"

Honest John craned his neck to stare out through the window. His lips expanded. His ruddy face began to pucker comically, and he let out a great guffaw.

"What are you laughing at, John Moore?" demanded Miss Beulah, with severity.

Her cousin could not reply for some time on account of convulsive chuckles. There was ample occasion for his merriment. Waddling around in the chicken yard a full score of Plymouth Rock chickens were parading proudly, attired in close-fitting overcoats. The sewing machine and the rug about it were littered with scraps of cloth representing all the colors of the rainbow.

Flushed in a Startled Way.

"It's a great idea," said John, "but it's the funniest thing I ever saw."

"I don't see anything very funny about it," resented Miss Jones. "I suppose the neighbors call me eccentric, and all that, but clothing the chickens is no whim. It's a practical piece of humanity. Some of the poor things froze up last winter. They shan't this."

John Moore grinned the harder as he strode to the window and again looked out. Miss Jones was economical in the common utilities of her lonely life. She had not looked to the esthetic in clothing her pets, but to their comfort. Some of the chickens were robed in red flannel, others in part of an old quilt. Some of the overcoats had ruffles at the neck, others had bands, giving a sort of "knickerbocker" effect. Altogether the result was incongruous and comical. John Moore fancied he saw something spectacular in it all.

"I've got an idea, Beulah," he said. "I'm looking for a novelty, and that's what brought me here. I want to buy those chickens."

Miss Beulah regarded her cousin [illegible]

"They're not for sale," she declared at once.

"Then I want to borrow them—rent them, we'll call it. For one day, Beulah, overcoats and all. I'll agree to return them safe and sound. How many are there?"

"Twenty-two."

"Very well; I'll give you fifty cents apiece to help make a show with them for one day. There's your money, and I'll call for them in the morning. If that wise head of yours can think up some comical frills and other additions to those overcoats, as you call them, the better it will be for my purpose."

"See here, John," challenged Miss Beulah, "whatever wild speculation have you got in that busy head of yours now?"

"Just this, Beulah," explained John. "I'm county committeeman. There's an election day after tomorrow, as I suppose you know."

"No, I didn't know," replied the lady very distantly. "I never look at the papers—now."

Her eyes dropped rather sadly as she said this. Her cousin shot a quick glance at her and shook his head and sighed. Miss Beulah had been almost a recluse for nearly two years. The reason for it no one ever ventured to discuss in her presence. It was a tabooed subject.

"Well, we are working up a procession," John went on to explain; "torchlights, music and all that. We're going to have a hayrack, showing prosperity—heaps of apples, corn, goddess of liberty and the like. I want to scatter those winter-clothed pets of yours over the load. It will be a great catch."

It proved a greater catch than the ingenious committeeman had expected. It was two days later when Miss Jones saw a wagon draw up to the yard. Her pets, well fed and lively, were being returned safe and sound to their coops, as her cousin had promised.

The weekly paper had just arrived. Miss Jones had flushed in a startled way as she read "the news." It appeared that the overcoated chicks had been the novelty of the procession. The district had a great many chicken farms. The home display had won over this interest, they had voted for Allen Parsons, and that candidate was elected.

Allen Parsons! How that name awoke painful memories in the heart of the recluse! She had drawn open a drawer in the old-fashioned secretary and had taken thence a sheet of paper, closely written over, and a photograph. The latter was a phototype of the portrait of the successful candidate in the paper. There was a knock at the door. Miss Jones opened it to face—the successful candidate.

"I had to call to thank you for the great support your pets gave me," spoke the stalwart, fine-looking visitor. "Why, Miss Jones—Beulah!"

At sight of the man she had loved, still loved in secret, her estranged fiance, Miss Jones paled, tottered, and Allen had to help her to a chair in the sitting-room. As he started to leave her his glance fell upon the photograph and the letter. His eyes dilated as he traced a line or two in the latter.

"Beulah," he said, his lips set kindly, but determined, "has this letter anything to do with your rejection of my suit two years ago?"

"It has everything to do with it," faltered poor Beulah. "Can you look at it and wonder why? You wrote it."

"Yes, I wrote it, but as a model for a friend who wished to propose to a young lady in another town. How did it come into your possession?"

"Miss Simmons brought it to me—she said she found it."

"Stole it, more likely," asserted Allen. "My old landlady and a mischief-maker! Oh, Beulah! And has this foolish misunderstanding kept us so cruelly apart all of this time?"

John Moore, coming into the house to see his cousin, halted, stared, stood rooted to the spot, and then retreated softly with a great chuckle of satisfaction.

For Beulah was resting confidingly in the strong, protecting arms of Allen Parsons. All had been explained—and the feathery campaigners had done it!

FIGHTING TUBERCULOSIS

The British Government Taking Steps to Stamp Out the White Plague

In connection with the Insurance Act in Great Britain the Government will devote several millions of dollars a year to the fight against tuberculosis. It will take this step on business grounds as well as from humanitarian motives, because it will be cheaper to cure incipient tuberculosis and eventually stamp out the disease than to pay out money for tubercular people who cannot work. A committee, composed chiefly of medical men, was appointed to investigate the matter and report on the shape the Government's grant should take. It is usual for British committees of this character to make exhaustive reports that years are required before they can issue a final report, but the Insurance Bill was hurried forward, and it was necessary for the committee to issue an interim report after it had been in existence for a little longer than two months. The value of the report issued in response to the demands of the Government was somewhat impaired by this haste, since time had not been available for thorough investigation.

Under the provisions of the Act the sum of $7,500,000 will be available for the work of preventing and curing tuberculosis, and subsequently it is calculated that about $4,400,000 annually will be devoted to this purpose, apart from a considerable sum which will be issued for research work. The scheme the committee recommended consists of two closely-connected units the first being the tuberculosis dispensary, and the second being the tuberculosis hospital where treatment will be given. The committee believes that one tuberculosis dispensary will be necessary for every 150,000 or 200,000 of population in urban centres. In rural districts, where the population is more scattered, one dispensary could not treat so many people, and it might be necessary to have one dispensary for every hundred thousand of population. It is calculated that from 225 to 300 of these dispensaries will be needed for the British Isles.

PHANTOM SHIPS

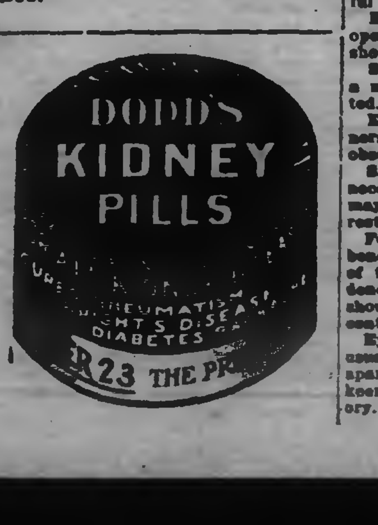
The number of phantom ships is legion. Several of the vessels which were wrecked in close proximity to the scene of the Titanic disaster are even said to reappear in the same spot on certain occasions. The Packet Light is one of these, and the story runs that whenever a storm is threatened a ball of fire emerges from the spot where the ship sank, which presently forms itself into the shape of a vessel, and then sinks and disappears.

King George V. and his brother, the late Duke of Clarence, when on their cruise in the Bacchante from 1879 to 1882 are stated to have seen the phantom of the Flying Dutchman, and the Duke mentioned the fact in his diary under date of July 11, 1881.

A three-masted frigate is said to haunt the English channel in the vicinity of the Ower lightship whenever a gale or snowstorm is threatened. Hundreds of people have declared that they have seen the apparition and heard the cries of the ghostly passengers. It is sometimes said to be the phantom of the training ship Eurydice, which went down off the Isle of Wight March 24, 1878, involving the loss of about 300 lives.

There are a host of vessels which have not been heard of since they sailed, but one of the most marvelous stories concerns the Marie Celeste, a French passenger sailing ship. She was sighted by the British ship Highlander October 4, 1875, and in reply to the signals gave the answer "All's well." Two days later when sighted she did not reply. She was boarded, but not a living or dead person was found on board.

Everything was in perfect order, luncheon was laid in the saloon, the personal belongings of the passengers and crew were intact and a bottle of medicine was found upright on the captain's locker. The log had been kept down to the previous day, but there was no entry to account for the mysterious disappearance of all on board. Nothing was heard afterward of any of the passengers and crew.



OLD SOLDIER'S VOW

Since Crimean War he Adhered to Pledge Made to His Conscience

Many weird vows have at one time or another been made by persons on finding themselves in great danger or in desperation of ever securing some desired object but one of the most peculiar was made by a French soldier who served in the Crimean war. When he was in the trenches before Sebastapol suffering from the bitter frosts, while his comrades were being decimated by disease, Michel Goetz swore that if he returned safe and sound to his native village he would never marry and never accept a pension or any help from anybody.

When he returned to Alsace he kept his vow, refusing to marry, no matter how much his family pressed him to, and rejecting all pecuniary assistance even when old age came upon him and restricted his powers of working. As an old Crimean soldier he was entitled to a pension of $120 a year, but he would not take it, nor when Alsace was incorporated in Germany would he apply for the annuity granted to old French soldiers. However great the sufferings he had to endure as a consequence of this rigid fulfilment of his vow, he was never heard to complain. He attended without fail to his daily work, and now and again advised young people not to follow his example of celibacy.

Recently he fell ill, and when his neighbors visited his cottage, they found him lying on his pallet covered only with the old cloak which for years past had done duty in hot and cold weather alike. Once more he went over his memories of the Crimean war; once more sounded the praises of his colonel, the idol of his life, and then went to join him.

CHARACTER IN THE EYES

It is held by many that just as the bumps on the head afford to the phrenologist some indication of the character and abilities, so the color, shape, and position of the eyes furnish useful guides to those able to read them.

Eyes that are always very wide open, for instance, are supposed to show impulsiveness and rashness.

Side-glancing eyes are said to be a mark of cunning, and best distrusted.

Eyes with long, sharply-pointed corners are a sign of keen powers of observation.

Shifting, unsteady eyes are not necessarily a mark of dishonesty, but may merely point to an unsettled, restless condition of mind.

For the whites of the eyes to show beneath the iris warns the possessor of the eyes that he or she has tendencies to violent temper which should be carefully kept well under control.

Eyes set very closely together usually show ignorance; but eyes far apart in the head indicate, as a rule, keen intelligence and a sound memory.

PUSHED GOOD IDEA THROUGH

Bright Youngster Saw Opportunity, and Seized It, Though It Was Not a Very Large Thing.

"Going over the court records at the registry office to check up our customers' financial standing takes fully two days of my time every month," complained the cashier of a small city bank to the president. "It's a lot of trouble, and yet it has to be done."

The president had no suggestion to offer, but the remark reached the ears of a young man transacting business at one of the wickets and set him thinking.

"There must be a good many other business concerns that need just the same information," he argued with himself. "If one were to get up a subscription list of them, it might be worth while to furnish daily reports from the registry office, reports that could be got out in an hour or so a day."

The young man went to the busy cashier and explained his idea. "Each day I will prepare a list of all mortgages filed with the clerk of the court for record, showing names, amounts and property involved. A list of satisfactions of mortgage will also be included. The charge will be one dollar a month. That isn't much for the time it will save you."

The cashier jumped at the offer, and within a very short time the enterprising young man had more than fifty subscribers. The lists were compiled by his sister, who spent an hour or two a day in the registry office, and the returns made a neat addition to their joint income, for the young man did not find it necessary to give up his old position, which was an excellent one, to take up his new job.

THE PRODIGAL'S RETURN

He Made a Fortune in Ontario Before Going Home

Barney McEnaney, according to information from his little home town of Houghton, in the upper peninsula of Michigan, returned home to his wife and children after an absence of ten years.

A decade ago McEnaney drifted into Northern Ontario. When the mining excitement started he wandered from camp to camp, in the same condition of pocket as most of the happy-go-lucky seekers of sudden wealth. He was one of the first prospectors into Porcupine and sold his claim for $100,000. With this snug fortune the prodigal husband and father returned to the home he had not seen for years.

EARNINGS OF CUE MEN

Roberts Made $11,500 in Two Weeks, Stevenson's About $40,000 a Year

The statement made by a famous British billiard player that he had made as much as $1,200 in one afternoon naturally calls attention to the earnings of other "green cloth" exponents.

Players of the first rank, of whom there are about a dozen may make anything from $5,000 to $15,000 a season. The income of George Gray of England, who is only in his twentieth year, is reported to be something considerably over $10,000 a year, and Haverson, Digle, Inman, and Stevenson, going at full strength for the average number of working years—twenty—would receive in prizes and gate-money close on $200,000 each. The figures cause further surprise when it is remembered that several professionals started life as "markers" in clubs, etc., where their wages were between $3 and $5 a week.

Exhibition games are a better source of income than championships, for the simple reason that no risks are run. The players receive one-third of the gross receipts, with a guarantee that it shall not be less than $350 or $400 per week. In Robert's memorable match with Dawson, some years ago, he received $20,000 as his share of the gate.

Roberts has travelled in Australia, India and New Zealand fourteen times. He has also been to China, Siam, and America. When he visits the Maharajah's palaces, carriages are placed at his disposal. He is so popular in India that he has been heard to say, "I would easily earn $1,000 a week there." In London a fortnight's match with Dawson brought $11,500 revenue to Roberts, and his separate contests with Peall and North made him richer by $18,000. During one of his Indian tours the rajah of Jeypore actually appointed him court billiard-player at a salary of $25,000 a year!

This same tour provided an amusing incident at Calcutta. At the conclusion of an ordinary game Roberts gave an exhibition of fancy strokes one of which was throwing the ball down the table and, by putting twist on it with the fingers, making it stop at some desired spot. The company was largely composed of Parsees and when Roberts commanded the ball to stop (which, of course, it did) one of the most influential of them got up and said: "I can understand what he does with the sticks and balls together, but when he speaks to the balls and they obey him, I have done with him. He must be a magician!" Having said this, the gentleman walked out of the hall.

When Dawson won the professional championship of the Billiard Association in 1899, the prize nominally was $500, but the winner was in such demand that he could easily obtain matches at fees fully 50 per cent. above his usual charges. Dawson retained the championship throughout 1900, and in the early part of 1901 lost to Stevenson, only to defeat him later in the year. In 1903 he was still champion, and during the five years he battled for the "rubber" he is estimated to have made no less than $40,000 a year.

NEW EXPERIMENT IN FOX BREEDING

Valuable Animals Captured in Far North and Taken Long Distance to Civilization

Returning from a stay of four months on Lake Athabasca, more than 1,100 miles northwest of Edmonton, where they made extensive scientific explorations, Alfred Hare of Tees, Alta., Professor Burwash of the University of Chicago, and A. W. Haigh, a local prospector, brought to Edmonton a pure black fox and a red fox marked with black. The two animals are valued at $1,000.

Mr. Hare paid $350 to Indians in the Fond du Lac and Great Bear Lake regions for the foxes, which he wanted for his farm at Tees for breeding purposes. The plain is to breed the black variety for their fur, which has a high commercial value throughout the world. Trappers say that interbreeding of the red and black foxes will gradually produce the pure black variety. The result of this experiment will be watched with interest because of its possibilities.

The two foxes had most unique experiences. They were transported from the far northern wilds to civilization by every mode of travel except aeroplaning. The black fox was carried 900 miles, while the other animal in its trip from Great Bear lake traveled fully 1,100 miles. The animals were transported in canoes and packed to Athbasca, 96 miles north of Edmonton, from that point were taken to Edmonton by rail.

Professor Burwash, who has made a long study of wild animal life, declared that while the experiment to be conducted by Mr. Hare was novel there was no reason why it should be otherwise than a success from the fact that interbreeding is recognised in other animals. The black fox is not a freak any more than is the red fox, he said, and if the animals are congenial, as they appear to be, they should reproduce their kind. It is probable that the pure black, being the stronger animal, will predominate by careful propagating.

HOME DRESSMAKERS

A Few Minutes' Thought May Save Hours of Work

When you buy gingham or other thin material for a house dress, buy an extra half yard with which to make simple and dainty dust caps to match the dresses. Finish them with an inexpensive lace edge.

To lengthen a child's dress, open the shoulder seam and insert a strip of material like that used for the waist. This gives the needed space in the armhole and around the neck. Yet the waist is lengthened and the gathers on the skirt are in the proper place.

Removable buttons are excellent in wash dresses. Buy wooden button molds with a center hole. Insert a brass paper fastener in the hole. Cover the button with cloth. A small hole may then be made in the garment where the button is to be placed. Push the prongs of the fastener into the hole and flatten out. This holds the button securely. To wash the dress the buttons are easily removed and washed separately.

The hardest wear on a waist comes under the arms. Protect this part of the waist with a strip of oiled silk. There will be less likelihood of the unsightly holes. The most fashionable dressmakers include this among their "tricks of the trade."

Sometimes a few minutes' thought will save hours of work.

Did you ever try to turn a skirt without ripping the seams You'll says it's impossible. Instead, read this explanation of the little labor-saving plan and then try it.

This last step brings each seam down to a little narrow strip of two raw edges. Now comes the labor-saving thought—stitch a piece of the braid down over each of these seams from waist line to hem.

QUAINT DUTCH CUSTOM

Started by Discovery of a Gunpowder Plot There 300 Years Ago by Boys

Of the many quaint and curious customs, traditions and privileges prevailing in Holland, none is more extraordinary than a certain privilege that has been enjoyed by the boys of Amsterdam for nearly 300 years.

At a fixed time each year these boys gather by the hundred in the great square called the Dam, situated in the centre of the city. Each boy has a drum slung over his shoulder. Facing this square is the stock exchange, and on the occasion in question, just as soon as the day's business is over, as many of the boys as can crowd into the building. They proceed to the door of the exchange, where pursuant to this odd custom they are permitted to march about singing and beating upon their drums.

The origin of this custom, it is said, is as follows:

One afternoon in the year 1622 a crowd of boys playing in the Dam lost a ball in the canal that in those days skirted one side of the square. One of the lads, while climbing in among the piles on which the building stood, found, instead of his ball, a boat moored in a dark corner and loaded with boxes of gunpowder. This showed clearly enough what was afterward ascertained with certainty, the intention of Spanish conspirators to blow up the stock exchange while it was crowded, as it was every day, with the leading citizens of the city.

The boy who stumbled upon the gunpowder at once hurried to the town authorities with the news. The boatload of explosives was quietly sunk in the canal and the Spanish plot thus frustrated.

When the burgesses asked the boy what reward he desired for the service he had rendered the town he replied that so long as there was a stock exchange in Amsterdam the boys of the town would like to be permitted to make the floor of the exchange their playground during a certain part of the year. The request was granted, and so the custom survives.

SAFE PLACE FOR BABY

One of the Best Devices is a Roomy Low Box

Where's the safest place to keep the baby when it has reached the creeping age?

The question is a puzzle to many mothers who are obliged to care for baby and do their housework at the same time. If it is creeping, at will, about the floor, the mother never knows when it may pick up some undesirable article, a pin, a tack, a piece of dust-covered bread, or in fact any visible thing which can be stuck in the mouth. If it is left on the bed, there is no telling when it may creep to the edge and fall to the floor.

So it is necessary to find some means of fastening baby in without hampering it too much. One of the best devices for baby-keeping is the ordinary box which may be moved about from one room to another and always be kept within sight of the busy mother. Its cost is nominal, and any woman can adjust it herself if there isn't a handy man within calling distance when she wishes to have it made.

Get a roomy box with sides just high enough so that baby can look out upon his great big world—the home.

Fit into the bottom of it a washable pad. Arrange a broom handle on the two opposite sides of the box, like a rail, fixing it in a little way from the edge of the box. This is a handy help for baby to pull himself up with. It prevents him from bumping against the sharp edges of the box. The other two opposite sides may be covered with a padding of cotton.

BE HAPPY AT WORK

That is the Only Way to Make Real Progress

The man or woman who does his or her work happily, with a song in the heart and a smile on the lips, is the best type of workman.

Did you ever hear of the readers hired to entertain cigarmakers while they work?

Of course, it isn't possible to hire entertainers for employes in the ordinary course But it is possible for an employer to create an atmosphere in his factory or shop or store or office which will engender happiness and good cheer in the hearts of his employes.

It's a safe rule that as long as a man joins song with his work his work will be up to the standard.

A dissatisfied laborer seldom turns out the amount or kind of work he should do.

Soldiers march to music. Wild beasts seem to be touched by music and the insane are more easily managed under its spell, it is said.

Modern conditions in the workshop, where the hum of machinery dulls the senses and forbids the thought of song, are sufficient cause for effort to lighten the "atmosphere" for the benefit of the workman and his employer, too.

A brief respite of ten minutes or so in a morning and the same in an afternoon, with the spirit of recreation and freedom in the air of the workshop, will do wonders to tone up the laborer and add to his working capacity.

The world can't afford to get too far from Nature without feeling the effect.

FOR CAKE MAKERS

Have Everything Ready Before You Commence

Have everything ready before you begin to mix the cake. Generally the yolks and whites of the eggs are beaten separately, the baking powder or soda is sifted with the flour; the butter is rubbed until smooth. Then the sugar is added and stirred until creamy.

If the baking is to be done on a coal range be sure to have the fire right to last through the baking. If a gas range is used, keep an eye on the temperature so that it does not get hot enough to burn the cake.

When the butter and sugar are creamed, add the beaten yolks. Then put in the milk and flour alternately until all are in. Beat the batter next until the grain is fine and light, and fold in the whites of the eggs. If fruit is used add it the last thing.

CHOCOLATE CAKE.— The ingredients for this cake are 1 cup of sugar, a quarter of a cup of butter, about as much milk, a heaping cup of flour, and half a cup of grated chocolate, dissolved in a quarter of cupful boiling water. One teaspoonful of vanilla, 1 heaping teaspoonful of baking powder and 2 eggs are the other necessaries.

MAPLE SYRUP CAKE.—To make the layers, use 2 eggs, a cup of sugar, 1½ cups flour, ½ cupful of sweet milk, 3 tablespoonfuls of melted butter, and a heaping teaspoonful of baking powder. The filling should be made of 1 cup maple syrup and the white of an egg. Boil the syrup until it threads. Beat the egg till it foams, then stir in the hot syrup by degrees. Stir in a cupful of nut meats which have been chopped very fine. Put the mixture between the layers and spread it over the top of the cake.

SPICED TEA CAKE.—A cup of sour milk; a cup of brown sugar, half a cup of butter, and half a cup of chopped raisins, with 2 cups of flour and 1 egg are the chief ingredients. Add a teaspoonful each of cinnamon, soda and molasses, and half a teaspoonful each of cloves and nutmeg. Bake in a loaf an hour.

Young Lima beans are best boiled in a little water and seasoned with salt, pepper and butter or a little cream. But when they get older try some cooked like baked winter beans. Boil them till tender with a piece of pork, adding a little salt and sugar. Then put them in a baking dish or bean pot, with the pork in the middle, and bake them until brown.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

TENDERS FOR DREDGING

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Dredging, Collingwood, Ont.," will be received until 4.00 p.m., on Monday, July 7, 1913, for dredging required at Collingwood, Ont.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on the forms supplied, and signed with the actual signatures of tenderers.

Combined specification and form of tender can be obtained on application to the Secretary, Department of Public Works, Ottawa. Tenders must include the towing of the plant to and from the work. Dredges and tugs not owned and registered in Canada shall not be employed in the performance of the work contracted for. Contractors must be ready to begin work within thirty days after the date they have been notified of the acceptance of their tender.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, for five per cent. (5 per cent.) of the contract price (no cheque to be less than $1500.00) which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted, the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
R. C. DESROCHERS,
Secretary.

Department of Public Works,

WHAT OUR LOCAL MEMBERS SAY

MR. J. A. SEXSMITH, M.P.

Mr. J. A. Sexsmith, M.P., East Peterborough was in the city yesterday morning en route to Lakefield. In conversation with The Times, Mr. Sexsmith expressed a strong inclination to have the proposed increase in sessional indemnity carry. He claims that the cost of living in Ottawa has increased so much, that the average member of Parliament, part from concomitant loss of business, whether he be a professional man or a business man, can hardly cover his expenses. Mr. Sexsmith said that members from the Far West, particularly when they bring their families to Ottawa, for the Session, cannot possibly "break even" on the present indemnity. "If," he said, "the indemnity is not increased, nothing but millionaires or grafters can afford to go to Parliament. I saw enough of millionaires in Parliament on the Banking Committee." When asked by the Times "How did members get along on a $1,000 a year indemnity?" he replied, "In those days one could get accommodation in the Russell House for $1 a day. Now it costs many times that sum." Again, Mr. Sexsmith noted that members, on the present indemnity, must take rooms on some side street. Thus, when any of his constituents come to Ottawa, and stop at the Russell or some similar high priced hotel, they think it looks cheap to see their representative in inferior lodging. Mr. Sexsmith think that an increased and equitable indemnity would stamp out a too prevalent temptation for graft.

If the warlike races inherit the earth, as some military experts insist, we might as well prepare to surrender Canada to the Bulgarians and the Serpians.

Six Million — Dollars

Six Million Dollars has already been spent on the Grand Trunk Pacific Railroad shops across the street from CENTRAL PARK, Transcona. Will you invest your savings where the railroads have invested millions? No one questions the desirability of owning Transcona Real Estate — to buy and hold is to amass wealth — if you buy where the industrial development insures the future of your property. CENTRAL PARK is in the centre of Transcona's greatest development and is nearer the centre of the incorporated town than any other Transcona property on the market. CENTRAL PARK is first in line for water and sewer as soon as permission is obtained to use the Grand Trunk Pacific trunk sewer which passes through this property. All other improvements are right at hand.

CENTRAL PARK faces the Grand Trunk Pacific shops and station, and is bounded on the north by the main road to Winnipeg; the main road to St. Boniface on the south; and King Street, which runs the full length of the property on the east, is the only access to the station, and the only street from the north to the south of the shops. All traffic to and from Transcona must pass CENTRAL PARK. The location of CENTRAL PARK is ideal for manufacturers or warehouses, as the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific runs through the south end of CENTRAL PARK, affording good trackage. CENTRAL PARK is without doubt the cream of Transcona's industrial property, the most conservative real estate dealers agree on this. This property is also strongly endorsed by the owners of the original townsite of Transcona.

CENTRAL — PARK

One of our Salesmen made $232.50 in commissions last week. We want some salesmen to do this in the east, write to us for particulars and literature, CENTRAL PARK has the location, and we know that if it is properly shown to investors that anyone can sell and make this much money till the property is all gone. Write today — right now — for more information. This property has only been on the market two weeks, and already several buildings have been started here. All is activity in this vicinity; poles are ready to carry electric power through CENTRAL PARK; this power is used exclusively in the Grand Trunk shops and is the cheapest power on the American continent. It will be supplied in Transcona at the same price as it is now supplied in Winnipeg.

Three great Transcontinental Railroads are behind Transcona's future. $20,000,000 already expended and under contract in industrial development in Transcona. Two of the largest grain elevators in the world will be erected in Transcona. These industries are all guarantees of the future of Transcona, where there are a thousand men employed now, five thousand will be employed in a year's time. This means that real estate will be worth five times as much as it is now, it is the increase in population that makes real estate values rise, and Transcona's industries when completed, will double the present population ten times over. Now is the time to buy, CENTRAL PARK prices are lower than is being received for property outside the town limits. Prices range from $200 per lot. Easy terms.

LITTLE GIRLS WORSHIP DOLLS

When They Come into Possession of One All Poverty Is Forgotten Declares a London Woman.

London—"Dolls nourish a sense of joy and romance and therefore conduce to the making of a great womanhood," declared Dion Clayton Calthorp, artist and writer. She was discussing the opening of a hall opposite Westminster Abbey, where there was a show of one hundred thousand dolls for distribution among the poor children of London.

"Come with me in imagination," continued Mrs. Calthorp, "and see what happens in the case of one of these dolls, which we shall call Amelia. Picture a little girl in the slum district, a 'Madonna of the doorstep.' Her eyes do not see the dingy houses opposite, the gray sky or the smoking chimneys. Neither do they see the dirty pinched faces and ragged clothes of the other children in the street. She is looking at the magic vision of her dream. In her thin arms she holds Amelia and every now and then steals a look at the doll, just to be sure that she is still there.

"Her face takes on a faint glow. Amelia has golden locks, a spangled dress with ballet shoes, a wide ballet skirt, rosy cheeks and a steady, placid smile. The radiance of Amelia fills the little mother's heart. Cold winds sweep up the street. The child draws a bit of dirty shawl over Amelia. If a king's crown and scepter lay on the ground at the feet of the 'Madonna of the doorstep' she would not pick it up. Before the doll came the child possessed nothing; now she possesses everything."

Unique Thefts of Silver

Two high graders arrested at Cobalt charged with stealing bullion had a remarkable method for obtaining the precious metal. One of the men worked in the refinery in charge of a furnace where bullion was melted. He would dip a cold steel bar into the molten metal and a certain amount of silver would congeal around the bar. This would then be drawn out, several pounds at a time being obtained this way, and the process would be repeated.

WAR ON BULGARIA TO BE DECLARED BY SERVIA TODAY

Greeks Charge Flagrant Violation of Sworn Compact by Bulgaria

London, July 3.—War is to be declared by Servia against Bulgaria at Uskup, far which place King Peter and Premier Pachitch departed from Belgrade this morning, according to the Exchange Telegraph Company. The proclamation will state that Serviahas been uropoked by Bulgaria to declare war.

Bucharest, Roumania, July 3—King Charles of Roumania ordered the general mobilization of the Roumanian army to-day.

Sofia, July 3.—The Bulgarian Cabinet, in extraordinary session this afternoon forwarded a formal request to Russian Government asking that the Czar influence Servia to cease its attack on Bulgaria. If Russia refuses, or if Servia fails to heed the warning, it is reliably stated that Bulgaria will declare war to-day.

Turkey will get back into the Balkan war game if the fighting among the allies becomes general. The Sublime porte this afternoon formally notified the great powers that Turkey, despite the preliminary peace agreement of London, reserves the right to act in her own interests in the event of war in Macedonia.

Russia Blamed for Trouble.

A cable from Vienna says: There is a general disposition here to blame Russian "assumption and bumptiousness" for the present unfortunate tangle between the allies in the Balkans.

The Czar's letter to Servia and Bulgaria created a considerable amount of discussion and speculation in Vienna, where the Russian Emperor's assumption to the position of umpire between the two Balkan States is still regarded with considerable misgiving.

A cable from Athens says: The Bulgarian Government feigos ignorance of fighting between the Greek troops and a Bulgarian attachment at Saloniki.

The Bulgarian Minister at Athens yesterday requested Mr. Venizelos, the Premier to order the Greek army not to advance and suggested that an enquiry be opened on both sides to determine the responsibility for the recent fighting.

TRUNKS MAY BE SENT AS FREIGHT IF CORDED

Dominion Railway Board So Decreed at To-day's Session.

Ottawa, Ont., July 3.—Henceforth trunks may be sent by freight on Canadian railways is corded securely This means that the public won't have to pay express charges which were referred to by Chairman Drayton at the Railway Commission this morning as "enormous."

An order was issued by the board after a hearing of the case that trunks be accepted as freight if securely corded. This was done in spite of the strenuous objections of the railways as voiced by Mr. Geo. Ransome of the Canadian Freight Association.

"It woulh lead to objectionable traffic," said Mr. Ransome. "Cheap Johns which would be offered to us for transportation as freight."

SAY THAT ASQUITH'S RULING SHOULD MAKE HANNA GET

Mr. Rowell Quotes the British Premier at Alexandria Liberal Picnic

Alexandria, July 3.—"A clean Government and an educated democracy, with our rural life more attractive, stimulating, and remunerative, and our industrial population well fed, well housed and well paid."

These were the ideals for Ontario set forth by N. W. Rowell, K.C., M.P.P., leader of the Opposition, at the Liberal picnic held here Thursday afternoon. It was Mr. Rowell's first visit to the County of Glengarry and his reception was cordial and spontaneous.

"We have just celebrated," said Mr. Rowell, "the 46th anniversary of the establishment of our Canadian Confederation. This is the time when we should consider what are the ideals to which we as a people in this Province are seeking to attain and how the Government of the Province can assist us in attaining these ideals."

Mr. Rowell remembered that he was speaking in Glengarry, a strong Scotch settlement and took occasion to felicitate them on their love of learning, which has been one of the consuming passions of the Scotch people. "Woulh it not be a great thing," he asked with fervor, "for this new country, where material interests demand so much of our thought and attention, if we coulh develop here, among all classes of the community, a similar love of learning and equal passion for education, so that it could be truly said that an educated democracy was one of our great ideals and that we were prepared to subordinate all the less important interests to the attainment of this ideal. The education of the children of a democracy like ours is vital to the well being of our national life, and one cannot but view with apprehension the decline in our rural schools, and the large number of children in our Province, who according to the statistics of the Department of Education, are not obtaining even a common school education.

CAUGHT 50-YEAR-OLD PIKE, TORONTO MAN MADE A HAUL

It Weighed 15 Pounds, Was 40 Inches Long, and Charles Kenney Did Not Even Have a Gaff

Toronto, July 3.—In England pike have been known to live for over 100 years. The Canadian pike a somewhat different fish, attains a great age. But anyway, here's the history:

Charlie B. Kenney, 595 Brunswick avenue, was on a fishing trip down the St. Lawrence six miles below Gananoque. Kenney was trolling from a rowboat when he made a strike, and no matter how hard he rowed and tugged on the line to pull his strike to the surface, the boat starteh to go down the river at a stiff clip. His reel went whizzing around till 100 feet of line was out, when he thought it was about time to stop the nonsense and defend his reputation as a fisherman.

At last, after 35 minutes of playing he felt the line relaxing and he started to pull it in. To his surprise when he pulled his prize to the surface, a pike 40 inches long, weighing 15 pounds, was floundering on the end of the line. He did not use a hook to get the big fellow in the boat, but a net. Old timers on the river say it is one of the finest specimens ever caught. But how they estimate its age is another matter.

Mr. Kenney caught his prize with a four-ounce rod.

THE WEATHER.

To-day—Southerly to south-westerly winds: mostly fair and warmer; local thunderstorms towards evening.

OLD LOCAL POLICE COURT CASE RECALLED

The way of the blacklister is like that of the Chinaman with his "ways that are dark and tricks that are vain," when it comes to telling where he got his booze. In yesterday's issue was the story told by a blacklister in the police court, of how he had obtained whiskey from a circus man on June 28rd and kept it until June 30th when he was found drunk.

This reminds us of a police court held some 16 years ago at Keene. It seems that some five Indians got drunk in that village. They started to cross Rice Lake and one was drowned by the upsetting of a canoe. County Magistrate and the County Attorney held court in Keene to discover where the Indians got their liquor, when, as the first Indian was examined he was asked: "Where did you get your whiskey?" To this, in guttural tones, the red man replied: "I got it from the man what's drowned!" The second Indian gave effectly the same answer. When a Hiawatha Indian named Cow, was asked the question, he was warneh by the County Attorney: "Now, Cow you have heard the two men say they got their whiskey from the man who was drowned. Don't you dare to tell that lying tale. Now, where did you get your liquor?" "From the man what's dead!" he replied.

PREMIER IS TO OPEN TORONTO EXHIBITION

Mr. Borden Notifies Local Authorities That He Will Be Pleased to Act.

Premier Borden will open the Canadian National Exhibition this year. His acceptance of the invitation to perform the ceremonies came in the following telegram received at the exhibition offices this morning:

"It will give me great pleasure to open the Canadian National Exhibition on August 25th. Please convey to the Directors at the Exhibition our thanks for their invitations.

TRACTION DITCHER DEMONSTRATION HERE

The Times is in receipt of the following letter from the Ontario Department of Agriculture, which speaks for itself:

Editor Times.

Sir,—A traction ditcher demonstration is to be held on Friday, July the 11th, at 1 o'clock, p.m., at the farm of Jno. Matchett, Stewart's Hall, N. E. Q. con. 16, Otonabee. This machine is owned by the Ontario Agricultural College, and is operated throughout the province to show the benefits of drainage and to prove that motor power can replace hand labor. It weighs approximately ten tons, digs on the average one hundred rods a day and finishes the drain with an even and uniform grade. It completes the drain in one operation, excavates to a depth of about five feet, and can handle fairly large stones.

Mr. Matchett's field will be drained completely and systematically; it is flat and the drains will be placed at regular distances apart. A similar field is being left undrained in orher to show the advantages of this tile underdrainage, and the crops from these respectipe fields, in subsequent years, will undoubtedly exhibit a marked difference in yield. When the demonstration is finished the machine will be moved to another part of the province.

In addition to the practical working of the traction hitcher, a few addresses are to be given at the meeting. Several prominent men have consented to speak and their addresses will be of much interest and value to those present. Prof. Wm. H. Day, and J. R. Spry, B.S.A., of the Physics Department of the Ontario Agricultural College; Mr. E. A. Peck, Provincial Member; Mr. F. E. Ellis, editor of "The Farm & Dairy" and others, will deliver addresses.

Every person is welcome to this demonstration and a large attendance is expected; we hope you will find it convenient to be present.

RAILWAYS LIABLE FOR FIRE WITHIN 300 FEET

"Beautiful Ammunition for a Jury Trial," Objects Counsel for the C.N.R.

Ottawa, July 3.—A number of new amendments to the original order of the Railway Commission in regard to railway fire protection were approved of at a meeting of the board this morning.

The most important amendment, and practically the one objected to by the railways, was the limiting the extent of territory on either side of the railway track within which railways would be responsible for fire to 300 feet. To this Mr. Flintoff, for the C.N.R. objected that it would make "beautiful ammunition for a jury trial."

The chairman pointed out, however that up to the present the railway might be held responsible for an indefinite stretch of territory which was now limited.

AT LAST THEY CART AWAY CLAY OF CIRCUS RHINO

Toronto, July 3.—The University of Toronto, represented by a long-suffering but ardent biological curator, is still wrestling with the most remarkable legacy ever bequeathed it, or, for that matter ever bequeathed to any institution of learning. When Messrs. Barnum and Bailey found themselves, as it were, alone in Brantford, Ont., with a dead rhinoceros, they apparently realized the advantage of disposing of the remains and the responsibility therefor as soon as possible. The idea of making the beast a qequest was an inspiration. The university leaped at the offer. But it repents it now, at leisure, with head hung low, and nose averted.

From the standpoint of Messrs. Barnum and Bailey, the episode is closed. Certain gloomy entries on their books are all that remain to remind them of one that is with them no longer. The lions roar and the side show barkers bark. The blonde esquestrienne gossips about the brunette trapeze artist. The French clown works in conclusion with the cook-ee to get a larger plate of beef than the others. The baby elephant, the hyena and the boa—all go on before, in the wake of creaking gilt wagons, but the rhino is not with them. He did not even die in New York, where his friends are and where the centre of the circus world is found. He cashed in in Brantford, Ont. and was buried in the Potter's Field. This is no joke. The Potter's Field embraced him, all that was mortal of him.

In the Name of Science.

From the viewpoint of science the episode is not closed. Science wants the hippo's bones. Science—represented locally by the University of Toronto—wants to see how that mountain of grey flesh was kept upright and moved and fed. So science prompted the University to disinter, to exhume the remains from Potter's Field at Brantford, and in order that the bones might be obtained and set up on a pedestal for the qewilderment of the unlearned and the observation of savants. Science is to blame for that much.

NO FIRE PROTECTION FOR BORDER RESIDENTS

North Monaghan Citizens on Boundary Road Must Not Expect Use of City's Hydrants and Fire Brigade

The City's Fire, Water and Light Committee met last night, Chairman Ald. Gillespie presiding. There were also present, Mayor Bradburn, Aldermen Anderson, Duffus and Buller.

The Grand Trunk Railway Company will be billed for $35 worth of hose destroyed by a car running over the hose at the east end of London street, while the firemen were fighting a sawdust fire.

No actioo was taken on a suggestion that North Managhan residents on the boundary road would, now that hydrants are being installed in their vicinity, expect fire protection.

His Worship offered that the city cannot extend its privileges to outsiders not paying into the city treasury.

Fire Chief Howard asked that in view of pending street paving, provision be made for laying the fire alarm wires underground. This question was referred to the Mayor and chairman to report on the most practicable scheme for the foregoing purpose.

A letter was received from W. W. Pope, sen., endorsing copies of the Hydro-Electric Commission's rates regarding inside electric wiring.

The Mayor and Chairman were invested with power to act in regard to a request from E. A. Peck that a light on an iron pole be placed at the entrance to the Little Lake cemetery. The Mayor and chairman were authorized to act on the request of Fire Chief Howard for leave of absence, and necessary expense appropriation, to attend the annual convention of the International Association of Fire Chiefs at New York on September first to sixth.

Correspondence from outside cities reported in favor of a motor-driven chemical fire rig as an economic and rapid means for fire-fighting, when long runs are in demand.

A by-law for either a motor-driven rig or a South City fire substation will be submitted to the ratepayers next January.

ESSEX FUSILIERS CAN'T ENTER STATES

This Is the Real Reason the Trip to Toledo was Abandoned.

Windsor, Ont., July 3.—The proposed trip of the Twenty-First Regiment to Toledo, on July 4, has been officially declared off by Lieut.-Col. E. S. Wigle. No permission was received from either the United States or Canada to enter the country under arms. When asked about the refusal of the Ohio National Guards to march with the Twenty-First Regiment, fearing they would be jeered, Col. Wigle stated, "I know nothing of the matter except what I have read in the papers. The Governor sent a letter stating that be would be pleased to welcome the Windsor corps on its arrival. This is the first statement I have given out with regard to the trip. If there are others I know nothing of them."

ONE SISTER DROWNED SELF OTHER TOOK CARBOLIC ACID

Thorold Girls Commit Suicide Following a Trivial Quarrel --One Funeral Held Yesterday

Thorold, July 3.—All hope that Jessie Phillips had merely run away and failed to carry out her threat to drown herself when her eldest sister Louise killed herself with carbolic acid on Monday, following a trivial quarrel, was shattered, when at 5.30 this morning her body was found in the St. Lawrence Paper Company's weir. The current had carried it to the rack, and there the nightwatchman discovered it in making his rounds.

The funeral of Louise was held yesterday, the Phillips family declining to wait for a double funeral as they hoped up to the last that the younger sister had not killed herself.

CATHOLIC REGISTER'S ATTACK ON MAYOR HOCKEN CHALLENGED

Protestant Benevolent Federation Asks That the Paper be Prosecuted

At the regular meeting of the Protestant Benevolent Federation held June 26, the following resolution was passed unanimously:

"Resolved, that the Protestant Benevolent Federation of West Peterborough, in meeting assembled, wishes to place on record its confidence in Mr. H. C. Hocken, and its desire that he prosecute the Catholic Register for its libellous attack upon him in its columns."

Recently the Catholic Register printed a paragraph that contained what many persons considered an insinuation against Mayor Hocken of Toronto. The paragraph said:

> "Mayor Hocken has got beyond the stage of the Sacred Door Mat. He is now negotiating with the money barons and can buy himself a magnificent mansion. Politics pays—some people."

The answer to the daily press was prompt. The Toronto Star, editorially under the caption, "Unfair Attack on the Mayor," said:

"This strikes us as an uncharitable and malicious paragraph to appear in a religious weekly. Mayor Hocken has not bought himself a 'magnificent mansion.' He has merely bought himself a modest and comfortable home, similar to thousands of others in the city.

"There is a malicious suggestion in the Register's item that Mayor Hocken profits improperly from his position, and it is a question whether the suggestion is not libellous and actionable if the Mayor should choose to prosecute.

"No one who knows Mayor Hocken will be influenced in the least by the evil insinuation put forward by the Register. His integrity is not to be questioned. Some may not approve of his policies, nor agree with all his enthusiasms, but that he is earnest and honest, using his abilities for the good of the city, nobody who knows him doubts for a moment."

The Globe's comment was as follows:

"Archbishop McNeil will probably find it necessary to discipline the slanderer who, in the Cathalic Register, makes this assault on the Mayor of Toronto: 'Mayor Hocken has got beyond the stage of the Sacred Door Mat. He is now negotiating with the money barons, and can buy himself a magnificent mansion. Politics pays—some people.' The Globe does not bask in the sunshine of The Orange Sentinel's smile, but to insinuate corruption against the Mayor of Toronto simply because he happens to be also editor and proprietor of The Sentinel is a most disgraceful proceeding. Mayor Hocken may be a bigot in matters affecting the Catholic Church in the estimation of the Register, but he is an honest and honorable citizen.'

On reading the editorials in the Globe, and Star, Mayor Hocken sent a letter to the editor of the Register, expressing the opinion that in view of the interpretation placed on the Register's remarks, some explanation should be made by his paper. The editor of the Register replied promptly in a most gentlemanly manner, intimating that he had no intention of conveying the inference drawn from his utterances by the daily press, and promising to explain matters in a future issue of the Register.

DOCTRINE OF SINGLE TAX HAS NOT BEEN PROVED IN FAIRHOPE

The Single-Tax Community in Alabama Has Been Greatly Benefited, But the Benefit Cannot Be Ascribed to Single Tax--How It Works--Wife of Town Clerk is a Toronto Woman

Toronto, July 3.—Mrs. A. J. Wolf, wife of the town clerk of Fairhope, Alabama, the single tax colony, is staying with Dr. Margaret Gordon on Spadina avenue.

"We have 16 new houses in Fairhope in the last few months," said Mrs. Wolf, when asked as to the success of single tax in Fairhope. "We have 700 permanent residents, but as it is the largest town on the east of Mobile Bay, 12 miles from Mobile City, we attract a large floating population, both summer and winter --northern people in the winter and southern people in the summer, who come for the sea bathing.

"We have not a large enough population, however, to make much difference, or benefit in the application of the single tax. The state taxes have to be paid. We hape the county taxes to pay, and the cost of living is as high there as it is in most any other northern cities. Therefore, Fairhope doesn't prove single taff. There is not enough unearned increment to make a showing one way or the other in a place that size. Mr. Joseph Fels the patron saint of Fairhope and single tax, has spent $50,000 in the town in various enterprises and public institutions. The community has been greatly benefited but this qenefit cannot be ascribed toa ingle tax. Fairhope is a very nice place to live, however, and I'll go back home gladly."

A Native of Toronto.

Mrs. Wolf is an old Torontonian, and was known here as a singer in Mr. Torringtan's Philharmonic Society and in the choir of the Metropolitan church over 30 years ago, her name at that time being Miss Corlett. A daughter of Mrs. Frank Longstaff, lives in this city.

FOREST FIRES UNDER CONTROL AT COCHRANE

Cochrane, Ont., July 3.—Forest fires are under control near Cochrane No apprehension of danger remains. One settler's house has been burned, but no other losses are reported, says the Cochrane Board of Trade.

ALL SAFE AT LISKEARD.

New Liskeard, July 3.—A welcome change in weather has removed the fire danger.

Toronto Girl Injured at Niagara.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., July 3.—In the rush of people to board the last boat for Toronto at the Lewiston dock at 11.30 o'clock last evening one young woman whose name was not learned, was reported to have three ribs broken. She went aboard the boat and was in much pain on the way to Toronto.

CHAS. GIBSON'S FATE IS STILL UNCERTAIN

Ottawa, July 3.—It is not expected here that the Gibson case will be settled this week, despite the fact that the day for execution is July 9. The Minister of Justice is absent from the Capital on a holiday, but is considering the evidence while away.

FIREMEN BURNED WHEN WATER PLAYS CINDERS

Toronto, July 3.—Two firemen, S. Dean and A. Beasley, were badly burned about the hands and face at a fire which occurreh in the rear of 149 Yonge street yesterday. The fire itself amounted to very little, originating in a pile of cinders. When the hose was turned on it, however, the cinders scattered, burning the two men. They had their wounds attended at St. Michael's Hospital, and were able to leave shortly after.

TWO MEN KILLED WHEN BIPLANE FELL

Epernay, France, July 3.—Faptain Rey of the French army was killed and his companion, a private of the engineers corps, probably fatally injured when the military biplane in which they were flying above the village of Bethon, capsized to-day and crashed to the ground.

MALE SUFFRAGETTE PAYS UP THE COSTS

London, July 3.—Frederick Pethick Lawrence, the wealthy "male suffragette," to-day paid the costs of his prosecution on a charge of conspiracy, and the bankruptcy proceedings instituted against him were dismissed. The amount due was $3,040 and Lawrence had steadfastly refused to settle up.

FINE TAR CORDIAL

Advertisements under above heads, 20 words and under, one insertion, 15c.; 3 insertions, 25c.; 6 insertions, 40c.

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 75c. and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 75c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 75c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., 386 George St., directly opposite Crossman's store.

USE A VACUUM CLEANER TO CATCH THE FLIES

Swatting flies, mosquitoes and other summer insects with a vacuum cleaner seems almost as plausable a way of getting rid of the pests as wheeling a battery of field artillery into action and killing them off with the blast from the guns or knocking them down with shrapnel, and yet the most approved scientific way of ridding the family residence of such annoyances is with a vacuum cleaner, nevertheless.

The method is most used on bugs that are constantly flying around the electric light bulbs at night, although it can be used with flies as well. Bugs will fly around a light in large numbers. If the hose of the vacuum cleaner is equipped with an ordinary funnel and this is placed just beneath the light the bugs will disappear as though by magic and a person can sit and read with perfect comfort.

When going after flies use the same equipment, but train it on the places where the flies congregate as one would go after dust. It is cleaner and safer than the ordinary swatter of commerce, and, above all, is absolutely sure to catch the fly.

The cost is very little only the price of electric current to run the vacuum machine, and this is even cheaper than the operation of a cluster of lights.

MAN'S INTRINSIC VALUE

The Human Body Actually Worth Less Than Ten Dollars

It has been supposed that if there is anything on earth entirely valueless it is the ordinary human being, but popular belief is once more shown to be wrong. A German professor says that the average man contains fat worth $2.50, enough iron to make a nail, phosphorous enough for the heads of 2,200 matches (the wood could be cut from the head), enough magnesium for some respectable fireworks, albumen equal to eggs, sugar and salt.

Altogether the average man or woman is worth about $7.50 at current prices, and with the advancing rates there is no knowing what he might go to. Obviously this undeveloped wealth should attract the investor and the speculator, and some way should be found to make available for public use all this phosphorous, fat and magnesium.

FAR NORTHERN PORT

Surveyor Says Glacier Receding and Will Form Canadian Harbor

One of the members of the Canadian Government Alaska boundary line survey party, on his return from the north, said that within five years Canada will have a new seaport north of Skagway. The next inlet to the westward of Lynn Canal is Glacier Bay.

The international boundary line under the Alverstone award is a few miles from the head of Glacier Bay, which is now filled with a vast ice field that extends back into Canadian territory. But the surveyor says that observations for the last two years have shown that the glacier is receding at the rate of more than a mile a year.

Soon there will not be a glacier, but instead a well-protected harbor extending back into Canadian territory, the only harbor in Canadian territory within hundreds of miles.

EARLY INHABITANTS

Fossils 25,000,000 Years Old Found in Canadian Rockies

Perfectly formed fossils of the trilobite species, the highest animals of the Cambrian formation, declared by palaeontologists to be more than 25,000,000 years old were unearthed in British Columbia by Dr. C. D. Walcott, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, who found them at the base of Mount Robson, in the heart of the Rockies, while on a scientific expedition.

SETTLERS FOR THE WEST

Millionaire British Lord Bought a Big Tract of Land

The latest member of the British nobility to acquire large land holdings in western Canada, is Lord Joicy, a millionaire and the owner of many collieries, who has purchased 24,000 acres of farm land near Fort George, B.C., on the Grand Trunk Pacific. He intends to embark upon a colonization scheme; sending people from his English estates to settle in British Columbia. Lord Joicy is a self-made man. He began life on the Newcastle wharf-side as an office boy but had accumulated a fortune before reaching the age of 30. He took over the management of the Lambton coal mine in Durham from Lord Durham and made another huge fortune out of the result of the transaction. He is moreover the owner of several fine estates in Northumberland and is noted for many charitable acts.

SOME RARE DON'TS

Will Crooks whose honesty and strenuousness have won him respect from the highest and lowest classes in the country, gave some sound advice in tabloid form to an audience at Whitfield's Tabernacle. Here are some of his best sayings:

"Don't argue when you are tired; you can't do it.

"Don't take the workshop home with you.

"Don't talk trouble before the children.

"Don't think you can't be 'done'; you can.

"Don't think you are worse than other people, and don't think you're better; you are not.

"Don't think you have a constant job; the man in the cemetery has that.

"Don't talk of being master in your own house. You may be while you are there, but you have to go out.

"Don't get angry; no one cares if you do."

WILL ROOSEVELT'S PARTY LIVE?

Lhe electors of New York recently received by mail an enrolment blank, accompanied by a request to enter themselves as Progressives. To this appeal only 2,500 hape so far responded in a community which, last November, polled 87,000 votes for a Bull Moose candidate. The meagre return does not indicate that the movement has behind it a sufficiently consuming zeal to overturn principalities and powers, or even the older parties.

In Boston only 834 Rooseveltians have enrolled themselves, though 25,533 votes were cast in that city a few months ago for the Progressive presidential candidate. Meantime the number of Democrats recording themselves has grown from 43,063 in 1912 to 50,460 in 1913, and the Republicans from 21,427 to 25,853. Both the old parties evidently are regaining ground rapidly at the expense of the newer organization. Similar reports come from other sections of the country.

ARMED LINERS.

In quarters unfamiliar with British naval policy, astonishment is expressed at the mounting of guns on some of the principal merchant vessels flying the British flag. But the fact is that ever since they were built the largest and fastest ships have been an auxiliary force, liable to be called by the Admiralty into active service for the nation in any emergency. For many years it has been the practice of the government to contribute towards the cost of building the great passenger steamers, on condition of their being built in compliance with requirements that fit them for the carrying of guns, so that the country may have the very swiftest vessels to act as scouting cruisers in time of war. And, further, a regular retaining fee is paid to keep them under contract

Some time ago the government decided that at convenient opportunities the guns should be put in their places on the decks that were constructed for the purpose, and that is why advantage is now being taken of the time the Lusitania is having her engines overhauled to let her have the 4.7 guns for which she is fitted. Not only the Atlantic but the Pacific liners also are being similarly furnished. The Themistocles of the Aberdeen line, now on her way from London to Australia, is equipped with the powerful 4.7's and the La Rosarina, El Uruguayo and La Negro of the British and Argentine line, and Paraguayo and La Correntina of the Houlder Brothers line, are being armed with guns of the same type. Thus the British sea scouts are becoming a ready and efficient force.

SICK, SOUR STOMACH, INDIGESTION OR GAS

Take "Pape's Diapepsin" and in five minutes you'll wonder what became of misery in stomach.

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Pape's Diapepsin and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women to-day know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. Please, for your sake, don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary.

FIDDLES FOR BABIES

Cannot Begin Too Early to Develop Music Tendencies

The success of the Music School Settlement in New York commands a respectful hearing for the opinions of its founder, Mr. David Mannes, who writes:

"Now, I would take a child at 2½ years of age, put a fiddle or a piano in the room, but no teacher, and say: 'Here is a toy. Try to do something with it.'

"A nursery has a drum; why not a violin?

"Pretty soon the child will say: 'I want a teacher.' That will happen nearly every time. And so with sight singing and reading. The house will not lack a musical atmosphere long if you go about it this way."

Compulsory practice for two or three hours a day on an instrument or in voice culture,' as Mr. Mannes remarks, certainly has a tendency to kill quickly any love of music with which the ordinary youngster has been born.

UNCLE TAKES A HAND

There Is General Misunderstanding When He Weds Mother of Nephew's Sweetheart.

By FRANK FILSON.

George Chapin was reading a letter from his married sister as he sat in his bachelor apartment, and he scratched his head in evident perplexity.

"My dear George," his sister wrote, "we are in great trouble about Walter. He has had a terrible quarrel with his father about some dreadful actress whom he says he is engaged to be married to, and Philip—you know how hasty he is—has ordered him out of the house. You know Walter may expect to inherit a comfortable fortune, and it is natural that this woman, Linda Manners, as she calls herself, should want to get her fingers on it. Now, George, you are a man of forty-five, and of ripe experience. She lives in your town. Can't you go to her and find out whether a sufficient inducement would persuade her to leave Walter alone? And don't forget to tell her that if she marries Walter he won't get a penny of his father's fortune."

There was a tap at the door and, as George Chapin put the letter aside, a young man entered. He was a good-looking boy, in his early twenties, and George was uncommonly fond of him.

"Hello, Walter," he said, rising and offering him his hand. "Sit down. So you've been getting into another scrape, eh?"

"Please don't allude to my fiancee, Miss Manners, as a scrape, Uncle George," replied the young man with dignity.

"Well, Walter, we won't quarrel over words. But do you realize that you are up against a serious predicament? How are you going to earn a living if your father disinherits you?"

"Mrs. Chapin!" Exclaimed the Young Man.

"Uncle," said the young man impressively, "if once you saw Linda—Miss Manners, I think you'd agree with me that she's worth sacrificing any amount of money for."

"Well, where is she?" his uncle asked.

"At the Lyric theater," answered his nephew. "Say, uncle, what did mother write you?"

"She wrote me that—Oh, the devil, Walter, I'm no hand at intrigue. Read it," said his uncle, thrusting the letter into the other's hands.

Walter Hampton read it and returned it with a grin. "I can forgive the suggestion," he said, "because I know mother means well. She's just hasty, that's all. But uncle," he continued, catching hold of the other's arm affectionately, "won't you help me? I guess you know what it means to be in love—really and rapturously in love with the sweetest girl in the world. She really doesn't belong to the world at all, uncle; she's an angel strayed down out of the skies. She had a talent for acting and an invalid mother to support, and she's as good as—"

George Chapin smiled a little sadly. He knew the well worn description, and the kind of woman too.

"Now see here, Walter," he said. "First, how much money have you got? Enough to last you two weeks? Good! Now I'll go and see Miss Manners, and if she's all you say I believe I can square things with your father. He's hasty—infernally hasty, but he's sound at heart, as you know. And if I can't agree with your description of the lady—why, I'll carry out your mother's proposition."

"If you can," said Walter, smiling. "But see here, uncle, I'm going to have a talk with her first."

"My dear nephew," said the other, taking the boy by the shoulder and forcing him into a chair, "there is one condition attached to my offer. You're going up to Escombe on that fishing trip you wrote me about, and you're going to be gone three days and you will neither see nor communicate with your inamorata until the time is past. Otherwise I wash my hands of the affair."

"But uncle—"

"The uncle business don't go just now," said George. "We are two hard, shrewd, business-like men of the world. If I can induce Miss Manners to give you the mitten I'm going to do it. If I can't, I'll see you through and win over Paul, or else I'll—I'll support you in idleness for the rest of your days. Come, now don't scowl at your best friend like that. If the lady's what you say, she'll stand by you."

"You promise not to prejudice me in her eyes or to tell her that I want to break off the engagement?" asked Walter.

"All shall be above-board, nephew," answered the other. "You take it from me, I'll do my level best to get to the bottom of the matter. Miss Manners' motives—"

"She is the most unworldly person in the world. She is incapable of doing anything wrong, of accepting such a bribe. She—"

"Then get out," shouted his uncle, and pushed the young fellow bodily out of the room.

Walter Hampton felt that he had not played altogether a dignified part in submitting to this arrangement. But he knew that his uncle's influence over his hasty, kindly father was great; he knew, too, that once she had withstood the test, as she could not but do, Linda would win his uncle as she had won him. To doubt her was impossible. Consequently it was without serious misgivings that he went off on his fishing trip, and though the time dragged wearily, he returned to town eager to hear his fiancee's praises from his uncle's lips.

His first surprise was when the door of the spacious apartment was opened by a maid—a new maid in cap and apron, who looked at him inquiringly, as though he had no business there.

"My uncle—Mr. Chapin. Is he at home?" asked Walter.

The maid hesitated. "Yes, sir," she said at length, "but Mrs. Chapin doesn't receive visitors—"

"Mrs. Chapin!" exclaimed the young man. "Who is she?"

"Haven't you heard of Mr. Chapin's marriage, sir?" simpered the maid. "I believe it was very sudden, sir."

Walter pushed past her, ran along the hall, and broke into the reception room without ceremony. A woman rose from a chair—Linda!

Walter did not see the library door open. He rushed toward her. "Linda!" he cried. "You here? You? What does this mean? You're married to my uncle?"

The elder man had come softly up and placed a hand on his shoulder. George Chapin was smiling; his nephew was purple with fury. He flung himself upon his uncle, striking out wildly with his fists, and they fought all over the room, till finally the other got him down, pressed his face into the sofa pillows, twisted his arms, and sat on him.

"Linda, my dear, come here," he said. "Shall I tell this young idiot the truth or will you?"

The girl, who had retreated in fear to the farthest corner of the room, now came forward. There were tears in her eyes, but a smile played about her mouth. "You tell him," she said.

"Then listen, ass," said George Chapin. "Alice Manners—now Mrs. George Chapin—is an old friend who had passed out of my life for years. We had a lovers' quarrel long ago. That's why I've never married. When I found her again I took her right around to the city hall and got a license to marry her and then rushed her to a minister. That was two days ago. I wasn't taking any more chances. Understand that, lunatic? And from the way your father and I mauled each other when we were boys, to see who should propose to Alice—that is, my wife—I guess he won't have any more objections to your marrying Miss Linda, her daughter."

FUEL, POTATOES, MILK AND BREAD

C. C. James Wants to Know Why These Should Not be Supplied by Municipalities

"If a city supplies water and light to its citizens at a fraction above cost why should it not also supply heat in the form of fuel, milk, bread, and potatoes? If it did this, the needs of the very poor would be met, and so far as they are concerned, the problem of the high cost of living would be at least partially solved." This suggestion was made by Mr. C. C. James at the conclusion of an interesting address on the present cost of living delivered before the members of the Canadian Club, Toronto. "When you touch the pockets of the electorate, you interest the whole of the people of Canada," said Mr. James. "It is for this reason that the subject of the high cost of living is at present of such great importance. It is such a complicated subject, with so many sides that call for separate treatment, that it really demands a series of lectures to elucidate all of its sides. First, however, we have to consider whether the increased gold production may not be responsible for some of the conditions which confront us. California was followed by British Columbia as a gold producing region, then the big boom of Australia followed; next came the Yukon, and after South Africa had poured out its wealth, Porcupine was heard from. Had it not been that recently there has been an increased demand for gold, it is impossible to say what the price of some food products might have been to-day.

"Next we have to realize that while there is plenty of comparatively cheap money for industrial and commercial undertakings, this condition contrasts very vividly with the dearness of agricultural credit. Thirdly, we have the necessity of improving highway construction. We appear to have gone almost crazy on the subject of railway building, but what are we doing to improve highways? Instead of developing new lands with railways, let us attend to this; let us look after the people we have before we do any thing more for the people we want to get. Lack of co-operation in production and marketing has next to be considered. The European countries which have developed the fastest are those which have given most attention to this matter. Combines and mergers, of undoubted value under certain circumstances, are retarding progress by being abused. The same may be said of the increased demand as necessities for these things which a few years ago were considered as luxuries by the bulk of our citizenship. Nor may we overlook the waste of war and the drain on the whole world caused by standing armies and their consequent drain on the resources of all countries. But after all, we come to the question of supply and demand. In the last 10 years the population of Canada has increased 1,884,000, but of this 1,259,000, has been an urban increase. The rural increase of 622,000 has been entirely west of the lakes. Thus the increase in consumers has been in the East, while West of the lakes the newcomers have been concerned only in the raising of wheat and flax. Mixed farming in that region has been the exception rather than the rule, which means that the farmers of the East have not only had to supply the demands of the increased urban population about them, but also the needs of the increased urban population of the West and part of its rural population, which is not feeding itself. The demand, therefore, for food products is much greater than the census figures would at first indicate. British Columbia imports $16,000,000, worth of food products, and New Brunswick, the only other province from which we have report, imports $4,000,000 worth. It will be seen therefore that with everything else left out of consideration, the question of supply and demand alone answers the question of why prices have risen so high during the past ten years."

China's Wonderful Rivers

The rivers of China are her glory, and there are few countries in the world so well watered, and none with such splendid natural transportation facilities. The three great rivers of the empire are the Yang-tse-Kiang ("Child of the Ocean"), the Hoang Ho (Yellow River), and the Chu Kiang (Pearl River or Canton River.) Of these, the Yang-tse-Kiang is the largest, flowing through extensive and fertile plains, and finally emptying into the Eastern Sea, after travelling a distance of over two thousand miles. Its discharge is estimated at 1,000,000 cubic feet per second. The banks of Yang-tse are crowded with towns and villages, the most famous of which are Nankin and the new treaty post of Hankow.

VALUE OF WINDBREAKS

Trees will not only enhance the beauty of surroundings and consequently the values of a farm, but will serve as a protection to crops, orchards, stock, and man if set out so as to form windbreaks. Fuel, posts, and poles will also be furnished in a few years for the farm. Windbreaks can be formed by a grove of trees, a narrow strip of timber or even a single row of trees set close together. The benefits derived depend upon the density and height of trees, which break the air currents and reduce the velocity of the wind. A belt of evergreen trees surrounding farm buildings and feed yards has a wonderful influence in moderating the winter climate by decreasing the velocity of the wind. Government study and measurements show that a narrow belt of evergreen trees consisting of only two rows, planted close together, and 40 feet high will reduce a 25-mile velocity wind at 300 feet to the leeward to five miles per hour. This reduction is equivalent to raising the temperature 19 degrees as it affects man and beast. This means more comfort for man, saving of fuel in the home, and of feed for the stock. Windbreaks also prevent the drifting of snow around buildings and feed yards. Studies and measurements show that there is considerable increase in yield of fields and orchards sheltered by tree growth. The drying effect upon the soil and crop is decreased by decreasing the velocity of the wind.

REVEALED BY FINGER NAILS

How Observant Person May Judge With Absolute Certainty the Character of His Neighbor.

It is always amusing to speculate on the character of one's neighbor. A very simple aid in so doing is to watch the nails. If a man's or woman's nails are long and slender, you may be quite certain that person is not so robust physically, as the possessor of short, broad nails.

Whereas men and women with the long, narrow type of nails are inveterate visionaries, those having short nails are almost always conspicuous by the strength of their logical powers. It is the latter who make the best and most reliable critics.

A further and almost certain characteristic of long nailed people is their intense depreciation of themselves and their own efforts in any branch of work. The feeling almost amounts to pessimism with them. Such a point of view however, seldom worries those possessing short nails. In fact, more often than not rather the reverse is the case; they are inclined to be oversure of themselves.

Back Broken, Walks.

Waldorf Miller of New Rochelle, N. Y., who contrary to the prediction of physicians, has lived for nearly 18 months with a broken back, celebrated his Christmas by going out for his first walk in the streets since July 3, 1911, when he received the injury while driving. His case had received so much publicity that victims of similar accidents in all parts of the country sent him letters, to which he replied with Christmas greetings. A neighbor prepared an unusual present for him in the shape of a silk quilt with the names of 400 young women embroidered on it. Each girl embroidered her own name, and paid ten cents for the privilege, the money being given to Miller with the quilt.

LARGEST ANIMAL

A Description of the Huge Skeleton Found in East Africa

The Gigantosaurus whose bones were discovered recently in German East Africa, and has been reconstructed in the University of Berlin is believed to be the largest animal that ever trod the earth. It is one hundred and sixty feet long, twenty-five feet high, and weighs one hundred tons. The discovery was made by a German expedition sent out by the University of Berlin, which had been digging for three years in search of the monster skeleton. The discovery of the skeleton was so much a matter of national pride in Germany that a fund of $57,000 was raised by popular subscriptions for a systematic and protracted hunt for the further remains of "Gigantosaurus," the greatest of four-footed creatures. The African "Gigantosaurus" is estimated to have been just double the length of the American Diplodocus [illegible], whose unearthing was financed several years ago.

FRANKNESS

Frankness is the art of saying things you honestly think exactly as you think them. To be frank is to be naturally straightforward. Look the other fellow in the eye. In the same manner as a straight line is the shortest distance between two points, so is frankness the only direct course between all people. Because nothing is wasted. The frank man is the man best to be trusted. Look the other fellow in the eye.

Profits in Cherries

Cherries, according to J. T. Bealby owner of a commercial orchard on Kootenay Lake, are coming to be the most profitable fruit in the fruit growing industry, although involving possibly the most labor. Mr. Bealby's cherry orchards show a gross production of from $1,200 to $1,500 per acre. He states that one tree on his ranch has given an average of $70 worth of fruit every year for several years, and that $35 is a fair average for the entire acreage. After the first four years merely ordinary care is required with a little spraying and trimming. Apples, he says, give an average return of $250 per acre gross. Mr. Bealby purchased his ranch of 25 acres about six years ago, and has made a marked success from the start.

Portable Refrigerator

A Michigan inventor has brought out a portable refrigerator, somewhat resembling a suit case, in which there is a chamber for cracked ice above a compartment for holding perishable goods.

Dry Batteries

Dry batteries can be used in wet places and their lives lengthened by packing them in sawdust in glass jars and pouring melted paraffin over them after waterproof wires have been attached.

China's Arsenal

China's new government will establish an arsenal of the largest and most improved type to keep at home the great amount of money expended abroad each year for the purchase of munitions of war.

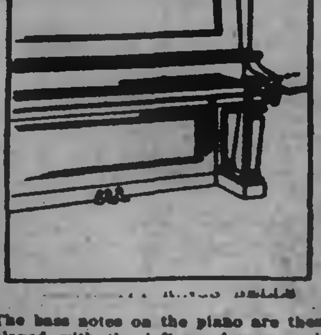
The greatest ocean depth yet measured, a point 40 miles north of the Philippine island of Mindanao, is 32,088 feet deep.

BELLS ON THIS PIANO

Auxiliary Keyboard Swings Over Treble of Regular One

That once-popular song Rings on Her Fingers and Bells on Her Toes can be played with the proper accompaniments now that a Wisconsin man has patented a bell attachment for pianos. This attachment consists of an auxiliary keyboard that swings laterally at the right of the piano and can be moved in over the treble of the regular keyboard when wanted.



[illegible] BELLS

The bass notes on the piano are then played with the left hand, as usual while the right hand plays the auxiliary keyboard. Electric circuits communicate with the keys of the latter and differently-toned bells are inserted in the circuits. When you strike a key on this attachment, instead of getting a piano note in return you get the sound of a bell, and with a graduated scale of bells you get the same melody in different tones.

ALL WILD GUESSES

Got What They Wished For, but Wtih One Exception Were Not Satisfied

By MARY GERTRUDE SHERIDAN.

There was suppressed excitement in Bridgeton when it was whispered about that a mysterious conference was to take place at the one law office of the little town. It seemed that Lee Driver and his wife, Sarah, Professor Drexel and old Doc Brown had been notified to be present at a certain hour on a certain morning, "to receive information of great importance and value to them."

"It's a legacy," declared one active gossip. "They have probably been discovered as heirs to some vast estate in England."

"It's trouble, I'll guarantee that," said Sarah, for she was always looking for it.

"Some complication about the property we have finally paid for, that's just our luck," added her husband, who had got into Sarah's way of thinking from long companionship with her.

"Hope some one has left me a new set of the Encyclopedia Britannica," sighed the professor.

"If I'm appointed to a public office I've got my deserts at last," announced old Doc, complacently.

But all these wild guesses were set at naught when the quartette were seated in the lawyer's office. A pleasant-faced young man of about twenty-four confronted them, smiling and cheerful.

"Well, folks," he said, "I suppose you don't know me."

All hands stared at the speaker, then at one another, and shook their heads silently.

"I am Harry Bolton."

"What!" shouted the professor, his solemn face now beaming, "little Henry, who learned his A, B, C's from me?"

"Hank!" cried Doc Brown. "Why, I taught you how to orate."

"You, Henry," exclaimed Joe. "I am truly glad to see you," and he looked it.

Sarah regarded the returned native keenly. It was to grasp her hand that the stranger passed the others by. A softened look came into her eyes, and she stepped forward and kissed him.

"I Never Knew There Was So Much Knowledge."

"I've traveled four thousand miles for that welcome," said Henry. "You were always a mother to me, dear soul," and his voice broke as he affectionately patted her on the back. "And now sit down, people. I've got some great things to tell you."

The lawyer, sorting over some legal documents, smiled urbanely.

"When I came to Bridgeton an abandoned orphan twenty years ago," related the young man, "you, Mrs. Driver, and your husband took me in. Bless you! Never had a boy better parents. You, dear old Doc, spent many a day picnicking with me and teaching me how to orate, as you call it. And you, Professor Drexel, taught me all I ever learned. When I started out from Bridgeton four years ago to seek my own fortune, I made a solemn vow. It was that I would never forget my old friends if I met with success."

"That's you, Henry," smiled Lee Driver. "Well?"

"I am a millionaire," announced Henry, and they all gasped. "I have the biggest and best ranch in New Mexico. I have a home that is a palace, and I've come to take you all out there. I have quietly found out how life is going with you here. I learn that all the professor wants is books, lots of them. All right—a royal library is waiting you out at Comfort Ranch, professor, and you need never worry any more as to money."

"Henry! Henry!" cried the delighted old savant quaveringly. "Is this some fairy story?"

"Not a bit of it," declared Henry. "You, Doc," he went on, "have always wanted to boss something. Well, you shall be superintendent of my big ranch, and you shall demonstrate your ability as an organizer and manager."

"It's the chance of my lifetime!" gasped the old political campaigner.

"As to you," continued Henry, turning a fond glance upon Sarah," nothing is too good for you. I hear you have been in a household rut so long that you pine for a change—you need to try some one else's cooking. And Lee, here, working twelve hours a day and allowed only on Saturday nights to smoke indoors, shall have a den of his own stocked with the best cigars in the market."

"He's romancing," sighed Doc, "oh sure he is!"

"No," dissented the lawyer. "Mr Bolton has deposited five thousand dollars with me for each one of you in case you get tired of the new life he offers you. All you have to do is to return to Bridgeton and start in afresh, if you are disappointed."

The new life of the four astonished legatees who had tired of the humdrum of "Home, Sweet Home," might deserve a lengthy exploitation. Briefly, all that Henry Bolton promised he carried out. In the grand ranch mansion Professor Drexel reveled in books and comfort. Old Doc was free to spout and order good-natured cowboys around all day long. Lee Driver, dressed like a prince, used twenty-five-cent havanas as if they were toothpicks, and his wife had four cooks at her command.

"Too many books, and life too short to read them all," the professor mourned one day. "I never knew there was so much knowledge in the world Henry, I want to go back to my modest old favorites at Bridgeton and die contented."

And Doc had soured on power. He missed his old cronies, who had listened to his flowery orations. The uncultured cowboys only laughed at him. Henry discovered Lee behind a tree puffing at his dear old briarwood and sick with ennui. And Mrs. Driver—she said to Henry:

"Why, there isn't a morsel of food cooked here the way I cook it. I just long for the old kitchen range and real home comforts.

Result: they all pined for "Home, Sweet Home," and returned there with gladsome hearts—all except one.

This was Serena Blair, a niece of the Drivers. She had been adopted by Sarah, and the latter had insisted on bringing her with them. Henry had played with Serena when she was a child. Very rapidly he had renewed the old companionship. When the Drivers went back to Bridgeton Serena, liking the climate, remained behind, finding employment in a store in the nearest town.

Now came a rude change in fortune for Henry. The ranch mansion burned down one night, uninsured. A question of title dispossessed Henry from the land ownership. Then he went down with the fever.

When he came out of a long delirium the young ranchman found Serena a faithful nurse at his side. As he convalesced he realized how much he loved her. One day he showed the loyal girl a picture of a mountain cabin.

"Serena," he said, "that is all I have left of my fortune. There is grand air, golden sunshine and fruitful acres. I would ask you to become my wife if I could only offer you something better."

"Henry, replied Serena, blushingly drooping her happy face to his sheltering shoulder," home is where the heart is!"

CURVE PITCHING

A Youth From a Barnyard Surprised the Professionals

Curve pitching was a great innovation in its day and caused almost as great a commotion as the advent of the aeroplane or the wireless telegraph. I think it was back in '80 or thereabouts that I first saw it uncorked, says "Uncle Dud," and experienced the bitter humiliation of being repeatedly whiffed out by a youngster several years my junior and for whom I had heretofore entertained that feeling of contempt with which the haughty captain of a crack team is wont to view a youngster who wears glasses and doesn't approve of slang. I was a battle-scarred backstop, approaching the mature and seasoned age of 17, had been the hero of the local diamond for several seasons, and had, by careful cultivation, acquired swagger and gruffness of voice. My broken and distorted fingers were the admiration of the entire village and a source of no small satisfaction to myself, although I would gladly trade them for straight ones to-day. Catching was no snap in those days, although we stood back for all but the third strike, except when there was a base runner to take care of. It was some time later that the pneumatic protector, the padded mitt and the wire muzzle came into general vogue. Of course, we had heard of curves, but it sounded like a joke to us wise ones and we passed it up—all but Clabby Williams. It had a scientific sound to him and he began to take an interest in baseball and to work out the curve problem all by himself with his father's barn for a backstop. Clabby Williams came to me with the astounding suggestion that I give him a tryout on the mound. There were hoots of derision when little Clabby Williams, pale and nervous, but with a gleam in his eye and a turn to his jaw that we had never seen there before, entered the box and fanned a big, grinning southpaw who had already landed on the pill for two three-baggers and a home run. He didn't use any wind-up and he hadn't much speed, but he fanned every Kenosha that came to bat for five straight innings. And ever since that time when I have met with small persons who are pale and delicate and wear glasses, I remember little Clabby, and say to myself, "Well, you never can tell!"

YOU CAN MAKE MONEY IN

Carmangay

"The Star of Alberta"

PAST The splendidly strategic site of Carmangay was discovered by a far seeing, shrewd railway engineer attracted to the district by the lure of the finest wheat in the Canadian West. He snapped up lands where the wide canyons of the Little Bow River narrows to a point. Here must all railways cross. The C. P. R. came and the shipping centre created went ahead by leaps and bounds.

PRESENT Carmangay today is a thriving incorporated town, with not less than 53 business places. Her up-to-date electric and natural water supply systems are owned and operated by the people. Carmangay boasts an eight-roomed schoolhouse, two banks and four big elevators, shipping over a million bushels in 1911 and 1½ millions in 1912. Carmangay has coal mines operating, and the entire district is underlaid with coal of finest Galt quality.

FUTURE Carmangay grows as Alberta grows. That means a wonderful future. Four new railroads are heading for Carmangay. Four new elevators are trying to cope with the tremendous wheat yields of the district. The mines are opening up splendid prospects. Carmangay is being rapidly developed into one of the greatest towns in the Canadian West. YOU can just as confidently invest in Carmangay as her own people do, who are building in brick and stone for a tremendous future. Carmangay has her own supply of finest brick clay and stone right at her doors, and will soon supply her sister cities in Alberta.

Plans, specifications and form of contract to be entered into can be seen on or after this date at the office of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, and at the office of the Superintending Engineer, Trent Canal, Peterborough, Ont.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labour, which schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque for the sum of $1,000.00 made payable to the order of the Minister of Railways and Canals, must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The cheque of the successful tenderer will be held as security, or part security, for the due fulfilment of the contract to be entered into.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

By order,
L. K. JONES,
Asst. Deputy Minister and Secretary.
Department of Railways and Canals.
Ottawa, 25th June, 1913.

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority from the Department will not be paid for it.—44035.

MUNICIPAL FORMS ALWAYS IN STOCK

Changes of 35 Years

It is only a little over 35 years ago that the first locomotive reached Winnipeg. The locomotive was not under steam and it did not come on rails. It came to Winnipeg on a big barge towed by the old steamer Selkirk, and its arrival was so great an event in the embryo city that it was the occasion of the first newspaper extra in western Canada.

Perpetual Motion

A recent invention utilises water which escapes from an automatic sprinkler system inside a building to operate a water motor, which, in turn, rings a fire alarm on the outside.

FINEST SHED IN WORLD

The Dominion Government is constructing at Quebec what will be the finest and best-equipped immigration shed in the world. The site of the old shed is included in the site of the new. The building will be 800 feet long, 90 feet wide, and two storeys in height, and will be built of steel, concrete and brick. The upper storey will be used for the inspection of immigrants, and the lower floor devoted to baggage, restaurants, ticket offices, etc.

The shed will cost in the neighborhood of half a million.

A NIOBE "HANDYMAN"

Sailor Assists Engineman Repair Broken Crank Shaft

It's common knowledge what a handy man the British Jack tar is when occasion demands. One of the crew of H. M. C. S. Niobe, however, during a train trip between Ottwa and Montreal, assumed an entirely new role as handyman in time of need.

The driving crank of the engine broke down. The engineer, who was evidently something of a mechanic, too, worked hard but unavailingly to repair it.

As is usual in such cases there were no lack of suggestions submitted to the engineer as to how to go about his work. Amongst the train's passengers was the sailor from the Niobe. He watched the engineer with the rest of the passengers for some time then politely asked if he could lend a hand, explaining that he held the rank of ship's mechanic on the Niobe, which was corroborated by the decorations on his coat sleeve. The engineer said he would appreciate any help that would get the engine running again and the sailor mechanic rolled up his sleeves, got down to work, and very soon the train was speeding on its way.

SYNOPSIS OF DOMINION LAND REGULATIONS

ANY person who is sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. MOVING PICTURE CLEW

Happy Reunion of Family and Lovers Follows Chance Visit to Motion Picture Show.

By ALVAH JORDAN GARTH.

A drama of tears, almost a tragedy—the gloomy, heartbroken refrain of an old, old man. With it the mournful cadence of a girlish voice, pure and liquid as silver beads dropped into a crystal dish.

It was a strange and striking picture in the library of Geoffrey Durbin. An invalid, almost helpless, his withered hands were outstretched piteously, the tears rolling down his anguished face.

"You are our last hope," he said brokenly to the young man standing with head bent reverently. "I must see my boy before I die. Spare no money—only bring me word that he is alive."

"The law firm with which I am connected has explained every detail of the case to me explicitly," said Adrian Wilbur. "Believe me, sir, outside of our interest in you as an esteemed client, our deep sympathy will impel the most loyal, friendly service. I shall find Oscar Durbin, if he is on earth."

"If you find him—" the quivering voice of the girl with jeweled eyes and a face almost angelic thrilled the young attorney—"if you find him, there is no boon we could not grant you."

She had seized both his hands in her own. Just one glimpse into the beautiful white soul, and the young man registered a secret vow that he would bring hope and joy to that waiting heart, if it cost him his life.

When his law firm had advised him that they wished him to fathom the motives underlying the mysterious disappearance of young Durbin, he had experienced the zest and novelty of an amateur detective. As he looked deeper into the case, he realized that he had been set no easy task. Now, after seeing the beautiful Mabel Durbin, he felt a double interest in the strange venture.

Briefly, a student at a leading college, one day Oscar Durbin had faded from view as suddenly and completely as though the earth had opened and swallowed him up. A note came to his sister. It read simply: "To avoid deep trouble and distress, I must disappear." That was all.

And during a year money, time, a[illegible]vertising, detective skill had failed to evolve a single clew to the missing student. The old home had become a house of mourning, the sister had retired into a sad, secluded life.

One month before the disappearance of young Durbin, his closest chum, Willis Hope, had left the college, never to return. He turned up at the home of his wealthy widowed mother suffering an entire loss of memory, wounded in the head by some terrible fall. He had lingered along, in his lucid moments calling for his friend, Durbin. Tracing some possible mysterious connection between the two cases, the first move Wilbur made was to visit the Hope Home.

He had arrived too late. Willis Hope had died the day previous. Somehow Wilbur connected the two friends in the case in hand. That theory brought no light, however. Beginning at the college, the young lawyer started the slow, patient trail already twice followed by expert detectives.

He had a photograph to go by. Once or twice during the ensuing 90 days he fancied he had found clews to the object of his search. These run down, amounted to nothing.

At the end of three long months Wilbur found himself one evening in a little western town. Many times a memory of the beautiful face of Mabel Durbin had inspired him to go on with the search. Now he felt that to do so would simply be a further waste of time and money. His spirits were at their lowest ebb. He strolled down a business street and mechanically turned into a moving picture show, seeking some influence to drive his gloomy thoughts away.

Wilbur only casually noted the pictures flashing across the screen. A border incident was being shown. Suddenly, as in its delineation a young man attired as a miner came upon the scene, Wilbur arose to his feet with an echoing exclamation. The picture faded, and people stared at his strange excitement. Then he made a wild dash for the door, hoarsely whispering to himself:

Rose to His Feet.

"At last—found. It is Oscar Durbin!"

So sure was the excited young lawyer that the original of the miner in the moving picture was the man he was looking for that he neither rested nor slept that night.

The first thing he did was to locate the man who owned the picture show. He obtained the number of the film, and learned that it came from a city firm a hundred miles away. The first train took him thither. Then, step by step he advanced in his investigation, to learn that the group who had acted the frontier series of pictures made their headquarters at Denver.

Then three days more of travel, a search in Denver—only to ascertain that the group had gone to the railroad depot less than an hour previous, to proceed en route on the Overland Limited for Alaska, where they were to remain making pictures clear through the winter season.

Wilbur ran all the way to the railroad depot. He reached the great iron gate bearing the sign "Overland Express" just as the guard closed and locked it. Slowly, but steadily, gliding out upon the rails, he saw the last observation car of the disappearing train with its red lantern.

"One minute too late!" cried the breathless runner. Then he set his lips. A run, a leap. His flying feet just cleared the spiked top of the iron gate. With a thud they struck the planking beyond. A dash down the platform, and, almost exhausted, Wilbur caught at the railing of the last car of the train.

It was ten minutes later when he reached a section of a tourist car occupied by the moving picture party. It was one-half an hour later, after a long, difficult conversation, that he got the original of the miner character to acknowledge that he was Oscar Durbin.

It was only when Wilbur chanced to remark that young Hope was dead, that Oscar Durbin was willing to discuss a return home. Then he told his story.

It was a strange one. Hope, his closest chum, had married a woman secretly. He had done so wildly and recklessly under the name of Oscar Durbin. A week had convinced him that he had wedded a person far below his station. He had deserted her, shortly after meeting with the accident that caused his death. A few days later his wife had died from an overdose of a drug to the use of which she was addicted. Her brother had learned of the marriage. Believing that the husband had basely deserted his sister, he swore to kill him. He started out to find "Oscar Durbin." To save his friend, whose true identity must inevitably be disclosed, young Durbin disappeared.

Now that Hope was dead, an explanation would satisfy the vengeful brother.

There was a happy reunion at the Durbin home. As upon the first evening she had met him, the beautiful Mabel again placed her hands within those of Adrian Wilbur to thank him. His glance reminded her of her promise, and she blushed sweetly as she, too, remembered, and in the lovelight of her beautiful eyes there was no shadow of another parting.

TO FIX MIRROR

With Care the Spoiled Silvering Can be Replaced

If the silver backing of the mirror has not been too much damaged and has only come off in spots, you might repair it by the following process: First remove the silvering from the glass around each spot, so that the clear space will be about a quarter of an inch wide. Thoroughly clean the clear space with a clean cloth and alcohol clear the edge of a broken piece of lookingglass, mark out a piece of silvering a little larger than the clear space on the mirror; place a very minute drop of mercury on the centre of this patch and allow it to remain there for a few minutes; clear away the silvering around the patch and slide the latter from the glass. Place it over the clear spot on the mirror and gently press it down with a tuft of cotton. This is a difficult operation and a little practice is advisable before trying it on a large mirror.

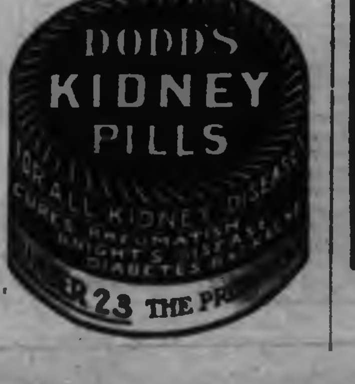
INTERNATIONAL LICENSES

Plan of Reciprocal Interchange Put Forward by Auto Men

That the motorists of Essex County are anxious for reciprocity in automobile licenses was shown by the enthusiasm with which the Essex County Automobile Club was organized at Windsor. The club takes in Windsor, Walkerville, Sandwich, and district. It will co-operate with the other affiliated clubs of the league in an effort to secure an interchange of licenses between Ontario, Michigan, Quebec, and New York.

What the North Can Grow

Seventy-five acres of Ontario's new experimental farm of the Province at Monteith have been stumped and cleared and it is the intention of the department of agriculture to demonstrate the possibilities of the land of New Ontario on this tract. Already the vegetable growers of the province have found that their best seed potatoes and peas can be grown in the north.



DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

SOLDIERS' HARNESS

Canadian Militiamen Will Soon all be Relieved of Leather Equipment

The new web equipment which will shortly be in general use by the Canadian militia will mean far greater comfort to those who have to wear it, in comparison to the uncomfortable equipments of by-gone days.

The main principle underlying the design of this web equipment is the sub-division of the complete set into what may be called the "maching" and "fighting" portions.

The arrangement of this equipment allows a soldier to have normally with him the whole of his equipment, while, when an action is imminent, the pack and its contents can be discarded, and extra ammunition in "emergency" bandoliers carried in place of the pack.

This equipment is perfectly balanced, is made of flexible and woven webbing instead of th old leather straps.

When marching at ease, the belt can be worn loose without the pack shifting. The whole load is easily thrown on and off when resting on the march and there are no straps crossing the chest to press on the lungs. The component parts of the web equipment are: waistbelt, frog, braces, cartridge carriers (right and left), pack supporting straps, haversack, water bottle and intrenching tool carrier.

FISH IN THE PACIFIC

New Field of Industry to be Opened Up

The herring fisheries alone of Yarmouth and Lowestoft brought in last year $5,000,000 to the owners and fishermen and gave employment ashore to thousands of men and women. As a result of only 10 weeks work one drifter or fishing boat has been known to earn over $11,000. Yarmouth employs 150 steamers in the work and Lowestoft 280. A steam drifter usually carries 10 men all working on the sharing system. In one day 1,306,410,000 herrings were caught at the two ports mentioned which gives some idea of the enormous quantity handled by the fleet as well as by the railways on shore.

As compared with this the fisheries of British Columbia are said to be the best in the world to-day and wait only for the completion of the steel into Prince Rupert to reach their full development. Halibut in Hecate Straits range from 50 to 300 pounds each and there are halibut banks in all directions. The spring or king salmon off Langara Island are caught by the Indians in incredible numbers. The "oolachan" glut the rivers of the province for six weeks every year while all the small streams are crowded with cohoe, hump-back and dog-salmon.

BALL PLAYER BEST BETWEEN 30 AND 35

Opinion of James McAleer, Cincinnati, Who Gives Several Cases to Prove His Assertion

James McAleer says that a ball player should be at his best between the ages of 30 and 35 years. To prove it McAleer cites the supposed ages of numerous stars, as follows: Jimmy Archer, of the Cubs, 30; Chief Bender, of the Athletics, 30; Al. Bridwell, of the Cubs, 32; Hal Chase, of the New Yorks, 30; Cravath, of the Phillies, 31; Saw Crawford, of the Detroits, 32; Birdie Cree, of the New York, 31; Red Dooin, of the Phillies, 33; Johnny Evers, of the Cubs, 30; Russel Ford, of the New Yorks, 30; Artie Hofman, of the Pirates, 30; Lefty Liefield, of the Cubs, 30; Christy Matthewson, of the Giants, 32; Mike Mitchell, of the Cubs, 30; Earl Moore, of the Phillies, 34; George Mullin, of the Detroits, 33; Lou Richie, of the Cubs, 30; Jake Stahl, of the Red Sox, 34; Frank Chance, of the New Yorks, 33; Joe Tinker, of the Cincinnati Reds, 35; Carisch, of the Clevelands, 32; Turner, of the Clevelands, 32; and so on. McAleer also calls attention to the fact that Fred Clarke is 41; Hans Wagner, 39; Napoleon Lajoie, 37; Miner Brown, 37; Jimmy Sheckard, 36; Kid Elberfeld, 36; Tommy Leach, 36; Edie Plank, 38; and Harry Davis, 40.

A WESTERN DRY-DOCK

Vessels of Largest Size to be Handled at Prince Rupert

The construction of the big dry dock at Prince Rupert is destined in the opinion of experts to have an important effect upon the shipping trade of the Pacific coast. Many coast steamers which are at present forced to go elsewhere for repairs and overhauling will tie up in future at Prince Rupert, where the new plant will eclipse anything of its kind upon the Pacific coast; being capable of handling 20,000 ton vessels. A 300-foot pier forms part of the equipment.

A QUEENLY GIFT

Fund Raised by the "Marys" of the Empire Put to Splendid Use

There has been opened at Whitstable, England, a Holiday Home for Girls, bought with the money subscribed by the Marys of the Empire as a Coronation gift to the Queen.

"I wish it to be a home—not an institution," said Her Majesty, when she outlined her scheme to those who helped in the perfecting of this splendid plan for the holiday happiness of working girls.

Barn House very appropriately faces on Joy Lane. It is a fifteenth century half-timbered building which breathes the atmosphere of home from the farthest hedge of its quaint sun-dialed, seaward garden to the innermost inglenook of its charming and historic interior. Every window invites one to its cozy seat, every chair is deep and restful, every bedroom enticingly fresh and pretty.

Mrs. Sydney Lee was responsible for the interior decorations, but the Queen herself took a very intimate interest in every particular. She chose the cretonne, and when one dollar came after the Coronation from a Mary on this side of the water she ordered the purchase of vases with it, and these very vases are now in the dining-room as an interesting evidence of Her Majesty's keen devotion to every detail connected with the project.

Fourteen girls will be received in the home at one time. These will be for two weeks each Queen Mary's guests.

NEATLY CAUGHT IN TRAP

Wealthy Man for Once Called on to Prove That He Loved Art for Art's Sake.

Peter De Wint, the English landscape painter, was accustomed each year to have a semi-private show of his pictures before sending them to the Water Color Society's exhibition. On such occasions his friends frequently bought pictures, which, of course, appeared at the public exhibition marked "Sold."

Among the painter's friends was a wealthy man who wanted to appear a patron of art and at the same time keep his money. He managed this by loudly admiring the paintings already sold. He was always a bit too late to buy the pictures that pleased him most, and having seen them, as he was wont to declare, he could never content himself with less beautiful works.

De Wint at last suspected the man's sincerity and when the next show-day came round, he concluded to test him. After plenty of time had been allowed for De Wint's friends to make their purchases, the rich man arrived. As usual, his eye soon fell on two "perfect gems" marked "Sold." Turning to the artist, he said, "Now, De Wint, those are exactly the things I should like to possess; what a pity they are not to be had."

"My dear sir," said the painter, slapping him on the back, "I know you would like them, so I put the tickets on to keep them for you."

The awkwardness of the situation was only relieved when the enthusiastic admirer became the somewhat unwilling purchaser of the two "gems."

A new device for heating automobiles in winter consists of a brass cylinder which runs from the radiator of the machine to the limousine or body of the car, covering the cylinder heads. The fan blows the air through this tube, in which it is heated by the excess heat liberated from the cylinder heads and manifold. The air is forced back into the body of the car, where a valve regulates the amount of heat desired. In summer time the hot air escapes under the car. This device has a tendency to cool the engine and keep the paint and varnish from cracking.

WEALTH OF MINERALS

New Section of British Columbia Rich in Scenery and Possibilities

Mr. G. L. McDonnell, a prospector returned to Edmonton from British Columbia where he was sent by an English syndicate to report upon the mining possibilities of the new country opened up by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway. He walked from Mile 140 to Mile [illegible] over the grade of the main line and reported that silver and lead are plentiful also that copper showed strong out-croppings. He further stated that between 4,000 and 5,000 men were working in the Fraser Valley on the new line. "The Fraser Valley," Mr. McDonnell observed, "is wider and more expansive than the panorama in the Kicking Horse Pass. On the southern side of the river the mountains are some distance off, their snow-clad peaks silhouetting the skyline and shutting out the Cariboo country beyond. On the other side of the stream, here and there threatened by the tumbling river of many rapids which suddenly diverts for 20 or 30 miles to the northward, are great expanses of timber."

DISPENSING JUSTICE BY QUEER METHODS

The method of dispensing "justice" in the Ottoman Empire has resulted in a crop of stories being told, says a writer in the Yorkshire Weekly Post.

A good one relates to a poor Turkish slater in Constantinople, who, being at work upon the roof of a house, lost his footing and fell into the narrow street upon a man. The pedestrian was killed, while the slater escaped without material injury. A son of the deceased caused the slater to be arrested. The cadi listened attentively, and, in the end, asked the slater what he had to say in his defence.

"Dispenser of Justice," answered the accused, "it is even as this man says; but Allah forbid that there should be evil in my heart. I am a poor man, and know not how to make amends."

The son of the man who had been killed, however, demanded that the slater be punished. The cadi meditated for a few moments and finally said: "It shall be so."

Then to the slater he said: "Thou shalt stand in the street where the father of this young man stood when thou didst fall on him." And to the accuser he added: "Thou shalt, if it please thee, go up on the roof and fall upon the culprit, even as he fell on thy father. Allah be praised!"

FLITTING IN CANADA

Some Curious Mis-Statements in an English Journal

Some curious statements about the habits and customs of one country are sometimes published in the newspapers of another. An English publication, "Ideas," has an article about "flitting," or moving, in Canada. The readers of that journal are informed that in Canada we do not flit, we do not move from one home to another, do not engage in househunting, furniture packing, and that we do not employ furniture removers. The way we do it in Canada is thus described:

"When a householder decides to remove to another locality, if it is within a reasonable distance, he locks his door, puts the key in his pocket, and walks or drives to the spot he has chosen for his future home, and leaves the house to be brought after him."

This is made possible, it is explained, because the houses are of wood. Everything is left in a house just as it was occupied. It is hoisted on jacks, moved on rollers, and is taken to its new site without cracking the plaster or shaking the pictures from the walls.

All this is very interesting, and no doubt some frame houses and shacks are moved from one site to another in this way. But one is as likely to see the residences of London or Liverpool on skids as those of a Canadian city.

CHRISTIAN ESKIMOS

Bishop Stringer Tells of Work of Anglican Church in North

"If there are no true Christians among the Eskimos of the Arctic circle, as has been said, then I have not yet seen a true Christian," said Bishop Stringer during the course of a description of the work of the Church of England along the northerly fringe of Canada, before a Winnipeg audience. Speaking from the text, "The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light," Bishop Stringer narrated the great advancement which the work had taken among the Eskimos, among whom at Port McPherson the missionaries had labored for 17 years without a single baptism being made. Three years ago nine converts were baptised, and since then the number has grown to about 500. When the work was first begun the natives were found to be treacherous and depraved beyond description, but a great change came about.

LICENSED HAWKERS

Street Vendors in London City Now Wear Badges

London hawkers are now wearing on the left arm a metal oval-shaped badge and a number issued by the Commissioner of Police. Street vendors have increased so greatly in number of late in the most frequented thoroughfares in the City that it has become a serious problem of traffic.

Altogether, about 2,000 men and women sent in their names to be registered, but a very large number of the applicants did not succeed in making good their claims as they have to show a plausible title to three years' street trading before being allowed to do business at their favorite haunt—Ludgate Hill—the year round.

Most of the licensed hawkers are old people—with the exception of the flower women. The men seem to regard the badge as a cherished distinction, and, whether they wear it on the right arm or the left, make it sufficiently conspicuous. One of them tersely remarked: "Fewer of us and more trade. We feel like a bit of the Corporation now."

Vigorous Health Restored To Run-Down Woman

SEEMED TO HAVE LOST ALL AMBITION, WAS PALE AND ANAEMIC

Made Wonderful Recovery When Dr. Hamilton's Pills Were Used.

"I was never actually sick," writes Mrs. Norman La Pierre, wife of a well known resident of Lebanione, "yet I never could get strong like other women. I ate well enough, but somehow rich and red blood I could never make. When I married I took great pride in my housekeeping, but it kept me tired all the time. Mrs. Lochance, my neighbor, looked well — she told me her health had been made up by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I only thought of pills as a physic, but now I know that Dr. Hamilton's Pills are more, for they quickened my stomach, liver and bowels—made me stouter and stronger, gave me such color in my cheeks as I never had before. I sincerely believe Dr. Hamilton's Pills should be used by every woman—that's why I write this letter."

No medicine invigorates and renews health and spirits like Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box, five for $1, at all druggists and storekeepers, or postpaid from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

Sold Tobacco to Minor.

Mrs. S. Parks was charged with selling tobacco to a minor without a written order. It seems that the boy who bought the tobacco is the son of one of Mrs. Park's customers. She admitted the sale. However, it appears that the boy who bought the tobacco bought it for another small boy. Mrs. Parks was fined $10.

Milkmen Have Cause for Kick.

A committee of the local dairymen called on the Sanitary Inspector and protested against the practise of persons selling milk without a license. The milkmen claim unfair treatment in this respect. They have to pay a license fee of $1 and toe the mark in regard to all sanitary regulations.

Yesterday's Drunks.

At yesterday's police court, Wm. Delaney was charged with having been drunk. William admitted the impeachment but qualified his remarks by saying he had got outside of some Port Hope whisky. He was fined $2, with the option of 10 days. Daniel O'Keefe got $2 on the same charge.

An Ex-Ray Horse.

As Mr. Ray, of Otonabee, was fishing at Campbelltown a few days ago he left his horse tied by a rope round its neck. Now, as Mr. Ray was making casts after the elusive bass, the hot weather seems to have made the horse have visions of Hangman Ellis. Anyway, the horse got its neck tied up in the noose and died.

Monday's Game Disputed.

Manager Rowan, of the Petes, has formally protested Monday's game at London, and the matter is now in the hands of President Fitzgerald, of the Canadian League. The protest is based on the fact that Umpire Davis made an important ruling late in the game that was in direct violation of the ground agreed upon and announced before the commencement of the game.

Peterborough to Have Double Track.

Toronto, July 3.—Before winter the Canadian Pacific will be running a double track service between Toronto and Guelph Junction, and next year another lap will be covered on the way to Detroit, with Windsor or Detroit on the West. The ultimate goal is Smith's Falls on the Rar, as the Falls and Montreal are linked up with a duplicate system. When all is told there will be four rails from Detroit to Montreal.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Boys and Bananas

At a Juvenile Court yesterday, Albert Davenport anh Stanley Davenport, two boys the size of full fledged grass hoppers, were charged with stealing bananas from Mr. Oke. Mr. Deacon admitted getting in through a broken window. Mr. Oke explained that boys break the windows of his warehouse and use sticks to draw the hanging bunches of bananas to the opening. The case wah adjourned for a week.

Couldn't Breath Through His Nose Stuffed With Catarrh

Catarrhozone Inhaler the One Means of Relief, and it Cured Quickly

The extraordinary efficacy of Catarrhozone is without parallel. A sneezing cold is cured in ten minutes, a harsh cough is eased in an hour, the most offensive catarrh is thoroughly drawn from the system. In case of asthma and bronchitis the relief and certain cure that comes from the healing balsamic extracts in Catarrhozone is simply wonderful.

"For more than twenty years I suffered with a cough, bronchitis, asthma and nasal catarrh," writes J. F. Fenwick, of Staunton, P.O. "Every attack I had seemed to grow worse and I could hardly breathe on account of an accumulation of phlegm in the nose and throat. One day I tried Catarrhozone and in ten minutes was wonderfully relieved. I could breathe freely and naturally through the nose, and blood spitting was stopped—the phlegm was cleared away and my regular breathing restored. No remedy can do more than Catarrhozone."

There is no remedy so certain and safe as Catarrhozone, but being a good remedy it is imitated. Beware of the substitutor. Large Catarrhozone lasts two months, price $1.00. Smaller sizes 25c and 50c. At all storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Visiting Motorists Coming.

The directors of the Ontario Motor League will visit Peterborough tomorrow as the guests of the Peterborough Automobile Association. The visitors will be entertained to luncheon. The day's proceedings will include a motor trip to Young's Paint where the party will board the Str. Stoney Lake at 4 o'clock for a sail through the lakes to Burleigh Falls, where dinner will be served at six o'clock.

The Watering By-law.

A lady called at The Times' office and complained that her skirts and petticoats, and what ever other under garments ladies wear, were disfigured by the sweeping of real wet water from the Simcoe Street pavement at 8.30 yesterday morning. We extended sympathy and promised that with the present watering by-law enforced she could, hereafter, wear her starched white dimity (is that word right ?) with impunity.

Changes in Collegiate Staff.

Three of the local Collegiate Institute staff have resigned to take up work in other fields. These are Mr. G. A. Ferguson, assistant classical master, who goes to Vancouver, as classical master in the City High School. Miss Alford, teaching art and junior moderns, goes to Regina Normal School to teach art. Mr. J. F. Harvey, assistant master in the Collegiate Institute has a call to Kingston Model School, as principal, a government appointment, following the institution of these schools to meet the demand for third class training, but remains in Peterborough.

SUNLIGHT AND SHADOW ON THE DIAL OF A CITY LIFE.

The weed crop must be good in Lindsay. That town is using a mowing machine to cut down weeds.

This is the "Glorious 4th," in which squibs, fire-crackers and lion tail twisting hot air is heard everywhere across the line.

The public are reminded of the fact that the Public Library will be closed on Wednesday afternoon during July and August.

Rev. Mr. Couch left yesterday via C.P.R. for Ottawa to take charge of the McLeod Street Methodist Church in that city.

The local barber shops will close during the hot weather, on Thursday afternoons, except such weeks as a holiday occurs.

Rain is wanted for the raspberry crop in this County, and incidentally, to cool the air for those men who love a sleep during the sermon, free from flies.

Our readers who did not get their Toronto papers on Wednesday night, yesterday discovered that the absence of their literary treat was due to Hydro failure.

LORD WOLSELEY AND CANADIANS

The Famous General's Complimentary Address to the Troops in 1870 Are Recalled

Lord Wolseley was more intimately associated with Canada, perhaps, than any other great British general since the days of Wolfe, and Canadians have always taken the keenest interest in his brilliant career. There is a common idea that Lord Wolseley was born, so to speak, with a field marshal's baton in his hand, but the fact is that he fought his way upward step by step, for he entered the British army as an ensign at the age of 18. His father was a major, but it does not appear that Lord Wolseley had any other advantages to assist his promotion save his natural gifts as a soldier. He was a veteran of the Crimea and at the Siege of Sebastopol received the Legion of Honor, and was severely wounded. Later on he went to China and saw active service, receiving a medal and two clasps. Shortly after the Chinese War he was appointed Deputy Quartermaster-General in Canada.

Training a Canadian Army

The Trent affair gave scope to his remarkable organizing ability, for it devolved upon him to make the arrangements for conveying the British troops overland up the St. John Valley to the Riviere du Loup. He carried out his difficult duties with much success. In 1865 a camp of instruction was formed at La Prairie, and Colonel Wolseley was placed in command of the three battalions. A year later the Fenian Raid occurred, and the training that the 3,500 men had received under the British colonel was noted by military critics. When the Red River Rebellion broke out in 1870 there was a demand from all parts of Canada that Colonel Wolseley should be given charge of the Canadian forces. How successfully he handled this situation need not be dwelt upon, but to show that Wolseley had as high an opinion of the Canadian militia as the volunteers had of him, it is interesting to quote from the farewell address he issued to the troops.

Canadian Fine Troops

"In saying good-bye to you," he said, "I beg that each and all of you will accept my grateful recognition of your valuable services, and my best thanks for the zeal you have displayed in carrying out my orders. I congratulate you upon the success of our expedition, which has secured to this country a peaceable solution of its late troubles. The credit for this success is due to the gallant soldiers I had at my back; upon you fell the labor of carrying the boats and heavy loads, a labor in which officers and men vied with each other as to who should do the most. Nothing but that pluck for which British soldiers, whether born in the colonies or the Mother Country, are celebrated, could have carried you so successfully through the arduous advance upon this place. You had to carry upon your backs a vast amount of supplies over no fewer than 47 portages, making a total distance of seven miles, a feat unparalleled in our military annals. I can say without flattery that, though I have served with many armies in the field, I have never associated with a better set of men."

From Victory Unto Victory

On his way home Colonel Wolseley was tendered a great reception at Montreal, his time not permitting him to receive a greeting at Toronto as the citizens had planned. Shortly after returning to England he was sent in command of the Ashantee campaign, and received the submission of the king at Coomassie. For these services he was voted the thanks of Parliament, the sum of $25,000, and created a K.C.B. As Sir Garnet Wolseley he was commander of the Egyptian expedition in 1882, which ended in the defeat of Arabi Pasha at Tel-el-Kebir. He conducted the operations for the relief of Gordon and Khartoum, and on this occasion sent to Canada for a company of voyageurs, who were of great service to the Nile expedition, and received the public thanks of the commanding general before returning home. Lord Wolseley was a great soldier, and with Roberts and Kitchener, was one of the three greatest British generals since Wellington.

One For the Inspector

Before Dr. Macnamara, the Canadian entered the British Parliament he was a schoolmaster, and inspectoral duty sometimes fell his way.

On one such occasion the doctor asked a ten-year-old pupil in an elementary school to define a pilgrim.

"A pilgrim," promptly replied the boy, "is a man who travels from place to place."

"I do that," observed Dr. Macnamara. "Am I a pilgrim?"

"No, sir," responded the lad; "a pilgrim is a good man."

CHOSE OWN SWIMMING HOLES

John Muir Relates How, by Their Own Method, Bathing Was Made a Delight to Boys.

It appears natural for children to be fond of water, although the Scotch method of making every duty disagreeable contrived to make bathing for health terrible to us. I well remember among the awful experiences of childhood being taken by the servant to the seashore when I was between two and three years old, stripped at the side of a deep pool in the rocks, plunged into it among crawling crabs and slippery wriggling snake-like eels, and drawn up gasping and shrieking only to be plunged down again and again. As the time approached for this terrible bathing I used to hide in the darkest corners of the house, and oftentimes a long search was required to find me. But after we were a few years older we enjoyed bathing with other boys as we wandered along the shore, careful however not to get into a pool that had an invisible boy-devouring monster at the bottom of it. Such pools, miniature maelstroms, were called "Sookin-in-goats," and were well known to most of us. Nevertheless we never ventured into any pool on strange parts of the coast before we had thrust a stick into it. If the stick were not pulled out of our hands we boldly entered and enjoyed plashing and ducking long ere we had learned to swim.—John Muir, in Atlantic.

MAKES SECOND MARCONI DEAL AT A MUCH HIGHER FIGURE

British Cabinet Does Not Think There is Any Other System Which Can Fill the Bill--Opposition Witholds Its Fire For the Present

London, July 4.—The Postmaster-General's promised announcement today concerning the Empire's wireless arrangements is keenly anticipated. The Government still considers the Marconi at present the only wireless system capable of meeting their requirements. The post office has considered the possibilities of the Government itself undertaking the construction and equipment of wireless stations, but has decided in favor of making a fresh contract with the Marconi Company for both construction and working, reserving, however the right, when it sees fit, to work the stations with its own staff. The Marconi Company has demanded substantially higher terms than the previous $300,000 a station on the ground of the increased cost of material and the losses imposed on the company by the refusal of Parliament to ratify the old contract. It is generally anticipated that the matter will not be fully debated in Parliament to-day. The Opposition withholding its main criticism until renewal of the debate.

Has Faith in Canada

That grand old stateman, the late Sir John A. McDonald, had great faith not only in Canada's ultimate destiny, but in what the C. P. R. he helped build would do for this Dominion. Sir Thos. Shaughnessy has authorized a statement that in the next year $100,000,000 will be spent by that corporation on its western extensions, hotel and steamship extension development and the addition of rolling stock. With the present stringency in the world's money markets, the fact of this expenditure displays emphatically the faith capital has in in the prospects and resources of Canada's great railway.

ADMITS HE PUSHED CHUM INTO STREAM

Seven Year Old Chicagoan Told Three Different Stories Before the Truth Came.

Chicago, July 4.—Harold Fragel, seven years old, admitted that he had pushed George Hammer, his six-year-old playmate, into the river last Tuesday. Harold made his confession seated on the knee of police lieutenant Heidlemeier while a piece of watermelon was served to keep back his tears. "I pushed George into the river after he had thrown my waggon in," he said.

The boy previously had told three other stories since the disappearance of his playmate. At first he denied having seen George, then said his playmate had climbed in a freight car and then saying he had jumped into the river.

EXPLORATION OF THE TRENT CANAL SYSTEM

Another party of members of Parliament and power users of this city and district propose to explore the remainder of the head waters of the Trent Canal, its vast natural reservoirs and tributaries. It is generally known that, by the progressive spirit actuating the present Dominion Government, concrete dams have been built to conserve the water of our local power and water supply.

The object of this contemplated visit is to further investigate the storage supply of water, available. There is no doubt the large number of dams, locks and natural reservoirs, when once in full operation, will greatly augment the present supply along the route of the Trent Canal.

This is a most important matter for this city so that cheap power will replace the former expenditure made for obtaining factories. Much credit is due to our local members for inaugurating this practical exploration of our power supply.

WHITE SLAVING IS TO BE INVESTIGATED

Moral Reformers Will Be Forced by Police Association to Substantiate Claims.

London, Ont., July 4.—Chief of Police Williams, president of the Canadian Chief of Police Association, made the statement that the Executive of that organization would in future make all moral reformers substantiate their claims of white slavery or suffer the consequences.

The Chief stated that in the opinion of the association there was little or no white slavery in the Dominion, and that incalculable harm was being done by moral reformers who were making statements of white slavery that when traced down only amounted to rumors.

Every report of alleged white slavery is to be probed to the bottom, and in the event of it being found incorrect the names of all persons connected with the start of the rumor will be forwarded to Ottawa and the necessary steps taken for their punishment

MOTHERS AWFUL RACE FOR LIFE WITH 5 CHILDREN IN BUSH

Mrs. Thomas Johnston Had Terrifying Experience Near Earlton

Haileybury, Ont., July 4.—The tale of an heroic rescue of herself and five small children from the flames which destroyed their home near Earlton on Monday was brought to Haileybury by Mrs. Thomas Johnston, who with her husband arrived practically destitute. Worried by the fires and the vigil of watching them all day long, Mrs. Johnston saw the wind change and the flames leap down on the clearing and her home a mile east of Earlton about six o'clock in the evening. Seizing a suitcase in which were packed a few valuables, she travelled with her children a mile through the blazing bush to the T. & N.O. main line at Earlton, where she was taken care of by a section gang.

Mr. Johnston was at Osseo, on the Elk Lake branch, and did not know of his wife's peril at the time and it was only two days after that he heard of the fire and the plight of his family. He immediately hurried back to Earlton and brought his family to the home of his brother

A Plucky Mother.

Mrs. Johnston does not like to speak of the terrible experience in her race with death through the flames. The house was situated on a small farm just off the old gravel road from Earlton station. There was a small slashing round the house and it was not until this caught that Mrs. Johnston left her home. With a four-week's old baby in one arm, her suit-case in her hand and three-year-old Ida clinging to her. Mrs. Johnston pluckily made the journey to safety. The other three children accompanied their mother and was forced to trail behind in the race.

The fire stretched across the road near her home at the time and she was forced to travel same fifteen or twenty rods through the slashing, part of which was in flames. The heat and smoke was blinding, but she pluckily continued until she reached a point in the road where the fire had not crossed.

IMPROVING INTERCOLONIAL

(Special to The Times).

Ottawa, July 4.—Under the new management of the Intercolonial Railway the Government owned line is being rapidly placed in a first-class condition. It was absolutely run down under the Laurier regime largely through being made part of the political machine for the Maritime Provinces. There are at present ordered to be delivered now and the end of the year the following: 1,050 box cars, 28 cabooses, 100 flat cars, 5 colonist cars, 8 first class coaches, 4 first class separate compartment coaches, 100 coal cars, 2 postal cars, 3 baggage cars, 35 sleepers, 2 diners and 30 passenger and freight locomotives. Even the increased stock will not be sufficient to cope with the growing business of the road and other orders will be given until the I. C. R. is brought thoroughly up-to-date in rolling stock.

A SHEEP DEMONSTRATION CAR IS VERY POPULAR DOWN EAST

Department of Agriculture Hits Upon Practical Method of Encouraging Sheep Industry in Canada

(Special to The Times)

Ottawa, July 4.—Hon. Martin Burrell, Minister of Agriculture, has taken great interest since he came into office in encouraging the sheep industry of the country. During the past ten years this industry has down a great decline. One of his first acts was to appoint a sheep commission which investigated conditions in the Maritime Provinces and British Columbia. They made an exhaustive report which has been carefully carried out.

SHEEP DEMONSTRATION CAR.

Recently to encourage the industry in the Maritime Provinces a Sheep Demonstration car was sent through Nova Scotia and is now touring New Brunswick. Great interest has been taken in the car and the efforts of the department of agriculture by the farmers along the route. Two demonstrations and addresses are given a day with talks on sheep-raising by experts on the care and handling of sheep for industrial purposes, for wool, lamb, mutton, etc.

MRS. LEATHES ON FEMALE POLICE

In "White Slave" Cases They Should Have Equal Powers With Them.

London, July 4.—At the International Congress for the suppression of the white slave traffic, Mrs. Leathes, of Toronto, strongly urged the importance of female police having equal powers with men. Such women in Canadian cities did valuable work. Other speakers corhially endorsed this view.

TO HELP NATURE SHED A BAD COMPLEXION

(From The Family Physician.)

Beauty devotees are enthusiastic over the beautifying qualities of mercolized wax. Perhaps nothing discovered within recent years accomplishes so much, so quickly, without harm without detaining one indoors, and at such small expense. The principal reason for its wonderful merit is that it works in harmony with physiological laws. Instead of hiding, or "curing" complexion defects it removes them. The wax actually takes off the aged, faded, sallow, freckled or blotchy cuticle, gently, gradually, causing no inconvenience. It is Nature's way of renewing complexions. When the natural process is retarded because of deficient circulation or nerve tone, mercolized wax comes to the rescue and hastens the skin shedding. The new complexion which appears is a natural one, youthful, healthy, exquisitely beautiful. If you've never tried mercolized wax, get an ounce of it at the drug store, use at night like cold cream, washing it off in the morning.

Another natural beautifying treatment—for wrinkled skin—is to bathe the face in a lotion made by dissolving an ounce of saxolite in a half pint witch hazel. This is remarkably and instantaneously effective.

GIBBS GETS MONTH IN STABBING CASE

Hugh Gibbs was charged with having assaulted his wife and having caused bodily injury, to wit, having stabbed her with a pen knife. He did not remember anything of the circumstances as he was drunk. Mr. Gibbs telephoned for Mr. G. Gordon to defend him, but the latter was too busy to come. Mrs. Gibb, attired in a new straw turban hat, a look of determination and other things, was first witness. She said, in reply to County Attorney Wood, she did not want to lay a charge. She had lived with Gibbs for 23 years as housekeeper. Her name is Gibb not Gibbs. Gibbs came home Monday night, after 11 o'clock with a friend. Gibbs was drunk, but his friend, McMartin, was sober. Gibbs asked her to get him supper, but prisoner afterwards said he did not want it. McMartin and Gibbs began to "chew the rag." McMartin left. Gibbs has drank ever since he worked for the ice company. She went to bed and Gibbs came into the room and asked "Who have you got in here?" She replied "Only the little dog who is under the bed." She offered to get up and turn on the light, but Gibbs said "No." Gibbs made a grab at her. He had something in his hand that gave her a clean cut. She does not know what the implement was. She was cut on the breast. She did not go to a doctor. The wound is nearly healed. Mrs. Thompson came down from upstairs and bathed the wound. Gibbs began to call her names. Gibbs was filling his pipe and she thinks he had a penknife. A policeman knocked at the door. Gibbs has always been kind to her. She did not think Gibbs stabbed her on purpose. Gibbs was "more than full that night."

Officer Sills said when he got to the house, he heard quarrelling within. He heard Gibbs call her disgraceful names and said, "I'll do for you yet." Gibbs set the dog on him. Mrs. Thompson asked the officer in to see the wounded woman. Mrs. Gibb showed him the wound on her breast but not that on her hip. Gibbs cleared out but was found at 2 a.m. by P. C. Reid asleep drunk. Mrs. Thompson, who lives in the Gibbs residence, corroborated the evidence of Mrs. Gibbs. She saw Gibbs with a penknife.

The prisoner in evidence said he had no memory of that night's proceedings. He had never struck Mrs. Gibb. He does not live with Mrs. Gibb as man and wife. Mr. McElderry acted for the prisoner. The prisoner was given on month in jail.

POLICE COURT NEWS

At yesterday's police court, Martin Guerin was charged with having been found drunk in Victoria Park. Martin "guessed I was drunk." $2. Patrick Tooher pleaded guilty to having been drunk. $2. An Ennismore man was charged with having been in charge of a horse on a public street whilst drunk. P. C. Reid said the prisoner nearly fell out of his rig twice as he was drunk. $5.75, which was paid. John Robinson paid $2.60 costs, after being charged with not removing obnoxious matter for which he had taken money without performing the work. No fine was levied as he had since done the work.

LARGE AGRICULTURAL GRANTS ARE NOW BEING MADE

Nearly Three Quarters of a Million to be Paid Out Under New Bill

(Special to The Times.)

Ottawa, July 4.—During the next couple of weeks the agreements under the Aid to Agriculture Bill which was passed last sessian will be signed between the provinces and the Dominion. The agreements for Ontario and Prince Edward Island have already been signed and negotiations in regard to the others are now in progress.

LIBERALS OPPOSED IT.

Under the act which Hon. Martin Burrell, Minister of Agriculture had passed last session—and which by the way the Liberals opposed—no less than ten millions dollars is appropriated for the encouragement of agriculture, the amount to be spread over ten years. The sum of $700,000 is alloted this first year and this amount will be increased by $100,000 annually until 1917 from which year until 1923 $1,000,000 will be provided yearly. The gradual expansion and growing equipment of the provincial organizations it is felt will be met in this way more helpfully than by starting at the million mark.

HOW IT IS DIVIDED.

The following table shows the amounts each province will get :

Prince Edward Island	$26,529.80
New Brunswick	44,509.93
Alberta	46,094.95
British Columbia	47,234.16
Manitoba	51,730.05
Nova Scotia	54,266.45
Saskatchewan	54,296.29
Quebec	159,482.40
Ontario	196,783.92

INSTRUCTION AND EDUCATION.

The money is being spent largely to strengthen all lines of instructional and educational work. The purpose of the Minister cannot be better set forth than quoting from his speech delivered in the house when the measures was introduced :

"Help given in an educational direction will not only mean better farming, but better farmers and better and happier men and women. The particular form such assistance may take may vary with the special needs and conditions in each province. It will embrace the increasing of the

of our agricultural colleges ; the establishment of agricultural schools, of dairy and horticultural schools, of short courses in agriculture ; the initiation of agricultural teaching in the public schools and work by travelling or locating qualified instructors. It might well include the valuable educational work carried on by means of demonstration trains, training of teachers in nature study and the invaluable work of domestic science concerned with the women and girls of our communities, whose influence will always constitute one of the most potent forces in solving the problems we are considering."

THREW A PETITION IN KING'S CARRIAGE

Suffragette Rushed at His Majesty's Conveyance in a Bristol Celebration.

Bristol, Eng., July 4.—While King George was driving to open the Royal Agricultural Show here to-day, a woman believed to be a suffragette rushed at his carriage and threw a petition at His Majesty. She was immediately arrested.

$20,000 Fire; Blame Women.

Birmingham, Eng., July 3.—Damage amounting to $20,000 was done to-day by a fire in a large factory at Sutton Coldfield, which is believed to have been the work of a suffragette "arson squad."

SEEK PERSONS WHO CUT HORSES TAILS

St. Catharines Stirred by Cruel Practice of Unknown—One Instance.

St. Catharines, Ont., July 4.—The county authorities have received complaints of the docking of horse's tails by unknown parties, who have been harrassing G. H. Werner, of Caistorville. A mare valued at $225 had its tail cut off shockingly close

VILLAGE DESTROYED; INHABITANTS BURN

One Hundred and Fifty-Four Peasants Die in a Fire in Russian Province.

St. Petersburg, July 4.—One hundred and fifty-four peasants were burned to death to-day in a fire which destroyed the village of Astradamovkao, in the district of Alatyr, according to a despatch in The Novoe Vremya.

SERVIA IS BEATEN AFTER A BIG VICTORY OVER BULGARIA

Correspondent Wagner Of Vienna, on the Job, Tells of War's Progress

Vienna, July 4.—Lieut. Herminigild Wagner, the war correspondent of The Reichspost who attained such notoriety during the hostilities between Turkey and the Balkan allies, telegraphs from the front that the Servian army suffered terribly at Ovchepolyo and that the Servian victory of the Bulgarians at Islip was only a momentary success of merely local importance.

The outflanking operations of the Bulgarian troops toward Kratovo and Egri Palanka have, he says been successfully accomplished so that the Bulgarians are at present advancing on Kumanova and the Servian frontier.

On the right bank of the river Vardar he adds, the flanking operations of the Bulgarians have likewise progressed favorably so that Servian positions at Veles (or Koprili) 23 miles southeast of Uskup, have become untenable and a Servian retreat is imminent.

Greeks Now on Retreat.

The Bulgarian offense movement against Saloniki he says is also being continued successfully and portions of the Greek army have begun to retreat.

A telegram to the same newspaper from Sofia says Premier Daneff and his cabinet have resigned and a coalition ministry is being formed by General Racho Petroff, who after the capture of Saloniki was appointed military governor of that city. General Michael Savoff, the commander-in-chief of the Bulgarian army, has been appointed Minister of War.

LOCAL MERCHANT HOST

Successful All Day Excursion of A. W. Cressman & Co.

The Cressman excursion given on Thursday to the employes of that leading dry goods establishment to Rice Lake was a huge success in every respect. Heretofore, this big store gave its employes an annual outing during the afternoon; however, this year the firm closed down during the whole day and thus enabled its staff to get a complete day's enjoyment.

By the unfortunate error of one of our printers, a longer and detailed report of the excursion was omitted in yesterday's issue.

HIS FORTY-SEVENTH BIRTHDAY.

JOHN CANUCK—"Grandfather, I'm too big to take any more lickings from you."

TOT WAS KILLED PITTSBURG ON THE "SANE" 4TH JULY

Auto Uncontrolled Speeds Among Children Assembling for Day's Parade

Pittsburg, Pa., July 4.—Several hundred school children assembling on the streets of West Pittsburg, preparing for the school parade, part of the day's festivities, were scattered by an uncontrolled automobile that plunged through the crawl, hurling the little forms to either side, until it crashed against some stone steps and was wrecked.

When anything like order could be restored, one lifeless little body was picked up. It was that of John Greenawalt, aged four. Twelve others ranging in age from 8 to 11 were prone, helpless in the street, while frantic mothers were tearing the clothes from Abe Yuengling, aged 25 the driver of the car.

The home of a physician almost at the scene of the tragedy, was turned into a temporary hospital, where the children's wounds were dressed. Yuengling was arrested and locked up.

Two Gotham Boys Hurt.

New York, July 4.—Independence Day opened here with the removal of two boys to hospitals for the treatment of serious burns from the firecrackers.

CLAIM THEY HAD NO RIGHT TO SEE CONDEMNED GIBSON

Officer Denied Taunting Condemned Man and Was Censured--Deputy Must be More Civil

Toronto, July 4.—The Police Commissioners held a special session yesterday to consider the charges made by Charles Gibson, Sr., against P.C. Chapman in connection with the latter's unwelcome intrusion on young Gibson in his cell at the jail.

The constable flatly denied Mr. Gibson's charges that he had taunted the condemned man, snapping his fingers in his face, and declaring you "haven't that much chance," but admitted having gained admittance to the cell. His plea was that he had only told Gibson that he "had plenty of time in which to prepare to meet his Maker."

Chapman Censured.

The Commissioners, after hearing the evidence, censured Chapman, saying that he had no right to even enter Gibson's cell without special permission. They also severely reprimanded the guard on duty outside the death cell at the time Chapman admits he gained an entrance.

Dogs in Witness Box.

Counsel for the Trades and Labor Council was present before the Board to protest against the term Deputy Archibald used on the occasion when the Socialist, who had been arrested for disorderly behaviour at a meeting on Yonge street, refused to swear when put into the witness box whereupon the Deputy remarked, "What's the use of putting dogs in the witness box?"

The defence was that the remark was not applied to the witness in particular, but was just meant generally, as the Deputy doubted the validity of any man who refused to take oath before giving testimony.

Must Be More Civil.

The matter was allowed to drop there but the Commissioners stated that in the future the police would have to be more polite and respectful in their dealing with those connected in any case coming up for trial in the Police Court.

FLAG RIOT CAUSED BY "GRAND OLD RAG"

Winnipeg, July 4.—At an early hour this morning the Stars and Stripes was trampled in the dust on Main street at a time when thousands of Winnipeg and other Manitoba soldiers were returning from the annual camp at Sewell, near Brandon, where they had been manoeuvring under Sir Ian Hamilton.

The sight of a young man waving a large American flag in the faces of the returning One Hundredth Regiment started a small-sized riot.

The flag was trampled under the feet of the marching soldiers, and several of those who took part in the free-for-all fight that followed the appearance of the flag received black eyes and cut faces.

When the One Hundredth was near the Union Bank a young waiter stepped up to the curbing and started to wave the flag of his country, at the same time shouting "Hurrah for the American eagle." Instantly the eyes of all were turned on him, and at the same time Colonel J. B. Mitchell, in command of the regiment, ordered one of his men to request the patriotic American to put away the flag. The soldier started to obey but before he could reach the American several civilians had preceded him, and one of them grabbed the flag and threw it in the street.

Before it could be rescued it was badly torn. The soldiers preserved perfect order, however, and marched on as though nothing had happened.

THE WEATHER.

To-day—South and west winds, mostly fair and very warm, thunderstorms in a few localities.

PINE TAR CORDIAL

Advertisements under above heads, 20 words and under, one insertion, 15c.; 3 insertions, 25c.; 6 insertions, 40c.

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 50c. and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 75c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 50c. Nugent's Sarsaprilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaprilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., 3[illegible] George St., directly opposite Crossman's store.

SAVING NERVOUS FORCE

Be Self-controlled at the Proper Time and Place

Watch people who are talking together, or even one person reading or apparently occupied in some way, and you will notice that most of them are surprisingly restless.

Some part of each individual, his feet or his hands or head, is almost always in motion. Everybody seems to have the "fidgets," and unconsciously they transfer their restlessness to those with whom they come in contact.

It is not a becoming habit to acquire, nor is it wise, since people addicted to it use up nervous energy in a useless fashion. Everyone needs all the power he possesses, and every bit that is wasted is just so much loss to health and enjoyment. It may seem a small matter to the individual, but tapping the feet, playing with the hands, constantly changing the position goes a long way towards creating a habit which is a menace to dignity and self-control.

If you have ever been in a schoolroom at a time when no work was required of the pupils, but just quietness and a correct position, you would have noticed the spirit of restlessness that prevails. No matter how interested the children may be in listening or observing, you will see hands playing with pens or bits of paper, feet moving about under the desk, shoulders shrugging, heads nodding, or any of the other signs of this national malady.

IGNORANCE OF THE BIBLE

Professor H. F. Hamilton publishes some figures respecting the 150 Freshmen who entered Amherst College, Massachusetts, last year. They were set a paper of six Bible questions, of which two were "the easiest that could be thought of," while "two were exceedingly difficult, so as to test the intimate as well as the average knowledge of the man." More than 90 of these undergraduates could remember nothing about the fall of Jericho, 37 knew nothing of Cain, 40 knew nothing of Daniel, and 65, 103, and 105 failed to answer questions about Saul, Gideon, and Timothy respectively. Professor Hamilton also reports that in visiting certain schools in New York he found, among pupils preparing for college and nearly of an age for entrance, whole classes that could not tell the story of Daniel in the lion's den.

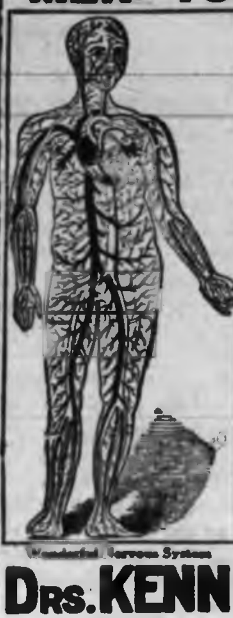
MEN-YOU NEED NERVE



EARLY INDISCRETIONS AND EXCESSES HAVE UNDERMINED YOUR SYSTEM

The nerves control all actions of the body so that anything that debilitates them will weaken all organs of the system. Early Indiscretions and Excesses have ruined thousands of promising young men. Unnatural Drains sap their vigor and vitality and they never develop to a proper condition of manhood. They remain weaklings, mentally, physically and sexually. How you feel? Are you nervous and weak, despondent and gloomy, specks before the eyes with dark circles under them, weak back, kidneys irritable, palpitation of the heart, bashful, debilitating dreams, sediment in urine, pimples on the face, eyes sunken, hollow cheeks, careworn expression, poor memory, lifeless, distrustful, lack energy and strength, tired mornings, restless nights, changeable moods, premature decay, bone pains, hair loose, etc.

CANADIAN WEST RICH IN FOSSILS

One Animal of Bygone Ages Had Two Thousand Teeth, Another a Seven Foot Skull

The richest country in the world is the manner in which Charles H. Sternberg, an explorer engaged by the Canadian government, described western Canada when he arrived in Ottawa with over 20,000 pounds of fossils for the Victoria Memorial museum, which included perfect skeletons of two of the most wonderful and extraordinary animals ever unearthed. One of the skeletons named by Sternberg a duck gill dinosaur, weighed over 6,000 pounds and was 35 feet in length. This animal, Mr. Sternberg explained, lived 3,000,000 years ago, which makes the discovery of the skeleton in perfect order all the more wonderful. Another specimen he discovered, known as the triceratops (three horn trace), had a skull seven feet in length with horns over each eye, and one at the end of the nose. In describing another specimen of the dinosaur, found not very far from the first one, Mr. Sternberg said that he had enough material to complete a mount 40 feet in length. The front part of the mouth of the dinosaur was expanded into a duck bill, and covered with a horn. The teeth, 2,000 in number, were arranged in magazine form, and made a decidedly interesting study.

Mr. Sternberg was enthusiastic in his praise of Alberta and declared that in all his 40 years of exploration he had not lived in a richer country, nor had he ever made a bigger collection of fossils in the same length of time. He spent the greater part of his time in the Red Deer district. In this region he also found remains of lizards of enormous proportions.

AEMILIUS JARVIS

Yachtsman, Horseman, Financier Amateur Athlete—All Round Man

Of Aemilius Jarvis, the Toronto financier and yachtsman, two appreciations have been expressed of which any man might be proud. Sir Geo. W. Ross on one occasion referred to him as "Everybody's Friend," while on another occasion he was very truly described by one who knew him well as "a sportsman always whether he wins or loses."

He was born in York County in 1860 and was educated at Upper Canada College. In 1876, when but 16 years of age, he was permitted by his parents to go to sea. In that year nine Canadian vessels were chartered to carry timber from Lake Michigan to England and young Jarvis shipped on one of these vessels, the "Edward Blake," a three-masted schooner, in the capacity of able-bodied seaman before the mast. Going aboard at St. Catharines he went with the boat to Cheboygan, Michigan, where their cargo of timber was obtained, and then set sail for London. The voyage from Quebec to London took just 45 days.

Returning home Mr. Jarvis entered the service of the Bank of Hamilton in 1877, and until 1892 he was identified with the banking business. In that year he started business as banker and broke, his firm rapidly becoming recognized as one of the most conservative financial houses in Canada. The firm has been responsible for the financing of many prominent companies, including such diversified interests as the Toronto Hotel Company, which built the King Edward Hotel, the Hamilton Steel and Iron Co., the Hamilton Steamboat Co., the Niagara, St. Catharines and Toronto Railway, Penmans Limited, the Aemilius Jarvis & Co., Canadian Locomotive Company, and numerous other industrial concerns.

To Mr. Jarvis was allotted the difficult task of attempting to save the Sovereign Bank from wreck when it was already on the rocks, or, failing to do the impossible, the task of salvaging the wreck. Many people have wondered how it came about that Mr. Jarvis assumed command of the Sovereign Bank, and but few know that it was really J. Pierpont Morgan who sought Mr. Jarvis and persuaded him to act. The Morgans had become quite heavily interested as stockholders in the bank, and when one day they suddenly found things were in a critical state they insisted upon naming their own president to save what might be possible out of the wreck.

From the time that Aemilius Jarvis made his first voyage in 1876 he has been continually devoted to the water. He has been a member of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club since 1885, and has served as Commodore for several terms. During his career Mr. Jarvis has personally sailed his own boats and won over 300 races. He has been associated with practically all the international yacht races on the Great Lakes, and on a number of occasions has sailed the Canadian boat.

Mr Jarvis is a most enthusiastic horseman, and his collection of horse show ribbons is one to be envied. In his younger days he took a very keen and active interest in all kinds of athletics, and has more than once captured championships. In 1882 he won the rowing championship at Kempenfelt Bay, Barrie. In 1879, when the Marquis of Lorne visited Hamilton, the Canadian Athletic Association games were held there and Mr. Jarvis won the championship in the quarter mile race.

EDITORIAL NOTES

This is the season when that munching noise you hear is the happy family eating corn from the cob.

We are told that the newest dance is the luncheon lurch. The lurch, no doubt, is produced by a couple of battles of old Burgundy.

The Society for the Prevention of Noises ought to get busy and suppress some of the mohair suits that are being worn in Peterborough this summer.

The Times is in receipt of an impassioned poem entitled, "Oh Why Did He Not Die?" We do not know, but probably the answer is that he refused to send for a doctor.

A French medical savant says the human heart can, without danger, stop beating for five minutes without danger. This is well to remember when your wife's dry goods bill comes in.

STAMPING OUT A SMALLPOX PLAGUE

The most striking example of the preventive effects of vaccination, which perhaps has occurred in any country, certainly in modern times, is that of the Phillipine Islands. Prior to 1905, some 6,000 deaths each year were due to smallpox. In that year the United States authorities, believing in its efficacy, introduced the practice, and their officers performed the enormous number of 3,094,635 vaccinations, this effectually stamping out this horrible plague.

This is but a modern instance of an old and sound scientific practice, which, unfortunately, to-day is being neglected by parents, municipal authorities and governments. Such neglect has entailed heavy loss upon many communities; we should be wise before it is too late.

ONTARIO MEDICAL COMMISSION.

Sir James Whitney has announced the appointment of a commission to investigate the Rhole subject of medical education and the practice of medicine in Ontario. On the report of this commission legislation will be based to regulate and control the medical interests in that province. The scope of the commission is broad, and Sir James has stated to what extent the investigation will be conducted. On this point he has laid down general rules for the investigation which, in his own words are:—

"The term medicine will include all plans or means of alleviating or curing human deleviating or curing human defects, disorders, diseases, or wounds.

"The investigation will include the College of Physicians and Surgeons, and the exercise of their powers and duties. It will also cover the medical faculty of any University or College, and what is taught there.

"It will include osteopathy, dental schools, nurses' training schools, as well as opticians and their training.

"The investigation will also include the practice of any branch of medicine by Christian Scientists, or by any other class or sect; and by the time they get through all these their statement will be of such a great and comprehensive character as to be a lasting benefit to the province and the Legislature, enabling the Government to deal with all such matters in an intelligent manner."

CONCERNING THUNDERSTORMS

Many persons, especially in the Western Provinces of Canada, confess to a timidity of the approach of an electric storm. Medical research has obligingly investigated the relations existing between weather conditions and human sensibilities, and has invented a scientific name for this particular emotion to replace the unpleasant term of fear. The ordinarily courageous person who cowers beneath the bed clothes at each successive thunderclap may now the scorn of his friends by ansoothe his own prihe and avoid nouncing that he is suffering astraphobia.

from a new and nasty disease, extremes in weather exercise a quite definite influence on man's

It has long been known that physical and mental natures. Rheumatic and neuralgia patients equal the most expert meteorologists in foretelling the approach of a storm. The humble, but almost universal corn is said to be an excellent barometer. Old wounds ache again when the rain clouds loom up. An unseasonable snowfall in June turns the most unreason- optimism to gloom.

These general facts have long been matters of common knowledge, as we have said, but it is only recently that science has taken a concrete instance and attempted to trace its pathological circumstances. The case of persons super-sensitive to the effects of thunderstorms has been intelligently considered, and it has been observed that the manifestations of dread are not confined to the exact period of the electrical disturbance. The symptoms, which in extreme cases include nausea and nervous prostration, are often visible lang before the appearance of the natural phenomena, which have been popularly supposed to induce them. They last in similar cases, long after the tempest has blown over. It was consideration of this lact that led to the discovery of the new malady; a malady which may rival in vogue the fashionable appendicitis.

The investigation is only just begun, and is being pursued by German scientists with the persistent thoroughness of the Teutonic race. Prof. Hellpach's unique work, "Die Geopsychischen Erscheinungen" gives quite an elaborate account of the evidences and supposed causes of the ailment. "Wetterfuhlen," by Dr. Martin Farkas, of Budapest, a most instructive article based on an investigation of the aches and kains on the inmates of a home for old soldiers. May we suggest, however, that inquiry in this particular line has gone far enough, and that the efforts of the sages should be directed to other but kindred spheres. The discovery of a satisfactory name for what has been considered cowardice in one instance might be paralleled with equally gratifying success in other cases. If the sages can account in similar inoffensive fashion for the motives which impel a worthy householder to leave by the front door when he hears burglars entering the back door, or for the state of mind which induces a well-meaning individual to involve his friends in his own misery rather than face the dentist's chair, they will confer a benefit on a large number who have hitherto hung their heads in modest shame.

THE INDEMNITY QUESTION

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I read with great pleasure your article on the proposed Sessional Indemnity increase and must congratulate Mr. Burnham on the manly stand he has taken on that question, 'whilst as a Liberal, I did not vote for that gentleman, I cannot but admire the sturdy way in which he carries out his views on political matters. I am fully aware that possibly 90 per. cent. of the Dominion members advocate the proposed increase, my personal views coincide with those, as expressed by Mr. Burnham in opposition to this increase.

Catarrh or Colds Never Quickly Cured By Swallowing Drugs

Cough Syrup, Tablets, etc., go to the Stomach, Perhaps Sicken It, But Don't Kill the Germs of Catarrh.

The Direct Breathing Cure is Best.

To cure an ailment in the throat or chest, to rout out Catarrh or Asthma it is essential that the medicine be conveyed direct to the affected parts. This is why no other remedy has achieved such world-wide success as Catarrhozone, which alone can be breathed in one second to every air cell in the breathing organs. The healing vapors of Catarrhozone mix with the breath and descend through the throat, down the bronchial tubes, to the deepest air cells in the lungs—all parts are saturated with the rich piney essences that ease, heal and cure.

"No one ever contracted a more obstinate attack of nasal catarrh than I suffered a month ago" writes Mr. G. E. Boot, a well known resident of Bridgetown, W. I. "My head ached terrifically, I sneezed about every three minutes, but still my nostrils were entirely closed and I couldn't breathe through them. Ten minutes inhaling Catarrhozone gave me a little relief so I continued to use Catarrhozone every hour, and before the day was out I had improved. Catarrhozone quickly cures me I am well ever since."

There is no remedy so certain and safe as Catarrhozone, but being a good remedy it is imitated. Beware of the substitutor. Large Catarrhozone lasts two months, price $1.00; smaller sizes 25c and 50c. At all storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

SPORTING NEWS

POLO.

America landed on top of the scrap heap with an 6 to 7 victory over England in the auto-polo mix-up at Exhibition Track last night. Aided by the rays of many powerful search lights, the disciples of "Steve" Brody, the man who "took a chance," waded in and thrilled their audience with their clever, dare-devil exhibition of driving, playing, and "near" catastrophe.

The English car turned turtle in the fourth quarter, spilling Capt. Stirling and his mallet man, who, though severely jolted, paused only for a moment, and then dashed back into the game again.

Capt. Sterling did the "serpentine" through a row of ten barrels set each 25-feet apart, and was also successful in the two-mile handicap.

◆

BASEBALL.

St. Louis, Mo., July 4.—As the result of his fist fight with Umpire Jack McNulty of the Federal League staff, just before the Indianapolis game here recently, Manager Jack O'Connor of the local team was suspended indefinitely and heavily fined by Presidents Powers of the league. McNulty's jaw was fractured.

◆

CRICKET.

Philadelphia, July 4.—Three Canadians, one New Yorker and six Philadelphians were selected to-day by the Associated Cricket Clubs to oppose the Australian cricketers in the match which begins here on Friday next. One other Philadelphian will be chosen later.

H. Read and Percy Henderson of Toronto and A. Goodman of Montreal are the Canadian selections: A. A. Hoskins is the New Yorker, and the Philadelphians are Percy H. Clarke, T. C. Jordan, H. C. Pearce, H. A. Furness, P. P. Anderson, and C. C. Morris.

BIKE.

Waterloo, Ont., July 4.—Six thousand people were in attendance at the Canadian Wheelman's Association annual meet held here yesterday.

There were sixty starters in the Dunlop Trophy, F. Brown, Toronto, winning in 54-47.

—Trophy Race—

Dunlop Trophy road race, twenty miles from Waterloo to Preston Hill and return. Result:

W. T. Black, Galt, 7 mins.

F. Terry, H.M.C., 8½ mins. handicap.

E. Herron, T.B.C., 8½ mins. handicap.

F. Gross, Salem B.C., 8 mins. handicap.

A. Bradley, H.M.C., 6 mins. handicap.

—Team Winners—

Team winners were: Toronto Bicycle Club, 16 point, Dunlop's trophy prize; Herb McDonald Club, 17 points; Salem B.C., 23 points.

First time prize: F. Brown, 54.47; in eleventh place. Second time prize —R. Bradley, 57.41 in fourteenth place.

—Toronto on Top—

It was a great day for Toronto Bicycle Club, one-quarter and one-half mile championships being captured by Walter Andrews, and one and five-mile honors were taken by Frank Brown, Gordon McMillan, who carried off a majority of the championships last year, was beaten by Andrews and Brown.

Two motor-cycle races were pulled off during the afternoon, the five-mile open being won by F. Miles, of Toronto and three-mile by Harry Gies of Berlin.

LAWN BOWLING.

For the first time during the tour the Canadian bowlers got a lead on England when they beat Bedfordshire on Monday. This was quite in line as their play has so greatly improved during the past four or five days that this was looked for.

—Good Performance—

It was good to commence operations on Dominion Day, with that lead, but the "gods" yesterday were not kind and they went down to defeat by 5 points to Northampton.

In the Bedfordshire game every Canadian rink was up and the total of piece 38 shots up was a remarkably good piece of work. Dr. Wood had 29 to 10 against his opponent, and the doctor on occasion can be there with the goods all right.

—Capt. Rennie Up—

Yesterday Captain Rennie was top-notcher with a 3 shot victory, while Chapman and Rice had to be content with a one shot victory. Dr. Wood was down 4 and McTaggart 4, while the one and only Secretary C. O. Knowles sat on the bench and studied some more of Monson's bowling instructions.

The team are going well, and have yet a chance to leave the land of the rose with a victory. If they are able to do this they will have achieved something never before done by any Canadian team, and as a matter of fact their record so far has never been approacheh by any other team.

In addition to the game yesterday, the toruists attended the Dominion Day reception given by Lord Strathcona, Canadian High Commissioner.

Carbolic Soap

Shave and melt a bar of mottled Castile soap. The melting is best done in a water bath so there will be no scorching. Beat into the melted soap, a little at a time, half a pint of carbolic acid solution of fifty per cent. strength. Keep on beating, with the soap still in the water bath, for at least a quarter of an hour. Mold into smaller cakes or balls and let stand a month in a dry place. Suds made from this soap, or scrubbing with the soap itself, will disinfect glass, pottery and metal. With wooden vessels burning is the thing. Carbolic soap suds, however, will destroy germs in woodwork if they are applied to it boiling hot.

Peril of Neglected Teeth

Septic pneumonia, caused by abscess in the sockets of his teeth, was described at a Westminster inquest as the cause of death of Arthur John Cheeseman, a butcher. The coroner commented on the danger of neglecting teeth, and said disease of the teeth sockets had been found to account for many hitherto mysterious blood complaints.

Poachers Fire at Magistrate

Mr. John Shiel, justice of the peace was fired at by poachers, whom he found shooting at Carnlough, on the borders of the counties of Roscommon and Galway, Ireland. Mr. Shiel discovered four men with guns and dogs. He called on them to stop, but they ran off, and he gave chase. Four shots were fired, some of the shot piercing the magistrate's clothes.

EDUCATION IN JAPAN

Children Are Given Good General Training, With Some Specializing

The annual report of the minister of state for education in Japan is in many respects an inspiration and an example to all who are engaged in educational work. It is not a mere record of good work done, although in this respect it is remarkable when we remember the short time that Japan has been in contact with western civilization; it is full of suggestive ideas, and those in supreme command insist on the necessity for all the work being of an educational nature, which would develop the powers of the students. On the one hand, special means are taken for the nurture of efficient teachers, so that the teaching staff of every school should be made complete and perfect, while, on the other, honor and encouragement are given to all persons of merit who are connected with education. At the same time profound attention is paid to the moral education of pupils and students. While a good general education is given as a foundation, special attention is paid to every department of technical education.

INSECTICIDE SIFTER

Scatters Dry Preparation and Lessens the Labor

For the destruction of insect pests that affect low-growing vines or bushes a New York man has patented the sifting apparatus shown in the illustration. It is designed for the use of insecticide in powder form and applies arsenate of lead, lime, slughot, paris green compounds and similar preparations with equal facility. A cylindrical can with a perforated lower portion contains the powder and by a regulating device the amount of poison scattered can be governed. The old-fashioned way of spraying vines was to make a liquid solution and to cover an acre of ground required a great deal of unnecessary labor, owing to the weight of the water in the mixture and the fact that only a comparatively small area could be sprayed with one load. It is claimed that this sifter will spray an acre an hour.

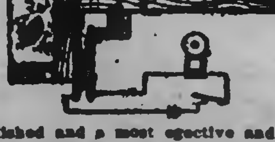
NO WATER TO INCREASE WEIGHT

THE SUFFRAGETTE

Question-time comes. The speaker deals sympathetically with earnest inquiries and sharply, but lightly, with those of the impertinent order. Then, on her left, a male individual in a crushed felt and a skyscraper collar puts what is meant to be a killing question. "How would the speaker like to be a man?" As if stung by an electric needle the speaker faces round to the questioner. A steely glitter lights her eyes, the muscles of the erstwhile glowing face grow taut as a bent rapier. For a full half-minute she stays her reply, her eyes meanwhile striving to pierce through the outer wrappings of the masculine person. Then, in low, but clear, staccato tones, that ring like pistol-shots across the silence, comes the retort: "How would you?"—London, Eng. Citizen.

Simple Burglar Alarm

Making a burglar alarm with a patent clothes pin and an electric bell would not occur to the average person, but the feat can be accomplished and a most effective and disturbing alarm it makes. The sketch shows how the thing is done better than an explanation in words. The tips of the clothes pins should be wound with insulating tape before the bare wires are wrapped around them. A switch should be provided else the alarm will ring every time the door is opened whether in daytime or night.



A MATHEMATICAL TRADITION

An interesting problem in mathematics assumes the form of a tradition connecting itself with the name of Josephus, the Jewish historian. After the Romans had captured Jotopat, as the story runs, Josephus and forty others sought shelter in a cave. So afraid were they of falling into the hands of the Romans that all of them excepting Josephus and one other man resolved to kill themselves. The wit of the historian began to work, devising a scheme to save himself. He therefore proposed that they all stand in a semicircle, that they put each other to death, killing every third man in regular order, and that the last surviving man should then commit suicide. This agreed upon, he was careful to place his like-minded comrade in the sixteenth place in the line and himself in place thirty-one, with the result that the two were the last that were left, and by this means escaped death. It is a true problem, and the question was to know before the killing begun which number in the line the two friends should assume.

Guardians and Insurance Act

"It is the opinion of many persons," said the chairman of Carrick-on-Suir, Ireland, Board of Guardians "that the average man in the street knows as much about the application and administration of the Insurance Act as a good many of the highly-paid inspectors and organisers the Commissioners were sending around." The discussion arose on a statement made by the clerk that one of the insurance inspectors visited the house and threatened to prosecute the guardians if they would not take immediate steps to insure the carpenter employed in the house.

YOU CAN MAKE MONEY IN

Carmangay

"The Star of Alberta"

PAST The splendidly strategic site of Carmangay was discovered by a far seeing, shrewd railway engineer attracted to the district by the lure of the finest wheat in the Canadian West. He snapped up lands where the wide canyons of the Little Bow River narrows to a point. Here must all railways cross. The C. P. R. came and the shipping centre created went ahead by leaps and bounds.

PRESENT Carmangay today is a thriving incorporated town, with not less than 53 business places. Her up-to-date electric and natural water supply systems are owned and operated by the people. Carmangay boasts an eight-roomed schoolhouse, two banks and four big elevators, shipping over a million bushels in 1911 and 1½ millions in 1912. Carmangay has coal mines operating, and the entire district is underlaid with coal of finest Galt quality.

FUTURE Carmangay grows as Alberta grows. That means a wonderful future. Four new railroads are heading for Carmangay. Four new elevators are trying to cope with the tremendous wheat yields of the district. The mines are opening up splendid prospects. Carmangay is being rapidly developed into one of the greatest towns in the Canadian West. YOU can just as confidently invest in Carmangay as her own people do, who are building in brick and stone for a tremendous future. Carmangay has her own supply of finest brick clay and stone right at her doors, and will soon supply her sister cities in Alberta.

OLDER THAN DERBY

The St. Leger a Long Established Turf Classic in England

The St. Leger, which was won this year by August Belmont's Tracery, is years older than the Epsom Derby, having been run 137 times over the corporation course at Doncaster. The distance is 1 mile, 6 furlongs. In the past sixteen years the winners have been: 1896, Persimmon; 1897, Galtee More; 1898, Wildflower; 1899, Flying Fox; 1900, Diamond Jubilee; 1901, Doricles; 1902, Sceptre; 1903, Rock Sand; 1904, Pretty Polly; 1905, Challacombe; 1906, Troutbeck; 1907, Woolwinder; 1908, Your Majesty; 1909, Bayardo; 1910, Swynford; 1911, Prince Palatine.

Poverty in Japan

After a tour through the poorer quarters of Tokio, Count Okuma, a former Prime Minister, and one of the leading statesmen of Japan, has come to the conclusion that it is absolutely impossible for the lower classes, having regard to the current rate of wages and the charges made for breadstuffs, to earn sufficient for their bare needs. He advocates that the duty on rice should be abolished, but the authorities refuse to listen.

Amusing Londoners

It has been calculated by industrious statisticians that London, England, spends about $12,500 per waking hour on its amusements, or more than $45,000,000 a year, the principal items being theatres, $15,000,000; music-halls, $10,000,000; cinematographs, $15,000,000; skating, dancing, concerts, etc., $5,000,000. If betting can be regarded as an amusement, another $50,000,000 must be added, making some $95,000,000 a year.

Welcoming the New Laird

Lord Seafield, the new laird of Grant, was welcomed home by a gathering of some 500 clansmen, who marched in procession from Grantown-on-Spey to Castle Grant. All the 500 clansmen, without exception, answered to the name of Grant. Pipers thrilled the clansmen with the music of the ancient clan gathering.

Heir to 145,000 Acres

The coming-of-age of Mr. Watkin Williams Wynn, heir of the ancient Wynnstay Estates, covering 145,000 acres in Wales, was commemorated on the Llangedwyn and Llanforda Estates, when the tenantry presented the heir with a silver tea urn, while Sir Watkin Williams Wynn entertained 1,000 people at Llangedwyn Hall.

SYNOPSIS OF DOMINION LAND REGULATIONS

ANY person who is sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Public Building, Lakefield, Ont.," will be received until 4.00 p.m., on Monday, July 21, 1913, for the construction of a Public Building, at Lakefield, Ont.,

Plans, specification and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained on application to the Postmaster at Lakefield, Ont., at the office of Mr. Thos. Hastings, Clerk of Works, Postal Station "F," Yonge St., Toronto, and at this Department.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the contract. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
R. C. DESROCHERS,
Secretary.
Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, June 26, 1913.

Newspapers will not be paid for this advertisement if they insert it without authority from the Department.—42451.

TENDERS FOR DREDGING

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Dredging, Collingwood, Ont.," will be received until 4.00 p.m., on Monday, July 7, 1913, for dredging required at Collingwood, Ont.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on the forms supplied, and signed with the actual signatures of tenderers.

Combined specification and form of tender can be obtained on application to the Secretary, Department of Public Works, Ottawa. Tenders must include the towing of the plant to and from the work. Dredges and tugs not owned and registered in Canada shall not be employed in the performance of the work contracted for. Contractors must be ready to begin work within thirty days after the date they have been notified of the acceptance of their tender.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, for five per cent. (5 per cent.) of the contract price (no cheque to be less than $1500.00) which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted, the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
R. C. DESROCHERS,
Secretary.
Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, 28th June, 1913.

Newspapers will not be paid for this advertisement if they insert it without authority from the Department.

TURKISH SOLDIERS WITHOUT FEZES

For the first time, when war broke out between Turkey and the Balkan allies, the Turkish soldier went to war without the fez. Mahmud II, when he changed the uniform of his army, tried to introduce the shako, but the opposition of the soldiers was too strong for him. The fez is a poor covering for men on active service; for even the change of its color to khaki did not get over its feebleness as a protection against sun or bad weather.

Hence the headshawl devised some time ago to be worn twisted around the fez. The Turk's devotion to the fez is clearly explained by Duckett Ferriman: "The prejudice against the hat rests on a religious basis. If the form of prayer is rightly performed the forehead must touch the ground. The brim of a hat or the peak of a cap would prevent this."

WHY GEMS SHINE IN DARK

What we call darkness is really the absence of all light, and in such a condition neither precious stones nor anything else will shine. But should there be even a little light, then anything that has a polished surface, such as a diamond, reflects that light from it, giving rise to the appearance of shining, and so one might be able to notice a stone of this kind in a very dim light, which we might be inclined to call darkness. But there must be a little light, or we could not get the reflection.

CO-OPERATIVE CREDIT POPULAR IN INDIA

At the conference of officers of co-operative credit societies, held at Calcutta, the president was able to give a very satisfactory review of the progress in the establishment of these societies in different parts of India.

During the past six years the number of societies rose from 843 to 8177 and the number of members from 19,000 to 403,000, and this increase, although rapid, has been generally speaking, of a sound and definite character, indicating that the co-operative movement has been able to command in a great degree the confidence of the agriculturists who, on a low computation, save 10 per cent. per annum on the sums they borrow from the societies, as compared with what they would incur in borrowing the same amount from the money lenders.

The direct financial advantage is not the only benefit ensuing from this co-operative system, for in one district alone the number of civil cases showed a decrease of 1100, a condition of things which the judicial authorities ascribed to the institution of the co-operative credit societies.

HUGE WATER SCHEME

Many Western Towns to Benefit by a Dam on the Saskatchewan River

The biggest water supply scheme ever projected in Canada was planned at a meeting held in Winnipeg when the Government of Saskatchewan, the Canadian Pacific, the Canadian Northern and the Grand Trunk Pacific railways entered into a compact to divert the south Saskatchewan River to supply drinking water to Regina, Moose Jaw, Weyburn and other towns and cities in Saskatchewan. The work will cost ultimately $30,000,000.

Three hundred million gallons of water per day will be available for water supply without detracting greatly from the flow of the river. About 30,000 horsepower will also be developed.

The work involves the construction of a huge dam across the Saskatchewan and a large distributing system to supply the different towns and cities with water.

The railways are interested partly because they have been unable to secure water for their locomotives and also because they feel that the building up of the Province means increasing revenue.

CATTLE FROM MEXICO

Real Long Horned Steers From Madero's Own Herds for Alberta

Ten trainloads, or in round figures, 10,000 head of the fastest, rangiest, longest horned cattle of Old Mexico were shipped to Alberta, direct from the personal herds of President Madero, who is known the world over as the cattle king of Mexico.

The cattle were sent to the Blood Indian reserve in Southern Alberta, having been shipped from El Paso, Texas. The animals were brought to El Paso guarded by Mexican rurales or mounted police and a strong detachment of regular soldiers. The animals are regarded as the most dangerous cattle in the world. A special band of cowboys and vaqueros from Mexico accompanied the herd to Alberta and some of the men were engaged to stay to herd the cattle.

This is the first shipment of genuine steers that has ever been made to Alberta.

RECORD OF FINGER PRINTS

First for Criminal Purposes Received at Ottawa From Dawson

The first finger prints of any criminal from Dawson were received at the office of the Criminal Identification Bureau, Ottawa. There were nine of these finger prints, photographs and records of criminals in all, and these were, as stated, the first from Dawson, although others have been received from different of the Mounted Police Stations in the West. There are now over 6,100 finger prints at the bureau, the increase for some time having been at an average rate of 150 a week.

Useful Age

That a man is not too old to work after he is 60 years of age is proved by figures made public by the Pennsylvania Railroad, which has in active service 4,717 employes who are between the ages of 60 and 70. Under the road's pension system, an employe may retire at the age of 70, and there are now 172 men receiving pensions who have served 40 years or more in the company's service. But there are even more active employes than that who have worked for the road 40 years or longer, the total number being 30,040.

Protection in Mines

Should the bulb be broken in a new electric lamp for use in mines a spring cuts off the current and averts the danger of gas being ignited.

A TENDERFOOT'S WOOING

—BY—

CLIVE PHILLIPPS WOLLEY

(AUTHOR OF "GOLD, GOLD IN CARIBOO," ETC.)

Supplied Exclusively in Canada by The British & Colonial Press Service, Limited.

CHAPTER I.

A Bad Start

"I am afraid that you are a poet, Miss Clifford."

"What do you mean, Mr. Anstruther?"

"To be polite to a young lady with an imagination. Did you not tell me when I was in Larkshire, that it never rained in British Columbia? Don't you remember how blue your skies were when you were six thousand miles away from them? May I be permitted to ask if this is a fair sample of your Eden?"

The speaker, a tall, slight man, of not more than twenty-three, stood beside an up-country cart, the collar of his waterproof coat turned over his ears, a wet cigarette drooping from his lips, and an icy sleet storm driving into the back of his neck, in spite of his endeavors to keep it out.

Every line of his thin, well-bred face expressed discomfort and disgust, whilst the smartness of his get-up emphasized the roughness of his surroundings. The ladies he was addressing, in spite of the disadvantage of sex, seemed infinitely more in their element than he did.

"Does it never rain in England, Mr. Anstruther?"

"Yes, but we admit it, though I never saw anything like this in that much-maligned country. I suppose this is what you call a blizzard," and he dug his heel irritably into his horse's ribs to turn that animal's quarters more emphatically upon the slanting deluge.

At this moment a man rode up on a ragged-looking cayuse, plain headed and not too straight in the shoulder, but quick and handy as a cat.

This man looked at the speaker with a scarcely concealed sneer upon his weather-stained face.

"It's no good staying here, Mrs. Rolt," he said to the girl's companion. "This won't let up before dark, and it's going to turn cold. Shouldn't wonder if we got the blizzard that gentleman talks about."

"How far is it to Brown's, Jim?"

"Can't say exactly. Pretty Dick says we are off the trail. I guess he' right."

"What is this then that we have been following?"

"A watering trail seemingly. I've not been this way myself for years, but the tracks all break up different ways a bit farther on."

The month was early October and in October the weather may be perfect upon the northern cattle lands or it may not. There is a whisper always; sometimes a threat of winter in the air. Even in summer, in spite of the glorious sunshine, you cannot quite forget that winter reigns here at least half the year.

That morning, the long undulating uplands had been stretches of sunlit purple, royal in coloring, boundless in extent, with fair broideries of pure gold where the cottonwoods shed their leaves in the little wet gullies; now, in the grey of coming night, these uplands were wild, colorless and desolate as a stormy sea, void and without shelter.

It was a dreary outlook for the two women in an open rig, drawn by two utterly worn out horses, but it was Mr. Anstruther who resented it.

"Do you mean to say, Combe, that you don't know where we are?" he asked impatiently.

"We ain't in England, Mr. Anstruther, and we forgot to order milestones when we heard you were coming," retorted the other, his color rising.

"No, we're not in England," Mrs. Rolt put in hastily, "we are in Jim's own country, and if we are off the trail for a moment, it does not matter a little bit. Which way, Jim?"

Jim's face relaxed at once. Like a high-spirited horse he flinched at the least touch of the curb, but the light hands of his Boss's wife could do what they liked with Jim Combe, the foreman of the Risky Ranche.

"I'm afraid we can't make camp to-night where we meant to. I got fooled by the weather myself. Didn't calculate on a rainstorm before morning, nor on its turning so plaguey dark, but I know you won't whine if you do get wet. You can't hunt and keep dry all the time. If you let the Indian drive and follow me, I'll get you to Riley's cow camp in no time. It's rough shelter and bad going, but it's better than this," and he shook his bronco and moved on ahead of the cart.

--Read this new grand Serial Story

"Do you mind very much, Kitty?" Mrs. Rolt asked her friend.

"Not a bit, dear, if you can keep the peace between those two. They're just spoiling for a row. What a vile temper Jim has developed since I went back to the Old Country. It's not like him."

Mrs. Rolt smiled mysteriously behind the folds of her hood, but she spoke only to the horses.

"Get up, mare. Keep close to Jim. He can see through anything."

Kitty looked a question, but Mrs. Rolt's face was so innocent of any arriere pensee that the girl said nothing, but just cuddled down into her wraps to endure, as well as might be, the long and dreary drive over unbroken prairie, into and out of ravines which by daylight would have seemed to English people impossible for any wheeled vehicle.

However, ranche horses and ranche rigs are used to such work, and the Rolt's pair scrambled safely through the ravines, though the cart swayed at perilous angles sometimes, and the water slopped about on the floor of the cart making it impossible to keep the feet dry.

After an hour of this the horses began to balk badly, and the cold increased, so that what had been sleet became hail, stinging like the lash of a whip.

"Do you really think that it is any good to go on, Mrs. Rolt?" asked Anstruther, speaking for the first time since his spar with Combe. He was wet to the bone by this time, had lost all confidence in an Aqua Scutum, and had been down two or three times, his big English hunter being as much at sea in this country as its rider.

"Do you think that it is any good to stop here, Mr. Anstruther?"

The figure only half visible in the darkness ahead, reined in his horse and waited. He was too far in front to have heard, and yet Mrs. Rolt was afraid. Jim's bearing, like all his faculties, was keen as that of a wild thing.

"I don't believe that that fellow knows a bit where he is," muttered Anstruther angrily.

"I don't suppose that he does exactly, but he will find his way if we let him alone. None of us could do that in this darkness."

"You trust him wonderfully, Mrs. Rolt."

"We have known him a long time. Haven't we, Kitty?"

But the girl had nothing to say. Perhaps her sympathy and her experience were not at one. Anstruther growled something under his breath, and the procession moved on again at a foot's pace.

"Well, your horses seem to have had enough of it, if you have not, Mrs. Rolt," he said at last, as the pair balked resolutely at the foot of an exceptionally steep pitch. "Get up, you brutes," and the angry man laid his whip savagely across the quarters of the nearest horse.

It winced but stood still.

Again the whip fell, and the horses backed so that the cart nearly turned over.

"Stop that, Mr. Anstruther."

There was an angry ring in the lady's voice, but he was too savage to notice it.

"Pardon me. Miss Kitty and yourself cannot stay here all night. The brutes must be made to go,' 'and dismounting, he proceeded to make them.

But he was hardly on his feet sooner than Mrs. Rolt was out of the cart, and as his hand rose with the whip in it, he was caught by the wrist, and held as firmly by those thin white fingers as if it had been a man who held him.

"You forget yourself, Mr. Anstruther. These are my horses, and I'll manage them myself. Go on and ask Jim to wait for us. Kitty and I can do without your help, thank you."

Anstruther raised his hat with a muttered apology, and did as he was bid, wishing himself back in England and pretty Mrs. Rolt at the devil. What, he asked himself, did women want in such a country? However, unless he was very much mistaken, she would be obliged to call him back to those horses before he had gone very far. Such ill-bred brutes could not be made to understand anything but the whip. But Mr. Frank Anstruther was very much mistaken. Polly Rolt was not only a superb horsewoman—as good with cattle, her husband boasted, as any cow-boy—but she loved them and understood them; understood them because she loved them. So she stood there in the deep mud and driving hail, passing her fine, soft hands over the wealed flanks until some thrill of her gentle nature had soothed the poor beasts.

Then she stroked their drooping ears, and took the mare's muzzle into her arms, putting her face down beside the beast's, and talking tender nonsense which beasts understand.

"Drop the reins altogether, Dick," she commanded. "Now, old boy, come along, come on lassie, up there, up!" and with her hand on the mare's neck she led the way up the steep bank, the horses going with her where no whip could have driven them.

From the top of the bank a tiny speck of light showed ahead in the driven gloom.

"Jim has camped, I think."

"Just in time to save my life," said a desolate voice from the box seat. "I say, Mary—"

"Yes?"

"Let Mr. Anstruther down easily. You were pretty hard on him."

"Not half as hard on him as he was on poor Bess," snapped the other.

"I know, dear, but he is in a strange country, and things are not going well for him. He isn't a muff, really, and yet everything has gone wrong for him so far."

What Polly Rolt answered, only the winds know, but her face cleared as she drew up at the little log cabin, beside which stood two dripping horses.

"I made it, you see, Mr. Anstruther," she called in the slang of the West, "so I will forgive you. Now come and help us out of the cart. Kitty is too water logged to move without assistance."

Anstruther hurried to the cart, and putting his waterproof over the wheel, helped Mrs. Rolt daintily to the ground, as if her skirt had not been one half alkali mud already.

But she tried not to laugh, and pretty Kitty, her face flushed rose pink, and her eyes bright with the weather, made amends, leaning a trifle more than was perhaps absolutely necessary on the supporting arm and whispering:

"Never mind Polly. She doesn't mean it, but the Boss himself dare not flog the horses when she is near."

CHAPTER II.

Two Stages of Development

When Anstruther had taken the ladies baggage into the cabin, a miserable log hut with a mud roof adorned by a few antlers, he turned to unharness the horses.

His fingers were numbed with cold, and none of the buckles were where his English experience had taught him that they should be, besides which, as a matter of fact, he had generally left the unharnessing to his groom.

"Not that strap, Mr. Anstruther. See, this is the way."

But before Mrs. Rold could show him, the silent figure, which had just taken the saddles off the riding horses, took charge, the wet straps yielded as if by magic to the cow-boy's fingers, and the beasts were led off by the Indian to some unseen corral.

"Where have you put Ruddygore?" Anstruther asked Combe.

"In the corral with the others. Why? Do you want him inside?"

On such a night Anstruther might have been forgiven for thinking that the hut was none too good for his well-bred hunter. It certainly was not as good as the loose box to which that valuable beast had been accustomed, but Anstruther saw that there was no help for it. Ruddygore would have take his chance with the rest.

"Well, what can I do to help?"

"You don't have to do anything. Just make yourself pleasant to the ladies. I'll be through in a minute."

"You might cut some wood for us, Mr. Anstruther," called Kitty from the doorway. "I should love a great roaring fire. I am just perished, aren't you, Mary?"

Anstruther picked up the axe a little doubtfully, and looked hopelessly around for something to chop.

"There are some pines in that last gully we passed through," suggested Mrs. Rolt.

Through the dark and not quite certain of his direction, the unhappy tchee tchaco (tenderfoot) splashed his way, and once in the gully put his back into the work. It was not his fault that the axe never bit twice in the same place; it was to his credit that he kept on hammering, until at last a green pine, seven or eight inches in diameter, yielded to his perseverance.

With infinite toil he trimmed it, cut it into lengths, and then packed it back in three trips to the cabin.

Jim had been waiting for the last two trips, and as soon as Anstruther put his axe down, he took it up and disappeared for five minutes, bringing back a huge burnt "stick" on his shoulder.

There was rather more wood in that burnt "stick" than Anstruther had brought in his three trips.

With half a dozen deft strokes the cowboy cut two short lengths from Anstruther's green pine, for fire-dogs, tossed all the rest of that gentleman's hard-earned loads out of the way, chopped, split, and kindled his own dry log, hung the billy on an improvised gallows, and began to cut the bacon.

It was all so simple and so quickly done when you knew how to do it, but it was annoying to have worked for half an hour to no purpose.

"I don't seem to be much good," said Mr. Anstruther.

Mrs. Rolt laughed and shook her head at the cowboy.

"Jim," she said, "you are an old bear. Why didn't you tell Mr. Anstruther what kind of sticks to cut?"

Jim grinned. "I guessed he'd have knowed that much."

"How should he? He has not had to chop wood before."

"You don't say! Is it all coal over there?"

Mrs. Rolt ignored the question.

"You play fair, Jim. You've got to show Mr. Anstruther how to do things. If you don't, I'll go home."

"Right away?"

"Yes, right away."

"Stop and have its dinner first," he said, with impudent coaxing, and handed her a dish of bacon, the rashers cut as thin and as daintily toasted as if they had been prepared by a professional cook.

"Won't you have some, Miss Clifford?"

Too the younger woman his manner was deferential, if not nervous, and, seeing her advantage, womanlike, Miss Kitty looked at the bacon and sniffed.

"It's too greasy, Jim. I wonder if you would toast some of it a little more for me, Mr. Anstruther?"

Frank hurried to obey her, but the fire had been knocked together to make a blaze, and the little flames which shot out, burned his fingers and smoked the bacon, but would not toast it.

"Half a shake, partner. Let me fix that fire for you. Now go ahead."

A couple of touches in the right place from Jim's toe had created a glowing hollow, over which the bacon curled and sizzled merrily, but again it was Jim's doing and not Frank's, so that Kitty's pretty brow was bent, and though she laughed, there was a strong under-current of annoyance in her laugh when Mrs. Rolt began innocently to hum that popular American air—

"You ain't no good,
You c'aint cut wood,
Just kiss yourself good-bye."

The slight upward curl at the corners of Jim's mouth did not mend matters. He knew the air, though Anstruther did not.

"Now, I'm going to be lazy and have a good time," declared Mrs. Rolt, putting away her plate. "I know that women ought to wash up—"

"I'll do that, Mrs. Rolt."

"No, you won't, neither will you, Jim. Just put that plate down instantly. I know your idea of washing up. Do you know, Mr. Anstruther, when he batched, lived alone, I mean, Jim had more crockery than all the other ranchers in the neighborhood put together. Fifty plates I think he had. Kitty counted them one day when she was in short frocks, and we never knew what he wanted so many for until that poor young Webster took his shack for a winter shoot. Then I found out. Shall I tell, Jim?"

"Makes no odds," laughed Jim, "so long as you ain't what Mr. Anstruther calls too poetic."

"Kitty knows it's true, and you daren't contradict her. When we went to see how Mr. Webster was getting along, we found him eating his food off the kitchen table."

"Good place, too," chuckled Jim.

"'Hasn't Jim' left any plates for you?" we asked.

"'Fifty-three, Mrs. Rolt; that's the trouble. I've not had pluck enough to tackle them yet. Come, and I'll show you,' and he took us to a pile as high as that, all dirty on both sides.

"Jim had had a clean side for one hundred and six meals. After that he let the house and the crockery. Here, Pretty Dick, wash these things, please, and make them good and clean."

When the laugh against Jim had died out, and the Indian had carried off the crockery, Mrs. Rolt drew them all round the fire. The hail had stopped for a little while, and no wind touched them under the fly which Jim had rigged up on the lee side of the hut. With a good bed of pine brush on the ground, and a great fire of logs in front, there is no place cosier than a fly. Like a reflector it catches all the light and heat, and yet gives you all the benefit of the sweet fresh air.

That interior made a pretty contrast to the drear and lonesome uplands, in which there were nothing but grey shadows and silence, the ruddy glow of the firelight throwing out the pretty figures of the women, and the smokers prone at their feet, in strong relief.

Handsome as Polly Rolt was in a half-boyish, half-matronly way, the go and dash of the sportswoman tempered by a few years of happy married life, it was no wonder that the men's eyes passed her pure profile to dwell on bonny Kitty Clifford. Even the Chinaman, who cooked for the ranche, worshipped her. She had been worshipped by everyone all her small, spoilt life.

From the crimson Tam o'Shanter, which she had unearthed from her saddle bags to her gleaming gum boots, she was as dainty a little apple of discord as ever fell between two men.

On anyone else, gum boots would have been a horror, shapeless, huge, mud-bespattered. On her they only made you wonder where gum boots so astoundingly small and smart could have been made. Besides, they suggested an apology, if one were needed, for the extreme brevity of Kitty's skirts.

The fire was the most daring gallant in that crowd. It was he who touched Kitty's white throat with his rosy fingers, he who lit the deep blue of her laughing eyes, who threw that velvety shadow which so emphasized the full curve of her saucy chin, and, because even he became timid and uncertain in such a place, made you wonder whether that was a dimple just beyond the curve of those sweet red lips.

Yes, Kitty was pretty, and knew it perhaps too well, pretty with that face which has haunted England for so many happy centuries, going a Christmassing on the pillion behind old-fashioned fathers long ago, looking down perhaps as Guinevere or Gwendoline upon the mailed knights of the tourney, or to-day making young men's pulses beat as they pass through the Army and Navy Stores, where perhaps one meets more pretty women to the acre than in any other space on earth.

"Now sing, some one," ordered Mrs. Rolt.

"You don't mind my tobacco, do you?"

"No, of course not."

Taking his pipe from his mouth, Jim had started at Anstruther's words, and looked a surprised question at the Boss's wife. He had never dreamed that a man might not smoke in camp.

"All right, Jim, it's only Mr. Anstruther's English frills. Where we breathe we smoke in B. C., my husband says. He is my law. But must I give you a lead?" and without waiting for an answer she began to sing the "Old Swanee River" in a rich contralto voice, which gave to the words an infinite pathos as they died away in that homeless waste.

By a camp fire a song must have a chorus; without it the gregarious instinct of man is unsatisfied. Perhaps man sings, in part, because he is a little afraid of nature's silence, and of all choruses those French-Canadian choruses, roaring, rollicking, boating ditties, of which Jim sang one or two, have done more to hunt the blue devils from the rivers of lower Canada than anything else in the world.

They are full of a spirit of a recklessly daring people, and Jim sang them with the spirit of an old-time voyageur, and an accent which if not Parisian, was at least not London. It was noticeable in Jim that though his English was apt to stumble and wonder into all sorts of by-ways of slang, his French was good enough, and his English vocabulary at least as ample as an Englishman's. It was only with the constantly recurring phrases of every-day life that he and those of his kind played the mountebank. It was well for the more scholarly Anstruther perhaps that he did not follow the cowboy in any foreign tongue. Instead he sang them "The Hounds of the Meynell," and for the first time during that picnic Frank Anstruther placed himself, and was at home.

As he sang you knew what that spare horseman's figure meant; you realized where that lean high-bred face would seem a true type, and to Kitty, dreaming as he sang, came a vision of an old, many-gabled house, set, as one's ancestors loved to set them, in a wooded hollow, all the lawns of it alive with hounds, and round the porch of it a group of such men and horses as only England can turn out. Amongst them all that duffer who could do nothing right in Canada, had been the best man in the county.

"Say," said Combe, when the song was finished, "ain't it pretty hard to find a fox nowadays in the Old Country?"

Anstruther came back from the Vale with a start, and perhaps because you cannot adjust yourself to your environments in five seconds, answered a little superciliously.

"No, why should it be. People don't shoot foxes there."

"They are wild, Jim, like our Coyotes," put in Mrs. Rolt.

"There ain't no bounty on them then. Don't they play old Harry with the ranchers?"

"If they do we pay for it."

"Oh, well you see, I ain't been in England myself. I was raised in Canada, and it is good enough for me. I knew there were plenty of foxes when my grandfather hunted the Old Larkshire, but I fancied that the people would have been too thick on the ground now for any wild thing to live. This country is big enough, you'd think, but the Yanks have killed out the buffaloes, and will kill out most other things before they are through."

"When my grandfather hunted the Old Larkshire." It was said in such a quiet, matter-of-fact way that it took Anstruther's breath away, and yet he, who knew the annals of fox-hunting better than he knew his Bible, remembered that one of the best masters the Old Larkshire had ever had was Sir Greville Combe.

Could this fellow in chaps and flannel shirt, who spoke such appalling English, be grandson to Sir Greville?

A quiet smile on Mrs. Rolt's face told him that it was so. In after years Anstruther learned to look through the clothes of the West and see the men beneath, but at the moment a horror took him, and he wondered how long it would take to make him a cowboy.

That was what he came out to be, or so he had told his father and his friends, but looking up he caught Kitty's blue eyes fixed upon him, and knew that he had lied.

"Do you think that I should ever make a cowboy, Miss Clifford?"

The question was very direct, and merited a snubbing, but Kitty had been caught at a disadvantage. There had been more in her eyes than she meant to show just yet, so she stumbled, and Mrs. Rolt answered for her.

"Oh, I suppose you would learn to ride."

"Thank you. I thought that was the one thing I could do."

"Un-schooled horses. You haven't tried a buck jumper yet."

Is Your Back Full of Aches All Day Long?

THAT STAB-LIKE PAIN IN THE BACK IS SURE INDICATION OF KIDNEY TROUBLE.

Mrs. Anna Rodriguez writes as follows from her home in Valencia:—"For a long time I suffered with failing strength and nagging headaches. My condition grew steadily worse, my limbs become bloated and shaky. I was sallow and thin, felt rheumatic pains, dizziness and chills. I unfortunately didn't suspect my kidneys and was nearly dead when I discovered the true cause of my sufferings. I read so much about the wonderful health and strength that comes to all who use Dr. Hamilton's Pills that I felt sure they would help me. Such blessings of health and comfort I got from Dr. Hamilton's Pills I can't describe. They speedily put me right, and their steady use keeps me active, energetic, strong and happy. I trongly urge others to regulate and tone their system with Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut."

No greater medicine exists than Dr. Hamilton's Pills for the cure of indigestion, constipation, flatulence liver, bladder and kidney trouble. An Unnatural Offense.

At noon yesterday, an old man named John McCormack, was arrested by the local detectives charged with an unnamable offense of most serious nature. As the prisoner was conveyed to the Chief's office he exclaimed, "You're all crazy." He will appear at the police court in a case probably held "in camera."

A Young Lindsay Hero.

Lindsay Warder: Lindsay has another young hero in the person of Tom McGinnis, a thirteen-year-old lad who lives on Glenelg-st., who at the risk of losing his own life swam into the Scugog this morning and rescued from downing little Vera McGinnis, of Pumpkin Hollow. The two are not related.

Local Singer Made Good.

Madoc Review: Miss Armstrong of Peterborough, George street Methodist church choir, who spent the week-end with Miss Lillian Garbutt, delighted the Methodist congregation here last Sunday evening by her singing. Her solo, "The Gentle Shepherd," was sung in excellent voice. She also assisted the choir with the regular anthem by taking solo part and duet with Miss Garbutt.

A Bouquet From Lindsay

Lindsay Warder: A very observing young Lindsay man spent Dominion Day in Peterborough and a Warder reporter made the following remark: "While in the electrical city I observed, two things in particular wherein Peterborough is ahead of Lindsay, namely in the manner in which they go after the pesky fly and the way in which they keep their lawns.

Peterborough Man in Trouble.

Port Hope Guide: A Peterborough man was charged with being drunk, and causing a disturbance on the Midland platform, and pleaded guilty. The evidence showed that while waiting for a special train to the north, he amused himself by throwing empty beer bottles in among the crowd and finally hurled one through Budges window. When arrested he had a bottle of beer in his pocket. He was allowed to go with a warning.

Traction Ditcher Here.

Yesterday afternoon a weird looking huge gasoline propelled machine, slowly wended its way north on Water street and crossed the Hunter street bridge. Pedestrians who saw this machine tried to guess what it was. One man remarked, "It looks like a cross between an alligator and a threshing machine." However, it was the traction ditcher, sent by the Ontario Government, to the farm of Mr. John Matchett for demonstration purposes on July 11th.

To Dredge Scugog River

Lindsay Post: It has been suggested, in view of the fact that the Excursion having penetrated the upper Scugog as far as Port Perry that the Government be requested to charter the sidewheeler for a week or two in order to completely open the channel. A few trips by the boat would work wonders, and wkuld again make the upper waters popular for excursionists as well as motor boats.

New Orange Lodge at Lindsay

Lindsay Warder: The semi-annual meeting of the County Orange Lodge of the County of Victoria met this morning at 10 o'clock in the lodge rooms of L.O.L. No. 557, when the County Master, W. Bro. Jos Brown, in the chair, and a large number of members present.

Besides a lot of minor business, final arrangements were completed for the celebration of the Battle of the Boyne in Port Hope on Saturday, July 12th. The Lindsay lodges will be accompanied by the Lindsay Citizens' Band.

A new Orange Lodge will be instituted in Lindsay.

July 3rd

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars nad testimonials.

Ambulance Cupboards

The ambulance cupboard is a modern invention of the most practical kind. These cupboards are put in convenient centres of possible or probable danger, or where serious accidents have already occurred. It is a matter of difficulty sometimes to get an ambulance, motor or other, and these cupboards are fitted with every appliance necessary for first aid, with printed instructions clearly setting forth what may be done by those who have been through an ambulance course. They contain stretchers, rugs, roller bandages, etc. On the inside of the cupboard door is posted a list of the members' names, with names and addresses of local doctors and telephones. Access to the cupboard is obtained by smashing a small pane of glass in the front, thus getting the key which is hung inside.

Advice for the Minister.

In preaching, the minister had been rather long-winded, when the young bride remembered that she had left the Christmas dinner in the gas range without regulating the flame. She hastily wrote a note and slipped it to her husband, who was an usher. He, thinking it was intended for the minister, calmly walked up and laid it on the pulpit.

The minister paused in the midst of his sermon and took the note with a smile, which changed into a terrible frown as he read:

"Please hurry home and shut off the gas."

The Bird With the Broken Wing

I walked through the woodland meadows,
  Where sweet the thrushes sing,
And found on a bed of mosses
  A bird with a broken wing.
I healed its wound, and each morning
  It sang its old, sweet refrain;
But the bird with a broken pinion
  Never soared so high again.

I found a young life broken
  By sin's seductive art;
And, touched with a Christlike pity,
  I took him to my heart.
He lived with a noble purpose,
  And struggled not in vain;
But the life that sin had stricken
  Never soared so high again.

But the bird with a broken pinion
  Kept another from the snare;
And the life that sin had stricken
  Raised another from despair.
Each loss has its compensation,
  There is healing for every pain;
But the bird with a broken pinion
  Never soars as high again.

Sanol's Blood Salt

This salt is an excellent and absolutely harmless remedy for any disturbances of digestion, such as DYSPEPSIA, GASTRIC CATARRH, SOUR STOMACH, HEARTBURN, LOSS OF APPETITE, CONSTIPATION, ETC. and as an aid to digestion in wasting and nervous diseases.

This preparation is a mixture compound so as to resemble in essence and effect the salty part of the human blood which through disease or a wrong way of living might have been lost and not regained. In some cases of flatulence, a sense of fullness or pressure aver the region of the stomach, the blood salt has no equal, in fact there is no other remedy that can take its place.

BOTH SIDES STRAINING EVERY NERVE TO WIN GREY BY-ELECTION

Proudfoot Charges and Abolish-the-Bar the Issues, But Not Much Enthusiasm is Being Aroused

Toronto, July 5.—The political pot is boiling with great fervor in North Grey. Following the regular nomination meeting to-morrow, this time-honored old riding promises to be precipitated into one of the most strenuous if not momentous struggles of its generation.

Into its field the Liberal forces have been drifting in relays for the past two weeks, and it is no secret that for this seat all the forces of the Oppositian are prepared to strive.

The government, too, are not neglecting means by which the new member may be added to the swelling majority already so pr[illegible] in the Ontario House.

Issues of Campaign.

The contest about to be launched is unusually interesting for several reasons. For one thing, the electors are in the rather unique position of facing several issues at the same time. This comes in the nature of a radical change from the last occasion, when the whole struggle waged more or less about the personalities of the two nominees.

In the first place there is the temperance problem to be considered, and the weighing of government and opposition claims to the most adequate promotion of campaign against the liquor traffic. This is none the less significant because the constituency embraces the Town of Owen Sound, which has for several years centred the interest of the temperance and liquor interests of the province.

The obvious attempt of Mr. Rowell and his associates to turn the recent Hanna-Proudfoot affair into political capital also places the electors face to face with a situation new to any district since the Whitney administration assumed control.

The Candidates.

In ahdition there will be a keen contest concerning the personalities of the two men, Colin Campbell, carrying the Conservative banner, and John McQuaker, representing the Liberal forces. Formerly in the matching of Hon. A. G. Mackay, leader of the opposition, and John Boyd, the balance of popular favor swayed in favor of the Liberal candidate for several reasons. This year, however, the two contestants are apparently more evenly arrayed, and no incident in the life of either can well be taken for use on the public platform. This in itself should limit the contest.

GREEKS GAIN THE TOWN AT POINT OF BAYONET

Bulgarians Flee in Disorder Leaving Field Guns In Hands of the Victors

New York, July 5.—A graphic official story of the battle between the Bulgarians and Greeks at Kilkish, 25 miles north of Saloniki, was received by the Greek Daily newspaper Atlantis, to-day, direct from Salonki. It says:

"The battle between the Bulgarians and Greeks at Kilkish ended at ten o'clock in the morning of July 4, in the complete defeat of the Bulgarians, after a severe combardment of the town by the Greeks, who carried the place at the point of bayonet. The town was then occupied by a part of the Hellenic troops while their comrades continued the pursuit of the Bulgarians who had fled in disorder, leaving many of their field guns in the hands of the Greek victors. More than 60 cannon were captured.

"Kilkish was almost completely destroyed by fire before the Bulgarians fled.

"The battle in front of Kilkish was more important than any of those fought by the allies in the campaign between Turkey and the Balkan States. The Bulgarians, who were much superior in numbers, had surrounded the town with defensive works and trenches nearly six feet in depth and very narrow, so that their occupants were sheltered from the splinters of shells.

"Firing started at 8 o'clock in the morning. The Bulgarians had stationed their heavy artillery on the heights from which they fired with great precision, the distances having been marked before the opening of hostilities. The guns first opened at a range of two miles. Their field artillery was too much exposed on the plain below, and they found it impossible to bring it into action."

ANOTHER TRIAL FOR GIBSON

Minister of Justice Hands His Recommendation to Cabinet

Ottawa, July 5.—Charles Gibson, the Toronto man found guilty of the murder of Joseph Rosenthal, is to have a new trial according to unofficial information obtained by our correspondent.

The cabinet council met yesterday afternoon, with Hon. C. J. Doherty present to give his view regarding the necessity of a new trial for the condemned man (who was to have been hanged Wednesday next). The order in council in regard to the case was sent by special messenger to Sir Chas. Fitzpatrick, now at Murray Bay, and pending a reply from the administrator, no official pronouncement on the case will be made.

LOCAL MOTORISTS HOLD OUTING

On Saturday the Peterborough Motor Association entertained some 15 members of the Ontario Motor League to a trip to Burleigh Falls. About 20 of the motorists took the steamer Stoney Lake from the city to Young's Point. Here they were joined by about 40 local auto owners and their friends. The Stoney Lake conveyed the invited party to Burleigh Falls where mine host Darcy provided a sumptuous dinner. A meeting of the executive was held on the boat. All present had a most enjoyable time and spoke in highest terms of the coutesy shown them aboard the Stoney Lake. They all motored home from Young's Point.

WILL ELIMINATE DANGER ON OCEAN

Government Doing its Share to Prevent a Repetition of the Titanic Disaster

(Special to The Times.)

Ottawa, July 5.—Recent actions of the Marine and Fisheries Department show that everything possible is being done to eliminate the element of danger in navigation. The Titanic disaster showed the necessity for it and the Canadian Government has been busy since in co-operating with both the English and the American governments in everything that could possibly take away risk. Recently a scout boat was sent by the Canadian government to watch for icebergs on the Atlantic route and the pilotage system is being carefully looked into. And now it is probable that there will be changes in the rules of the road of navigation in order to promote harmony between those of the United States and Canada in respect to lake navigation. Conferences are being now held in which the high and experienced officials of the Marine Department are taking part with a view to bringing more into harmony the Canadian and American rules. The difference between American and Canadian rules has not infrequently been the cause of collisions and mishaps on the lakes and consequently a change is proposed. While the alterations will be of a technical character yet they will be of immense benefit.

DROPS FROM SECOND FLOOR, C. P. R. BUILDING

Larry Banks Fell Down Shaft to Basement, Breaking Both of His Legs.

Toronto, July 5.—Falling down a shaft from the second floor of the new C.P.R. building to the basement on Saturday, Harry Banks of 662 Yonge street, a drayman who is employed by the Rawlinson Cartage Co., had both his legs broken. He was picked up in an unconscious condition and rushed to St. Michael's Hospital. His condition is regarded as serious.

MOTORED OUT TO INSPECT THE LAKES

On Saturday our local members of Parliament and leading power users motored out to inspect and investigate the reservoir system of the Trent Canal and study the conservation of water in this district. The party included Messrs. J. H. Burnham, M.P., J. A. Sexsmith, M.P., Mayor Bradburn, E. G. Patterson of the Canadian General Electric Co., W. H. Denham of the Quaker Oats Co., and J. H. McClellan, Supt. of the Trent Canal. Their objective point was Haw Lake, in Haliburton Co., some 20 miles north of Minden. The party are expected back on Wednesday.

ORANGEMEN AT S. A. TEMPLE

Big Turn Out of Local Orange Lodges Last Night

Last night some 400 of the local Orangemen met at Orange Hall on Simcoe street and marched in procession to the Salvation Army Temple. The long line, in which the Orangemen marched two by two was led by the big Salvation Army band. The latter, incidentally, is to be congratulated on their appearance, marching and music. The route taken was north on Water to McDonel street and south on George street. Lodges No. 41, 80, 1175 and Juvenile Lodge No. 50, were well represented. The line included visiting brethren from Toronto, Lindsay and Meaford. It would be hard to find a better looking lot of men than in last night's procession. At the Temple inspiring and patriotic addresses were given.

FERDINAND, TSAR OF THE BULGARIANS.

FOUL PLAY SUSPECTED IN SCOTCHMAN'S DEATH

Banff, Alta., July 5.—Rigid investigation is ta be made by the mounted police into the death of Allan MacKay, whose body was taken from the Bow River here yesterday.

Coroner's autopsy has revealed the fact that death was due to violence, there being evidence of a severe blow on the back of the man's head.

MacKay was a Scotchman, who was employed on hotel construction work here until six weeks ago. He disappeared mysteriously several days ago.

BINDS DEMOCRATS TO SUPPORT BILL

Washington, July 5.—Opposition to a rule binding all Democrats to support the tariff bill without change forced an adjournment of the senate caucus to-day until Monday.

Only 31 of the 51 Democrats were present and several senators objected to the caucus taking final action to bind its members when so few were present.

Adjournment was taken to 4 p.m. Monday afternoon, when an effort will be made to secure a full attendance of Democrats.

CHARGE THAT U. S. NAVY LEAGUE OWNED BY TRUST

Patriotic Institution Merely Subsidiary Concern Developed By Congress Lobby Probe

Washington, July 5.—The lobby investigation has been on all week, with Lamar, the "wolf" of Wall street startling the country by his revelations. Next week the Mulhall charges will receive attention from both houses of congress. Still charge follows charge, and in nearly every case there is a counter charge of a more or less sensational character.

The committee has struck the trail of the liquor lobby, which promises to show that the anti-liquor lobby needs attentian. A "conservation" lobby has been discovered and an anti-conservation lobby.

The most startling charge so far made, however, is to the effect that the "gallant navy league" is merely a suqsidiary concern, owned, operated and financed by the United States Steel Corporation. Not unnaturally The New York American, our great jingo journal refuses to believe this.

DISTRESSING ACCIDENT SATURDAY AFTERNOON

A sad accident occurred Saturday afternoon at the corner of Aylmer and Charlotte streets. As little 6-year-old Adele Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. G. Robinson, Simcoe and Bethune streets, was playing she was run over by a heavily laden milk waggon. The incident was purely the result of an accident. Should no internal complications arise, she may recover. Doctors King and Neal were called in.

GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC TRAINS IN THREE WEEKS TO ROCKIES

Route From Montreal Westward Will be Via Toronto to North Bay and Over T. and N. O. Railway to Cochrane

Ottawa, July 5.—It is expected that within the next three weeks Grand Trunk Pacific passenger trains will be running between Montreal and Tete Jaune Cache, on the mountains.

The route from Montreal westward will be via Toronto over the Grand Trunk lines to North Bay, thence by the T. & N.O. over which Grand Trunk has a running right contract, to Cochrane, thence over the Transcontinental to Winnipeg and for the remainder of the way over the Grand Trunk Pacific to Edmonton and the mountains

An alternative (Ontario) eastern route will be provided from Montreal to Ottawa and thence over the old Canada Atlantic to Scotia Junction and Parry Sound.

Contractors' reports from the Cochrane Superior Junction section, received at the office of the commission, indicate that the line is now in first-class shape.

On the strength of these reports a final trip of inspection will be made next week by officials of the G.T.P. and the G.T.R. and the transcontinental commission from Cochrane to Superior Junction.

Chairman Leonard of the commission left for St. Catharines to-day and will proceed to Cochrane, where he will be met by Morley Donaldson, vice-President of the G.T.P.; Donald Grant, chief engineer of the N.T.R. Commission and several other Grand Trunk officials. The tour of inspection will last a week and on the recommendation of these officials will depend when the service will be inaugurated.

PROPOSE TO ABANDON THE OLD WELLAND CANAL ROUTE

Would Utilize Niagara River For Great Waterway for Ocean Ships

Toronto, July 5.—Ald. E. D. Pitt of Niagara Falls, Ont., comes forward with a proposal to abandon the old Welland Canal route and construct a waterway capable of taking care of ocean-going traffic from the Welland river at a point a mile from the Village of Chippewa to Queenston. The plan involves a monolift lock at Queenston Heights, with a tunnel 150 feet high, emerging into the Niagara River. The channel of the Niagara River will be used above Chippewa and below Queenston.

Ald. Pitt claims that a saving of from 20 to 30 million dollars in money and of considerable time in construction as well as in passage through the waterway will be effected by the proposal. The engineer is Maj. Gilette, a man of international reputation, who has been connected with the construction of the Panama canal. Ald. Pitt writes:

Mr. Pitt's Proposal.

When in 1821, Wm. Hamilton Merritt started the construction of a canal between Lake Erie and Ontario following the line in genergl of the present old Welland Canal, he did not follow the route which he desired the route which his genius saw as the most logical, taking advantage of the mighty natural waterway of the Niagara River, with a short canal arodnd the cataract and gorge.

Now, therefore, is projected the Welland Ship Canal, with seven great locks, 80 feet wide, 800 feet long and 30 feet depth of water over the lock sills; each lock to have a lift greater than that at Panama, about 46 feet.

HATE REIGNS SUPREME

Catholic Register's Opinion of Rev. Mr. Riddiford.

The Catholic Register, the organ of the Roman heirarchy in Ontario, prints the following:

One of the old school of bigots, yclept Riddiford, declares, in the course of a Rome-rant, "I believe my mother was as good a saint as Mary (meaning the Blessed Virgin) ever was." With all credit to the good lady, his mother, it is evident that she neglected the maternal privilege of trouncing a bit of reverence and modesty into her offspring.

The Orangemen of Ulster declare that in the event of Home Rule being granted, their "march on Cork will stagger humanity." The sort of stuff the Orangemen generally march on has often staggered certain types of humanity, and we may easily imagine that when the Prentice-boys march on Cork, the corks will be found to fly.

COME FROM RUSSIA TO WED MAN, DEAD 2 MONTHS

With Funds Remaining She Buys Tombstone and Will Be Helped by Friends to Return Home

Edmonton, Alta., July 5.—From Russia to Edmonton to marry the man to whom she was engaged, and then learn that her intended husband had died two months ago, was the experience of Maria Sarakoff, from the Province of Barsan, who came here to be wedded to Paul Krasnoff.

Two weeks ago she arrived in Edmonton, expecting her old-time sweet-heart to meet her, but no one was at the depot, and on enquiry next day the young woman who is but 22 years of age, learned that Krasnoff had died while working for a construction company in the west.

The young Russian had little funds but with what remained she decided to purchase a small tombstone to place over the grave of her deceased lover. For this purpose she journeyed to Mile 50, B.C. The grief stricken girl is now waiting to receive sufficient money to take her back to Russia, and a subscription is being circulated among the Russian populatian of Edmonton.

ARTIST ENTERS FOREST NUDE TO LIVE THERE FOUR MONTHS

New York, July 5.—To show that the hairy cave man lurks beneath the thin veneer of the civilized product and that it is still possible to thrive by teeth and claws, with neither trousers nor tobacco, an American artist named Joseph Knowles will caper into the wilderness in the course of the next few days clad in the garb of Venus. He says he will travel with great simplicity, taking with him neither clothes, firearms, matches, food, tent, ax, blanket, knife nor "fly dope." In the wilderness he will remain from July 1 to Oct. 1, when he will emerge fully clad, in his right mind, well fed and cheerful.

At least, according to his own solemn declaration, he will do these things and has invited witnesses to prove it. All that he asks is to enter a tract of timberland where fish and game are plentiful. He will build his fire like the aborigines by rubbing two sticks together and will catch his fish with nets of cedar fibre.

Skins For Clothing.

Deer he will entrap in deadfalls and use their skins for clothing. He will use stones for skinning knives and cooking vessels and sticks for fish spears. He will make paper out of wood pulp and paint pictures thereupon with the juices of wild berries. He may even make a canoe. And to prove that he could stay in the woods an entire year in case he so desires, he will provide himself with a stock of provisions and a habitation against the coming winter.

THE WEATHER.

To-day—Cloudy and unsettled; a little colder.

FARM FOR SALE

Advertisements under above heads, 20 words and under, one insertion, 15c.; 3 insertions, 25c.; 6 insertions, 40c.

THE UNDERSIGNED offers for sale one of the best farms in the County of Peterborough, being west half of lot No. 7, and northeast quarter lot No. 6, in the second concession of the Township of Dummer, containing 150 acres, more or less. There is on the property two good dwelling houses, first class outbuildings and four never-failing wells. The soil is clay loam, and the farm is in a fine state of cultivation, with the exception of about 15 acres of bush. There is a good sized orchard and several fruits on the farm. This is a splendid opportunity for any one desiring a first class farm in a splendid locality, as it is only 2 miles from Warsaw.

For further particulars apply to

PINE TAR CORDIAL

Advertisements under above heads, 20 words and under, one insertion, 15c.; 3 insertions, 25c.; 6 insertions, 40c.

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 50c. and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 75c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 50c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., [illegible] George St., directly opposite Cressman's store.

EASY VICTIMS OF CLEVER ROGUES

Fortune Telling Fakir Did a Big Business—Clients Were Mostly Women

Something like 1,500 letters containing money and addressed to a certain "Professor," were sent in one batch by the Montreal Post Office to the dead letter department at Ottawa. Most of these letters came from young women in the United States and Canada who desired "inside information," and were willing to pay for it.

The young women wanted to know what their future husbands would look like—whether to marry the tall fair man or the short dark fellow. For the small sum of two dollars the "Professor" guaranteed to wrest the desired information from the stars.

Cash Rolled in

The professor advertised in a number of magazines and newspapers, and for a time the money just poured in. He was first heard of in St. John, N.B., where the post office authorities quickly put him out of business. Then for a short time he did a thriving business at St. Lambert, Quebec. Finally the professor changed his address to Montreal. About that time the post office authorities in that city became suspicious of him, and the professor in turn became wary and neglected to call for his mail.

Women are the easiest victims for such sharks. They send money to learn needle-work or how to make garments at home. Patent medicine enterprises and matrimonial bureaus are also among the most prolifically employed.

Another Scheme

Upon the representations of a Florida land company a Montreal man purchased some land in Florida with a view to acquiring a quick and easy fortune raising celery. Investigation of the purchase proved the "city" to be a bogus place twenty or twenty five miles from the nearest settlement.

A specimen of the soil on his land was submitted to the Dominion Experimental Farms at Ottawa. Following is the report the Montrealer received from Ottawa:

"An examination of the sample accompanying your letter shows it to be practically pure sand. It would have no agricultural value and I do not think that any treatment with fertilizer with the view of making it productive, would prove remunerative."

"We close about five or six swindlers a year," said a post office inspector. "But the Canadian laws are becoming so strict that get-rich-quick-brokers are not using the mails to defraud to any great extent now."

London's Oldest Man

David Jackson, an inmate of the Tooting Home, Tooting, London, celebrated his 104th birthday by dining with sixteen friends all over seventy. The old man has had an interesting career, and he is justly proud of the fact that he is nearly, if not quite, the oldest inhabitant of London.

Born near Lynn in 1809, Jackson began work at eight years of age, following the occupation of a scarecrow. A little later, he was apprenticed to the merchant service. The life at sea suited him and, when out of his time, he obtained a captain's certificate. Fortune smiled on him, and in time, he saved sufficient money to purchase his own vessel. But the ship was lost, and David found himself practically destitute.

He went to London in 1860, and for 33 years he was engaged by a firm of window-blind manufacturers. He continued to do odd jobs till within two days of his 99th birthday, when he was induced to enter the Wandsworth Workhouse. Thence he was transferred to the Tooting Home.

Jackson can remember the peace being proclaimed after Waterloo.

BEST AGE FOR LOVERS

Some Say a Man Should be Thirty Others Say Forty

A discussion has been raised in England concerning the age at which a man makes the best lover. After declaring that it is ridiculous to try to discuss the subject the Lady's Pictorial nevertheless proceeds to do so as follows:—

"Of course a great deal depends on what a woman expects a lover to be. Women's tastes vary so much in this respect. Some fancy the strong masterful Rochester style of man who swoops down upon their hearts and gives them no chance to say either yea or nay. This type of lover can never be in his first youth. He has had to gain experiences to play this game.

"There are women who like namby-pamby so-called poetical lovers. And no age can be assigned to this pattern. It may be anything from 20 to 50. As a matter of fact it never seems to be young even when its years are limited, and, speaking generally, the older it grows the sillier it becomes.

"Many women do not care a jot for silent adoration, others are only satisfied with lovers who come wooing like whirlwinds; some prefer kindy, thoughtful, fatherly-like lover, while not a few women want those who need mothering. And it is the quiet young men who come in this category as a rule.

"In the course of the discussion it has been said that the man of 40 makes the best lover. With this opinion, however, we venture to differ. There is nothing, we have been told, so sweet in life as love's young dream, and the lover of one's imagination is surely young, full of illusions which no man of 40 can retain.

"But then much depends on the taste and age of the woman who is being wooed. It is always more flattering to a woman who is not in her first youth to have a younger man for a lover, whereas a girl often thinks the middle-aged man more interesting in that capacity because he knows the value of restraint and subtler use of flattery.

"However, if one were making a real hero for fictional purposes perhaps the very safest and most attractive age to fix upon would be 30. At this age a man is less unreasonable than a youth, he knows his own mind better, he can more rightly judge whether a woman is companionable.

"He understands that she does not want to be made love to morning, noon and night; he has had sufficient experience to know that she likes small attentions better than passionate scenes; he is neither so sure of himself as the boy nor so sure of her as the older man, nor so exacting as the one and so abominably conceited as the other."

LOCATES LEAKS IN PIPES

The Detectophone Will Save Money for People of Montreal

It is anticipated that many more hours of unnecessary labor and much money will be saved by the adoption by the Montreal water department of the "Detectophone," an electrical instrument by means of which it is possible to locate leaks in water pipes without excavating.

The machine, like a large syringe in appearance, is fitted at one end with a thin steel rod. This is driven into the ground near where the earth is damp from the escaping water, while the operator places over his ear a receiver identical with those used on telephone head sets.

As soon as the apparatus has been adjusted the operator presses a button, which has the result of electrifying the earth round the steel rod in the ground, while the hiss of the escaping water may be distinctly heard.

By following up the damp earth and properly using the "Detectophone," it is claimed that the position of a leak can be located to inches.

"DON'TS" FOR MOTHERS

Proper care of baby depends almost as much on what you don't do as what you DO.

DON'T rock the baby.

DON'T feed it every time it cries.

DON'T take it up every time it cries.

DON'T let relatives or visitors pinch or poke or "boo" at it to make it notice them or laugh.

DON'T let the children of the neighborhood kiss it and visit it.

DON'T let flies get into its food or to its skin.

DON'T put clothes on the baby which hinder the action of the legs and arms.

DON'T dress the baby for show, but for his comfort and health.

DON'T sleep with the baby. Let him sleep alone where fresh air can reach him through an open window.

HABIT OF ATTENTION

A Desirable Quality to Cultivate in Children

Concentration is neither more nor less than a habit—the habit of paying attention, and the lack of concentration is merely the habit of not paying attention. Every day of his life after he understands the spoken language, each child is drilled in one or the other of these habits; the habit—which is the gift of the mother, not of the gods—is usually firmly fixed by the time he is 3 or 4 years old. The child who up to the age of 6 has paid attention to what his mother says will pay attention to what his teachers says. The child who up to the age of 6 years has never paid respectful attention to what anybody says will not pay attention to what his teacher says. Why should he? How can he? Inattention has been his daily habit for years; every time his mother has spoken to him she has riveted the habit more firmly in place until she herself honestly believes that it is an inborn trait. No educational opportunities that we may provide for the older child can ever possibly atone for so bad a habit forced upon him in his helpless babyhood. But the habit of attention which any mother can give by taking thought, will go far to atone for the lack of educational opportunities that are unattainable.

If the United States immigration statistics be correct, the Roman Church must be losing hundreds of thousands of followers every year in the United States alone.

Dan a man be a politician and tell the truth? Mr. William C. Redfield, Secretary of Commerce in Mr. Wilson's Cabinet, in a recent number of the Churchman gives his answer to this. This may seem strange teaching to many who believe in the total depravity of all other men, and yet it comes pretty near the truth. Men will not follow permanently a man whom they cannot trust.

How to Ascertain If You Have Catarrh

Look for Symptoms of This Threatening Disease in the Following List.

"Is your breath bad?"
"Is your throat sore?"
"Do you cough at night?"
"Is your voice raspy?"
"Does your nose stop up?"
"Have you nasal discharge?"
"Do you spit up phlegm?"
"Has your nose an itchy feeling?"
"Have you pain across the eyes?"
"Is your throat irritable, weak?"
"Do you sleep with mouth open?"
"Are you subject to sneezing fits?"
"Do your ears roar and buzz?"
"Are you hard of hearing?"

If you have any of these indications of Catarrh, cure the trouble now—stop it before it gets into the lungs or bronchial tubes—then it may be too late. The remedy is "Catarrhozone," a direct breathable cure that places antiseptic balsams and healing medication on every spot that's tainted by catarrh germs.

"No one can know better than I the enormous benefit one gets from the very first day's use of Catarrhozone," writes T. T. Hopkins, of Westvale, P.Q. "I had for years a stubborn case of bronchial catarrh, ear noises, headache, sore eyes, stopped-up nose and throat. It affected my appetite and made my breath rank. Catarrhozone cured quickly."

The dollar outfit last two months, and is guaranteed; smaller size, 50c, sample size, 25c. at all storekeepers and druggists, or The Catrrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

ARE OUR CITY ROADWAYS TOO WIDE?

In the latest issue of Conservation the statement is made that our Canadian towns and cities are spending too much money in building roadways upon residential streets. There is no plea for narrow streets, but simply for a narrower roadway. It is a fact that in most of our towns it seems to be assumed that the roadway should be as wide as possible, leaving room only for the sidewalk and possibly a very narrow strip of boulevard, says The Guardian. Now, Conservation tells us that we might have just as useful and much more beautiful streets at a great deal lower cost if we would widen the boulevard on each side to, say, ten feet and narrow the roadway to about twenty-four feet. This roadway, it is claimed, is amply wide enough for a residential street, and the ten-foot strip on either side might be in grass, with a row of shade trees bordering the road. There are few towns in Canada where this plan has not been adopted partially, but there are a good many where it is still thought necessary to have a paved roadway at least forty feet wide. The suggestion of Conservation is worth considering. Let the City have all the trees and grass possible; it will have little enough at best; but surely the argument that it costs less to keep up a boulevard than a roadway ought to appeal even to those who prefer bricks to trees.

THAT GERMAN INVASION

A large party of German merchants, manufacturers, and other business men will visit Canada soon. The excursion has been arranged by some of the German banking and commercial agencies, and the avowed object is to increase the trade between the two countries. The invaders, of course, are not interested in buying Canadian products. They are anxious to sell something. And they rightly judge that, if they come over and talk to us, it will have better results from their point of view than to send catalogues. So we may expect them in a few weeks.

The United States is displaying unusual interest in the excursion, and not without reason.

Since the German surtax was removed, our trade with Germany has increased. Many articles which we used to buy from the United States now come over the sea. And this is the point that effects our friends to the south. One paper points out that whereas Canada's imports from Germany of two articles alone increased from about $54,000 to $170,000 in the years 1911-12, our exports from the United States in the same time, of the same articles, dropped from $1,000,000 to $800,000 in round figures. The inference that they draw is that the more the German trade with Canada increases, the less will we buy from the United States.

CANADA BIGGER THAN THE UNITED STATES

Latest returns give Canada's area as 3,745,574 square miles. The United States, not including Alaska and dependencies, covers 3,026,789 square miles, so that if the United States without Alaska, were placed upon Canada, British Columbia, Alberta and one-third of Saskatchewan would be left uncovered. Including Alaska, the Philippines, Hawaii, Porto Rico and a few scattered islands in the Pacific Ocean, statistics give the United States an area of 3,743,34[illegible] square miles, still less than the area of Canada. Strictly-speaking the United States lays claim to about 3,642,122 square miles, as against Canada's 3,745,574.

Canada is, therefore, much larger than the United States, fifteen times as large as France, twenty of Spain, more than sixteen times the size of the German Empire, and more than twenty-five times larger than the British Isles.—Guelph Herald.

SPORTING NEWS

CINDER PATH.

Denver, Col., July 5.—By the closest kind of a margin Paul Krimmell, of New York, has been awarded the championship of the 31st turnfest of the North American Gymnastic Union. The runner-up was John Bissinger, who had been coaching Krimmell for the competition but with little thought that thereby he would himself be robbed of the championship.

Carlisle, Eng., July 5.—Hans Holmer, the American long distance runner, today defeated George Dinning of London in a 10-mile running match by 40 yards. Holmer's time was 52 minutes 58 3-5 seconds.

TURF.

Lexington, Ky., July 5.—The Tattersall stables, famous for auctions of noted race horses, were destroyed by fire here Sunday. Twenty horses worth $15,000 were burned to death. The total loss will be $33,000.

RING.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 5.—Flowers attendants, suburban home, supper, motor honeymoon, and all the trimmings were included in the wedding ceremonies of Miss Marguerite Ryan and Raymond J. Bronson, the middleweight prize fighter and a leading local real estate holder, married here last night. The couple to-day left on a motor tour along Lake Michigan and Lake Erie. Miss Ryan is an heiress.

Winnipeg, Man., July 5.—Boxing matches will be pulled off as usual in Winnipeg, so far as the city police are concerned. Deputy Chief Newton said this morning that the result of the Pelkey affair would have no effect on scraps here, as local bouts are only for points and do not degenerate into prize fights. The latter, he says, are breaches of the criminal code and will not be allowed under any conditions. Caponi and Hicks was allowed to mix it on July 3, however, as long as they kept on the right side of the distinction line between prize fights and boxing matches. Several policemen who had been through the game were detailed to be present and saw that orders in this respect were carried out.

Chicago, July 5.—Johnny Coulon, bantamweight champion of the world, was taken to a hospital today, suffering with a severe attack of stomach trouble. It is said that the battering he received in his battle with Frankie Burns at Kenosha last week aggravated his illness, the exact nature of which has not been ascertained. It is said he will not be able to train for two or three months

TENNIS.

Mary Browne, of Los Angeles, Cal., is the triple-crowned champion of tennis. She is national woman champion, as she was in 1912; she won the honor last year by defeating Miss Eleanor Sears and the challenge round by default from Miss Hotchkiss.

This year she defended her title against Miss Dorothy Green, of the Merion Cricket club, and won in whirl-wind fashion, 6—3 and 7—5.

She also won the doubles championship with Mrs. Robert Williams, defeating Miss Green and Miss Edna Wildey; her third title is that of mixed doubles, ane and W. R. Tilden, Jr., winning from Miss Green and C. S. Rogers, 7—5 and 7—5, for the national honors.

BASEBALL.

Bellefontaine, O., July 5.—Bob Ewing, former mgjor league pitcher, who quit the game last season to devote all of his attention to farming and the raising of hogs on his farm at New Hampshire, O., is debating with himself as to whether he should re-enter the national game.

He has an offer from Manager Bade Myers of the Canton team, Interstate League. Myers and Ewing began their professional careers together as members of Charley Strobber's Toledo team, Myers being g catcher at the time.

Ewing, now 36, showed the old-time form he possessed during the nine years he played with the Cincinnati team. For a while Ewing was with the Philadelphia and New York National League Clubs.

YACHTING.

Boston, July 5.—Counter protests marred the second race in the 9500 sweepstakes match between the sloops Nutmeg, owned by A. C. Jones, and the Marie L., owned by A. W. Finlay, held yesterday off Marblehead. The trouble occurred at the end of the first leg of a 12-mile course as the boats were getting in close quarters with the Southeast Breaker buoy Mr. Finlay learning that the Nutmeg had protested, claims the Nutmeg did not give way when his boat had established an overlap, forcing him either to touch the can or ram the Nutmeg.

The race proved very close over the entire course and the finish was even. As the Nutmeg allows her rival about 20 seconds for the course, the Quincy craft, should the race stand, wins, thus giving each a look-in for the coin.

The start was off Marblehead rock in a stiff southwester at 2.30 p.m. The sloops reached the Southeast Breakers with the Nutmeg unable to draw away though the rather lumpy water was popularly supposed to present an obstacle to the Marie L.'s prettiest performance. After the mix-up at the buoy the pair stood to sea on a long starboard tack and worked up to the turning mark off the Outer Breaker buoy. Nearing the buoy the Marie L.'s jibsheet got adrift and she slowed up materially till it could be captured and belayed.

On the home run the Nutmeg, winner of the first race by 1 minute 31 seconds, was nauled back by the Finlay boat till they sailed on even terms to the finish.

The Marie L. carried her sail splendidly, appearing fully as stiff as the Jones craft which wore a new sail for the first time.

HOME HEALTH CLUB

DR. DAVID H. REEDER,

INDIGESTION (Part 2)—Now what are you going to do about it, you take cold easily, simply a sympton of partly digested food that has caused a clogged up condition of your system. You are constipated, why don't you clean out the offending matter and then make your teeth do their duty. If you thoroughly chew every particle of food you will not be so likely to over-eat, what you do eat will be more easily digested and the waste more readily eliminated.

I know an old man who knows how and what to eat. He told a body of great physicians that he did not believe their claim that germs cause disease, that germs were absolutely harmless, unless there was a suitable soil in the system caused by partly digested food, and he dared them to inoculate him with any sort of germs they could find. He was old and did not look strong and they would not take the risk. He taunted them, told them they were afraid he would prove them to be wrong. He asked them to name conditions that would cause a person to take cold most easily. They did and he tried it as follows: A cold rain was falling and he dressed in a suit of pajamas and walked in the rain for an hour,—no hat, no shoes. Without changing or drying in any way he lay down in the hall between an open doorway at one end and an open window at the other and slept through the night. Not a sign of a cold or stiffened muscle, not an ache or a pain. Then he asked them to supply him with the germ of Tetanus or lockjaw. In their presence he made an incision into his foot, put the germs into it and sealed up the wound. According to all of their rules it would kill him. The wound healed and not a trace of inflammation appeared. Then they tried all sorts of germs on him, but none had the slightest evil effect. His digestion is perfect. He chews every particle of food thoroughly. He eats no meat or animal fats of any kind and very little vegetable fat. His food consists of soups, juicy fruits and vegetables. He is vigorous, active and brainy, with clear eyes and a clean tongue. How is your tongue? Is your breath sweet or do your friends turn away when you get close to them?

Chew your food, quit over eating, quit washing the food into the stomach with liquids, quit eating the wrong combinations of food. Fermentation is not digestion, fermentation causes gas. Whenever you have gas you know that your digestion is not good.

CLUB NOTES

I will gladly answer all inquiries for information on health subjects from readers of this publication if same are addressed to Home Health Club, 5039 Cottage Grove Ave., Chicago. Send full name and address, 4 cents postage.

There are many, very many letters that come to me from day to day of a nature that cannot be answered through these columns. The writer naturally does not want his letter published or his name to be known to any but the doctor. In all such cases, where the required postage is enclosed, a personal reply is at once made by letter and it is my constant aim to help those who have been so unfortunate as to yield to harmful habits in diet or otherwise to fall into the hands of unscrupulous men whose principal object is earning a big fee.

Dear Doctor:—Your extensive work among the people is one of the greatest and most considerate ever undertaken by any doctor I know of. We often get evasive replies from our home doctors. The effect of stimulants on nerves is one of great importance and I would like to know the effect of coffee, tea and alcohol, also tobacco on the nerves, I mean physical effect. Do they deteriorate under effects? All I could find was that stimulants irritated the nerves. Is the irritation harmful in all cases? I mean when used as a beverage. Is any one who is addicted to the use of one in line for the whole set of stimulants? In other words does the desire for stimulants increase in every case? These answers are desired for use in Sunday School work.
B.S.C.

I would state that the effect of the stimulants mentioned by you will vary depending on the particular individual who takes them, on the amount taken and on the manner of life by the individual. Tobacco is rather a sedative than a stimulant, but there is no question but that it irritates the nerves, sometimes in fact to the extent of causing partial blindness, and it frequently causes irritability of the heart. Alcohol is also more or less harmful in practically all cases, although here again the amount of damage done depends on the factors above mentioned. There is no reason why the use of one of these stimulants should lead to a desire for any of the others. Tea and coffee are undoubtedly injurious when taken in large quantities and in concentrated form. If taken weak merely for the sake of the flavor obtained, no great harm is done, except in those who are very susceptible to their effects.

Dear Doctor:—Is there such a disease as Hookworm. If there is, what is the treatment?
H.P.A.

There certainly is such a disease as Hookworm and it is responsible in the Southern States for a great deal of sickness and disability and is considered to be the cause of the poor, physical and economic condition of what are called the poor white folks of the South. It is caused by a minute worm which enters the system in various ways, such as through sores on the hands or feet in those who come in contact with the moist earth, in which the larvae live. These make their way through the body to the intestines and there develop, sucking the blood from the unfortunate victim, until a severe condition of Anemia results. In any locality where the disease is found, precaution should be taken against its contraction by avoiding contact with moist earth whenever sores are present on the hands or feet. The privy vaults should be frequently disinfected with Chloride of Lime and the water supply should be carefully watched, so that it cannot become infected from such a source. Thymol has been found to be the most effective remedy for the disease. The patient should remain on a liquid diet for a couple of days, then in the morning 30 grains of Thymol are taken. This is repeated two hours later and two hours following an active cathartic is taken. It may be necessary to repeat the treatment in a week or ten days, depending on whether or not any parasites are still found in the stools on microscopical examination. I gave a lecture on that subject not long ago when it was fully explained.

The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at the office of any Local Agent of Dominion Lands (not sub-agent), on certain conditions.

Duties.—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required in every case, except when residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside of his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties—Six months residence in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and 50 acres extra cultivation. The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land after report by Homestead Inspector on application for patent.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price, $3 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Tenders for Buildings at Cochrane.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and marked on the envelope "Tender for Buildings at Cochrane," will be received at the office of the Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway, at Ottawa, Ont., until twelve o'clock noon of the 22nd day of July, 1913, for the erection of an Ice House, Store House, Freight House, and two Tool Houses at Cochrane, Ontario.

Plans and specifications may be seen and full information obtained at the offices of Mr. Gordon Grant, Chief Engineer, Ottawa, Ont., and of Mr. T. S. Armstrong, District Engineer, Cochrane, Ont.

Tenders must be made on the forms supplied by the Commission, and be signed and sealed by all the parties to the tender, and witnessed, and be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered Bank of the Dominion of Canada payable to the order of the Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway, for a sum equal to ten per cent (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender.

The right is reserved to reject any or all tenders.

By order,
P. E. RYAN,
Secretary.
The Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway.
Dated at Ottawa this 24th day of June, 1913.

An Extension Telephone

IN THE RESIDENCE, if the main telephone is downstairs an Extension Telephone upstairs will add greatly to the usefulness and convenience of the service. Upstairs or downstairs a telephone will be close at hand and the necessity of stair-climbing eliminated.

Incoming and outgoing night messages are often emergency or highly important calls. An Extension Telephone upstairs in or near the sleeping apartment will save much time and add greatly to your comfort and protection.

IN THE OFFICE, an Extension Telephone on your desk will save you much time and annoyance. It is most inconvenient to be constantly called on to leave your desk to answer a telephone call at a telephone far removed from the work in hand.

With an Extension Telephone on your desk, telephone calls can be sent and received conveniently with practically no loss of time. With its aid you will be able to accomplish more during the busy office hours.

The additional expense of an EXTENSION TELEPHONE is trifling—only a few cents a day.

Carmangay

"The Star of Alberta"

PAST The splendidly strategic site of Carmangay was discovered by a far seeing, shrewd railway engineer attracted to the district by the lure of the finest wheat in the Canadian West. He snapped up lands where the wide canyons of the Little Bow River narrows to a point. Here must all railways cross. The C. P. R. came and the shipping centre created went ahead by leaps and bounds.

PRESENT Carmangay today is a thriving incorporated town, with not less than 53 business places. Her up-to-date electric and natural water supply systems are owned and operated by the people. Carmangay boasts an eight-roomed schoolhouse, two banks and four big elevators, shipping over a million bushels in 1911 and 1½ millions in 1912. Carmangay has coal mines operating, and the entire district is underlaid with coal of finest Galt quality.

FUTURE Carmangay grows as Alberta grows. That means a wonderful future. Four new railroads are heading for Carmangay. Four new elevators are trying to cope with the tremendous wheat yields of the district. The mines are opening up splendid prospects. Carmangay is being rapidly developed into one of the greatest towns in the Canadian West. YOU can just as confidently invest in Carmangay as her own people do, who are building in brick and stone for a tremendous future. Carmangay has her own supply of finest brick clay and stone right at her doors, and will soon supply her sister cities in Alberta.

Steel Pontoon Gate Lifter.
NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned and marked "Tender for Steel Pontoon Gate Lifter, Trent Canal" will be received at this office until 16 o'clock on Tuesday, July 29th, 1913.

Plans, specifications and form of contract to be entered into can be seen on or after this date at the office of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, and at the office of the Superintending Engineer, Trent Canal, Peterborough, Ont.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labour, which schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque for the sum of $1,000.00 made payable to the order of the Minister of Railways and Canals, must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The cheque of the successful tenderer will be held as security, or part security, for the due fulfilment of the contract to be entered into.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

INDIANS NOW WORK

Scarcity of Game and Fur Animals Brought About the Change

That the day is coming to an end when the red man will live as fisherman, hunter and trapper is declared in a report of the Indian Department issued at Ottawa. The growing scarcity of game and fur bearing animals in many districts is driving many of the hunting tribes into the occupations of the palefaces. The services of Indians are becoming more generally utilized as farm hands and in other industrial pursuits.

The earnings of the red man in agriculture for one year amounted to $1,464,347, and in wages to $1,616,046, while at hunting and trapping during the same time they made $804,517.

Canada's Indian population is placed at 104,956, and the Eskimo population is 4,600. The additions to the Provinces of Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec added 7,619 Indians to the Indian population of these provinces, and reduced the total in the North-West Territories to 5,262. Ontario has more Indians than any other province, a total of 26,393. British Columbia formerly led, but the addition to Ontario brought in 3,237 Indians.

SYNOPSIS OF DOMINION LAND REGULATIONS

ANY person who is sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties.—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties.—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

THE GAS OVEN

The oven must be carefully cleaned out before the joint, or vegetables are put in, for the smallest scrap of burned fat on either shelf or door will completely spoil the taste of anything which is being cooked.

A tin containing cold water should be placed on the shelf beneath the one upon which the meat is being cooked. This keeps the air moist and prevents the dripping from burning.

The oven should be made very hot for the first ten or fifteen minutes, and then reduced.

Frequent bastings should be given and the meat turned so that both sides should be properly browned.

A teaspoonful of baking soda and a tablespoonful of sugar should be dissolved in half a teacupful of vinegar and poured over the meat before it is placed in the oven. This makes the meat tender and gives a delicious flavor to the gravy.

LASH FOR WIFE BEATERS

Toronto Authorities Giving Brutes Some of Their Own Medicine

The new method which the Toronto police are employing to deal with wife-beating, namely, sending them down for a short term and giving them a taste of the lash, is expected to have a noticeable effect on the number of cases of this kind which come up in Police court.

A subsection of the Criminal Code says that, "Everyone is guilty of an indictable offence and liable to two years' imprisonment or to be whipped who . . . assaults or beats his wife or any other female, and thereby occasions her actual bodily harm."

Although this subsection is an amendment which came into force in 1909, wife-beaters usually got off with sixty-day terms minus the lash.

Immediately on assuming his duties as head of the Morality Department, Staff-Sergeant McKinney began to work on this amendment with the result that the first wife-beater who came up before Magistrate Denison received the surprise and the shock of his life when, after hearing a thirty-day sentence imposed, he awoke to the fact that he was to get ten lashes as well.

A rich oxblood red is making it's way fast into popular favor as a new color, and very warm and beautiful it is. This visiting costume is of red velvet underskirt and an over tunic of red moire chiffon gracefully draped to suggest folds of the fabric swathing the figure. Above the tunic is a little bodice of plain red chiffon which also forms the undersleeves, trimmed with velvet, that hang below the short moire sleeves. With this gown is worn one of the new bellcrowned hats of red velvet faced with white and trimmed with a flat rosette of white satin with a red velvet button center. This frock is new in color and fabric.

BOUNDARY MARKED BY BIG FENCE LINE

Limits of Canada and Alaska Now Shown After Years of Perilous and Costly Work

After seven years work the boundary survey between Canada and Alaska is finished, and there is now up in the left hand corner of the continent a long, narrow fence-line that was very hard to cut, and that cost a lot of money.

Until this boundary was marked out Canada and the United States never knew just where each other's land in the far North began and ended. It was very desirable, as between neighbors, that this should be settled, and seven years ago the two Governments set about the finding out of the line which, in legal terms, had been agreed upon and defined by treaty. Both Governments realized the bigness of the job, and made liberal appropriations for it and sent engineer experts to the North with instructions to mark out every foot of the boundary, whether it should be over glacier peaks or through widlerness swamps.

The job is done now and the long hard fence-line has been drawn clear to the Arctic. It is known now where Canada ends and Alaska begins.

The first part of the boundary located was that from Portland Canal, the southernmost point, to Mount Elias, and north of Mount Elias the boundary follows the 141st meridian in a bee-line to the Arctic, a distance of about six hundred miles.

In general the marking of the line was done in three ways: By the placing of monuments, by cutting out a sky-line, and by ascertaining the exact position of turning angles. The greatest care was always taken that the calcuations should be exact. Wherever the line crossed a river or a trail, or where it came to the summit of a ridge or mountain spur, a monument was placed in the form of an aluminum-bronze cone. These monuments, which vary from fifty to nearly three hundred pounds, were securely set in rock or concrete beds, so they shall be permanent marks of the boundary.

When the surveyors came to a belt of timber, they cut a sky-line through it, clearing ten feet on each side of the meridian, and so making an international right-of-way twenty feet wide.

In addition, accurate maps were made, showing the topography of the country. Every year the survey parties not only left their marks behind them, but they have brought out, with them at the end of their season's work a mass of data and technical information that has an international importance.

The getting of all this data and the location of the meridian frequently made necessary the climbing of ugly mountains, some of the peaks being eight and ten thousand feet high. Glaciers were scaled, and perilous ascents made, all in order that the boundary might be rightly determined. Much of the country had never been visited by man until the boundary-hunters came, and found nature at it's hardest and roughest.

A TENDERFOOT'S WOOING

—BY—

CLIVE PHILLIPPS WOLLEY

(AUTHOR OF "GOLD, GOLD IN CARIBOO," ETC.)

Supplied Exclusively in Canada by The British & Colonial Press Service, Limited.

"Yes he has, though," put in Combe, looking up from the plug he was whittling.

"And you did not give us a chance of seeing the show! That was mean, Jim."

"There wasn't much of a show."

"Well, I'm not sure that you would do much better yourself over a post and rails," said the girl hotly. "It all depends what you are used to. I suppose you put him on Job. That brute would throw anyone but a broncho buster."

"Didn't throw Mr. Anstruther anyway."

"What! Did not Job get him off?" The girl's whole face lit up with pleasure and pride in her friend.

"Wasn't to be done unless that cayuse had shed his hide," said Jim quietly. "Your friend can ride," and if Jim put a little too much stress upon "your friend" the admission that he could ride was very hearty and generous for a cowboy who was jealous.

The girl knew it; knew, too, that horsemanship was Jim Combe's great gift, and for a moment her eyes dwelt seriously on that big loose figure in shaps, that old friend who had taught her so much, and borne with her so long. If only he could speak English if only he was not "so Canadian," would he not be the better man of the two?

A year ago, before she had been dazzled by the glamor and luxury of the Old Country, she would have been able to answer. Now she hesitated.

"After Combe's testimonial, which I appreciate, do you think I shall ever make a cowboy?" persisted Anstruther.

"Riding is not all. It may make a cowboy. I was thinking rather of a Western man."

"And your ideal of a Western man is a high one?"

"Just the highest. Your best Westerner is the best that can be made out of the best English material, tempered by such a life as man ought to lead."

They were getting into deep water, and Mrs. Rolt was not sorry to see Combe reappear, carrying a huge load of brush, boughs of young pines, which he waved one at a time through the smoke of the camp fire, until most of the rain drops had left them.

With these he vanished into the cabin, and after a long absence, returned to announce, "bed time, ladies. I'm afraid that your bed isn't what it might be, but with your slickers over that brush, and your blankets, it will be dry enough. Don't worry to turn out till I call you."

"Where are you going to sleep?"

"We'll sleep right here, if Mr. Anstruther don't mind, so as to be handy in case you want anything. Let's go and look at the horses, Anstruther. Good-night," and the two strolled away into the night whilst the ladies turned in.

CHAPTER III.

Cattle Thieves

"Are you men up?"

The mist wreathes of early morning, the very last of them, were slowly trailing away like dainty long-skirted dames from the hollow below the cabin, and the top half of the sun was showing through the timber which crowned the rise to the east of the camp, when Mrs. Rolt's head was protruded from the cabin door to ask the above question.

But no one answered her. The fire had been made up and the men's blankets were hung on the bars of the corral, but there was no other sign of life if you except a grey bird like a jay, who was making a careful inspection of relics.

"No one here, Kitty," Mrs. Rolt called back into the cabin. "Now is our chance to make our toilet, and of course that dear old Jim has everything fixed for us, basin and water and towels. Makes me feel quite 'to home' as he'd say."

"How do you know that it was Jim?"

"How do I know, you ungrateful girl? Hasn't Jim done these things ever since we came to the country. You don't suppose that your new chum would ever have thought of it?"

"I think that you are very hard on my new chum," said the girl, showing a delightfully rosy face in a mist of disordered hair.

"And I think that you are hard on your old—friend," retorted Mrs. Rolt.

She had almost said more than she had intended to, but caught herself up in time and buried her face healthily in the basin to hide her confusion.

"Polly."

"Well?" blowing the soapsuds out of her eyes and shaking the water from her wet hair.

"What an object you do look, dear. It's lucky your fringe is natural."

"Is that all you wanted to say, Miss? I am all natural and so were you before you went back to England. Now you must needs wear that thing!" and she pointed indignantly to a portion of Kitty's looks which that charming maiden carried in her hand."

"You must wear a toupee in England. How would you keep your head smart without one."

Mrs. Rolt held up her hands with a little gesture of horror.

"Spare me that word, Kitty, before breakfast at any rate. Smart! That is your gospel nowadays. Who said that you must be smart. I loathe smart people."

"You prefer—Jims."

"Yes, infinitely. Jim is a man."

"And Mr. Anstruther is not?"

"I did not say so. I don't know. He may be one in embryo, but he'll take a lot of making."

"Would you not rather that Jim had some of your pet aversion's 'making' in the English language for instance. Or is it necessary to talk like a broncho buster to be a man?"

Polly Rolt hesitated. She did not want to lie. Indeed downright truthfulness was one of her occasionally painful characteristics, but she did not like to admit any blemishes in her favorite.

"Oh, well, fine English is as easy to put on, for a man like Jim, as your toupee is for you. A man must speak the language of a country if he wants to be understood in it. You used to understand Jim well enough before you went home."

"And now I don't. He seems to me to have changed. In some way he does not seem to be natural any more."

"I thought your complaint was that he was not sufficiently artificial—smart I mean."

"He isn't that, either. But hurry up. Here they come," and the two ladies whisked round the corner and into the seclusion of their cabin, to put on the last finishing touches.

A minute later they were congratulating Combe and Anstruther upon a fine buck which the two slung in the wagon.

"Who shot it, Jim? You, of course," asked Kitty, her dainty head as trim as if she had just parted from her maid, though Mrs. Rolt's fringe was still a trifle damp and straight.

"No, Mr. Anstruther killed him."

"And that is all I had to do with it," added Anstruther. "Combe found his tracks; I went right away from them, walked all over the country until I was beginning to grow tired. He told me to get my rifle ready at the foot of a hog's back, and as we peeped over, said 'shoot!' That is all I knew of our hunt."

"Jim had him picketted for you," said the girl.

Jim laughed. "Picketted to his feed, Miss Kitty. T'aint much of a trick to know where a buck would be this time in the morning."

"It is a trick you will owe your steak to, more than to my rifle," retorted Anstruther generously, and then between them they set about preparations for breakfast.

Before that meal was over, the Indian, Pretty Dick, came up with the horses.

"Plenty man track in the swamp," he said.

"Fairclough's boys been hunting, I expect," said Jim, "though it's a long way for them to come for deer meat. I saw their tracks. Didn't you notice them going up that first rise to our right, Anstruther?"

"No. I saw nothing. I was looking for a deer."

"Not Fairclaw crowd, Jim. Milka tum tum Chilcotins," put in Pretty Dick.

"What does he say?" asked Anstruther.

"Says he thinks they were Chilcotin Indians. Why do you think so, Dick?"

"Me see old camp. See plenty little sticks go this way," pointing south. "You come along, Jim, I show you.

The two went away together, and after a short absence returned. When they did so, even Kitty could see that something had gone wrong.

"What is it, Jim?" asked Mrs. Rolt.

"Chilcotins. Khelowna's band, I think."

"That doesn't matter, does it? Old Khelowna is all right. They won't bother us?"

"I suppose not. No, of course, they won't. Old Khelowna is as tame as a wet hen, but I don't like that," and he held out for inspection a small piece of fawn-colored hide.

Anstruther took it and turned it over in his hand. "A buck's ear," he said, in the tone of a squire who had found a rabbit wire. "The beggars have been shooting our deer, but you can't prevent them, can you? There's no game law in this free country."

"No, we can't stop them shooting deer and don't want to. There's plenty for all, but that's not a buck's ear. The Risky Ranch don't mark deer."

Anstruther saw then that the ear had been cut in a peculiar fashion, so as to make it swallow-tailed.

"Why, that is our mark, Jim," cried the Boss's wife.

"That's what I'm thinking, Mrs. Rolt. That's our mark sure. The Boss will have to keep an eye on those fellows. There's been a lot of stock missing lately."

"The Boss won't like that."

"No, nor I'm afraid you won't like what I'm going to say, but there's no help for it. We've got to give up our shoot and go back. We'll have to round up those cattle thieves right away."

Kitty's face fell. She had looked forward to her shooting picnic and hated to give it up.

"What should you do if we were not with you, Jim?" she asked.

"Follow them right away."

"But you couldn't take them all single-handed."

"No, nor don't want to, but I could see who they were for sure, and maybe get proofs against them."

"Why could we not go with you, Jim?" suggested Kitty. "It would be better fun than hunting. I'm a born detective."

The girl's bright face was all alive with excitement. The thought of war had never yet entered her head. To tell the truth there are in British Columbia no terrible legends of Indian warfare to shake any one's nerves. There, the ordinary Siwash is a peaceable creature unless he is drunk, and then it is the white man's fault for making him so.

"Yes, it would be better fun, Miss Kitty, but not so safe. I think we had better all of us go back to the ranche and get the boys out, unless you think, Mrs. Rolt, that you could find the way back without me."

"I could try. Where is the ranche from here?"

"Come to the top of the rise and I'll show you."

Together they rode to the edge of the plateau, from which they could see bench upon bench of grey cattle land, bounded by low hills in the far distance, near which a depression suggested the bed of an unseen river.

"That's the Fraser and those are the Ground Hog mountains," Jim said, pointing to the hills beyond. "It will take you eight hours' riding to get to the river where those big red bluffs crop up. You know them. You can see the ranche from there. It's nine o'clock now."

"Then we could be in sight of the ranche by five."

"Yes, but there's no place where you could camp."

"Once we saw the ranche we shouldn't want to camp."

"There's no telling. It looks fine enough now, but so it did this time yesterday."

Certainly the day looked fine enough. The storm of the day before had cleared the air so that it was more brilliantly lucid than usual, and the long sloping lands, radiant in the morning sunshine and sweet with the strong scent of the sage brush, were eminently provocative of a gallop.

Kitty's horse, not entirely innocent perhaps of his rider's heel, began to dance about and pull at his bridle as if he would drag the swaying girlish figure from the saddle.

Jim's eyes dwelt on her hungrily. That was how he loved to see her. Had he not taught her to ride when she was but the ten-year-old darling of the ranche, and was not the handsome beast who carried her now the colt on which he had expended such endless trouble whilst she was away in England?

It was hard to give up this holiday, and harder to leave her to spend it with that haw-haw young fool from the Old Country.

"I don't half like letting you go back by yourself, Mrs. Rolt," he said, "nor I don't like spoiling your pleasure, but those fellows will be out of the country before we can get on to their trail if I don't get a move on."

"Don't worry about us, Jim, we can get home all right, only we must not stand here talking any longer. What are you going to do with Pretty Dick?"

"Send him along with you with your ictas. I don't want him too near me. He is a Chilcotin himself, if he is half civilized. But hold on a minute."

He stood shading his eyes and looking far away to the west.

"You haven't got that pair of glasses with you, have you, Anstruther?"

"Yes, here they are."

Jim fumbled with them for some time. Like many outdoor men in the West he was not very familiar with the use of binoculars.

"They ain't no good to me. Guess I don't savvy them properly. You take a look through them for me. Ain't that smoke there to the west?"

Anstruther looked and Jim watched him.

"No, not there," he said irritably. "Lord! a man could count the rings on a rattler that far. Away beyond on the next big bench towards the river, near those clumps of pine."

Anstruther could not see the pines. He saw a dark line, but that it meant pines was not obvious to him as it seemed to Jim's naked eye.

Mrs. Rolt took the glasses from him. "Let me try," she said. "I know what to look for. That is half the battle," and then, after a short scrutiny, she said:—

"Yes, I believe that there is a column of smoke or mist just to the right of the pines."

"It ain't mist. There's no swamp up there. I'll bet my socks that's their camp. Tell you what, Mrs. Rolt, if you've a mind to come along, I've almost a mind to take you. They might not suspicion anything if they saw ladies along and so give me a show to see more'n I would if I went by my lonely."

Kitty clasped her hands and let her horse go.

"Hold on," cried Jim. "You'll want some blankets, won't you? We shan't make it back to the ranche to-night. I mean to camp alongside those fellows."

He turned, calling Anstruther to follow him, and rode after Pretty Dick's wagon, from which they returned with all the blankets they could carry.

"You and me will have to rough it to-night, but it won't hurt us any, if we keep up a good fire."

The other made no objection. In the warm sunlight the prospect of a cold, sleepless night does not seem very terrible. It is when the slow hours give you time to think of your discomfort that the pinch comes.

Then you vow that you will for the future leave your grub, rather than your blankets, behind.

CHAPTER IV.

It was a glorious and memorable ride for all of them. Four perfect horsemen in a horseman's country. Such a taste of paradise as, in this weary old world, generally precedes trouble.

"How much of this belongs to the Risky Ranch, Mrs. Rolt?" asked Anstruther.

"All of it as far as you can see."

"None of it," corrected Jim, "except a few meadows and some water front on the Fraser as you can't see."

"How annoying you are, Jim. You know what I mean perfectly well.'

"Only you don't say it, and he doesn't know."

"Well, if it isn't yours," persisted the puzzled Anstruther, looking from one to the other, "why should not anyone run their cattle over it?"

"They might if they did not need water or hay. Those two Harrison boys are trying it now."

"What Jim means, Mr. Anstruther, is that we have corralled, oh, I beg your pardon, Kitty, secured the exclusive right to all the water and all the hay meadows in the district, and without these the run would not be worth anything. Stock must have water, and in winter must sometimes have hay."

"I see, but how do you keep your cattle. I don't see any fences."

"We don't keep them, they keep themselves, in summer, and in winter—" she broke off abruptly, and pointed to where a number of slow-moving beasts were strung out in line of march towards the river.

"Do you see that band? Those are the first of our beasts coming in. For the next fortnight you will see them wandering in by hundreds. They know the seasons as well or better than we do."

"Do you mean that they have been out all the summer and are coming in now of their own accord?"

"Just that. In all sorts of beautiful little parks islanded in that black timber; in groves shady and deep, by little streams we have hardly seen, they have dreamed away their summer undisturbed and now they are coming home with their calves behind them, our income."

"It seems easy. Where does the work come in?"

Mrs. Rolt turned laughingly in her saddle to Jim.

"Isn't any work, is there, Jim?"

Jim, who was riding in his shirt-sleeves, with his coat in a roll at the back of his saddle, looked meditatively at his own bare corded arms.

"Might be some in the meadows in 'skeeter time,'" he suggested. "Rounding up the strays keeps a man in the saddle quite a while, and there's some don't hanker after too much branding and such like, but it's all in a lifetime. If it is work it is better than any play I ever heard tell of. Guess if I was the boss of the Risky, I wouldn't change places with anyone."

"That is pretty of you, Jim."

He looked at her smiling, no ways abashed.

"I guess the boss agrees with me, and he knows England as well as he knows B.C., and has sampled the best there is to be had pretty nigh all over."

"Yes, but he had his fill of England first, Jim, and he is older."

Her eyes followed the laughing couple which preceded them, as her thoughts followed Combe's, and the pain in his honest grey eyes was reflected in hers. She was sorry for her old friend, and knew that it was useless to explain. The old world had called its own, and both knew that Kitty had listened to its call.

Meanwhile the others had ridden ahead, and were now holding up their hands to keep the stragglers back. They left their horses, and stole quietly on to some tall trees which fringed a small lake, a blue turquoise set in the red gold of the reeds, and islanded amongst the grey green of the sage brush.

For the last fifty yards the boy and girl, they were little more, crept on their hands and knees, and when they raised their heads above the reeds there was a sudden splashing and scurry as a bunch of mallards sprang quacking from the water. In quick succession four reports followed one another, and two of the ducks tumbled back headlong into the lake. For a moment the rest of the birds looked as if they were going straight away, but some foolish prompting of curiosity brought them back, swinging in a circle high overhead.

"Stand still, Miss Clifford," they heard the Englishman say, "now let them have it," and again there were four flashes, but even to the onlookers it was almost impossible to distinguish more than two reports.

Again two birds came down, not all aslant on struggling wings, but with their heads under them, dead in mid air, killed instantly, as if by lightning.

"That's a fine performance, Miss Clifford. Very few girls at home could beat that," they heard Anstruther say. "You were too quick for me."

"What! didn't you shoot?"

"No," he lied gallantly. "See, my gun is loaded still, and he threw open the breach, showing the two cartridges which he had slipped in with the rapidity of an old hand almost as he spoke.

"Then I killed those two myself."

"Unless they died for love of you."

"And who killed the others?"

"I suppose that you did."

"Oh, nonsense; I'm not going to believe that."

"Well, we'll take one each then if I can get them. Give me your hand, please, for a moment," and under the transparent pretext of wanting support whilst he balanced himself upon a partially submerged pine pole, Anstruther managed to retrieve his game.

Perhaps he held the little warm hand a trifle longer and pressed it a trifle harder than the circumstances warranted, but the girl's rosy face registered no serious protest.

"He's a very fluent liar," muttered Mrs. Rolt half to herself as they rode up.

"Bags his game very neatly," answered Jim.

"And she's a little fool," said the lady viciously, but Anstruther neither heard the criticism nor the praise any more than did Kitty.

In their veins the young blood was beating so that their ears were deafened to everything except the measure of one old song, which once truly learned becomes the music of a lifetime.

For them the scent of the sage brush, the hurry and roar of rising wings, and the blue of lonely upland lakes, would be as the keys of paradise as long as they both should live, bringing back dreams with which duck-shooting should have little enough to do.

Unfortunately that song is a duet, and gives pleasure to two only, so that though the pools seemed innumerable, and the glory of the day unstinted, an end came to Jim's loquacity. He was all eyes, but his tongue had failed him.

Suddenly as Jim and the boss's wife followed soberly behind the younger couple, an owl called from the timber which they were now skirting.

The two in front had pulled up, and were waiting for Mrs. Rolt to join them. When they came alongside Anstruther asked:

"Did you hear that owl, Combe? Isn't it early in the day for him to be calling? There do you hear him? He must be quite close to us."

"That ain't no owl."

"What is it, then?"

"A Chilcotin telling his pals that there are white men coming. You'll see the smoke of their camp as soon as this timber opens up again. I guess I'll ride on ahead," and so saying he put his horse into a gallop.

"Why is he in such a hurry?"

"I expect he wants to get a glimpse of their camp before they have had time to cache anything," replied Mrs. Rolt. "Jim is looking for things not mentioned in the game list.

But when the three reached the Indian camp they found Jim Combe sitting loosely in his saddle, the bridle thrown carelessly on his horse's neck, talking with the utmost good temper to a grey-haired old mummy, as if he were enjoying a gossip in his native tongue.

"Says that the tribe is hungry, that the wolves have grown numerous, and the deer all gone back away off," said he as the others came up, mimicking the old woman's manner. "Seems like it, doesn't it?" and he pointed to a great square stack of fresh hides. "There's another stack just back of that, under those trees. They must have killed forty or fifty deer. How many suns have you been hunting?" he asked, turning again to the squaw.

"Ten suns," showing the number on her bent claws.

"And how many men stop here?"

"My son, his fader, and two more."

"Who is your son? What you call him?"

"Kineeshaw," whined the old hag in a curious sing-song.

"Oh! Cultus Jack, eh?"

"Nawitka, white man's name Cultus Jack."

"Then his father is Khelowna. You Khelowna's wife, Emma?"

"Nawitka, me Emma."

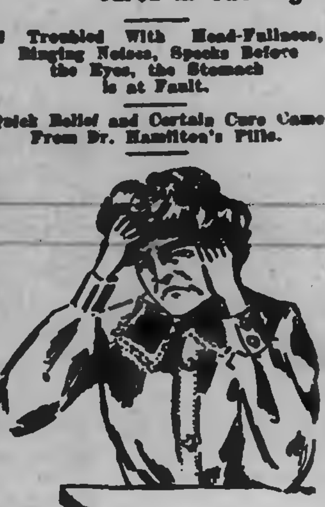
Dizzy Headaches Cured in One Night

Is Troubled With Head-Fullness, Ringing Noises, Specks Before the Eyes, the Stomach is at Fault.

Quick Relief and Certain Cure Came From Dr. Hamilton's Pills.



"I had terrible pains in my head. My appetite faded away, and when I did eat anything it disagreed and made me very sick for hours after each meal. The pains in my stomach and the dizzy headaches I had to endure almost set one wild. Sometimes attacks came on so severely that I had to go to bed. I would feel so worn, depressed and utterly miserable that for hours I wouldn't speak to my family. My system was poisoned with wastes and nothing helped me till I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Without this grand system-cleansing remedy I would still be sick, but each day brought me better health and spirits. I was cured and made strong, ruddy, and healthy, and will always use and recommend Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

Special Services at St. Luke's.

The Venerable Archdeacon Warren, of Toronto, was the special preacher at St. Luke's church yesterday. The church was re-opened after being painted and decorated, many improvements have been made as well and the new bell was used for the first time. The choir rendered special music. In the morning Gounod's "Send Out Thy Light" was sung, and in the evening Torrington's "Abide With Me," with soprano solo by Miss Phyllis Dawson.

Wedded at London.

An event of considerable local interest took place last Saturday at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Gillie, London, Ont., when their daughter, Miss Jean, became the charming bride of Mr. T. A. Savigny, of Regina, formerly of this city. The happy young couple will take up their residence in Regina, where Mr. Savigny has lived for the past three years. They carry with them to their Western home the best wishes of a large circle of friends in Peterborough, London and elsewhere.

Daigneault's Death Contradicted.

News of the death in Toronto of a former well known resident of this city, in the person of Mr. Joseph Daigneault was received here on Saturday. Mr. Daigneault was employed as a lineman with the Hydro-Electric and while following out his duties received a severe electric shock. He was at once removed to the hospital. However, a telegram received yesterday contradicted the first distressing dispatch.

Mr. H. Gordon Manning, B.A., formerly of Lindsay Collegiate Institute who has been visiting his sister, Mrs. Middleton, East City, left Saturhay for a two months' trip abroad.

Mr. John Green, the well known local lawyer, has returned after a two weeks' trip spent in Toronto and the Niagara district.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Canadian Professor Makes Suggestions as to Overcoming the Ice-berg Peril

Professor Barnes, of McGill University, Montreal, submitted to the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, an interim report on his investigations of methods whereby ships may be warned of the nearness of ice or land. The professor regards the results of his work as highly satisfactory.

Professor Barnes has now for three years investigated conditions in the St. Lawrence, in the Straits of Belle Isle and along the Labrador coast, the Department of Marine and Fisheries supplying him with a steamer.

The concluding portion of Professor Barnes' report was as follows:—

"Very important results have been obtained indicative of methods which should be developed for equipping ships for avoiding ice and land. The experiments have been so decisive and reliable that I must strongly recommend that attention be devoted by the Government and by steamship companies towards adopting accurate temperature recorders on board ship.

"Again I must emphasise that it is to a study of the variations of temperature in the sea and not the temperature itself which will enable navigators safely to avoid ice and land at night or in time of fog. I would strongly recommend the Government to equip at once a ship to map out the isothermal lines around the coasts of Newfoundland, Labrador and the shores of the Gulf of St. Lawrence and Straits of Belle Isle, for in so doing a chart could be prepared which would be of great assistance to navigators using these waters.

"Similar charts should be made all over the world, but this is a matter for international action and not for one Government alone."

A WOMAN SOLDIER

Of Irish Birth She Fought in Many Battles—Dressed as Man

Albert D. J. Cashier, an inmate of the Soldiers' Home at Quincy, Illinois was discovered upon being admitted to the hospital of that institution, to be a woman, and the remarkable fact was established that for over fifty years she had worn man's clothing and concealed her sex. More than that she fought through three of the hardest battles of the American Civil War and innumerable lesser fights. Now she draws a pension, and with feeble mind and body is waiting for the last roll call.

Her life is a mystery. She was born in Ireland on Christmas day, 1844. She is said to have crossed the Atlantic in boy's clothes as a stowaway. Soon afterward she entered the United States army. Even her name is unknown. She called herself "Albert Cashier," but all attempts to trace her identity have failed. She enlisted Aug. 6, 1862 at Belvidere, Ill. in the 95th infantry, and was discharged Aug. 17, 1865. She did farm for two or three years at Belvidere, then disappeared. The next 40 years are her own secret. She is thought to have worked in a factory somewhere. Finally she became an automobile chauffeur and worked in that capacity until a couple of years ago when her declining health made it necessary that she be cared for in a public institution. Only then was her secret discovered.

FAMOUS STAMP COLLECTIONS

Lord Crawford's Was One of the Most Extensive in the World

Stamp dealers in all parts of the world are discussing the sale to a London dealer of the bulk of Lord Crawford's great collection. What he sold was probably one of the finest collections of foreign stamps in the world, and what he retains includes the finest collection of United States stamps, and a collection of British stamps second to that of King George alone. Before the sale Lord Crawford's collection was the finest that the expenditure of unlimited money and the research of half a lifetime ever accumulated, with the possible exception of the collection of Count Phillipe la Renetiere, said to be worth about $5,000,000. Lord Crawford's collection of United States stamps, however, was unrivaled, and no matter what amount a collector might be willing to spend in the effort, he could not duplicate the collection because of the peculiar circumstances in which some of the unique specimens were obtained.

TOBACCO FOR MANITOU

Indians of Manitoba Still Make Peace Offering to Great Spirit

That Indians even yet in passing through the narrows of Lake Manitoba throw pieces of tobacco into the waters to propitiate the spirits of the Great Manitou, was the interesting statement made in Winnipeg by [illegible] Wilson, who has resided at the narrows for a number of years. [illegible] only half a mile across the lake at that point and as Manitou Island is situated almost exactly in the centre a number of cross currents are formed. These by the superstitious Indians are called Troubled Waters and are caused, they think, by the anger of the Great Manitou, and the tobacco is in the nature of a peace offering.

The name of the province, according to Mr. Wilson, was secured from this narrow neck of water, Manitoba being a corruption of the Indian word Manitouwapah, which stands for the island and (wapah) narrow waters.

Sanol's Blood Salt

This salt is an excellent and absolutely harmless remedy for any disturbance of digestion, such as DYSPEPSIA, GASTRIC CATARRH, SOUR STOMACH, HEARTBURN, LOSS OF APPETITE, CONSTIPATION, ETC. and as an aid to digestion in wasting and nervous diseases.

This preparation is a mixture compound so as to resemble in essence and effect the salty part of the human blood which through disease or a wrong way of living might have been lost and not regained. In some cases of flatulence, a sense of fullness or pressure aver the region of the stomach, the blood salt has no equal, in fact there is no other remedy that can take its place.

SCORES KILLED IN BIG RAND FIGHT, WORST IS NOW OVER

Troops Are Withdrawn at the Request of Strike Leaders Who Seek Peace

Johannesburg, July 7.—Most of the gold miners who participated in the general strike last week which led to the killing and wounding of a large number of rioters during the disorders, resumed work to-day, but many still remain out as they object to the terms of settlement with the mine owners. They demand that the Government provide for those who were dependent on the men killed or wounded. Quiet prevails everywhere.

Johannesburg, July 7.—Revised figures show that about twenty persons were killed and 160 wounded on Saturday and that 100 were killed or wounded on Feiday.

The first outbreak of natives occurred at Randfontein, where 1,500 of them broke out of their compound Hussars charged and drove them back.

Rioters have burned many small shops and cottages at Benoni and have also blown up the Star Newspaper office.

The incident in front of the Crudleigh store, when the cavalry fired over the heads of the rioters and scattered them, shooting dead a man who still remained trying to set fire to a quantity of goods, was the last firing episode of the strike. But Sunday was not altogether quiet. Great crowds gathered in a sulky mood and made a general movement toward the Rand Club. The dragoons sent to check them were received with derisive and hostile jeers. The situatian was again critical and an anxious hour followed.

Kept Troops Out of Sight..

The strike leaders, eager for peace, begged the authorities to keep the troops out of sight, undertaking themselves to pacify the strikers. The authorities promised to rely on their good faith, and withdrew the troops altogether. Both sides honorably fulfilled their obligations. The authorities then provided trains to carry the Reef workmen back to their homes and thus prevented a dangerous procession.

PT. EDWARD GRAIN ELEVATOR UTTERLY DESTROYED BY FIRE

Loss Is Estimated at $400,000, Partially Covered By Insurance--Fire Wiped Out Everything, Not Even a Wall Was Left Standing

Sarnia, Ont., July 7.—Fire broke out in the big grain elevator at Pt. Edward this morning about five o'clock, and long before noon the entire structure was a smoking ruin without even the walls standing.

The loss is estimated at about $400,000, which includes the building and the grain stored in it.

The cause of the conflagration is not known. The elevator is one of the largest in this part of the country, and was partly covered by insurance.

Local grainmen were much concerned at the news of the big elevator's destruction. Several Toronto firms had grain stored in the elevator; and the conflagration will mean delay in filling contracts.

PRISONER GIBSON GETS THREE MONTHS RESPITE IN JAIL

Sheriff Mowat Instructed to Postpone Execution Until October Ninth

Toronto, July 7.—Sheriff Mowat has received orders for the postponement of Gibson's execution. He at once notified the jail authorities.

Ottawa, July 7.—Instructions were sent to the Sheriff of Toronto this morning by the Department of Justice to postpone until October 9th the execution of Charles Gibson, the Toronto murderer. The case was before the cabinet council on Friday and Saturday and this decision was arrived at. The papers were hurried to Murray Ba- where they will be signed by the Deputy-Governor, Sir Charles Fitzpatrick.

No new trial for Gibson has as yet been decided upon. There has been an application for a new trial and the attention of the Minister has been directed more towards that than the matter of a commutation: It was contended on behalf of Gibson that new evidence could be adduced, but this was not regarded as being convincing. After consideration for several hours the Ministers agreed to give Gibson the benefit of the doubt and to grant him a reprieve until October 9th.

In the meantime the application in support of a new trial will probably be pressed and it is possible the hearing of the case may be granted later on.

LONG RUN BICYCLIST IS OVERCOME HERE

Belleville Intelligencer: Mr. Henry Carr, an old Belleville boy, is in the city on a bicycle trip of ninety-five miles from Lindsay, which he made over rough hilly roads, in thirteen hours.

It might be said, added to the story quoted from the Intelligencer, that on Sunday night as Mr. Carr was returning from Belleville to Lindsay, he either was run over or succumbed to exhaustion as he approached Fowlers' Corners, just outside this city.

As Mr. A. T. Johnston of the Windsor Hotel, was driving his new car, near Fowlers' Corners, Sunday evening, in the rays of the headlights he saw a man's body lying across the road. Mr. Johnston quickly applied the emergency brake and stopped his car. Here he found Carr lying on the roadway with his head badly torn open and bleedingt "Ed" ran to a nearqy sprinb and filled his hat with cold water. This duly applied the unconscious man to an apprehension of events. He told his story. Mr. Johnston, after laying the smashed bicycle to one side, its front wheel being a wreck, took the man into his car and ran him to Lindsay, where Dr. Might took charge of the patient.

TO LOOK AND FEEL BRIGHT IN HOT WEATHER

This is the season when she who would have a rose-leaf complexion, lily-like neck and hands, should turn her thoughts to mercolized wax, the firm friend of the summer girl. Nothing so effectually overcomes the soiling effects of sun, wind, dust and dirt. The wax literally absorbs the scorched, discolored, withered or coarsened cuticle, bringing forth a brand new skin, clear, soft and girlishly beautiful. It also unclogs the pores, removing blackheads and increasing the skin's breathing capacity. An ounce of mercolized wax, obtainable at any drug store, applied nightly like cold cream, and washed of mornings, will gradually improve the worst complexion.

When dedressed by the heat and you want to freshen up for the evening, bathe the face in a lotion made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite, in a half pint witch hazel. You'll find this more refreshing than an hour's rest. It is fine for smoothing out wrinkles, even the deeper ones.

THE WEATHER.

Doctors' Opinions About POSTUM
Are best expressed in their own words

Writing under date of May 13, 1913, one physician says:

"From past experience I have become a strong friend of Postum. I am now advising its use over that of tea and coffee altogether, and find that most of those who give Postum a trial become users of it.

"It is however sometimes very hard or impossible to get folks to purchase something when they 'don't know anything about it,' and 'don't want to throw away money on a chance of liking it.'

"Now, it occurs to me these people are not to be criticised for such feelings, but at the same time I am sure many of them would become friends of Postum if they could but have a sample of it placed in their hands.

"If you think this is a good suggestion, and will send me samples from time to time, I will see that they are placed among my patients where they will do the most good, for I believe it is to their interest to drink Postum rather than tea and coffee. Postum is used in our home, but we buy it of our grocer, and we expect to keep right on doing so."

Thousands of tea and coffee drinkers are victims of headache, nervousness, biliousness, heart trouble and indigestion, without knowing the cause.

More and more, physicians are naming tea and coffee as a common cause of these ills. Not every physician however, finds time to send a sample following his prescription of

Bylaw to This Effect Passes City Council--The Building Restriction Bylaw for West City Laid Over till Another Meeting--Council Divided in This Question

The City Fathers met in regular session last night.

In the absence of Mayor W. H. Bradburn, Ald. Johnston presided.

There were also present Aldermen Anderson, Langford, Green, Duffus, Gordon, Gillespie, Geo. Duncan, and Buller.

The members of the Council were invited to be present at the laying of the corner stone of the new gates to the Little Lake Cemetery Co.

The question of arranging for hydrants for fire protection to the Vermont Marble Co's works was referred to the Fire, Water and Light Committee with power to act.

The City Clerk was instrdcted to attend the convention of the municipal association, to meet in Toronto on August 28th and 29th.

W. G. Higgins, through his solicitors, complained that the cesspool in connection with the Isolation Hospital is a nuisance, and if not abated within one week, proceedings against the city will be instituted. Referred to the Board of Health.

Breach of Faith.

The Township of Otonabee submitted a statement of claims in connection with their writ of injunction to prohibit the city's sewage from being emptied into the river.

On motion of Ald. Gordon and Gillespie, the City Solicitor will be instructed to have this statement of claims struck out and action stayed on the ground that an understanding had been reached some time ago between the city and this township, that no legal proceedings should be taken against the city in this connection pending the construction this year of the city's new outfall sewer and a sanitary system of treating sewage.

Hydro-Electric Matter.

In regard to the cityjs offer of $95,000 for the Peterborough Light & Power Co's distributing plant, Mr. A. B. Colville wrote that the Electric Power Co. Will meet in Toronto on Friday of this week to consider the city's proposition.

West End Restrictive By-law.

In regard to the proposition to pass a by-law prohibiting stores in the district west of Charlotte street previously outlined. Ald. Gordon and C. S. Hetherington offered that interested citizens have practically subscribed the necessary amount to purchase from Mr. R. C. Braund the property he had acquired at the corner of St. Joseph and Charlotte streets, to which he had intended to add a store. This action had been taken with a view to paving the way for the passage of a by-law restricting the area in question to residential buildings only, and was Mr. Braund's suggestion.

Mr. Pope, who owns property on Charlotte street and the Monaghan Road, objected to the proposed prohibitive by-law.

Mr. Hetherington replied that Mr. Pope is the only interested citizen objecting to the by-law, and his property is already in a restricted district on the ald Burnham property.

Chairman Ald. Johnston informed Mr. Pope that the by-law would be given but two readings last night, and citizens would have ample notice of when the measure is to come up for its third reading, thus giving opportunity for opposing it.

Subsequently this by-law came up for its first and second readings.

However, the first reading was opposed on the following division -

Nays—Aldermen Green, Duncan, Langford and Johnston.

Yeas—Aldermen Anderson, Gordon, Gillespie, Duffus and Buller.

Ald. Green submitted that the by-law would be unfair to the property-owners who might want to build for commercial purposes in the future. The time to restrict property is when it is being broken up, and such action should be taken by the seller. He did not think the measure would hold water any way.

Ald. Langford said he would vote for the by-law if petitioned for by nine-tenths of the interested citizens.

Eventually the by-law was laid over for next meeting without having any official reading.

$100 For Labor Day Celebration.

On motion of Ald. Duncan and Anderson $100 was voted toward financing the Labor Day Celebration this year. Messrs. Dave Moore and J. J. Hartley (chairman of the celebration committee) were spokesmen for the deputation present from the

PETES DEFEAT BRANTFORD "STRUCK" OUTS A FEATURE

Quite a large turnout of the fans were present at Riverside Park yesterday, the fair sex being well represented, when the Petes met the Kanitas from Brantford in the first of a series of three games.

The game opened air tight as far as the Petes were concerned, the visitors being shut out in the first two innings, while the Petes took one in the first and two in the second. They then closed the gates on Brantford and the game ended a pitcher's battle, the Petes scoring their fourth run in the third innings.

Sterling pitched a good game, and held the visitors down to five hits, and striking out twelve men. Gero for the visitors should not be overlooked either, as he put up a fine game, striking out 8 men and shutting the Petes out after the third innings.

In the first innings, Thompson, the Petes second sacker, had three put outs to his credit, and played spicey ball throughout. In the second innings three 3-baggers were made in succession, scoring two runs, after two men were out, Byrne making the first, Tnompson, tne second, and Sterling the third.

Chapdelaine held down the first base, in place of Davie Rowan, who watched the play from the bench. McNeal did the catching, while Trout played in the right pasture.

Many were "struck" by the way Umps Evans gave his decisions, some of which were of a discolored nature.

But there was one thing about Mr Evans that the fans appreciated, that was, he never talked back to the players like our old friend Mr. Daly.

The batteries—Petes, Sterling and McNeal; Brantford, Gero and Lamond

GREAT NATIONAL UNDERTAKINGS GOING FORWARD THIS YEAR

Water Transportation Improvements From Coast to Coast-Canadian Ports to Handle Canadian Trade

Program Includes Development of Harbors on Atlantic and Pacific as Well as on the Great Lakes. Welland Canal Second Only to Panama

(Special to The Times).

Ottawa, July 7.—That the Government is fully alive to the necessity of providing proper transpotation facilities for Canadian commerce was shown by the generous appropriations which were voted last session for great national undertakings from Halifax to Vancouver and tenders for many of which will be called very shortly. The engineering staff of the Public Works Department is at present working on many of these plans and before the summer is much older work will be started on all of them.

MILLIONS ON THE I. C. R.

In the Maritime Provinces the Government is preparing to spend millions to make the Intercolonial an up-to-date road. New rolling stock and modern equipment is being installed and many improvements are being planned. One of the most important is a double track from Moncton to Halifax to provide for the growing traffic. At Halifax enormous new terminals are to be built which along with the proposed new docks will make Halifax one of the great ports of the continent. The cost will be some eight to ten million dollars. A car ferry service is being provided between the mainland and Prince Edward Island which will give the Islanders at last proper communication with the main land. At St. John there is being built the extensive Courtenay Bay harbor works which will give St. John one of the best harbors on the Atlantic Coast. A dry dock is being built there as well as at Halifax.

DEVELOPMENT AT QUEBEC.

Coming on to Queqec it also is being made a great national port capable of handling the growing ocean trade of the Dominion. Within the next couple of weeks a contract will be awarded for the largest dry-dock in America at Levis opposite the Ancient Capital. The River St. Charles is being deepened and many new terminals facilities added for railway anh steamship service.

GREAT WORKS AT MONTREAL

At Montreal the great harbor improvements there are being carried out on a large scale. On the strength of Government advances improvement aggregating 918,000,000 expenditure are being planned by the Harbor Board.

TORONTO HARBOR IMPROVEMENTS

Toronto is being made a great national harbor as well and tenders will be called probably this week for works to cost $6,000,000 and which will give the Queen City the best harbor on the Great Lakes. Plans to make Hamilton a thoroughly modern port are also underway. In addition there are appropriations for the improvements for smaller ports like Port Stanley, Port Dover, Goderich, etc.

SECOND ONLY TO PANAMA.

The Welland Canal project is now well started which will make the Welland capable of handling the biggest boats on the Great Lakes. The tenders for the first section will be in on July 17 and those for other sections a month later. When completed, it will be the biggest canal on the continent next to the Panama.

OTHER IMPORTANT WORKS

On Georgian Bay extensive dredging works are in progress and work is being rushed on the Trent Valley Canal, while at the Soo with its tremendous shipping a subsidised dry-dock is under construction. At the head of the Lakes at Port Arthur and Fort William great harbor works are in progress so as to handle the growing western lake trade. In addition at Fort William is being enacted a magnificent government terminal elevator to help handle the western grain traffic.

INTERNAL ELEVATORS

The Government has already decided on a system of internal elevators to be built on the prairies and tenders will be called very shortly for the first two at Moose Jaw and Saskatoon. They will be capable of handling from three to four millions bushels and will be equipped with the latest machinery for handling and treating grain.

STEEL ON HUDSON BAY LINE.

ws for the Hudson Bay Railway it is being rushed with all speed. The contract has been let for the Uhole road and steel will be laid on the first 185 miles by fall. The harbor, terminal and docks at Port Nelson are also being rushed.

PACIFIC COAST PLANS

Out at Vancouver, the tenders will be let within the next couple of weeks for the new docks which will make the Coast City a real national harbor capable of handling the growing Pacific traffic. Similar works and a break water are being built at Victoria, while at Esquimalt, a great dry-dock capable of holding the largest ships on the Pacific or any British war-ships is to be built.

QUEEN MARY HAS PUT CENSURE ON CLASSIC DANCE

London, Suly 7.—During the visit of King George and Queen Mary to Lord and Lady Derby at Knowsley starting to-day, a feature in the programme of amusement will be a vaudeville show by a half dozen well known music hall performers. The entertainment, however, will not be confined to professionals and a few prominent amatuers will also contribute their services.

Every programme for the amusement of the King and Queen, must, of course, be submitted to them for their approval. This is never a mere matter of form, especially in the case of the Queen, who has strict views in regard to propriety. When the programme for the entertainment at Knowsley was submitted to the King and Queen, the latter promptly showed that not only had she not forgotten the experience she acquired at the famous vaudeville show at the Palace theatre, but also has a good knowledge of what is going on in amateur circles.

Object to Scanty Costume.

The programme contained one item which read: "A Dance in Costume by Lady Diana Manners." The Queen immediately asked that a photograph should he sent to her. This was done with the result that Queen Mary suggested that her ladyship wear "a somewhat fuller attire" than was shown in the photograph.

Lady Diana on being informed of the Queen's wishes immediately asked Lady Derby to strike her name off the programme, and she therefore will not he among the guests who will meet the King and Queen at Knowsley.

Lady Diana Manners is a daughter of the Duke of Rutland, and is one of the most vivacious of the younger girls in society. She is an enthusiastic dancer and always is a regular attendant at all the big public fancy dress balls at Albert Hall. At a recent one she appeared as a ballerina in the conventional tutu

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 25c. and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 25c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 25c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., 356 George St., directly opposite Crossman's store.

CANADIAN FLEAS QUEST OF HUNTERS

They are Wanted to be Added to One of the World's Most Unique Collections

Mr. F. J. Davis of London, England, who came to Canada on a most peculiar mission looks on big game hunters with disdain. Mr. Davis is a flea hunter. He is manager and "chief scout" for the famous flea menagerie of Hon. Charles Rothschild in Herefordshire. The Hon. Charles is the wealthiest and most eccentric member of the great millionaire family. His particular fad is the collection of rare species of fleas to which lively insects he devotes a large portion of his thought and time.

"I have been scouting for fleas for fifteen years," said Mr. Davis in an interview at Montreal, "and in the course of that time I have gathered 227 different kinds from as many different parts of the globe. Altogether Mr. Rothschild has 437 distinct varieties, so you can imagine how difficult it must be to get any new ones. The object of my trip is to organize an expedition to visit the Northern Hudson's Bay country for the purpose of capturing some Esquimaux fleas, of which Mr. Rothschild was told by Captain Scott."

Mr. Davis recounted some extraordinary tales of the means whereby Mr. Rothschild secured his large assortment of fleas. Special expeditions were sent into the heart of India and Africa. Great expense had been undergone in order to secure rare fleas such as those which haunt the hippopotamus and the kangaroo in their native environment. Prizes had been offered for flea contributions and for months the mails to Mr. Rothschild were filled with letters bearing fleas of all sizes and all degrees of viciousness.

"A remarkable point in connection with a tour of Canada which I made six years ago," continued Mr. Davis, "was the fact that I found a prodigious number of fleas in Toronto, where I was able to add no less than seventy-three distinct types to my Canadian collection."

Mr. Davis has some very clever trapping devices by which he catches his prey. His favorite bait is fresh blood of a young pig.

The waiters in a Montreal hotel went on strike because the proprietor made a practice of looking under the plates when guests left the table to see if they had left any tips.

"NERVOUS DEBILITY"

OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT will cure you and make a man of you. Under its influence the brain becomes active, the blood purified so that all pimples, blotches and ulcers heal up; the nerves become strong as steel, so that nervousness, bashfulness and despondency disappear; the eyes become bright, the face full and clear, energy returns to the body, and the moral, physical and mental systems are invigorated; all drains cease—no more vital waste from the system. You feel yourself a man and know marriage cannot be a failure. Don't let quacks and fakirs rob you of your hard earned dollars.

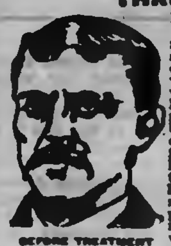
THREATENED WITH PARALYSIS



BEFORE TREATMENT

AFTER TREATMENT

Peter E. Summers relates his experience:

"I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and excesses in youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, but received little benefit. I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the NEW METHOD TREATMENT and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and continue to do so."

Sight Restored by Bee Stings

While changing a swarm of bees from one hive to another George Bailey, who lives near Placerville, Calif., and makes a living selling honey, but who had been almost blind for some time because of some ailment of his eyes, was stung on the face and eyelids by several bees.

Bailey intended to go to Sacramento to consult a specialist with a view to having his sight restored, but the bees did the work that he intended the specialist should try to do. The effect of the stings was to restore his sight.

About Hiccoughs

Hiccoughs is caused by a nervous contraction of one of the breathing muscles. The underlying cause is nervousness.

The exciting cause is some reflex irritation, for instance, if something does not agree with a person. Ordinary attacks will be relieved by anything which diverts the attention and allows breathing to go on purely as an automatic process. If the attack is more severe, empty the stomach by sticking a finger in the throat.

As a rule it will be found that hiccoughing children are nervous children.

Startling a person often stops hiccoughs instantly.

U.S. COINAGE IN CANADA

A correspondent complains of the large amount of United States silver which is in circulation in Ontario. "One hardly gets any change now which does not contain some United States silver or copper." He says: "In fact, I had to object to a bank lately paying me $2 of United States silver in each $10 roll of silver they gave me. Silver is entirely different to bills, which find their way to New York through the banks. Silver passes from hand to hand, and remains in circulation to the exclusion of Canadian coinage. The government loses heavily by it, as of course, it makes a large seigniorage on the coinage of silver and copper."

There is an arrangement in existence with the banks under which they ship all such coinage back to United States points, the government undertaking to pay the express charges and a small commission to indemnify them for their trouble. Under this arrangement large amounts are shipped out of the country.—Monetary Times.

Lived 110 Years

Joseph Marshi, a carpenter, 110 years old, who died at Chicago, was born in Germany in 1802, and emigrated when he was 40 years old. At the age of 80 years Marshi ceased the use of intoxicating liquors. When he was 105 years old he stopped the use of tobacco.

Samuel McDowell was run over at Winnipeg, sustaining fatal injuries, by an automobile truck driven by his son. He was riding on the truck when the machine skidded, throwing him to the ground. The left hind wheel passed over his body.

Canada Needs More Hens

From being one of the important egg producing countries Canada has become an importer, the home production being inadequate to supply the demand.

AFTER THE FAKES

Mails of Canada Closed to Questionable Enterprises

The Postmasters-General of Canada and the United States are uniting in a crusade against mail order sharks who have been using the mails of both countries for fraudulent purposes.

Get-rich-quick men are, according to the post-office authorities, increasing in Canada at a disturbing rate, many of those who were driven out of New York, Chicago, and other cities across the line by the activities of the United States officials having turned their attention to Canada as a particularly ripe field for their line of endeavor.

Hydraulic Cartridge

The old axiom that constant dropping water will wear away the hardest stone has found a very fitting proof in the adoption of what is known as the hydraulic cartridge for blasting in England. The cartridge is nothing more than a tube of water inserted in the rock to be blasted and tremendous pressure applied. The hardest rock cannot withstand the pressure.

A Prehistoric Village

One of the interesting features uncovered in the prehistoric lake village recently found near Glastonbury, England, is the remains of what the explorers believe to have been a needle factory. Splinters of bone and many samples of bone needles of different sizes have been found.

EDITORIAL NOTES

When women get the vote the only way for men to show their superiority will be to raise whiskers.

One notes by observing the latest styles of coiffures that women's ears are covered up, while nearly all the rest of her is exposed.

A certain Douro farmer seeing Mayor Bradburn's auto going along the road, followed by Fred Roy's motor cycle, declared: "I'll be gosh darned if the thing hasn't got a colt!"

MODERNIZING RUSSIA.

The claim that private property in land is "on its last legs" has often been made. Reformers there are ready to assign a date when land will belong to everybody in general and nobody in particular. The outlook scarcely justifies their assurance. In Russia — to take a single illustration — the private possession of land is being regarded as a stage of progress and hailed as a boon. The Russian peasants have tried out communal ownership and want no more of it. Isolated in their "silence of centuries," they held tenaciously to the "mir" long after the rest of Europe had swept past. Freed from the curse of serfdom, the institution gained new energy in the days after emancipation, and was tried out in all sorts of ways. The picturesque democracy it developed always proved interesting to travellers. But it failed to make good, and as an administrative unit grew more and more unworkable.

Finally, when it became apparent that Russia could got retain her ancient form of landowning and aspire to economic efficiency, the ukase of 1906 decreed that the peasants could withdraw from the commune and acquire land as personal property. The permission was received with eager welcome in forty European provinces. This year's imperial budget, just issued, shows that nearly 1,000,000 peasants have taken advantage of the ukase to cut loose from the communal regime and have land alloted to them in individual possession. During the same period of seven years, by a system of assisted emigration, 2,000,000 persons have been colonized on the vast free lands beyond the Urals. The change thus brought about amounts to a revolution in the life of Russian peasantry. It marks a spectacular epoch in the economic development of the Russian people. It shows the great Siberian territory will be exploited under that competitive regime for which no satisfactory substitute has yet been found.

Cure Your Cold Now!

Thousands of Cases Prove the Quickest Cure is Catarrhozone.

When germs attack the lining of the nose, make you sneeze and gag— when later on they infest the bronchial tubes—how can you follow them with a cough syrup?

You can't do it—that's all. Cough syrups go to the stomach—that's why they fail.

But Catarrhozone goes everywhere —gets right after the germs — kills them—heals the soreness—cures the inflammation—makes Catarrh disappear.

"Nothing I have ever used gives the warm, soothing sensation of Catarrhozone," writes Isabel Fry, of Seguin Falls, Ont. "I was in a frightful way with catarrh of the nose and throat—had droppings, hard breathing, bad breath and indigestion. Catarrhozone relieved at once and cured me thoroughly. It is invaluable in colds, sore throat and bronchial trouble." Not difficult for Catarrhozone to cure, because it contains the essences of pine balsams and other antiseptics that simply mean death to catarrh. Large size costs $1.00, and contains two months treatment; smaller size, 25c. and 50c. all druggists and storekeepers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

SESSIONAL INDEMNITY.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I read in your paper the letter signed "Liberal," on the proposed increase in the Dominion Sessional indemnity. "Liberal" professes to endorse Mr. Burnham's action in opposing the increase. I think, Mr. Mr. Editor, that "Liberal" should have signed his communication "Foxy Grandpa." I agree with "Liberal" that Mr. Burnham is honest in the expression of his convictions, but I think in this particular, he is mistaken. I read, in your paper, both Mr. Burnham's and Mr. Sexsmith's views on the increase. I agree with Mr. Sexsmith that, with the immensely increased cost of living an increase in the members' indemnity will prevent graft, at least it sure will in Quebec.

Conservative.

A PRE-HISTORIC RELIC FOUND AT FORT WILLIAM

Crude Copper Hook, Which When Bent Springs Back Like Fine Steel

A crude copper hook, beaten by hand out of native copper, and possibly of pre-historic origin was unearthed at Fort William about twenty feet below the earth's surface. The hook is about seven inches long, and the loop of the hook proper is two and a half inches in diameter. Its sides are flat, beaten four square, and show the imprint of a small flat-faced hammer, and, though slender, this copper hook is so exquisitely tempered that when bent under pressure it immediately springs back into its original position like the finest steel. At the top is a tiny ring, possibly intended for the insertion of a thong or string. It is unquestionably a relic of some American aborigine, but whether it was fashioned by an Indian or by his predecessors, the Mound Builders, will have to be left to the judgment of archæological experts. In the opinion of some the instrument was used for fishing in some bygone age, but the hook is strong enough to easily bear the weight of a man. The men who found the hook assert that clam shells are found in abundance at a depth of thirty-five feet along the route of the main sewer, and this leads to the belief that the section was at one time under water. Undoubtedly some rude-garbed fisherman of the stone age was sorely grieved when the strength of a stone or a marine monster proved too much for his fish-line of thong, and decamped with the hook of copper which he had been at such great pains to fashion.

BALL PLAYERS SHOULD NOT DRINK OR SMOKE

Charles W. Murphy of Chicago expressed the opinion that in a short time all managers of big league clubs will be compelled to enforce strictly the clause in the contract prohibiting players from drinking or smoking during the baseball season. "I believe the drinking and smoking clauses can be enforced. If I find otherwise I will switch my team around until I secure the men who will do as I demand," said Mr. Murphy. "I will enforce the new rules if I lose all my stars and if it puts the team in last place." Mr. Murphy says if necessary he will hire detectives to watch suspected players.

MOA NOW EXTINCT

Great Bird of New Zealand Twelve Feet High

A gigantic extinct bird of New Zealand (the moa) possessed the most massive bones of the entire class of birds. The bones of its feet almost rivaled those of the ground sloth, or the elephant, in size. In the museum in Canterbury College, Christ Church, New Zealand, there are two specimens of the moa which measure 12 feet 8 inches in height, such remains having been found in the peat bogs of New Zealand. In the seaside sand dunes and caves were preserved the ligaments holding the bones of skeletons together, also pieces of dried skin and feathers, etc. The moa is more nearly allied in structure to emus, cassowaries, and kiwis than to the ostrich. It closely resembles the kiwis except for its short beak, and for having aftershafts after its feathers.

For a long time it was hoped that in some of the backward mountainous regions of New Zealand some living specimen of the moa might be found. But the expedition of an Australian naturalist, Herr Reischek, in 1877-8 for this object, was fruitless, so that the question of the moa's extinction was considered finally settled, and it is believed to have occurred a little over 500 years ago. The fact that is was flightless—not having a trace of rudimentary wings—no doubt contributed largely to render it an easy prey to its natural enemies, including man, and thus to lead to its early extinction.

A Tiny State

The smallest state in the world is Moresnet, on the borders of Belgium and Prussia. Its area is reckoned in acres, not square miles! Its size, in fact, is fourteen hundred acres, just a good-sized farm!

Moresnet was made a separate State in 1815, after Napoleon had been finally crushed at Waterloo. The reason that the little country has remained independent is rather curious. As has been said, the tiny State is on the borders of Germany and Belgium. It possesses what was once the most important and valuable zinc-mine in the whole world. Belgium wanted that zinc, and so did Germany. As they couldn't agree on the amount of compensation to the other, Moresnet remained independent. The tiniest country in the world lies four miles away from Aix-la-Chapelle, and possesses one village. There's not room for two! The total number of inhabitants is under three thousand. Recently Germany began negotiations with Belgium to acquire her tiny neighbor, though the Moresnetians say they prefer to be under Belgium rule, if they can't be independent.

Paper Underwear

Paper underwear has been invented in Paris for aviators' use, lightness and heat retaining qualities being its advantages.

Salt in Soapsuds

Washing with hot soapsuds in which salt has been dissolved will tighten a cane seat in a chair which has striched until it sags.

Boiler Fatalities

An average of nearly two persons a day are killed by boiler explosions in the United States every year.

Cross Country Automobile

A resident of a section of Australia where the roads are few and poor has had a cross-country automobile built from his own ideas, high enough to clear several feet of water and with a winch and reel of wire rope to pull it clear should it sink into soft ground.

Fertile Acreage

The world is estimated to have 28,269,200 square miles of fertile land.

To Clean Brass

A strong solution of alum in boiling water is a cheap and effective cleanser for brass.

SPORTING NEWS

TURF.

Cleveland, July 7.—Driven by Doc Tanner, Uhlan, 1.58, the world's champion trotter, trotted a workout mile at the North Randall track in 1.59½, that being his final preparation for an attempt next Monday, to step in 2.00 to wagon. Uhlan finished the mile apparently not in the slightest distressed, notwithstanding the excessive heat.

LAWN BOWLING.

Boston, July 7.—Nearly 300 Boston business men assembled at Franklin Field yesterday, guests of the Boston Bowling Green Club, and were instructed in the niceties of bowlinb on the green by members of the club. Because of the extreme heat many took their instruction without applying themselves to play. Nearly 100, however, took off their coats, rolled up their sleeves and began actual practice.

The affair was the result of a decision made on the part of the club members a short time ago that more Boston men should be interested in the game. Yesterday the Club's work resulting in the recruiting to the ranks of grass bowling devotees a large number who had never before even seen a game.

BASEBALL.

Philadelphia, July 7.—President Thomas J. Lynch, of the National league is in this city for the purpose of investigating the trouble on the Philadelphia field after Monday's game between the Giants and the Phillies in which Pitcher Ad Brennan of the Phillies, by his own admission, assaulted Manager McGraw after both teams had left the field. Unless Brennan is suspended before today's game, Manager Dooin will use him on the slab against the Giants.

When Lynch arrived here he was unaware of the actual facts in the case, the umpires who reported the incident neither having been on hand and having no eye-witness testimony to offer. Since then, however, Brennan has publicly admitted the part he played in the affair, claiming provocation as his excuse. Lynch is interested principally as to whether any of the other Philadelphians, not nursing any personal insult as in Brennan's case, figured in the assault.

Neither Manager McGraw nor the New York club has filed any complaint regarding the affair. President Lynch startling his investigation upon his own initiative. McGraw is quoted as sating that he is not in favor of Brennan being severely punished, but declares that he had made no remark to the Philadelphian sufficiently strong to warrant the attack.

Indianopolisi Ind., July 7.—Pitcher "Jeff" Davis of the Columbus American Association team today shut out the Indianapolis team without a hit. Two bases on balls and three men hit by the pitcher were the only ones of the Indiananolis nine to reach first base. The of these was doubled up immediately. It was the second no-hit game in the association this year.

to report at once.

Lincoln, Neb., July 7.—The Lincoln club of the Western league today announced the purchase of Pitcher Clauss from the Detroit Americans to report at once.

A FEW DON'TS

Don't be a spoil-sport.

Don't court indigestion.

Don't make too big a splash.

Don't forget your poor relations.

Don't grumble, whatever you do.

Don't leave everything for "mother" to do.

Don't, if you get up on your wrong side, make everybody else miserable.

Don't let the children sit up top late—they only get tired out and fretful.

Don't be made miserable. Misery loves company—but is seldom an agreeable hostess.

Don't, if you give your children a party, keep nagging them as to what they must and must not do.

Don't envy another's happiness and enjoyment. Make the most of what you have, and be grateful for having that much.

TO PROLONG SLEEP

Woman Invents Bandage to Wear Across the Eyes

If the Massachusetts woman who has devised a way to prolong sleep would now turn her attention to some method of inducing sleep she would benefit mankind still further and increase her bank account much more. However, the device she did evolve is a step in the right direction and is apparently so simple that it is strange no one ever thought of patenting it before. It is nothing more than a strip of some light-absorbing material that is to be worn across the eyes and has loops to go around the ears and hold it in place. Simple as it is, the device is perfectly logical and should be effective, as everyone knows that one of the chief causes of awakening is the shining of the morning sun in our closed eyes, the sharp light penetrating our eyelids. That is one reason why we can sleep longer in winter than in summer.

Death of Best Sheep Dog

Pink, the greatest sheep-dog of her day, belonging to Mr. Moses, of Brogyntyn Farm, Oswestry, died at the age of seven. Pink was endowed with almost human sagacity, and had won more first prizes than any other sheep dog in trials in various parts of the country. She always carried off the prizes for the dog under the best command, and at the Llangollen trials she won the "blue ribbon" of the sheep-dog world twice in succession. "I never patted her," Mr. Moses said. "If I was displeased I told her so, and her ears went down. If others patted her she took no notice of them but looked at me as if to ask if it was right." Pink was a smooth-haired collie, cleanly built after the greyhound style. That was how she got her speed. She was as gentle with a chicken or a pig as with a sheep. She never distressed or irritated sheep, but if one were stubborn she would stand facing it, and at the whistle walk quietly up and seize it by the nose, and the sheep had to go where she wanted.

Blood Salt

This salt is an excellent and absolutely harmless remedy for any disturbances of digestion, such as DYSPEPSIA, GASTRIC CATARRH, SOUR STOMACH, HEARTBURN, LOSS OF APPETITE, CONSTIPATION, ETC., and as an aid to digestion in wasting and nervous diseases.

This preparation is a mixture compound so as to resemble in essence and effect the salty part of the human blood which through disease or a wrong way of living might have been lost and not regained. In some cases of flatulence, a sense of fullness or pressure over the region of the stomach, the blood salt has no equal, in fact there is no other remedy that can take its place.

CROSSED IN LOVE

How the Building of Spite Fence Reunited Lovers Separated Twenty Years.

By HUBERT ROSCOE.

It certainly was a desirable property from every point of view, but one point of view was permanently included, and that was the outlook upon old Mr. Smith's garden. It was an enormous garden, almost big enough for the grounds of an institution, and from Mr. Smith's front gate Mrs. Harnack could see rows of magnificent elms and locust trees and flower beds which always seemed to bloom with seasonable flowers. But from her side windows she could see nothing.

"It's the spite fence," explained the agent. "That's why the property's so cheap. Mr. Smith resented the late owner's building next to him, and so he put it up."

It was a formidable fence, twenty feet high, and built of lumber, painted green on Mr. Smith's side, and bearing a luxurious growth of ivy, but on the outside just plain, unpainted boards.

"I think he is a horrid old man," said Adelina Harnack angrily. "And you may tell him so."

"I haven't see him for two years," answered the agent. "He never stirs outside his grounds. He's an old hermit and has a grudge against the world. They say he was crossed in love."

"How old is he?" asked Mrs. Harnack curiously.

"Oh, about fifty," answered the agent carelessly.

So Mrs. Harnock bought the property. It was just the place, she told herself, for a widowed lady to settle down, and there was an excellent finishing school near by for Miriam, her only child. And days passed and weeks passed, but neither saw Mr. Smith.

One day the agent stopped her in the street.

"I hear you're going to have a neighbor," he said, grinning.

"What, somebody else going to build on the other side?" asked Adelina Harnack apprehensively. She was afraid of another spite fence, and she loved the view from her windows, for Cosset Town was a pretty place with shade trees and gardens.

"It's Really You, Adelina?"

"No, Mrs. Harnack," the agent answered. "Old Mr. Smith's nephew John is coming to live with him. We heard about it from the baker's man, who's sweet on that girl of Mrs Tracy's, Mr. Smith's housekeeper. His brother died a pauper and left John in his care. They say he's a fine looking young fellow, and just out of college. Wonder what old man Smith will do with him."

"Teach him to be a fencemaker, I suppose," said Mrs. Harnack crossly. The spite fence was becoming more than an eyesore, and she hated Mr. Smith and wished him at the bottom of the sea.

Young John Smith was put into a lawyer's office in Cosset Town. He was a fresh-faced, pleasant young fellow, and showed no symptoms of any desire to keep up the feud. One day, when Miriam had been home from school two weeks, Mrs. Harnack, walking with her, saw her daughter bow, and John Smith raised his hat as he passed on the opposite side of the road.

"How do you know him?" demanded the mother.

"Oh, I was introduced," answered her daughter evasively.

"Then understand, Miriam, I forbid you to speak to him again or notice him."

"Very well, mamma," answered the daughter submissively.

But her mother had once been young and in love, before an unkind fortune separated her from her lover and married her off to Mr. Harnack, stout, forty-five and bald. She was resolved to prevent any possibility of Miriam's disobedience. That night she wrote a letter to her neighbor.

"I have abstained from asking you to remove your objectionable fence," she said, "because you have the law on your side, if you have no sense of neighborliness. But I positively forbid your nephew to speak to my daughter again."

The letter came back. Underneath was scrawled:

"I have told my nephew that I'll disinherit him unless he keeps better company."

That, shown to Miriam, was a clincher, the mother thought.

But on the next day carpenters arrived at Mr. Smith's house, and they proceeded to erect a rough scaffolding on the outside of the fence. And the next day painters mounted it, and before nightfall the exterior bore the sign, in huge letters of yellow and red:

"Try Pyramid Pills for That Tired Feeling."

Adelina Harnack was away that day in town. When she got back she saw the legend. She was furious.

"Miriam, I am going to stop this if it takes every penny I have," she said. "I am going straight down to Mr. Capel, the lawyer, to instruct him to get out an injunction."

"But, Mamma——"

"Now, not a word, Miriam!"

"All right, Mamma, only John—I mean Mr. Smith—is working in Mr Capel's office."

The name betrayed the secret which the girl's tones concealed. Mrs. Harnack turned on her.

"Why do you call him John?" she asked icily. "Is it possible—possible—?" She looked at her daughter's scarlet face. "Miriam, has there been anything between you and that contemptible young man?"

Miriam began to cry. "I love John," she sobbed. "And he loves me, and he's coming to see you tomorrow afternoon."

"No, indeed," answered her mother. "I am going to see him, and his uncle, too, and tell them what I think of them."

She waited till she saw the young man pass the front gate, with many wistful upward glances; then, giving him time to change his office clothes, she boldly entered the Smith grounds and sallied up to the house. Her anger was at the boiling point when she arrived at the front door.

"Is Mr. Smith in?" she asked of the housekeeper.

"Mr. John Smith or Mr. Jonathan Smith?" asked the woman curtly.

"Jonathan!" said Mrs. Harnack quietly, and the housekeeper thought it was the answer to her question. But Adelina Harnack merely repeated the name in wonder. Could there be two Jonathan Smiths, or was it—?

"Walk in, please," said the housekeeper, and a half minute later the visitor found herself in the presence of the recluse.

He had not changed so greatly. He was the same man whom she had once loved so passionately, save for the tale of the years. All at once she began to recall their early love, the memories which now in her widowhood began to creep out of her heart's hiding places. And he knew her.

"Adelina!" he exclaimed, and stumbled forward. And Adelina Harnack somehow found herself in his arms, though it was twenty years since she had left them.

"It's really you, Adelina?" he asked incredulously. "Where do you live? How have you found me here?"

"I live next door," she answered.

"Next door?"

"Beyond the fence. Don't you remember that I wrote to you? O, but you didn't know my married name, did you? I want to tell you so much—but the shock has unnerved me."

He caught her in his arms again.

"It is you, then," he said. "I've held you in my heart and fenced you round about—and all the while I was fencing you out, unknowing it. But, Adelina—I shall keep you now—I—"

He paused. "We'll tear down the fence tomorrow," he said, "and then we can talk. Not tonight. Tonight we are a boy and girl together again, as we used to be."

WORRY OF SLEEPLESSNESS

How to Equalize Circulation and Induce Sleep

Sleeplessness is due to the presence of too much blood in the head. Instead of taking a drug to induce sleep, employ a simple remedy to equalize the circulation.

If the brain has been actively engaged just before bedtime, it is wise to take a short, brisk walk in the open air to put the blood into normal action.

A cold bath or rubdown is equally good for some people, while a hot bath will be found to induce sleep in others. These must be tried to see which is the better for the individual one.

Lettuce and onions are both sleep producers. Eat the lettuce fresh at supper time. Take the onions sliced raw, or in a syrup just before retiring. Rubbing the extremities with a rough towel is another way of equalising the circulation and inducing sleep.

If a person is troubled with wakeful hours in the night, after having been asleep, once, it is wise to get up and eat a crust of bread.

This has the same effect. It starts the stomach woring, and that in turn draws the blood from the head.

Because it is difficult to sleep when the brain is overactive, a child should not be excited just before the bedtime hour.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at the office of any Local Agent of Dominion Lands (not sub-agent), on certain conditions.

Duties.—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required in every case, except when residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside of his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties—Six months residence in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and 50 acres extra cultivation. The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land after report by Homestead Inspector on application for patent.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts Price, $3 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

Advertise in THE TIMES

In this characteristic drawing Miss Helen Dryden has given a charming effect of a new style. The dress is of white taffeta with trimmings and underskirts of black. The shoulders are very long the sleeves slightly gathered and put in on a heavy cord. The rest is trimmed with small glass buttons. A finishing touch is the big black leghorn hat with white aigrettes under either side of the rolling brim.

Do You Know?

That grumbling is as contagious as smallpox.

That there is no time for enjoyment like the present.

That a pillow filled with dried hops often proves a cure for insomnia.

That the piece of work you dread most is the one to tackle first.

That shoes should be fitted late in the day as feet are larger then than in the morning.

That tea water strained through muslin will be a capital cleanser for varnished or stained woodwork.

That lemon juice and a little salt will remove all stains from white ivory knife handles.

That there is no investment that pays higher dividends, all things considered, than cheerful smiles and kind words.

That when soot or ink falls on a carpet, sprinkle it thickly with dry salt and let it stand a while before attempting to remove it.

That a cure for tender feet is a powder consisting of one part of salicylic acid, eight parts of boracic acid, and thirty-two parts of French chalk.

That you should never stay in a warm bath more than 20 minutes, being sure to bathe the neck and face first to prevent an unpleasant rush of blood to the head.

That a rusty grate may be cleaned by brushing it over with blacklead that has been mixed with cold water to a soft paste. Leave it for a day or two. Then clean in the usual way.

That if milk has overboiled, and you suddenly find it rising above the pan, take it off the fire and blow it gently for a moment. This will prevent it from going over.

That if you want to prevent your dining table from becoming marked by hot plates, buy small squares of white asbestos and put one under the tablecloth at each place.

That coffee is an aid in washing brown linens. Pour boiling water over a quarter pound of cheap coffee. Strain through cheese cloth into two tubs, one for washing, the other for rinsing. Wash with a good soap. Rinse and hang in the shade to dry. Iron first wrong side and then on the right. Do not use blueing.

New System of Towing.

Tests of a new towing system invented by a German government engineer, Herr Koss, have been recently made on the Hiltrup section (1 4-5 miles in length) of the Dortmund Ems canal. An elastic rail is laid at the bottom of the canal, and the tugboat carries at its bottom four rollers which clasp the rail. These rollers are operated from the boat which is thus propelled. A large economy of power is claimed for this method. The experimental tug is worked by electricity, the energy being obtained through a cable from an auxiliary boat equipped with a dynamo. This, however, is only a provisional arrangement, and in ordinary working a trolley wire would be installed alongside the canal. Electrical operation can obviously be replaced by crude oil motors, etc., each barge being fitted with a set of rollers acting on the rail.

"You don't mean to say that awful old woman is the chief's wife," whispered Mrs. Rolt.

"Yes. She's the princess. Nice princess, isn't she? Well, we're going to camp here, Emma."

Anstruther smiled at Kitty. Combe's seemed a somewhat informal manner of addressing a princess.

"Not much wood," grumbled the crone.

"Oh, the wood's all right. It's a warm night and we shan't want much."

"Water very bad, makes men sick."

"That is why you have camped by it. All right, old Loveliness. I'm on to your curves. Doesn't seem to hanker much after our society, does she, Mrs. Rolt?" he said laughingly, as he took the horses, and led them away.

Returning in a little while, his axe chopped out the roots at which Anstruther had been vainly tugging, cut down a dozen trees and stripped them whilst he whistled, so that the beds were heaped high with sweet-smelling hemlock; the fly was tightened and set firmly between its guy, and the fire made to leap and glow like a merry heart in the gloom.

It is not a bad thing for other people to have one man amongst them who knows how to help himself.

And now as the afternoon waned, an Indian appeared dragging the first deer into camp.

In the course of the next hour he and four others returned at one time bringing with them seven deer in all enough meat to last them with ordinary care for a month or six weeks.

"I wonder if it is too dark to take a photograph," asked Anstruther, who had grown tired of doing nothing. "Just think what a ripping picture all those solemn-looking beggars would make, squatting by the fire, with the princess grubbing in the ashes.

"It's much too dark, and, besides, I don't think that they would like it," replied Mrs. Rolt.

"Like it. It can't hurt them. They ought to feel flattered that any one cares to preserve their awful faces." and so saying, he strolled nonchalantly over to the neighboring camp.

"I wish he would not do it," muttered Mrs. Rolt, undecidedly.

"Oh, what nonsense, Mary," replied the girl, "you really are too absurd about those Indians. I've photographed them before and they did not mind a bit, but he will come back if you call him."

Unfortunately, Mrs. Rolt wavered and neglected her opportunity.

With perfect assurance Anstruther strolled up to the four sullen figures who glowered at him as he came, but did not move a muscle.

"Nice evening," he said, "isn't it. I don't happen to speak your lingo but hope I see you well. Ever had your pictures taken?"

Still the four remained motionless.

"Not in a conversational mood, eh? Well, perhaps that is better. Mustn't talk whilst the operation is being performed. Put your head a little on one side, sir. No savvy, eh! Well, think of 'er, old chappie," and he pointed to Emma with a grin, and kneeling down adjusted his camera, aiming it right into the faces of the silent group.

"As he did so Emma disappeared into the tent.

"Whoop! Gone to ground," he shouted with a laugh, and the four, rising with a growl, turned their backs upon him.

For a moment he was nonplussed, but the devil of island insolence had possession of him, and he knew that Kitty was watching him. Still on his knees he reached for a long stick from the fire, and bending forward, tossed it so the hot end of it fell upon the nearest Indian's bare foot.

Quick as thought the Chilcoten turned, and for a moment the women drew their breath and feared for what was to come, but the camera clicked and the fire still divided the aggressor from his victim.

"Got you, my beauty," said the unconscious artist," with quite your most engaging smile on," and utterly careless of the dumb wrath in the man's eyes, he put his camera into its case, and walked back, laughing, to his friends.

Mrs. Rolt and Jim, who had returned too late to interfere, did not join in his laugh, but the sullen faces of the outraged four, and the sight of Emma, the beautiful, peeping out to see if all was safe again, were too much for Kitty, who laughed till the tears ran down her cheeks.

"Oh, surely, Mrs. Rolt," protested Anstruther, between his peals of laughter, "there is nothing to look so serious about. One would think that you had been photographed. I didn't hurt the sulky brutes, and if they didn't like being photographed, what matter. You aren't afraid of Indians in this country, are you?"

"No, but we don't want enemies. At any rate, for goodness' sake, stop laughing. You can see how they hate it."

It is a curious trait of the Indians, at any rate of the Far West, that they themselves seldom or never laugh, whilst the merest hint that you are laughing even in the mildest way at them, puts their backs up immediately.

Like the vast plains and dumb forests through which they roam, they are by nature sombre, and a laugh is as much of an outrage to them as a thrush's song would be to the forest silence.

CHAPTER V.

If Anstruther had not been young and reckless, and the ladies accustomed for years to look upon all Indians as inoffensive, there would have been but little sleep in the white people's camp that night.

Th Indians did not sleep.

Through all that long night the hunters of the Chilcotens sat round their fire, smoking and muttering among themselves, casting now and again evil glances toward the spot where the white people lay.

Constant contact with men, armed with weapons of precision, has taken the courage out of the grizzly; it has had the same effect upon a tribe which is naturally one of the boldest and fiercest in Western Canada, but the instincts of the savage remain, and anyone with half an eye would have recognised that dull glow in the forest gloom as a storm centre.

An hour or two passed by, the night deepened, the drone of growling voices went on and then a figure detached itself from the gloom and slipped without a sound into the firelit circle.

Just then Jim Combe stirred in his sleep, and throwing one arm restlessly from his blankets, turning over on his side towards the Indian's fire, muttering in his sleep.

As he did so, the figure glided back into the shadows.

The bushes which seemed to have crept nearer to the fire listening, until their black leaves were tipped with red light, swallowed him up and for a full minute the droning ceased.

The silence which followed was more ominous even than that incessant muttering. The intent scrutiny of those watching eyes made itself felt. At last the chief spoke.

"The white dog dreams in his sleep," he said, "but his eyes are shut," and at once the figure returned and took its place in the muttering circle. Good hunter as Khelowna was, he made a mistake. His forest training should have taught him that the hunted feign often. If he had remembered that, Jim Combe might not have recognised in the fifth figure Davies' murderer, an Indian who had been wanted by the police for the last three years. As it was, Jim Combe knew what kind of a gang was travelling the Risky run that fall, and the hand which was beneath the blankets closed quietly round the lock of his Winchester.

But he did not stir in his place. He wanted that man's life as every cowboy in the district did, who had ever heard of poor old "Lofty" Hart, shot through his cabin window as he read his home letters by lamplight, but he was not prepared to risk the safety of the women for the chance of taking a murderer.

So he lay still and watched, his whole body crying out for sleep and his half closed lids heavy as lead.

Just before the grey of dawn came into the sky, he saw Khelowna hand something to his visitor, who put it into his shirt front and rising stole away.

One of the dogs, which had lain all night just inside the edge of the firelight, rose and attempted to follow him. It was his own dog probably, for though it cowered at the chief's low growl, it took no other notice of his command. Stealthily one of the younger bucks, reached for a billet of wood, and hurled it with so sure an aim, that the beast rolled over screaming with pain.

With a well-feigned start Jim Combe sat up in his blankets, but he was too late. Davies' murderer had vanished.

"Cultus dog," said the Indian who had thrown the billet, and rising went after the beast, which was crawling away on its belly, dragging its hind leg after it and howling at every movement.

The dumb beast is not allowed to complain in an Indian camp, and as this one would not cease howling, the bigger brute clubbed it over the head with a great tent peg; clubbed it until it lay very still.

That is the Indian method of making a sleigh dog obedient and one reason perhaps why no Indian dog ever shows any sign of affection for its master. When the beast lay still the Indian passed a rope round its neck and tied it up to a tree. The dog was not dead yet, and as it might possibly be made to work again, he did not want to lose it, but it was too nearly dead to bite, so he took one of its hind legs and moved it sideways. The leg moved easily from the thigh in a ghastly unnatural fashion, and the Indian laughed.

"Leg broke," he said. His shot with the pine billet had been a good one. Under that grey blanket by the white man's fire a lover of dogs felt his flesh creep and his hands clench, but Jim Combe, having been trained in a hard school, had learned when to interfere and when to bide his time. He could not help the poor beast now, and his first duty was to look after his boss's wife and that dear curly little head under the blue robe. After this the grey dawn began to come, a sad weird light, sifting through the pine trees, whilst the fires died down, and the tiny chick-a-dees began to call among the boughs, warning their woodmates that those silent footed things who use the "fire stick" were moving again in their lairs, and would soon be creeping up towards the high places whither the full-fed stags were already sauntering for a day's siesta after a long night's food.

With the first hint of light, a busy stir began in the Indians' camp, even before that the women must have been moving in their lean-to, for Emma, bent and old, began to put out strangely compounded packs, blankets rolled and corded, and bloody parcels of meat.

Then the lean-tos came down, and they too were dissolved into packs and before the dawn had come, the Indian camp was completely dismantled the pack-horses loaded with hides and meat, and everything ready for a start.

The Indians were apparently not going to stay to cook breakfast.

It had been a successful hunt even for the Chilcotens, and every living thing in camp, except the braves, carried packs. Of course the braves would neither pack anything nor allow their saddle horses to be packed so long as there was a tottering old woman, a child, or a dog in camp, which could possibly be made to stagger under another pound.

When the procession had wound away into the woods, the toothless old princess leading, bending under a mountain of rags, followed by bundles under which tidy bare legs tottered, and dogs upon whose backs clattered pots and pails, by t he fire there still lay one bale of cedar matting.

The young buck who had thrown the pine billet came round, kicking the charred sticks and peering amongst the young pines stripped of their feathery frondage, and growing giants, brutally gashed and wounded so that their life blood would ooze slowly away from them, leaving them dry and fit for the camp fire, but though he turned over the brush bedding and looked at every extemporized peg on which anything could have been left hanging he found nothing.

The camp was empty, nothing had been left behind. Then his eye fell upon the bundle of cedar matting. It weighed nothing, so that he might have tied it on behind his saddle; it was worth nothing, so that he might have left it where it was, but his eye wandering around to find some one on whom to lay the worthless burden fell upon his victim of the night before, crouching where it had been tied, its head stretched out along the ground, not dead, but cowering to escape notice.

That was just what the Indian was looking for. Seizing the dog's rope, he untied it from the tree and dragged the unhappy beast towards the pack.

At the first jerk the dog howled with anguish, and Mrs. Rolt, whose ears were always open to a beast's cry of pain, turned sharply on her heel. The howl was of course rewarded with a curse and a kick, and then, screaming at every movement, the poor brute was jerked along the ground, its broken bones grinding together as it went.

In its agony it tried to bite its tormentor, and in a moment a club was in his hand again.

"Oh, my God, won't someone stop the brute," cried Kitty, almost in tears, but the elder woman, white with rage, said nothing. With her riding crop in her hand, and her fine nostrils wide and twitching, she was almost within striking distance of the Chilcoten, when a strong hand caught her and swung her unceremoniously out of the way.

"You swine," she heard, as she was pushed on one side, and though it was not pretty English for Anstruther, her heart went out to the boy for it, as his fist crashed into the big Indian's face, dropping him like a pole-axed ox.

Kisheenaw, for it was the chief's son, struggled to his feet. "Want more do you," drawled the English voice, now quiet and steady, and again the fellow went down and Anstruther stood over him ready to repeat the dose as often as the man should require it.

But a woman's voice cried to him. "The rifle, Frank; the rifle," and he was only just in time to put his foot upon it before the figure at his feet had got possession of it.

At that moment a man who had come running back from tending his horses stepped, white lipped and stern, in front of Kitty Clifford, so that she saw neither Kineeshaw nor the other Indians who had returned at the sound of the fighting, but she heard a rifle shot ring out, and if she could have seen from where she stood, she might have seen Jim square his shoulders and put his head back, like a man who prepares to take a shock. But neither Anstruther nor Jim fell. Khelowna, though he had fired point blank into the group, had not dared as much as that yet. It was only the wretched dog which, with a strange instinct, had crawled for preservation to Mrs. Rolt that turned over under her very feet, and stretched itself in death. The blood of it splashed her skirt.

Then Jim jumped forward.

"Drop them guns, you dogs," he roared. "Anstruther, cover those me and stand still. If they stir, shoot Now, Khelowna, drop that gun, or—" and his rifle said the rest.

The cowboy's tense face was working with rage, but the Indians who were fortunately in a group and unsheltered by timber, saw that his Winchester was as steady as a rock, and they knew a white man's voice when it meant business.

They knew too Jim Combe's reputation as a rifle shot, and when Khelowna dropped his empty rifle the rest of the band followed his example.

It takes a very brave man to shoot when another and a quicker man has the drop on him, and except behind cover Indians are not very brave men neither are they good shots, and this they knew.

"Let him up, Anstruther," ordered Jim, with his eye still on the group, "and now, you dogs, git to hell out of that! No! leave them rifles there. I want those in my business. If you put a hand to them I'll shoot you, sure."

Sullenly, but without a word of protest, the four braves slunk away, leaving behind them at one white man's command, what they prized most in the world.

A Blazer Coat

When they had gone Jim turned to Mrs. Rolt.

"That's a bad business, a bitter bad business, I'm afraid. I lost my head a bit, so you mustn't mind if I did swear, Mrs. Rolt. We've got to git now, and only hit the high places between this and the ranch. Put Miss Kitty up, Anstruther."

But Anstruther was busy collecting the rifles.

"No! never mind them. I'll fix them," said Combe, and taking them one by one, he smashed the stocks off them against the nearest pine tree.

"Won't do much shooting for a while with them things," he commented, surveying his work of destruction. "But, Gee Whiz! it's a bad business. Let 'em go," and he put his foot in the stirrup and swung himself into the saddle whilst his horse galloped.

For six long miles he gave them no rest until Kitty was beginning to feel weak in her saddle, though Mrs. Rolt rode as if she would never tire, and then he pulled his horse into a walk.

"Take a bit of a spell now," he said, "and don't try to talk. We are all safe as long as it is light, and I don't suppose that they'll try to follow us any way, but we've got to make the ranch before dark, and that will keep us busy."

How do women telegraph to one another? Have they some subtler sense which we male things have missed, or is it that, through much practise, they can really speak with their eyes?

This deponent knoweth not, but this he knows, that when the four horses were steadied to a walk, the natural tendency of them was to come together, but at a glance from the girl, Anstruther found himself in some unexplained manner, attached quite against his will to Mrs. Rolt, and riding ahead, whilst Kitty and Combe followed them.

When Mrs. Rolt had taken Anstruther far enough ahead, Kitty Clifford's colt sidled up to Jim's cayuse, and putting her hand timidly on the man's arm, the girl said:

"Jim."

"Yes, Miss Clifford."

"Why not Kitty, as it used to be?"

He flushed to the roots of his yellow hair.

"Kitty then."

"Why did you get in front of me when that Indian shot the dog?"

"Did I, Miss Kitty? I beg your pardon. Did you want to see him do it?"

"Don't be stupid. Why did you do it?"

"Didn't know as I did do it."

"Didn't you, Jim? I think you did, old friend, but I wasn't worth it, Jim. I wasn't worth it"

What he answered or what more they said, the prairie breezes may know. This only Mrs. Rolt told me: that Jim did not say then what he might have said, and what Mrs. Rolt hoped that he would say, because when they reached the ranch that night she did Kitty's hair for her, and the girl had no secret to confide.

Perhaps Jim had scruples about hitting a man when he is down, as he would have put it, or may be did not want any mistake made between love and gratitude.

He was always a good sportsman, Jim.

CHAPTER VI.

A ranch house in the Far West is not quite the same thing as a country house in England, though even that is not always as luxuriously comfortable in small details as many of the middle class town houses of Canada. If we are at the beginning of things out West, we grow fast, and solid comfort is not an English monopoly.

What ordinary manor house in England has a bath room atached to every bedroom, electricity ready to be turned on at every possible point where light could be wanted, it's even temperature assured by a furnace in the basement, its labor-saving appliances so complete that one Chinese factotum can perform all the domestic labor which machinery will not do for him.

The want of domestic servants has made western men use their brains for the abolition of labor, and one of the results has been small houses so compact, so well arranged, that servants can almost be dispensed with.

But a wide gap divides the town house of Canada from the ranch house. That perhaps is more like a very early edition of the English manor house. Like it in its ample rooms where many men may gather together o' nights when the work is over; in its solidity, which gives it warmth in the long days of winter; and in its frank kinship to the Great Out-of-Doors, which alone makes it habitable for men who must be in and out all day long, and cannot spare the time to "change" every time that they are hungry. But after the day's work is over, on such ranches as the Risky at any rate, the cowboy, if he lives in the house, is supposed to shed his working dress, so that when the lights from the great log house streamed over the weary hunting party, the first to greet them was a cheery English squire in his evening kit of old pumps and a smoking jacket.

"Why, my girl," he cried, "what brings you home in this fashion?"

"Didn't you want to see us, old man? Yes! take the horses, Jim, and let some one else look after them. Don't stay to change. Come in to-night as you are. We've ridden all day, Dick, and most of the time at a gallop. Help Kitty upstairs. I believe she is too tired to walk."

"Shall we carry her, Anstruther?" asked Dick Rolt, helping his wife down first, "or do you think you are man enough to do that yourself?"

"I think I might just manage it, sir, if Miss Kitty will allow me."

But Kitty was not minded to give him the chance. Her eyes followed the "hired man" somewhat wistfully for a moment, and then putting her arm through Mrs. Rolt's, she climbed the stairs with her friend.

"I can't understand him," she whispered, "and he has changed. What have you done to him while I've been away?"

"Do you think that he is so much changed? I thought it rather like the old Jim to-day, when he put himself between trouble and our little madcap".

"Yes; but Polly—"

Mrs. Rolt saw that the girl was overtired and all but crying.

"'But me no buts,' Miss. There's your room and the old man has lighted the stove for you, which means that they saw us coming and that there will be a fire in my room, too, bless him. Go in and hurry, and don't keep dinner waiting. No man cares two straws how a woman looks when he is hungry."

Outside, in the corrall, Jim Combe led the tired horses slowly to their stables, and though he had been asked to hurry, dwelt unconscionably over his chores. As a rule he was the quickest man about the ranch, but on this occasion even the horses grew impatient and fidgetty under his leisurely handling.

They wanted their oats. Jim wanted to think.

Anaemic Mothers Here is Relief!

You Can Enrich Your Worn-Out Blood and Quickly Renew Your Health With Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Sufferer of Twenty Years States Dr. Hamilton's Pills are a Real Cure

"I can't remember any time during the past twenty years when my heart wasn't aching. If I bent over, dark specks would come before my eyes, and it seemed as if all the blood in my body wanted to rush to my head." Thus opens the letter of Mrs. Enoch S. Spry, of Putnam P. O., and continuing her interesting statement she says: "Work or exertion made my heart beat terrible, and going upstairs caused such shortness of breath that it fairly frightened me. I tell you how I feel to-day and you can understand what a great cure Dr. Hamilton's Pills have made. I feel strong enough now to work like a man, as for going upstairs on the run, it doesn't bother me at all. I eat and sleep as any person ought, and as for dizziness which used to frighten me so much, it has entirely disappeared. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are a wonderful medicine. They helped me, and I know every woman that uses them will have comfort and good health."

The visitors will be the guests of Dr. King's mother at the corner of Charlotte and Stewart streets for a few weeks after their 500 mile auto ride.

She Paid Funeral Expenses.

Just before the police court opened yesterday, Mrs. Days, a gardiner's wife, led a dog into the station. The dog was tied with an assortment of ribbons knotted together. She told Sergt. Adams that the dog, which showed signs of various parentage, was a nuisance. She wanted it shot and paid for the obsequies.

A Centipede Pig.

On Saturday a bride living on North George street went into one of Messrs. Matthews stores, when the following conversation took place. Bride says: "Last week I bought a nice ham here. If you have another just like it, I will take one." The clerk replied: "Yes, ma'am," there are ten of those hams hanging up there now." "Well, if you're sure they're off the same pig, I'll take three of them," said the young wife meekly.

Salvation Army Band.

The local Salvation Army Band has just been strengthened by four players, two of which comes from the boys' band. These are Ernie Jones, who plays melaphone and R. Seath, who plays saxaphone. One of the two new comers is Mr. T. Wilkinson, who comes from Montreal, and was deputy bandmaster of Montreal 4 band. He will strengthen the cornet section. The other is W. Leader, who has returned to the band from Regina, where he was bandmaster of the splendid S.A. Band there. W. Leader is no stranger here.

A Lindsay Burglary.

Lindsay Post: The sneak thief is still in our midst. Friday afternoon after the noon day meal a sneak thief entered the house of Mrs. Shea, on the south side of Glenelg-st., carried off a purse containing $7.00. Mrs. Shea and her daughter were in the kitchen attending to the household duties, when the daughter heard a noise in a bedroom adjoining. She called her mother and on going into the room a pair of feet were seen going through the window. On the side of the house there are some bushes and the bedroom window at this point was protected by a screen. This was cut by the nervy burglar, who entered and overturned the bed clothes and stole the purse and money.

A Talented Local Conductor.

A recently appointed conductor on the George Street line must surely hail from Boston. On Saturday, he approached a passenger and asked: "Fare, please." The passenger paid no attention, whereupon the conductor remarked "By the ejaculatory term 'fare,'" said the conductor, "I imply no reference to the state of the weather, the complexion of the admirable blonde you observe in the contiguous seat, nor even to the quality of service vouchsafed by this philanthropic corporation. I merely allude, in a manner perhaps lacking in delicacy, but not in conciseness, to the monetary obligation set up by your presence in this conveyance, and suggest that, without contempering your celerity with enunciation, you liquidate."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with ocal treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Address: F. C. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

ONE APPLICATION AND THE HAIRS ARE GONE

(Aids to Beauty)

Women troubled with fuzzy growths will be delighted to learn that a single application of a paste made with powdered delatone and water will remove every trace of hair or fuzz without pain or injury. If the growth is very thick or stubborn, a second application may be required. The delatone paste is spread thickly on the hairy surface, and after two or three minutes rubbed off, then the skin washed and dried. This is a reliable and quick way by which to permanently rid the skin of objectionable hair.

A little pyroxin rubbed on eyebrows causes them to come back in thick and lustrous, and thin, stubby eyelashes will grow long and curly by applying pyroxin at lash-roots with thumb and forefinger. Be careful and don't get any pyroxin where no hair is wanted.

COLD TEA IS BEST

Many of the Best Shots Swear by That Beverage

Dr. Claye Shaw has been telling us that many men shoot much better after a luncheon, which includes a certain amount of alcohol, than they did before. I very much doubt whether the experiences of our shooting readers will confirm this theory. Personally I have always noticed that men shot best during the first half of a day's sport, either with drawn birds or in walking them up. It stands to reason that a man's hands and nerves are steadier when he is fresh and untired, than they are after a spell of tiring work. Everyone appreciates the recuperative effects of a light hot lunch by the covert side, but the man who adds whiskey or other spirits to his bill of fare handicaps himself for the remainder of the day. Many good shots of my acquaintance swear by cold tea as their only drink when shooting.—London Sporting and Dramatic News.

WILL ENFORCE SEWER CONNECTIONS

Trades and Labor Council in this connection.

Both Ald. Duncan and Anderson expressed their unqualified appreciation of the excellent programme successfully carried out by the Labor people last year.

Compulsory Sewer Connection.

A by-law providing for compulsory connection with sewers where such are available passed its several readings.

This measure is to be enforced by the Medical Health Officer, who will give one month's notice of his intention to do so under a penalty of a fine of $50 in the case of any person refusing to comply with the by-law.

The first clause of this by-law calls for the closing up of privies or wells condemned by the Health Officer as a menace to the public health, irrespective of whether sewerage or water is available or not.

Ald. Green took exception to this clause as relying too much on the judgment of one man—the Health Officer—He could not see the justice of enforcing the closing up of a well or privie where no other service is available. He was, however, heartily in favor of enforced sewer connections where such service is adjacent to properties.

Ald. Gordan contended that wide powers must if necessary be vested in any City official. And any such who prove not capable of using discretion should be removed. He contended that the closing up of any well, etc., outside the city's sewerage and water systems, would only be temporary until either contamination is removed or other accommodation furnished.

This clause eventually carried, although Ald. Green and Langford opposed it.

Ald. Green subsequently gave notice of motion that he will move at the next meeting that the first clause be struck out.

Must Move Machinery.

On motion of Ald. Buller and Duncan, Mr. Drummond will be notified to remove his machinery from off the Market Square without further delay.

Downie St. Creek.

To Ald. Langford, Ald. Buller replied that this work will be done as soon as satisfactory arrangements for straightening and deepening the waterway are completed.

Another Drinking Fountain Wanted.

Ald. Duffus and Green moved that the Property Committee be authorized to procure estimates for a sanitary drinking fountain in centre City. Ald. Duffus urged strongly that the drinking fountain outside the police station is far from sanitary. He had noticed adjacent residents taking their own glasses to the fountain, and they must have a reason for so doing.

On motion of Ald. Duncan and Anderson the City Trust Commissioners will be asked to keep the public lavatory open on Sundays.

Street Extension.

On motion of Ald. Duffus, the question of paying $1600 for the Headshore property for street extension from Sherbrooke to Patterson street was referred to the Mayor and Ald. Duncan to act.

London St. Bridge.

On motion of Ald. Anderson and Duffus the City Engineer will be asked to report on the cost of a foot bridge to replace the old London street bridge.

BALKAN STORIES MAY SHOW THET ALL MEN ARE LIARS ?

Both Sides Claim Huge Victories and Heavy Losses to Opponents

London, July 8.—It is stated in Belgrade that the total Servian casualities in a week of fighting have amounted to upward of 15,000 killed and wounded. The Greeks admit they have lost 10,000 officers and men. From the Bulgarian side there is no corresponding estimate, but presumably they were in proportion. On the other hand, information which has reached London, asserts that the whole story of battles, stormings, desperate resistance and so forth is much exaggerated, and that nothing like a real battle has yet occurred. Between these two highly divergent statements it is no more possible to judge at the moment than it is feasible to discriminate between the conflicting claims of victory pur forward by the parties to this new war.

The Bulgarians maintain that they have had the best of the struggle. So far it is positively declared in messages received in official quarters from Sofia that the Timok division of the Servian army has been routed with enormous loss in a conflict around Ovishe Polje, but here again the Servians deny that they have sustained any such disaster.

Exactly similar discrepancies are evident between versions given out regarding the fighting of the Greeks and Bulgarians. For example, while telegrams from Athens portray the army of King Constantine pursuing an unchecked career of undiluted victory, it is affirmed from Soffia that the same army of 80,000 men has been defeated and dispersed.

Useless to Estimate.

Under these conditions, it is useless to attempt any estimate of the actual situation, so far as it concerns the eventual outcome of this amazing clash of rivalries and hatreds.

The attitude of Turkey is becoming more clearly defined. It is tolerably evident that she means to utilise the situation to her own advantage. The Porte has formally demanded that the territory within the Enosmidia Line shall be evacuated by the Bulgarians at once, and there are even rumors that an effort will be made to recover Adrianople. Not too much reliance need be placed on this latter report, for it is difficult to see how the Ottoman army can advance over the one hundred miles that separates Chataldja from the lost fortress, but it seem certain that military preparations are being made and all officers have been ordered to rejoin their forces at Chataldja.

THREE IN PERIL BY DIVING TOWER

Boston, July 8.—Hundreds of women and children attending the Elk carnival at Wright's pond, Medford, recently, were badly frightened an accident to the diving staging on the pond nearly drowned three men.

Four men were at work on the raft some hundred yards out from shore, when the tower, which rises 18 feet above the level of the water for the use of the fancy divers, gave way and crashed into the water. The four men were thrown into the pond, and Frank Lynde, a swimmer, who at the time was under water near the raft, was nearly struck.

Lynde, w th the help of Dorian E. Gillespie, the only one of the workmen who could swim, succeeded in getting the three others on the raft.

The fall of the tower smashed and sank the only rowboat on the lake, and it was not until Lynde swam ashore and brought out ropes to tow the Cincinnati National League base-be taken off.

COSTS $5 TO BOARD TRAIN NORTH COUNTRY MEN ANGRY

Until Government or G. T. R. Take Over [New Line, Travelling Will be Impossible to Man Without Pocket Full of Cash

Cochrane, July 8.—Until the Transcontinental is taken over by the Government, or until the Grand Trunk Pacific assumes the line, settlement will not proceed very quickly east and west of here. The charges that are being made by the contractors for carrying passengers and freight along the line are prohibitive and are acting as a considerable bar to settlement. Within a few miles of here the settlers are able to use hand cars to get into town and secure supplies or do business, but at any considerable distance east or west the settler, once he has arrived on his land, cannot afford to town, the price he would have to pay to bring himself and his family to Cochrane representing an amount of money that would make serious inroads on his cash reserves.

A flat rate of $5 a passenger is being charged by the contractors, while the charge for carrying a bag of potatoes from Cochrane to Jacksonboro a distance of thirty-four miles, is thirty-four cents. In spite of the heavy charges the trains are crowded every trip and the contractors must be making considerable money out of their operation of the road. A train runs every alternate day west and the same service is given the settlements to the east in which direction hundreds of prospectors are proceeding to the Bell River and Hurricanaw districts.

A TRIP TO THE SOURCE OF THE TRENT VALLEY CANAL

There is only one way of settling the water and water power question in the Trent District, and that is by going to the waters and looking at them. Some little time ago Mr. Patterson and Mr. Denham, representing the Power Users' Association, Mr. Burnham, and the Superintendent, went north to Bushkung Lake, on the waters flowing into Balsam Lake. They had not time then to go farther north to the sources of the Trent, but on Saturday last Mr. Denham, representing the Power Users' Association; Mr. Bradburn, the Mayor of Peterborough, Mr. Sexsmith, M. P. for East Peterborough; Mr. Burnham, M. P. for West Peterborough; Supt. McClellan, and others in the employ of the Government, went north clear to the ultimate source of the Trent waters, which is Kenesse Lake.

The party left here on Saturday morning, motored to Coboconk, which is 53 miles, then north to Minden, which is about 26 miles. Starting from there at half past seven in the evening they went through the wilderness, a distance of 30 miles straight north to Hall's Lake. The experiences of this part of the trip will not soon be forgotten. The thunderstorms were simply fierce, and the mud on the steep hills necessitated getting out in the pouring rain and struggling with the motors to get them to the top. It was a matter of congratulation that no accident happened. The roadway for the greater part is just the width of the motor and the whole country is covered with a dense forest. Two miles from Hall's Lake is Little Hawk Lake. Here there is a Government House. The party stayed here over Sunday, and shortly after daylight Monday morning started for Kenesse Lake, paddling through Little Hawk, Big Hawk, Clear and several other lakes for a distance of 30 miles. The party reached the end of Kenesse Lake, and then on through Red Stone, after having made an arduous portage to it over the height of land, at the end of which they were met by teams and driven to Haliburton, some 20 miles away.

The trip through the lakes was greatly assisted by strong, fair winds. Dams were inspected, the height of water noted, the height of surrounding shores noted, and the possibilities of the future considered at first hand. There was also with the party on this part of the journey the Government Officer who has been stationed for over one year in these back waters, estimating their flow. He was sent there in response to Mr. Burnham's request something over a year ago. The capacity of the Trent System for supplying power can probably be increased one-third, and it was with a view to this possible development that Mr. Burnham has been impressing upon those holding representative positions the absolute necessity of going to the root of the matter and bringing the facts to the attention of the proper authorities. The water west from Kirkfield, of course, does not flow this way at all, and the water north of Kenesse Lake flows westerly into the Muskoka River and down into the waters of the Georgian Bay, also. Corresponding to what is known as the Gull River waters — that is the main westward stream of the Trent — is a chain of lakes that completes the loop at the upper end, flowing, not into the direct stream, but into the main stream at Bushkung Lake. In other words, the waters north of Minden complete a circle of lakes over a great range of country. To the eastward are the smaller lakes, flowing into the Burnt River, which flows into Cameron Lake. There are other waters yet to inspect, such as those flowing down the Massaugua, but they are easily reached. The party came in from Haliburton on Tuesday at noon. Haliburton is eastward of Minden, and in the Burnt district. The Trent waters at their source were, therefore, pretty fully disclosed.

Mr. E. A. Peck, M.P.P., was unable to go with the party.

11. That Miss Denne, Miss Elizabeth Tomlinson and Miss Gordon be transferred to the Central School to succeed Miss Smith, Miss Moore and Miss Morley, who have resigned.

12.—That the recently appointed teachers be assigned their duties by the Inspector when he learns the class for which each is best fitted.

13. That in recognition of the long and faithful services of Mr. Role Farrett as Janitor of the West Ward School (extending oves a period of 36 years) he be granted a gratuity of the amount of one year's salary, to date from the 15th July, 1913, and to be paid in monthly payments. This recommendation is made on the understanding that Mr. Barrett will look after the old West Ward property until it is disposed of.

Respectfully submitted.

W. H. HILL,
Chairman.

This report was adopted.

Report of Property Committee.

To the Chairman and members of the Board of Education,—

Gentlemen.—Your Property Committee beg to report as follows:

As authorized your committee advertised for tenders for the fuel required for the ensuing year and recommend that the tender of the Peterborough Fuel & Cartage Co. to supply ¾ lump Youghiogheny at $5.18 per ton (railroad weights) delivered at the various schools, as required, be accepted.

Your committee also recommend that smokeless coal be tested at the Collegiate Institute and if satisfactory that it be used there and that the contract for the same be awarded the Peterborough Fuel & Cartage Co. at $5.63 per ton. (railroad weight) delivered at the school.

Your committee ask that they be given authority to make the necessary repairs at the various schools during the summer vacation.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

B. F. ACKERMAN,
Chairman.

Report was adopted as read.

Report of Building Committee For East and West Wards.

To the Chairman and members of the Board of Education,—

Gentlemen,—Your committee recommend that Messrs. Duranceau and Archibald's tender of $1,200 for installing steel closet enclosures with partitions complete in the two new schools be accepted.

Respectfully submitted.

B. F. ACKERMAN,
Chairman.

The report was adopted.

AGRICULTURAL GRANT TO ONTARIO DECIDED

Province Will Get $175,733 Under Bill Passed Last Session.

Ottawa, July 8.—The Province of Ontario will benefit considerably from the Agricultural grant of the Hon. Martin Burrill. The amount which the province will get from the Dominion Government under the Agricultural Aid Act has been fixed at $175,733. Of this $40,000 will be devoted for the erection of a field husbandry building at the Ontario Agricultural College, $22,500 for district representatives in agricultural works, $10,000 for poultry work and $9,000 for fruit work. Agricultural buildings will get a special grant of $10,000. The Western Fairs Association gets $7,500 and the Ontario Veterinary College $15,000.

It will thus be seen that all classes of the community in the different districts of the provinces get their share for the development of their particular work. Encouragement of such a kind as that given by the present Minister of Agriculture will do much to assist the farmers in advancing their own interests.

FOUNDATION STONE LAID NEW L. L. CEMETERY GATES

Mr. W. H. Moore President of Board Presented With Beautiful Silver Trowel on Behalf of the Company

Yesterday afternoon at 4.30 an interesting ceremony was enacted at the Little Lake Cemetery, when Mr. W. H. Moore, President of the Cemetery Board, laid the foundation stone of the handsome new wrought iron gates leading to this beautiful City of the Dead. A full description of these beautiful gates, of wrought iron on massive 8 foot high concrete piers, has been given in a previous issue. Unfortunately many of the Board were out of the city, and consequently unable to be present. As the ceremony was in progress, Mr. Moore was presented with a handsome silver trowel, furnished and inscribed by Clarke's jewelery store. The inscription read "Presented to Mr. W. H. Moore, President of Little Lake Cemetery Co. on the occasion of laying the foundation stone of the New Cemetery Gates on July 8th." The following address accompanied the presentation.

THE ADDRESS.

W. H. Moore, Esq., President, Little Lake Cemetery Co., Peterborough.

Dear Sir:—The other Directors and the Officers of the Little Lake Cemetery Company desire to take advantage of the occasion of the laying of the corner stone of the new gate-way to the Cemetery, to recognize in a becoming way the faithful services you have given the Company for the past quarter of a century.

The Cemetery in its beauty and largely made so by the help of your befitting character, as a resting place for our beloved Dead, has been very efforts and advice, and now that you are about to add another feature to the dignity and completeness of the equipment of the cemetery by laying the corner stone of a new gateway, we ask for your acceptance of this Silver Trowel, both for this purpose and as a tangible evidence of our appreciation of your services.

Signed on behalf of the Officers and Directors of the Little Lake Cemetery Company.

E. A. PECK,
Secretary

His Worship Mayor Bradburn and several of the city fathers were also present.

THE SANITARY INSPECTOR IS RIGHT ON THE JOB

At yesterday's meeting of the Board of health Sanitary Inspector Spence made a statement concerning the killing of diseased beasts for the purpose of foodstuffs.

Mr. Spence said that a few days ago he visited a slaughter-house outside the City limits, where he saw a beast that had just been killed, and was full of tumors and abscesses.

"Was it possible for anyone besides him to know the carcass was diseased," asked Dr. Young, to which question Mr. Spence replied that the most ignorant of people could tell that it was unfit for consumption.

Dr. McPherson contended they could take no action unless the meat was brought into the City, and they could then confiscate it.

It was suggested that the Provincial Health Board appoint the Sanitary Inspector to inspect these conditions for a certain number of miles around the City, and then make due reports to the Medical Health Officer in that municipality.

Dr. McPherson—"We have power to inspect the slaughter houses, power to inspect the meat that comes into the City, but we have not the power to go and seize the meat in the slaughter-house. I suggest that the only way out of the difficulty is to appoint a municipal abattoir, and compel the butchers to have their cattle killed through that medium. A number have been established in the west, and there is no reason why conditions should not be the same here."

SPEEDING THE MAILS.

The city of Berlin is experimenting with a new type of mail waggon or car. It is a light electrically propelled vehicle, with a maximum speed of eighteen miles an hour.

THE WEATHER.

To-day—South-westerly winds; fair and warmer, with local thunderstorms.

CHARGE CHINESE SMUGGLING PLOT

Greenport, N.Y., July 8. — An alleged plot to smuggle Chinese into this country through Connecticut and Long Island ports was uncovered today by the arrest in New London, Ct., of Hugh Labad of this town by United States Deputy-Marshall Wiley.

Labad was brought here and is locked up in the local jail to-night charged with attempting smuggling. Meanwhile the authorities are seeking some trace of Charlie Mon, a local laundryman.

Two or more cousins of Mon are the Chinese whose entry into the country was desired. A reward of $3000 is alleged to have been offered for getting them safely into the country from the high seas, where they were to be picked up by a vessel in charge of a New London man, whose name the authorities have been given, and brought to New London.

The sloop of Laura May owned by Capt. Fletcher Dennis of Greenport, was to be turned over to agent of the Chinese, it is claimed, for the purpose of carrying out that part of the smuggling which consisted of conveying the smuggled Chinese here from New London.

Just how Labad is alleged to have become mixed up in the matter has not been made clear by the authorities no move been made to arrest Dennis. The Laura May is tied up at New London, under surveillance.

BURGLER QUICKER THAN POLICEMAN

Toronto, Ju,y 8.—Eluding and officer and getting away with $15 from the drug store of J. A. Gallagher at the corner of Gerrard and Jones avenue, a burglar, alleged to be the one who has operated in the east end the last few months, made another coup to hiscredit.

A policeman watched him climbing the fence to the rear of the premises and ran around the corner to head him off. Hearing the footsteps the man turned around and came out into the street at the place the officer just left. By the time the guardian of the ,aw returned there was no one on the street.

It is said of this crook that he will not touch anything but cash and incidents are quoted in which he departed quietly without touching merchandise, stamps or other valuables, when no currency was found on the premises.

BROKE POSTAL RULES

Manufacturer Need Not Carry Out Contract to Make Patent Envelope.

Toronto, July 8.—The Dostyle Envelope Co's action to enforce Barber-Ellis, Ltd., to carry out its contract to manufacture a patent envelope was dismissed to-day by Justice Falconbridge. Evidence was tendered showing that the envelopes infringed upon the postal regulations.

PETES DROP SECOND GAME TO BRANTFORD AGGREGATION

Raw decision by Umpire Evans went a long way towards losing the game for the Petes yesterday, when they went down to defeat to Brantford by the score of 9—4.

Mr. Evans changed his decisions when he thought he was not right, and in a good many instances he was not right in changing said decision. The fans lost patience w th him, and large chunks of language was hurled at h m, but he turned a deaf ear to it all.

The game was fairly fast, and the boys were on edge throughout the whole game. In the second innings the Petes took a round out of Coose and touched him for three two-baggers and two singles, scoring 4 runs. No more scoring was done until the sixth, when Brantford took four, and in the next took three more, and in the ninth closed the scoring with two, making a total of nine runs.

It is hoped that Umpe Evans will get a pair of field glasses for to-days game, and call them when they are over.

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 35c. and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 25c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 35c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., [illegible] George St., directly opposite Crossman's store.

CANADIAN DEVELOPMENT IN MANUFACTURING WAY

An English Publication Has an Article Setting Forth Some Facts Tersely

A Canadian writes Tariff Reform Notes, an English publication, as follows:

"I think there are very few people in England who have any conception of what Canada's development in a manufacturing way amounts to, or what an important part it plays in our national life. Let me give you some figures. In 1900, when the previous census was taken, the value of the output of Canadian factories for the year was $481,000,000. For the year 1910 when the last census was taken the value had jumped to $1,163,000,000 for the year, a percentage of increase which I do not believe has ever been equalled by any other country in the world in the same length of time. During the ten-year period from 1900 to 1910 we added 4,552 new factories to those already established in Canada, or an average of 450 per year, or three new factories established for every two working days in the year.

Canadian Employes

The employes in our factories numbered, according to the census, 511,844, which means that one in every fourteen of the entire population of Canada is actually working in a factory. When to these you add, first those who are directly dependent upon those, such as wives, mothers and children, and others indirectly dependent upon them, such as the butcher, the baker, the doctor, the lawyer, or whoever it may be, I think you will recognize what a tremendous portion of the population are dependent upon the industries for maintenance and support. And that industrial activity and development owes its being almost entirely to the policy of protection which we have adopted. We in Canada think it is a good thing for that part of the empire, whatever centre it may be, Toronto, Montreal or Winnipeg, if it is being built up and developed, rather than Pittsburg, Buffalo, or Chicago, and we are able to keep our people at home rather than send them by hundreds of thousands to the United States to look for industrial employment which we could not give them in Canada. It is estimated there are 2,000,000 Canadians living in the United States. There are whole cities in New England populated by Canadians, getting employment in factories which they could not find in their own country, but, that condition of affairs is changed, and to-day the tide is flowing the other way.

Built up Canada

"Moderate protection has rendered possible in the last few years the immense industrial development which has checked the outflow of population to the United States and built up industrial centres all over Canada. Moreover, our tariff has made it possible to pay our workmen decent wages (which English workmen do not receive under Free Trade). A prosperous industrial population in turn means that farmers obtain remunerative prices for their produce."

MACHINE KNOWS HER

Remarks of a Typewriter of Nineteen Years' Experience

In literary circles the use of the typewriter has become almost universal. Men and women writers have trained themselves even to "compose on the machine." One woman who says she has been "hitting the same old keyboard for the last 19 years" is sure that some sort of occult understanding has been developed between her and her machine. "It knows my touch," she maintains, "and resents anybody else's. I pound away on it day in and day out, giving it a little drop of oil once in a while, but hardly ever fooling with the tension or more than half cleaning it, and it works right on just as if I treated it well, though it has, of course, grown wheezy with age. But let somebody else touch it and they can't write more than two pages before 57 varities of trouble appear. The keys pile up on one another, the bell won't ring, the carriage won't shift, and the ribbon wheel won't turn. I go right back to it, don't do a thing in a mechanical way, and peck away again without any trouble at all. You may say it is merely because I have gotten it tuned to just the amount of finger pressure I give it, but my own explanation suits me better, and that is that it knows me, as an engine knows its engineer.'

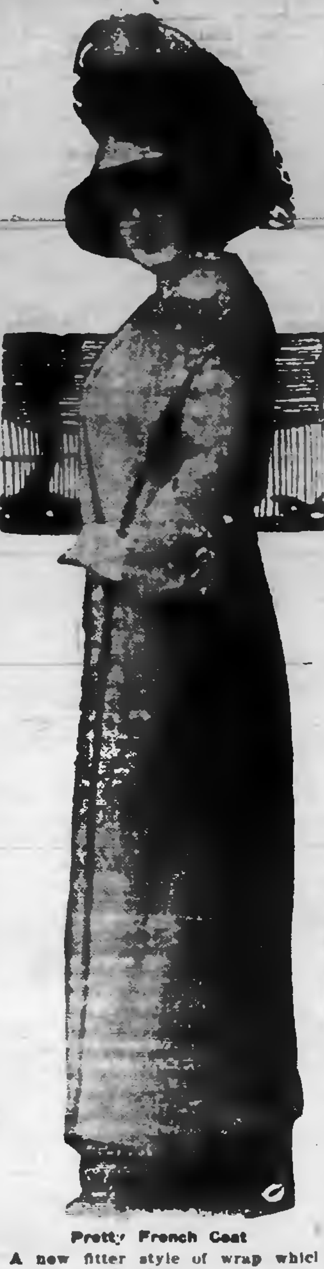
DOGS CAUGHT FIRE-BUG

Bloodhounds Used in England for Midnight Manhunt

For two years an epidemic of fires in South-east Hampshire kept the residents of the district in a state of panic. Sometimes there was as many as five in a week. They were evidently incendiary, but despite all efforts the author could not be trapped. Recently, however, a young lawyer named Benjamin Chant was taken into custody under dramatic circumstances. A hay stack was discovered afire on the farm of Mr. F. J. Hoig and hundreds of people rushed to the spot, but were stopped by the firemen, who formed a wide cordon round the spot, while two bloodhounds were brought up on a leash.

With noses close to the ground they went slowly round the rick. Presently they picked up a hot scent, and made off over open country, dragging their keeper behind them, until they reached the oldtime village of Westbourne. The trail took them to the back door of a house where Chant lived. The dogs scraped the closed door.

It was two o'clock in the morning, and Chant was in bed. He was brought down and made to stand in the middle of the road with eight other men, and the dogs were allowed to come up from a distance of 550 yards, and they instantly went up to him.



Pretty French Coat

A new fitter style of wrap which is built of double faced ratine. A very smart touch is added to it by the use of contrasting colors. The outside is a creamy buff. The inside, which shows in the deep shawl collar and turned back cuff, is a charming shade of blue. A double line of pearl buttons on the front of the wrap emphasizes the close-to-the-figure style. The big collar is really a trimming as it extends downward in long revers to the waist line. The coat fastens toward the left, with three large buttons, almost at the waistline. The promise of the fashion fanciers to increase the length of the walking skirt is demonstrated in this model.

HOW'S BUSINESS

"Business is poor," said the beggar.
Said the undertaker, "It's dead!"
"Falling off," said the riding school teacher.
The druggist, "O! vial," he said.
"It's all write with me," said the author.
"Picking up!" said the man on the dump.
"My business is sound," quoth the bandsman.
Said the athlete, "I'm kept on the jump."
The bottler declared it was "corking!"
The parson, "It's good!" answered he.
"I make both end meat," said the butcher.
The tailor replied, "It suits me."

KRUGER'S AMBITION

Hoped to be Napoleon of Twentieth Century, Says a Relative

Mr. Mark Kruger, of Pretoria, South Africa, nephew of the redoubtable "Oom" Paul, who was the soul of the Boer resistance in that fateful conflict at the beginning of the century, made some interesting statements while in Montreal recently.

"Probably it was never known," said Mr. Kruger, "that my uncle's ambition was to be the Napoleon Bonaparte of the twentieth century. Actuated first of all by motives of local patriotism, the success which crowned his early efforts led him to believe that he was a predestined military genius."

"In my opinion," continued the Boer leader's nephew, "it was this overwhelming ambition that proved to be Paul Kruger's worst enemy. He dreamed of driving Britain from Africa and then consolidating the whole southern half of that continent into a great Dutch republic of which he would be practical dictator. With this foundation upon which to build Oom Paul, planned foreign expansion. He had his eye on India, that gem in the crown of Britain, to which country he was an inveterate enemy."

A Royal Brew!

A good many men say that "Gold Label" is the finest Ale that we have ever brewed.

It's all a matter of taste. If you prefer a rich, old, creamy ale—that proves its quality by its delightful flavor—just try "Gold Label."

Every bottle sealed with an easily opened "Crown" stopper.

WEALTH IN PINE STUMPS

Pine lands denuded were for a long time considered practically worthless; but in recent years experiments have shown that they can be turned into richly productive farms. One of the difficulties was the removal of the stumps, involving heavy labot and almost prohibitive cost.

But that difficulty is now being solved. It is interesting to learn that a company in the United States, has demonstrated that the disposing of pine stumpage can be made more profitable than the handling of the timber itself.

The company was organized only a year ago to extract products from pine stumps. With a force of only sixteen men, a small plant and limited capitalization it has made a profit of $5 a cord on the stumps it has handled during the year, and the average acre of cut-over land in its territory yields eight cords. It will thus be seen that it is earning $40 an acre, which is more than the mill men have been able to make from the virgin pine.

Ontario has thousands of acres of cut-over lands which sooner or later will come into cultivation. Farmers heretofore have had to get rid of the stumpage by burning or blasting. The expens, however, is high.

The success of the American concern would seem to suggest an opportunity for enterprising investors in Canada. Eot only would similar plants add very greatly to our wealth if they were able to earn an equal profit; but they would enormously increase the acreage available for settlers, who, in the next few years, ought to come to Ontario in a steadily increasing stream.

No More Asthma A Cure Discovered That Really Does Cure

Thousands Testify to the Lasting Benefit Derived by This Marvelous Preparation.

The country is simply wild over the wonderful cures of chronic asthma that are being made every day by Catarrhozone. It is a scientific surprise, a perfect marvel the way it brings old chronics back to health. You will say so yourself after you have used it once, say so after the very first time. Ever since people first began to have asthma, Catarrhozone is certainly the best remedy discovered.

Creighton E. Thompson, well known in Calgary writes: "Nothing too strong can be said for Catarrhozone. I suffered four years from asthma in a way that would beggar description. I went through everything that man could suffer. I was told of Catarrhozone by a clerk in Findlay's drug store and purchased a dollar package. It was worth hundreds to me in a week, and I place a priceless value on the benefit I have since derived. I strongly urge every sufferer to use Catarrhozone for Asthma, Bronchitis and Catarrh.

The one-dollar package last two months; small size, 50c; sample size 25c; all storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

SOME GOOD EXERCISES

Arm Movements and Deep Breathing Produce Results

Stand in front of a widely opened window, put your hands well back on your hips, fingers pointing forward, and take two or three deep breaths, gently exhaling in the same way.

It is wonderful how this steadies one's nerve. Try it some day when you are feeling inclined to weep hysterically and you will realise how effective it is.

It is very important that one should not overdo things in any case. This is where amateurs, exercising entirely on their own responsibility, generally go wrong. They think that by exercising a lot they will improve in health sooner. Never was there a greater mistake.

Begin gently. Don't try to do too much. One exercise repeated six times is enough at the start. Don't be discouraged if you cannot draw very deep breaths at first. You will improve gradually.

Never attempt to do breathing exercises immediately after meals. Wear loose colthes, for preference a loose dressing gown only, when doing breathing exercises. Do them regularly every morning.

Do them in the open air if you can. If not, do them in a room with the window wide open. When you are in the open air take good, deep breaths every now and then.

The Hot Water Bottle

When no rubber hot water bottle is available a good substitute can be made of a glass bottle or jar covered with paper or cloth to protect the patient from burning. Be careful that the bottles are not too hot, especially when using them about an unconscious patient.

A rubber hot water bottle filled with ice chipped so small that it can be put into the mouth of the bottle makes a good substitute for an ice cap.

WHEN GIANTS MEET

The Meeting of Jake Gaudaur and William Beach

In the opinion of many a follower of rowing, the greatest race ever seen for the championship of the world was that in which William Beach, the Dapto blacksmith, defeated Gaudaur ten years before the latter went back and took the title from Beach's fellow-countryman, Jim Stanbury. Both men were rowed to a standstill, and Beach's cutter went up alongside to take him out of his shell, as he was too distressed to finish. At that moment old Tom Green, who was in charge for Beach, looked over and saw that Gaudaur was "all in," too. "For God's sake," he cried, "paddle, paddle, that's enough." So, just staggering home, Beach retained his title, but never again could he be induced to make a match with the young Canadian who had given him such a terrible battle. Back to Australia he went, and eventually Gaudaur obtained the championship from Beach's successor, Stanbury. He had beaten the Australian in a regatta at Austin, Texas, previously, but the title was not involved on that occasion, and Stanbury fought hard, as long as he could, to stave off the inevitable. He knew Gaudaur was his master, and his defeat was foreshadowed when he went to bed the night before the race. Tom Sullivan, at whose Rutland Arms Hotel he stayed, wished him good luck as he retired, and Stanbury made reply, "Tom, I'm afride Jike'll beat me."

NEED MORE ATHLETICS

A Cornell Professor Presents News on the Subject

Professor C. V. P. Young of Cornell University, who delivered a series of lectures on "Health and Exercise," declared that the danger of athletics was in the misuse of them. He said:

"The most serious danger that threatens the track athlete is the fact that he is very apt, upon graduation, to suddenly let down in the amount of his exercise, or give it up entirely.

"For many years we have regarded athletics as chiefly a matter of muscular development. Our primitive logic in athletic training was that inasmuch as strength lay in every muscle, the way to grow strong was to increase the size of our muscles.

"There is no inherent danger to the heart in athletics. The heart tends to dilate, as a matter of economy, whenever its work is increased gradually and the heart is given opportunity to adjust itself to the changed conditions, no injurious results will follow.

"I believe the only serious injury or lasting harm done by participation in athletics to those whose organs are sound is in the case of young and growing boys held to the stop watch, either too frequently or when not adequately trained.

"The bane of athletic life in United States is that during the years of young manhood it is entered into so intensely and then abruptly discontinued in later life. It is not less athletics that we want, but more—more general participation, and participation continued throughout middle life and old age."

HE WOULDN'T OWN UP

Money help is the last assistance that the person deserving it ordinarily seeks. It is the last assistance, too, that most people can give—for they have remarkably little to spare. But there are hundreds of other troubles, the outcome of failure of various kinds, in which people, from pride and shame at the confession of failure, and doubt as to the willingness of others to help them, don't make the most of others. When just a few words might save them years of misery!

To begin with, they won't own they want assistance. They are something like the man Mark Twain knew, who nearly lost his life through an unwillingness to confess he could not swim. He had read somewhere that swimming formed part of the education of every well-brought-up person, and having digested that, he came to a solemn resolution that no one should know he could not swim. Having fallen into some yater, he did not call out, but wondered how he could extricate himself without betraying his neglected education. He only shouted at last when he rose for the third time. Then, before he could sink for the last time, a man plunged in and pulled him out. When he was asked why he had not shouted before he explained:

"I didn't care for other folk to know I was such a darned fool as not to be able to swim," he said, "and I thought p'r'aps the chap on the bank was probably as big a darned fool as myself an' didn't know either."

That is just it. The belief that a confession of failure makes us contemptible to other people is also accompanied by the belief that other people hide their failures, too, and may be really as defective as oneself.—Penny Magazine.

DOLL FACTORIES

Germany Has Almost a Monopoly in This Industry

The making of composition dolls as seen in the German factories is an interesting process, even though some of the rooms are hot, steamy places where one does not care to stay long at a time. First, there is the kneading room where a big mixing trough is set up, and in this all sorts of ragbag materials are to be found—old gloves, rags, bits of cardboard, etc., and gum tragacanta. This mixture is kneaded by hand to the consistency of a paste, heated and carried into the mould room. There it is dipped up by women and poured into the patterns, which are set up in rows. The molds are put away until they are cold enough to handle, when a workman by a dexterous movement of his hands, separates the leaden sides, and the doll's head is revealed. The polisher then trims off the ragged seams and sends the heads to another room, where the holes for the eyes are cut open. This is an extremely delicate task, as all the sockets must be of uniform size. The work is done by hand, a long sharp knife being used.

The heads are next painted, waxed or glazed, depending upon the character of the material from which they are made. The arms, legs and hands are molded in the same manner as the heads—a special machine being used for stamping out the hands. The parts are painted in flesh color, while the heads must have rosy cheeks, red lips, and dark or light eyebrows, as the color of the eyes used may require. Putting in the eyes is a simple operation, unless the eyes are to open and shut, in which case the balancing of the lead becomes a matter of some skill. Germany possesses a secret formula for the enamel used on the faces, and the dainty natural flesh tint of the better grade of dolls is the result of this process. The making of the eyes is a dreary task, for it must be done away from the sunlight, and in some parts of Germany the eyemakers work in the cellars. It is said that one town supplies three-fourths of all the doll's eyes used. Violet is the most difficult color to mix, and few violet eyed dolls are found.

The wig is the final touch, and this is usually made of real hair imported from China. The hair used for blonde dolls is the same, except that the color is extracted.

Vanity Case in Fan

The liberal use of the vanity boxes on all occasions has been rather emparrassing to those conservative minded individuals who still cling to the belief that the toilet should be completed before leaving the house. It is permissible and seemingly a perfectly natural performance to brush the handkerchief across the face. One would never guess that by this innocent pastime the dust of powder was taking the shine from the face. The idea, ingenious as it is, can be easily managed. The glass powder holder is firmly imbedded in a lamb's wool powder puff with a button in the centre of one side. This button it attached by a buttonhole to a tiny square of linen which may be sewed to any handkerchief. The contrivance is in miniature, so that it is scarcely noticeable.

Another novelty of this kind is the fan of imitation ivory. The fan itself is a pretty little affair, and would not attract the attention for a moment if it were not for the tiny vanity box attached by white satin ribbon to the bone ring handle of the fan. This friendly little box has a mirror in the top lid and contains a tiny powder puff. The lid is on hinges and is very secure, so that there is no danger of leaving a trail of powder when using the fan.

Women as Writers

The proportion of women in journalism is larger than in any one of the callings open to women except teaching. There are 30,098 journalists in the United States, of whom 2,193 are women, or 7 per cent. In law there are 1,010 women out of 114,703 in all in this occupation, and 7,399 among 134,225 practitioners in the medical profession. If the proportion of women were known in architecture and in the higher ranks of teaching, the comparison would be as favorable to journalism. It is only in the field of writing that the woman is paid on the same basis as the man, receives the same consideration and obtains as large a return. In every other field there is some discrimination against the woman, but a publisher pays as large a percentage on the novel by a woman as on that written by a man. Women have received some of the largest sums paid in fiction.

Cost of Crime and Disease

According to a blue-book on crime in Scotland, the cost of maintaining an ordinary prisoner is $125 per annum. A convict costs $185 and criminal lunatic $245.

WOMEN GET FULL PAY

No Discrimination in Case of Norway's Postal Employes

For fifty years Norwegian women in the postal service have been paid the same salaries as men for the same work. Five years ago a Conservative Administration proposed lower wages for the women postal employes as a good way to reduce Government expenses. The measure was lost, and the question was allowed to rest in peace until last year, when another Conservative Administration again proposed to discriminate against women by making their rises in salary, after certain periods of service, lower than those of the men holding the same positions and with the same claim to advancement. The majority report of the committee that had the bill under consideration was in favor of its acceptance. But an election resulted in the return of a majority of Liberals to the Storthing, and the formation of a Liberal Cabinet. The new Postmaster-General sided with the minority report on the proposition, and a great many of the Storthing members also espoused the women's case. The final vote stood 80 against the bill to 30 for, and the women employes will continue to receive equal pay for equal work as heretofore.

Muscle and Brain

Harper's Weekly: Experiments conducted by Mosso of Turin, indicate that physical education and gymnastics serve not only for the development of the muscles, but for that of the brain as well. It is becoming evident, in the opinion of this authority, that as much time should be devoted to muscular exercise as to intellectual exercise and that children should begin reading and writing only after they are nine years old. Muscular fatigue exhibits phenomena identical with intellectual fatigue. Nerve cells show a tendency to rest every ten seconds. It is probable that only part of the brain is active at a time; the various parts relieve one another. The more mobile any animal's extremities are the more intelligent, other things being equal, it is.

Wimbledon, Eng., July 8.—The German Davis cup players, Friedrich Wilhelm Rahe and Heinrich Kleinschroth beat J. C. Parke anh A. E. Beamish in the final round of the all-England men's doubles championship tournament by three straight sets, 6—3 6—2, 6—4. The Germans will play C. P. Dixon and H. Roper Barrett, the title holders, to-morrow.

BASEBALL.

Cincinnati, O., July 8.—George "Doc" Semmons, physical trainer of the Cincinnati National League baseball club died here today from the effects of the heat. Two weeks ago Semmons was operated upon for appendicitis. Yesterday he left the hospital and in his weakened condition was an easy victim of the hot weather. Semmons was one of the best known trainers of baseball players in the country and last season was with the Chicago Nationals.

St. Paul's Minn., July 8.—That the plaintiff assumed the risk of injury when she took a seat in the baseball grandstand and that the management of the club is not an insurer incident to witnessing a game of baseball, was the opinion of the Minnesota supreme court today in the case of Echo L. Wells against the Minneapolis Baseball and Athletic Association. The plaintiff, who was injured by a foul tip, while sitting in the grand stand, gained a verdict of $626 against the organization in a lower court, but the supreme court reversed this decision.

MOTOR BOATS

Boston, July 8.—The sloop Marie L., owned by A. W. Finlay, yesterday won the third race in the $500 sweepstakes match with A. C. Jones's sloop Nutmeg over a 12-mile course off Marblehead. The Finlay boat now has two of the three wins required to prove which is the faster. Protests growing out of the second race, last Tuesday, having been withdrawn, gave the Marie L. her first win, while the Nutmeg, in the initial scrap of Sunday, off Nahant, landed first.

Honest and sportsmanlike was the contest yesterday and the Marie L. beat the Nutmeg, boat for boat, 25 seconds. Her allowance was 22 seconds, placing the Marie L. 47 seconds to the good. Weather conditions were soft—the southwest breeze being about weighty enough for a full-fledged canoeist. But the southeaster breathed steadily and true.

The start was off Marblehead Rock six men to a boat and no muslin as prescribed by the interclub rules under which the match is being sailed. The course gave a leg to windward, a close reach across to No. 3 mark and a run to the finish. There was no interference on the part of following boats.

PIGEON PETS NEXT TO DOGS

The Racing Pigeon Will Return Home Even After Years a Prisoner Elsewhere

The pigeon is probably the most plastic of all domestic pets, with the exception perhaps of the dog. There are far more varieties of the bird than of the dog, and it was the favorite medium of many of Darwin's investigations, because a new generation was born every year, and in ten years one might make a marked alteration in any desired direction, while with the dog only two or three developed generations could be produced in the same time. England and Scotland are the great homes of the pigeon breeders, though nearly every European and Asiatic country has distinctive local types. In England, however, the varieties from most parts of the world have been brought and improved by the art and patience of the British breeder. What country first developed the messenger pigeon is a matter of dispute. The probability is that before the dawn of history the peoples of Asia had domesticated the wild pigeon and had begun the development of its homing instinct.

Home of the Homer

In modern times Belgium has been the great home of the pigeon that is erroneously called a Carrier and is properly called a Homer or a racing or messenger pigeon. The racing of pigeons is the national sport of Belgium, and the man who has not a loft of these birds is as much an oddity as the Canadian who owns neither a cat nor a canary. In favorable circumstances these racing pigeons will fly 600 miles in a day. As great a single flight between daylight and dusk as 750 miles has been recorded, but it would be assisted in all probability by a gale blowing the bird along. Pigeons have been known to return home a distance of 2,000 miles, but would be some weeks on the journey. All pigeons have some of the homing instinct, but in none is it developed as in the racing pigeon, which will return to its own home after having been kept a prisoner for years, even though the distance is hundreds of miles.

Flying All Day

Another very remarkable member of the pigeon tribe is the Tippler, a bird much smaller than the Homer, and especially trained for its ability to keep flying about its own loft for many hours, and at a great height. In England the Tipplers have been turned out at dawn and have flown through the longest day of the year, not dropping to the roof until the signal was given after night had fallen. On several occasions Tipplers have remained flying for eighteen hours. Somewhat akin to the Tippler in its delight of high flying is the Tumbler or Roller, the latter being a superior variety of the former. This bird is distinguished for its ability to throw backward somersaults in the air. A good Roller spins backward in a dozen or a score of rapid somersaults so swiftly and neatly executed that the keenest eye cannot count them. Very frequently these birds roll to the ground and dash themselves to pieces. Another member of the Tumbler tribe is the Parlor Tumbler, which has such an uncontrollable impulse to tumble that it cannot rise from the ground at all, though its wings are as able as those of any other bird, but merely seems to throw handsprings a few inches above the floor.

Popular Fancy Pigeons

Pouteres, Jacobins, Fantails, Owls, Turbits, Orintal Frills, Magpies, Carriers, Nuns and Dragoons are some of the most highly specialized of the pigeon tribe For a single Magpie the sum of $500 was paid by an English breeder. On several occasions $1,000 has been paid for single Carriers, and once at least for an Owl. Nor are high prices to be wondered at, since in England a good pigeon can probably win $100 worth of prizes in a year. Racing pigeons can often win hundreds of pounds for their owners in a single race, for the chief contests are the great betting events. It is obvious that if a pigeon can earn $1,000 for a man he makes an excellent bargain when he buys it for $500. There is also to be considered the value of its progeny. Tremendous sums are wasted in the fancy in the course of the year, but competencies are amassed too by the shrewd breeders who have mastered some of the mysteries of the art, and can continue year after year to produce birds closely approximating to the standard of excellence.

THE SPORTING SPIRIT

Leslies' Rules Which He Says Govern Real Sport

According to Dr. R. Murray Leslie in a lecture on winter pastimes at the Institute of Hygiene in England, the rules that govern real sport are:

You must enjoy it.

You must be along with people who enjoy it equally with yourself.

You must leave your worries behind.

You must make up your mind beforehand that you are going to have a really good time.

It was because hunting satisfied all the requirements, he said, that he called it the king of winter sports, with golf a pretty close second.

Worth All His Cost

The owner of Diamond Jubilee, Senor Ignacio Cirrena, gave the late King Edward $157,000, or 31,500 guineas, for that horse. That it was no extravagant figure was established by sale of stock at Buenos Ayres. Nine Diamond Jubilee colts averaged $8,725, and nine fillies $6,265. This was the fourth lot of Diamond Jubilee's progeny to be sold, and in round figures they brought $600,000.

TOO MUCH BETTING IN ENGLAND ON ATHLETICS

Holway, American Sprinter, Says English Pros. Waste Time Fooling the Handicapper

Charles E. Holway, the American professional sprinter, who donned spiked shoes and competed in various countries, declares that if there was not so much betting in England there would be better athletes in that country. English professionals, he declares, waste time and energy trying to fool the handicapper and this spoils them in the long run. Holway has met and defeated some of the best professionals in the world and has much information concerning athletic conditions the world over. Some day, he says, Australia will produce an athletic team that will surprise the sharps. The climate there, he declares, is just suited for athletics and only the small population prevents it from keeping abreast with the countries, which enter teams in the Olympics.

Golf in Afghanistan

The Amir of Afghanistan has taken up golf keenly, says the Bombay correspondent of The London Daily Mail. He has had good links made in the neighborhood of Kabul. The natives have been much puzzled by the well-kept greens, but, recognizing that the game is a royal one, they have put the holes to practical purpose. They have got into the habit of placing petitions into the holes at night in the hope that they will reach the Amir when he is putting on the next day. But his Majesty's temper has apparently not been improved by the royal game. He resents this attempt to take advantage of his recreations, and has ordered that all such petitions are to be burned unread.

Louis Cyr's Power

Louis Cyr, who was known as the strong man of Montreal, inherited much of his power from his mother, who was six feet and one inch in height, and weighed 267 pounds. Before he fell ill two years previous to death Cyr weighed 365 pounds. His height was five feet ten inches, and his chest measurement fifty-nine inches. When he was a policeman in St. Cunegonde he once came into the station with three rough-and-tumble prisoners, one under each arm and the third in a vise-like grip in front of him, but all clear of the ground. Cyr had his share of French-Canadian thrift, and retired with a competence after a lengthy career as a public entertainer.

ENGLISH HOLIDAYS WORTH THE MONEY

How They Make the Most of a Good Time in the Old Country

London Nation says: "England is remarkably well off in the matter of amusements, and the English beyond most people have the gift of extracting from life its last ounce of physical enjoyment. That is not, perhaps, their usual reputation. People talk of the French as the supreme merry-makers of the world, and regard us as a sombre people, who take our pleasures sadly. We have not, it is true, the delightful capacity of the Latins for extracting much out of little; ours is rather the opposite quality, which tends to reduce everything to its lowest denomination. But no one who really knows the life of the English people during the latter half of the year and the carelessly magnificent existence which the "upper classes" lead from the moment fox-hunting opens will deny that, given our peculiar standards, we know how to make the most of a good time. Holidays are in our blood.

"We are really and conscientiously a lazy people. The whole formation of English society makes indolence come easy, indeed, just as the famous actor is said never to rest except when on the stage, so as a nation we may be described as never strenuous except on holidays, then we are positive demons of energy. We shoot, fish, hunt, climb, walk, play golf and tennis with a zeal we scrupulously refrain from throwing into business. Easy-going when it is a matter of making money, we are enthusiasts in the spending of it; and the error, if it be, is one on the right side of the account. The money-making faculty is frequently, perhaps usually, linked with an abnormal lack of faculties in all other directions; the test of wisdom is to know how to spend it. We English, during the Summer holidays, spend it with open hands, but not recklessly. We get, if not a good return for it, at least the return we are aiming at. We build with it what is probably the the most elaborate, ordered and enduring fabric of enjoyment—of course of a rather vulgar kind—that is to be found anywhere.

"We have turned the British Isles into a veritable playground for the sporting rich. The twenty special trains that, on a single day left London for Scotland and the north, bearing the usual host of sportsmen and their families, valets, maids, chauffeurs, grooms, pointers and setters, were an astonishing commentary on our preserving pursuit of pleasure. No country in the world depends so much for its living on sport as Scotland. Millions of acres that 50 years ago were let at a peppercorn rent now bring in handsome sums as grouse moors and deer forests. The trail of the millionaire is over the entire country; the scale of living has been raised to the standards they set, and, except the sea and the golf links, they have seized and monopolised pretty nearly all the domain of sport that was once open to the impecunious man.

"Boating is another favorite of our people. Every riverside village and townlet has its annual regatta, and every navigable stream, in a normal Summer, is dotted with camping-out parties, while the smallest seaside resort has its race day for sailing boats, rowing boats, climbing the greasy pole, obstacle races, swimming races and so on. Yachting does not rank among the foremost of British sports, yet an immense amount of it is indulged in, and there must be some thousands of people who spend their holidays at sea in their own boats. A diversion which still holds its own is the walking or bicycling tour. We are not a people given to sudden crazes in the matter of sports; we are a country of old favorites, even in our recreations."

ADVERSITY IS GOOD FOR THE YOUNG MAN

Professor Trotter Says Hard Times and Ill-luck Develop Manhood—Tennyson an Example

That adversity is good for youth, and in fact that it is almost an essential to strong Christian manhood, was the contention of Prof. Trotter, of McMaster University, Toronto. He declared that all young men should be the better for hard times and ill-luck in their early days. It was a discipline that served as a course of framing for weak characters to be made strong and virile. He spoke upon the ennobling effect of many of life's difficulties, touching upon what he described as the yoke of toil, the yoke of straitened circumstances and the yoke of sorrow. Tennyson, he held as an outstanding example of what hardships may do in the making of a strong striking character. Tennyson, he said, passed through many years of stern discipline in youth, and he passed through them triumphantly because he had a single purpose, the conviction of a calling to the life of a poet. The most of us have ideals or feel we have some calling decided for us, and this is our strength in trying times. But life itself is a vocation, and those who live it earnestly and nobly will attain a real ideal. Tennyson bore his yoke of toil, of hardships and of sorrow. For thirteen years he labored to give the world the immortal "In Memoriam." Engaged to be married at 24, he had the agreement broken at 27, since owing to the straitened circumstances which the death of his father six years before had given rise to he could not see how he could provide for a wife. Nor did his means improve until fourteen years later, when, at 41, he married the same young lady. The great poet-laureate's last effort, "Crossing the Bar," was given to us as the most conclusive proof that the life of hardships, poverty, toil and sorrow had moulded a character, firm and Christlike.

QUICK MARCH

A lonely and athletic learner takes up all by himself a telegraph key or a typewriter. He masters it fairly well by dint of dogged perseverance, but neither rapidly nor pleasantly. Just such another lad, no keener of brain, no swifter of touch, seats himself as a learner amid a class of twenty. Some of his neighbors are beginners like himself, but one or two of them are so proficient, are so accurate and quick, that they are slated for work at a railroad office next month. The newcomer feels certain that feats accomplished by younger lads than he is, may soon be achieved by himself. Emulation fires his blood, companionship quickens his pulse. He soon catches the knack of never lifting pencil from paper, of memorising at a glance a dozen words of "copy." Within six months this youth is a much speedier operator than his solitary friend, and he has had an incomparably better time. Beyond the stimulus of such teamplay, the whir and rhythm of machinery acts as a powerful spur. This comes out plainly in the experience of builders with concrete. Twenty years ago a little concrete was used here and there for foundations and culverts. To-day as a building material it is every bit as important as steel. Twenty years ago concrete was mixed with spades and shovels a hundredweight at a time. To-day it is poured from huge machines at the rate of a ton a minute. Foremen grey in the business declare that every laborer in their employ moves about twice as fast as did his predecessor a generation ago, when the work was wholly manual. Apart from the imperious call for food by a swift machine, apart from the speed of its output, its vast wheels and vanes grunt weird music which is a distinct quickener of pace. This is true of every factory and mill where machinery lifts its song. This is one reason why operatives the world over become steadily swifter of movement, more precise of touch, as chisels and saws give place to machine-tools, as electric motors supersede pedals, and a single huge turbine sings bass in a mighty chorus.—Winnipeg Free Press.

Agonies of Gall Stones

SANOL is the only Reliable and Rapid Cure for this Painful and Dangerous Disease

There are hundreds of sufferers from Gall Stones who will be glad to know of the great results being derived from the use of SANOL: the remedy that is safe, sure and remarkably rapid in its action. It removes the necessity of an operation; relief comes promptly, the stones being dissolved or passed off in the stool without danger to the patient and without pain.

We have many testimonials from people who have thus been cured. We are able to give name and addresses of numbers of these, and will gladly do so to all who enquire.

The following from the letter of a well-known Toronto gentleman:

"Replying to your letters, I followed your instructions and purchased two bottles of SANOL, you might send me as much of the mixture as I need. If I can, in any way, help the sale of SANOL, and by doing so help some other unfortunate, I will be only too pleased to do so, as I consider it the best remedy made."

SANOL is made only by the SANOL MANUFACTURING COMPANY, LTD., Winnipeg, Man.

A LOVER'S FOLLY

Allows Simple Trick of Sweetheart's Brother to Turn Him Against Her.

By HAROLD CARTER.

It is not only the murderer who comes back, drawn irresistibly to the scene of his offense against the human law. Everyone who has done wrong, everyone who has been unfortunate, everyone who has suffered, even, returns some day to the place where the event occurred which marked a black bar in the spectroscope of his life. It was so with Arthur Kane.

Five years before he had stood in the same spot, at the same time of day, on just such an evening, outside Evelyn's house, at the foot of her garden. Then he had been poor; now he was wealthier than he had ever expected to be: but then he had been happy, and now, of all men, he was the most miserable. And on the very day of his return to the place of his birth he had come back, drawn thither irresistibly as he had always known that he would be.

It was summer then and it was summer now; the same rose bushes were blooming, the same moon was rising over the house-tops; nothing had changed except his heart. The years, which had meant so much to him, seemed to have left everything but himself much as it had been.

Five years before Kane had been an underpaid clerk in the Fourth National bank, seven blocks away, in the heart of the business section. And Evelyn had been a stenographer in the same town. She lived with her widowed mother and her little brother Benny. Arthur had always known Evelyn, but their engagement had come about quite suddenly and simply. He had discovered unsuspected depths of tenderness in her nature when his mother died. She had cared for her all through her lingering illness. The night before she breathed her last she said to Arthur:

"I want you to marry Evelyn."

The thought had not occurred to him. He had not known that Evelyn loved him. The dying woman's disclosure placed her in an altogether new light. His mother told him then that she had always loved him; freed by the approach of death from the conventional silence that is laid upon women, she revealed the little secret that the younger woman had confided to her. Kane was deeply touched. The day after the funeral he asked Evelyn to marry him. And when she laid her head upon his shoulder and began to cry softly, from sheer happiness, Kane suddenly discovered the world of love in his own heart.

They Drew Near to Each Other.

"I thought you loved Marston," he said.

"I never cared for Marston," she answered, looking at him with a wonderful light in her eyes.

So the gossips had wronged her, then, when they had announced her approaching engagement to his fellow clerk, the man who now came forward so smoothly to congratulate him upon his forthcoming marriage to the woman whom he himself had courted unsuccessfully for three years.

She had been all but in love with Marston, though; so much Kane learned from little Benny, the small brother whom Evelyn adored and petted and scolded and played with and instructed during her evenings. Yes, and Marston had loved her desperately. Kane felt an insensate jealousy of this fellow, whose character he knew, and who had the effrontery to continue his visits under the plea of old acquaintance.

Then came the fatal evening when Kane, approaching Evelyn's house later than usual, after the shades were drawn, stopped suddenly as he saw Marston's face upon the blind, and Evelyn's. They drew near to each other and their lips met. Then the shadows danced away and the lamplight illuminated the blind again.

Kane turned round. He went home and sat motionless in his room for a long time. The marriage was to have taken place in about three weeks, and since he had nearly four hundred dollars and his prospects in the bank were small, it had been agreed that they should go west in the hope of achieving success. At that moment Kane had two tickets for Denver in his pocket. He wrote a brief letter to Evelyn, explaining that he had unexpectedly discovered the proof of her faithlessness, and took the train west next morning. In five years he had made a comfortable fortune. Now he had come back.

He meant to spend only a day in the town, to learn of Evelyn and Marston, to rejoice in their happiness and then depart as quietly as he had come. But when he learned that Evelyn was still unmarried, and that Marston had left the town, the old love surged up in his heart again and the old impulse drew him against his will toward the little house where Evelyn still lived.

As he stood by the gate a tall boy suddenly came in from the street, saw him, stopped short, and accosted him.

"Mr. Kane!" he exclaimed.

Kane turned. "Why, Benny!" he said, taken aback. "How you have grown!" he added lamely. "I would never have known you."

"I heard you were back," said Benny shyly. "I've been looking for you all over the town. Won't you come in?"

"No, thanks," said Kane, beginning to lose his self-control. "I have to be leaving again this evening."

"Mother and Evelyn won't be home till late," said Benny. "Say," he continued, "I want to show you something. I'm awful sorry it was my fault Evelyn and you had that trouble."

"Your fault!" exclaimed the other.

"Yes, Mr. Kane. It was an awful blow to her when you went away. She just cried and cried for days, but she wouldn't let anyone write and tell you. But it was all my fault. Say," he said confidentially, "come in just a minute. I want to clear myself. I won't tell her if you don't want me to."

Kane's feet almost dragged him against his will into the little parlor. Nothing was changed—only his heart. Benny put out the gas and stood the lamp in the middle of the table.

"You thought she was kissing Marston," said Benny, awkwardly. "Look! It was this way—just fun. She was amusing me."

And, passing behind the lamp, he twisted his hands until a shadow like Marston's head appeared upon the wall.

"That's Marston," said Benny. "You can tell him by his big nose. Now this is Evelyn—see? That's her hair, done like they used to wear it five years back. Now, when I bring my hands together they kiss—see?"

It was a very creditable kiss. It was just the same kiss that Kane had seen five years before upon the shade.

Kane staggered out of his seat. "Benny! I've been a fool!" he muttered, and caught the boy by the arm. "See here, tell me if there's any chance for me," he shouted. "Where is she? I've got to see her. She's got to forgive me at once. She's got to, because I'm going to make her."

Benny hesitated. "You won't be angry with me, Mr. Kane?" he asked. "She's in the house. I had to bring you in somehow." He pulled the other by the arm and drew him into the hall. "She's—she's—" he stammered.

She was standing under the hall lamp. She was trembling. She was looking at Kane, but neither saw the other because of the sudden dimming of vision—they only felt each other heart to heart and lips to lips.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at the office of any Local Agent of Dominion Lands (not sub-agent), on certain conditions.

Duties.—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required in every case, except when residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside of his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties—Six months residence in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and 50 acres extra cultivation. The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land after report by Homestead Inspector on application for patent.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price, $3 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

Modernized Greek Idea

This gown is for ceremonious occasions, and, notwithstanding its artistic merit, it could be made by the amateur dressmaker.

Two kinds of material are used — crepe meteor and satin charmeuse of a soft mother-of-pearl color.

The body of the gown is of the crepe meteor with the band trimming of the charmeuse in the same shade, the difference in materials making a pleasing variety. Although this gown has horizontal trimming it suggests height. The scalloped front is a graceful touch. The triangular motif of gray velvet beaded with steel beads is the only emphatic bit of garniture on the whole gown.

FIRST SEWING MACHINES

Pioneer of all Made Over 150 Years Ago

The earliest attempt at sewing by machinery of which there is any authentic record was in 1755, when a machine was patented in England by Charles F. Weisenthal. In this machine the stitch was formed by a needle, having two points with an eye at midlength, which passed completely through the goods in imitation of hand sewing.

This was followed by an English patent dated July 17, 1790, granted to Thomas Saint, for a machine that embodied several features which are employed in the modern sewing machine, namely, an overhanging arm, a horizontal cloth plate, a vertically reciprocating needle, and a feeding device, notched at the lower end, pushed a loop of thread through a hoop previously made by an awl. The loop thus formed was held beneath the goods and the next loop passed through it, thus making what is known as the chain-stitch.

In 1804 an Englishman named Duncan made a chain-stitch machine that employed two hooked needles, and in 1830 a Frenchman named Barthelemy Thimonnier invented a machine which embodied the Saint principles with the exception that the loop of thread was pulled instead of pushed through the fabric.

For Baby's Bed

A comforter for the baby's bed can easily be made at home. A pretty one is of white china silk, trimmed with small pink roses. The materials required for this fascinating article are two yards of silk, three and one-half yards of pink ribbon and one pound of cotton batting.

Take one yard of the silk and mark the positions of the roses. Arrange these in seven rows across the width and seven across the length, alternating four and three roses. Start the rows four inches from the edge.

Baste one piece of silk to a layer of cotton before joining the other piece. Sew through the two edges of silk and the cotton at the places marked for the roses, and neatly whipstitch the four sides of the comforter together. To fashion the ribbon roses take one-eight of a yard of ribbon a half inch in width. Turn under the edges and crease the ribbon at the centre. Roll the ribbon around until a centre is formed and sew firmly in position. Swirl the remainder of the ribbon loosely around the heart of the rose until it is completed.

Fasten a rose securely to each piece marked on the comforter.

A TENDERFOOT'S WOOING

—BY—

CLIVE PHILLIPPS WOLLEY

(AUTHOR OF "GOLD, GOLD IN CARIBOO," ETC.)

Supplied Exclusively in Canada by The British & Colonial Press Service, Limited.

He had to adjust himself to certain new phases of thought, and the operation was not easy to him.

Before Kitty Clifford went back to England, it had not seemed unreasonable that he, the foreman of the Risky Ranch, should aspire to her hand. She was of the ranch, a part of those wild plains which it dominated and had no other world to conquer. Neither did she seem to need any.

The ranch language was her language, its happiness her happiness; to her as to him there had been nothing worth having beyond it, and as far as such things mattered, he knew that if his man's life had roughened him a little, he was as well-born as she was.

So that there had seemed no reason why he should not love, and by and by marry Kitty Clifford.

There was no reason now, he almost believed, why he should not propose and be accepted.

But was it fair?

It was this thought that made him so rough with the colt that the indignant youngster hunched his back and drew up a threatening hind foot.

"Whoa, boy, steady," Jim said, apologetically. "Am I too rough with you, little fellow, and wouldn't I be too rough with her?" he added to himself. Everything had changed since her visit to England. Before that she had been almost a child, now she was a young woman, who had tasted of the tree of knowledge, and knew, or thought that she knew, the good from the evil. Her eyes had been open so that she saw how rough and monotonous the ranch life was, and yearned after the brilliant life at home, of which she had not seen enough to tire. Worse than all for Jim, she had learned to see his lack of polish and the discords in his speech, which at home would have meant want of caste.

No. Jim was beginning to think that even if she would be content with the ranch life now, her content would not last, and lives are long in the West.

When he went into the dining room a little later, the long table was nearly full. As usual Rolt's family party sat at the top end of it, and below the salt, as it were, sat the white men of the establishment. The Indian cowboys messed by themselves elsewhere.

As friend as well as foreman, Jim Combe had been accustomed to sit where he pleased, one day with the men when he wanted to talk cattle, the next among the tyhees, as he called those who sat above the salt.

On this day when he came in there were two places vacant, one above and one below the salt, and he saw Kitty draw her dainty gown of some soft sage green stuff towards her as if she would make room for him. Her action was in itself an invitation, and the dress, a combination of colors of that great cattle country he loved so well, with its soft dominant tones relieved by a flash or two of the sumachs' fiery crimson, touched him. He himself had suggested the colors of it, on a ride long ago, as colors proper for a "sage brush girl," as he had called her.

As he had not seen the frock before, he argued that it must be one that she had brought from England, and that therefore some thought of this, if not of him, had been with her there.

But he took the other place half way down the lower table between old Al and Dan McGillivray.

It was a stupid thing to do of course, but it was done in obedience to a blundering instinct of his which forbade him to force the running whilst she had that ridiculous idea in her head that he had risked his life for hers, but it hurt him to see the pretty face harden and then light up, as he had never seen it before, for that fellow from England. He knew nothing of women, how should he, and he misread the signs, and wondered what on earth those two could find to talk about. Of course Anstruther knew her in England, and that made all the difference. Loyal Briton as he was, how he hated England for the moment, and even if he had known her in England, surely that was no reason why she should treat Anstruther like a brother, or better.

Yes, better; a good deal better.

Jim tried to break into the conversation, and did so clumsily.

"That's a bad racket, Boss, about those cattle thieves," he said, and his own voice seemed hard and unnecessarily loud. "They will be making a hole in your pile this season."

"Mrs. Rolt tells me that you found a branded hide in one of the Chilcoten's old camps."

"Found an ear anyways, but I'm scared that that is not all. Davies' murderer is out again with Khelowna's band. It means mischief."

"What ought we to do about that?"

"If we want to stop it we've got to catch some of the thieves and make an example of them. You know what Indians are if you let them get away with you."

"Then you would organize a posse and hunt them. It might be as well, but could we leave the Indians to look after the ranch for a week."

"Might as well. The work is pretty well forward, and Mr. Anstruther could look after the ladies."

"What do you say to that, Kitty?" asked the Boss.

"Certainly, if Mr. Anstruther's whole soul is not in the cattle."

Anstruther muttered something in his low drawling voice which the others did not catch, but Kitty's answer was sufficiently audible.

"Oh!" she laughed, "that is not manly, Mr. Anstruther. It's cattle first and cattle all the time with the men."

"Cattle are naturally rather important on a ranch, my dear," put in Mrs. Rolt. "We Western people have to work for our daily bread, and that is what the cattle mean to us."

"Some people work in England," retorted Kitty, tossing her pretty head, "but they don't bring their work to all their meals."

It was as near a slap in the face as Mrs. Rolt had ever received at her own table, and for a moment an uncomfortable silence fell upon them all, but Anstruther saved the situation.

"I don't think we should have done well on the prairie to-night, Mrs. Rolt. Do you hear how the wind is getting up?"

It needed no straining of ears to hear it.

For a spell there would be silence or only a thick whispering round the corners of the old house, and then an angry shaking of every casement in the building as if some strong man was trying to find a place to make an entry.

Again there would be a pause, followed by a long wailing cry, and the grinding and shrieking of the thousand branches of the pines around the house, while again would come that wrenching and straining at the casements.

"It's going to be an early winter," said Jim, "I guess that's why all the cattle are coming in."

No one heard her say anything, but Kitty's mutinous little face could speak without words.

"Let us have some music," said Rolt, rising and opening the door for the ladies. "It is stormy outside, and I fancy you ladies want your nerves soothing after that hard ride."

The two went out, and when they had gone the Boss stood pulling his long moustache in a way he had when he was annoyed. Then he went over to Jim and laid his hand kindly on his shoulder.

"Do you really think that we ought to go out?"

"I do, sure."

"And you think that it is safe to leave Anstruther only with the women." He spoke in a low tone, and he seemed to be asking more than his words implied.

"That's his place, sir."

"I don't know so much about that. Anstruther is very much of a man if he does carry a high polish. But do you wish it to be so?"

Jim looked squarely in the face and understood him.

"Yes, Boss, I think so."

The Boss threw his cigarette into the fire-place. He, too, had his dreams, and understood.

"All right, then, have it your own way. Tell the men quietly what you mean to do. You can trust them all, I suppose."

"Every last mother's son of them."

"All right, then. Of course I shall come with you."

Jim opened his mouth to protest.

"My cattle, Jim," was all that was needed to stop him. "When you have told them, come into the drawing-room; the wife wants you."

It was a "one man's show," to Jim's mind, when he did enter that dainty room in which Mrs. Rolt had gathered round her all her treasures, a room almost startlingly in contrast to the rest of the house, and its surroundings; one of those rooms which speak so plainly of that past which many up-country people have left behind them.

It was not only the photographs, framed and otherwise, with which the room was littered, which called to you, nor the two or three exquisite landscapes of Old Country scenery; not even the little cabinet with its collection of miniatures, Rolts and Vernons, bewigged and uniformed, or patched and powdered, after the various fashions of their sex and of the days in which they had lived; not these, nor even the great bowls of flowers which it was Mary Rolt's labor of love to raise with infinite trouble in her greenhouse in spite of the elements: rather was it the pervading atmosphere of the room, the visible expression of a loyal loving heart which, whilst it would tolerate no word against the new house, sweetened all things with its memories of the old.

It has been the work of such women as Mrs. Rolt to keep alive the spirit of England on the wildest and most ragged edges of the earth, and it may even be that for those who love the England of their childhood, they would find more of it in such distant colonial homes than they would to-day within the sound of Bow Bells.

Conditions change, but memory is faithful.

When he entered it, that room was almost too full of English memories for poor Jim Combe. The women were tired, and a little rift had appeared within the lute which had temporarily marred the harmony of their friendship, and Anstruther, seeing this, was busy charming them back to their most sweet natural selves.

Unasked and without any preface, he had seated himself down to the piano, and sometimes playing, some times singing softly to himself, he led them from gay to grave, from Sullivan to Beethoven, from "Little Yum-Yum" to "Douglas, tender and true," but never once away from that holy of holies, which the English call Home.

And as he played or sang, he talked to his lady, not in the foolish modern phrases, but in the music of the masters, and the words of love's great poets, until Jim, hating him the more, the more he recognized his mastery, felt hope fading very far away.

"What a fool I have been," thought Jim. "I see it all now. Doves do not mate with hawks, and what possible use is my brute strength and woodcraft against this man's magic."

Such skill as Jim had might have made a ranch wife happy, might lighten the labors of a working woman; but the dainty thing upon whom he had set his heart was never meant for the stress of hard living.

The voice of her own world was calling to her, and of course she would go back to it, and he could not blame her; but how he hated the other fellow.

"Thank you, Mr. Anstruther," said Mrs. Rolt, at last, as he paused for a moment. "You have been to use what David was to Saul, I think. But we must not make you do all the work. Won't you give us one song, Jim? Sing "Somebody's a-callin'." Mr. Anstruther has carried us all off to England, I think, and I want somebody to call me home again."

Her hand was lying on the little Japanese table by the side of her chair, and in the firelight the Boss's great fist closed over it.

He appreciated his mate's loyalty to himself and his chosen profession. Before the advent of Mr. Anstruther, Jim had whiled away many a long evening for the ranch folk with his mellow baritone, untrained it is true, but full and sweet as a thrush's voice, so that he could hardly refuse Mrs. Rolt's request.

"The herds are gathered in from plain and hill
Who's that a-callin'?
The boys are sleeping and the ranch is still,
Who's that a-callin' so sweet?"

he sang, and the old days came back to him. In spite of herself Kitty's face softened, and beneath her closed lids she saw pictures in which the stranger had no part.

"Yes, that is pretty," said Anstruther critically, when the song had come to a close, "especially the air and that one verse, but the rest of it is a bit weak, isn't? It seems to me that fellows don't think the words matter nowadays."

"Especially in your favorite comic operas. There is not much poetry about the 'Colonel on his little tin gee gee,' or your 'Singularly deep young man,' is there?" asked Mrs. Rolt.

"I did not think that people went to the comic operas for poetry?"

"Those seem to be about the only things they do go to."

"Perhaps, and yet you know we have some songs in the Old Country which hardly need the music to make them beautiful."

"Old songs?"

"Yes, and modern songs, too. Is there no dignity in this?" and rising, he went again to the piano and sang Pollock's noble song, in which a modern has for once caught the chivalrous spirit of the past.

"It is not mine to sing the stately grace
The great soul beaming in my lady's face,
But mine it is to follow in her train,
Do her behests in pleasure or in pain,
Burn at her altar love's sweet frankincense,
And worship her with distant reverence."

Nature had been kind to Frank Anstruther. There was no startling beauty in his face, but he had in an altogether uncommon degree that highly-bred grace, without which no man should dare to sing those courtly words. When his song closed, even Mrs. Rolt could not help admitting, "Yes, that is best."

Whatever Kitty thought, it was left unsaid, but there was no reassurance for Jim Combe in the cold bow with which she bade him good-night.

It was "another victory for the Old Country."

CHAPTER VII.

The Storm

Kitty sailed out of the ranch drawing-room with her head in the air. Only to Frank Anstruther she unbent in the sweetest of smiles. She came down next morning white-faced, the sparkle of her dimmed, and all the self-confidence gone; her spirit only returning when Anstruther made an effort to cheer her. Then the little vixen turned upon him and made him wish himself a thousand times one of Dick Rolt's avenging posse.

There had been tears in the night; tears, confession and penitence, and between the two women there was peace again, but there was no peace for Anstruther. With Jim before her, Kitty had been a small angel to his rival, but Jim had gone at early dawn; there were no longer and loud men's voices about the corrals. The quiet of the place invited meditation, and the more Kitty meditated the less she could find to justify her attitude to Jim Combe, and the less she saw to admire in the man she had induced to stay behind. Indeed all her own small sins took a bodily form, and called themselves Frank Anstruther. As he smoked his last cigarette before turning in, that gentleman had come to a decision. He was quite sure then that the only woman fit to succeed his mother at Bilbury Park was the girl he had been singing to, and he had decided that he would put his fortunes to the test before he was a day older. Kitty would not say "no" to him, of that he felt sure. She was not one of those women who would willingly spend all their lives in an humdrum Canadian ranch.

But though he suffered without protest, as a man must, by midday Frank found himself wondering whether after all a world without women would be so utterly unendurable.

As for Mrs. Rolt, she had privately vowed that her favorite should have a fair chance, and that to prevent poaching in his absence, she would haunt the two young people like their shadow until Jim's return.

No self-constituted duenna ever found her duties less exacting than did Mrs. Rolt; no pair of reputed lovers less anxious to be alone than Kitty and Frank.

Indeed, to such a pitch of misery was that unfortunate young man reduced before evening, that Mrs. Rolt found herself trying to make some amends to him for the girl's perverse temper.

In her heart she began to hate "young people." Without them there had been peace at the ranch, whereas now it was almost as bad as being in love again herself.

But this thought brought a smile to her sweet face. There had never been any rival in her case to big Dick Rolt She scarcely thought the man existed who could have been.

The night after Jim's departure there was no music at the ranch, and the music next morning was neither a man's making nor to his liking. For days past the great red "Herefords" had been crowding in closer and closer round the corrals, and for five days the clouds had grown more and more murky overhead, whilst a bitter wind kept whining uneasily amongst the sage brush and the willows. Perhaps the absence of the men really accounted for the gloom which seemed closing round the ranch, and yet there seemed more than mere loneliness in the depression which took hold on those who had been left behind.

The last golden leaf had fallen from the cottonwoods along the creek bottoms, and now and again dry balls of sage brush would race and bound along upon the uplands, driven by unseen wind devils, or the trees in the recently burnt patch of pine timber just beyond the corrals would for minutes break out with a great groaning and grinding of limbs. But these things only occurred by fits and starts. The strangeness of them was due only to the fact that there seemed to be no storm to account for them. Such winds as there were, were purely local and short lived until the Wednesday morning.

Then the dawn broke in weird fashion, with such devilish storm lights, such unearthly and terrifying shadows as are only seen on the sea or the prairies, and the first act of winter began.

In half an hour every loose thing about the ranch had been blown from its position. A wagon which the Indians had left out was lifted right over and lay bottom upwards in the yard.

Fences which the biggest of the bulls had respected, were laid flat as if they had been but card houses.

The little creek which a week before had threatened to run dry, became a swollen torrent. Pieces of board and tin cans whirled along in the wind, battered and rattled against the walls, whilst the old house itself throbbed and hummed like an organ, and from time to itme an earth-shaking report announced the downfall fo some great Douglas pine in the slashing. Whilst the storm lasted there was no sun. The racing clouds bloted him out, so that a vague dull light prevailed, such as might have existed when the Spirit moved on the face of the waters.

The three in the house cowered at the windows, and watched the desolate scene with that feeling half of pleasure, half of awe, which is natural to human beings safely entrenched in a cosy, storm-proof house when storms rage without, until a miserable looking object with lowered head and stream ing hide came trembling past the windows towards the barn.

"Oh, my poor little Mawitch. Mary look. There is my fawn. Those idiotic Indians must have let it out."

"Well, she can go into the barn if she wants to. I think she is going."

But the fawn, like other only half-civilized things, had lost its wild wits, before it had acquired the sense of the domestic beast, and now stood shivering in the very eye of the wind, looking for some human being to take care of it, instead of taking care of itself.

"Mary, I must let it in, poor, miserable beastie. Do you mind, dear?"

"No, of course not; though I don't suppose that it will come in. Try if you can tempt it, Mr. Anstruther."

With a piece of bread in his hand to entice the fawn Anstruther went to the main door, glad to do anything to win a smile from his offended lady, but the very elements warrel against the unfortunate lover that day. As soon as the latch gave under his hand the great door burst inwards with such a noise that the fawn fled, whilst Anstruther himself was sent reeling before the blast, and pictures, stick racks, and bear hides clattered and careered along the floor.

As usual in this confounded country he had made a mess of it. No one but a fool, he reflected, would have tried to open a door on the weather side of the house, when it would have been much easier to have brought the deer round to the lea side, but it was too late to think of that now. He had to bring that beast in. He simply dared not face those two women without it, so, with a glance at the damage he had done, he plunged recklessly into the storm bareheaded, dragging the great door to behind him.

It required all Anstruther's strength to shut the door, and for a moment he had to cling to the handle of it for support before he could make good his footing against the wind. Like most newly-arrived Englishmen he was still particular about his attire, but in less time than it takes to write it, the glory of his boiled shirt and smart collar had gone, his riding breeches, built wide in the latest fashion, were clinging to him like the skin of a fish, his long coat tails were performing like a giddy wind-mill, and his whole appearance was such as to justify his belief that the ladies at the window were convulsed with laughter. As he crossed the paddock it occurred to him tha Mrs. Rolt was signalling to him to come back, but he was uncertain, and in any case he did not mean to go back without that infernal little beast which tempted him yard by yard across the corrals, and towards the patch of shrieking and groaning timber.

Surely, he thought, the ladies were signalling to him, but he could not understand what they meant. They were calling, but the window was closed, which in itself would have been enough to drown their voices, without the deafening din all around him.

He was within arm's length now, and he made a spring at the fawn's collar, touched it, but could not secure his hold, so that he only frightened the beast, which in a few bounds reached the timber. But here it paused, as if it was as much afraid to go forward as to come back. Of course, Anstruther followed it. As he reached the edge of the brule a dry bough no thicker than his little finger, whirled out of one of the tops and struck him across the hand. The force of that blow from so small a thing should have warned him, but at that moment victory seemed within his grasp. The fawn, frightened by something the man neither saw nor understood, hesitated, until with a quick leap Anstruther sprang in and gripped the leather collar round its neck.

It would be a curious thing, the man thought, which would loosen his grip now until the provoking pet was safely in its mistress's keeping, and as the thought formed itself in his mind something happened.

To him it seemed that a terrific crash was followed by instant and complete darkness, accompanied by a curious sensation of numbness and a letting go of all things, all things except that leather collar. To that he clung instinctively, even when everything rose and went away from him, feeling and thought, wind and rain, and even the crashing of the brule, and the anger at Kitty Clifford's laughter.

CHAPTER VIII.

Jim to the Rescue

"Put it out of its misery; it's back is broken."

Anstruther recognized Mrs. Rolt's voice and wondered in an idle dreamy fashion [illegible]

BANK CLERKS FROM OLD LAND

Some Interesting Views as to Their Adaptibility and Qualifications

The London Bankers' Magazine published an editorial gravely weighing the advantages and disadvantages (from the English bank clerk's point of view) of accepting a position in a Canadian bank. Upon considering all the circumstances and conditions, the editor was disposed to think his young countrymen would in many cases consult their interests just as well by remaining at home as by going to Canada. He admited in the course of his argument, that salaries are higher in the Dominion but drew attention to the higher cost of living in Canada, the severe climate and the hardships under which bank clerks must work in new towns and villages.

One passage of the article read as follows: "To many in England it must often have been a matter for surprise that the Canadian banks should be unable to staff their branches with Canadians, but the fact is that the Canadian does not settle down easily to banking. He is more happy-go-lucky and restless than his English brother. Hence men from England and Scotland are preferred to him by the Canadian banks, in most cases as being better educated, steadier and more conscientious in the performance of their duties."

In order to see how the Canadian opinion coincided with these views, a writer on a Montreal financial paper asked high executive officers of several banks about the results of the policy of getting men from England and Scotland. At three different banks he was told the same thing—namely that the Englishmen were better educated, could write and talk good English, that as a rule they proved good conscientious clerks on the books, but that many of them did not develop the qualities required in the higher offices. Quite a number of them did everything "by the book" and did not venture to use their own judgement or to depart a hair's breadth from the rules and regulations.

About the Canadians it was said that they were more flexible and used their judgment more in dealing with the public. But it was a matter of complaint at each of the three banks that many of the Canadian applicants for positions were backward in ordinary public school or high school education.

A CARPET TALK

A weak solution of oxalic acid applied very carefully to inkstains on carpets will remove them. If this changes the color it may be restored with ammonia water.

Always follow the weave of the pile when sweeping thick carpets. The carpet will wear longer and look better.

Carpets should be lifted from the floor at least once a year and thoroughly cleaned. The dirt which collects beneath grinds and cuts the threads.

Wait until the floor has thoroughly dried before relaying a carpet. The tacks are apt to rust otherwise and injure the carpet.

Stair carpets should be heavily padded if you desire them to wear well.

MARTINS GREAT SHOTS

Sensation of Ayrshire Rifle Meet Has Two Brothers in Canada

Sergeant Jack Martin who made fifteen consecutive bull's-eyes at the 1000 yards range in the Ayrshire rifle matches, has a brother in Canada. He is Alex. Martin, a sporting goods dealer, of Calgary.

The Martins are a family of crack rifle shots. Both Fred and Alex, who make their home in Calgary, have participated in international matches, while Jack, the sensation at Ayrshire won the Grand Aggregate at Bisley last year and the previous year made the full score of 105 in a squadded three-distance competition, being the first to attain this distinction in the N.R.A.

Sergt. Jack Martin has a son A. E. Martin, now 17 years of age, who holds fair to bring more fame to the Martin family. In a meeting at Darnley he took first prize under conditions calling for seven rounds at 200 and 500 yards. His score was 68 and for the tie he made three bull's-eyes. He has won several other notable prizes in the past two years.

Martin was a member of the Palma trophy teams which visited Canada and Australia and has participated in other important international events.

NEW FISHING LAWS

White Men to Have Chance to Compete Against Japs on Coast

An important change in the fishery regulations of British Columbia decided upon by the Dominion Government, has for its purpose the building up of a white fishing community on the Pacific Coast. In the past Japanese fishermen have almost wholly ousted white men from the industry. Hitherto a given number of boats were allowed to operate in each fishing area and these have been assigned to the different canneries, the arrangement dating from a time when there were practically no resident fishermen in the several districts, so that the canners had to find fishermen and convey them to the different fishing areas. This arrangement in practice worked out into the employment of Japanese. Conditions have changed and it now is expected that under suitable regulations white fishermen will settle permanently in the region affected. The course decided upon was:—

1 To apply the boat rating to the water areas and not to the canneries.

2. To issue the licenses hereafter for the fiscal year, beginning with April 1.

3. To reserve until March 15 each year as many licenses in each area as there is reason to expect will be applied for by bona fide white fishermen, owning their own boats and gear, and to assign the remaining boats allowed to the existing canneries, pro rata the present boat rating.

The licenses to white fishermen allow them to fish independently of any cannery and sell thier catches to whom they choose.

Men Who Don't Exercise

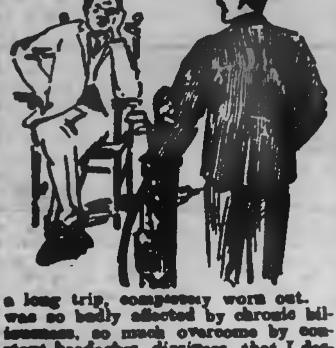
SUFFER FROM INDIGESTION, HEADACHES, POOR APPETITE, SLEEPLESSNESS.

Nothing so Sure to "Set Up" a Man Make Him Feel Brisk and Vigorous, as Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Lack of exercise and overwork were the causes that combined to almost kill Samuel S. Stephens, Jr., one of the best known citizens of Woodstock.

In his convincing letter, Mr. Stephens says:

"A year ago I returned home after a long trip, completely worn out, was so badly affected by chronic biliousness, so much overcome by constant headaches, dizziness, that I despaired of ever getting well.



"It was a blessing that I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. In one week I felt like a new man. The feeling of weight and nausea in my stomach disappeared. My eyes looked brighter, color grew better, and, best of all, I began to enjoy my meals. The dizziness, languor and feeling of depression passed away, and I fast regained my old-time vigor and spirits. To-day I am well—thanks to Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

For health, strength, comfort and good spirits, there is no medicine like Dr. Hamilton's Pills. 25c. per box, five boxes for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers, or by mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

She Lost Her Purse.

Yesterday morning, a young English married woman living on Union St. lost her purse containing some $16, between that street and George street. As the young woman cannot well afford such a loss, having recently been married, the finder of her purse, might return the same to the police station.

Yesterday's Police Court.

Only two cases occupied the attention of his worship at yesterday's police court. W. Foster, who claimed to be on his way from Hastings to Port Hope and John Riley of Belleville, were charged with having been found drunk in a public place. As Officer Sills who made the arrests, was not in court, the two were remanded for one day. However, after being taken down to the cells, both prisoners decided to plead guilty and were returned to the court room. Here they were each fined $2 and both paid up.

Boy Shot at Bay of Quinte.

Finding a loaded revolver alongside the tracks on the Bay of Quinte Railway, the eight-year-old son of O. Miss. Moscow, picked it up, when it exploded, the ball entering his chest. He is in a critical condition and it is not expected that he will recover. The accident occurred Friday afternoon. The boy, with his sister and mother, had been out picking berries along the railway tracks. On the way home it is stated that the children loitered behind, near the tracks, they found a revolver and the little boy picked it up and while he was handing it it went off. It was found that the bullet had penetrated the left chest above the heart.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars nad testimonials.

STOP WORRYING

A Philosopher's Straight Talk on a Common Ailment

Here's the inspiration for this homily, taken straight from real life. Husband and wife are on their way to the station. The wife says something, and you can just catch her anxious, querulous tones. Borne on the wind comes the man's reply—rage and despair mixed: "For goodness' sake do stop worrying!"

On the principle that we should endeavor to do the greatest good to the greatest number, this homily, then, is mainly for the ladies—pardon! The men are not exempt, only in a minority; and where the cap fits, they will, of course, wear it.

The drink habit, the drug habit, the nagging habit, the worry habit, are friends. They are home-wreckers and love-enders. The two former can be cured; the two latter have to be endured. And worrying is worse than nagging, for it masquerades as a virtue—over-anxiety, loving care, and so forth—when all the time it is a vice.

"It's worry that kills." Yes, that's true enough. Worry alters your face, your expression, your voice, your outlook on life, in fact.

And have you ever seriously thought of the effect on others of your eternal worrying? It is taking the joy out of their lives entirely. Leave them their own horizon. They will get away from you if they can. You are getting yourself disliked.

That is more than sad as between a mother and her children. Yet it happens if "mother is always worrying." It's a miserable habit.

And what's the good of it? This perpetual dwelling on distant contingencies is silly and sickening. Excuse the word, but it is the right one.

Worry produces nothing, alters nothing, hurries nobody. What's the good of it? Do you know that worrying is merely an inefficient substitute for action and forethought?

Test that statement. You worry over whether the dinner will be ready. It doesn't make the oven hotter, or saucepans boil more quickly, or put the hands of the clock back. Get into action, and do something to hurry things. You may worry over catching a train. That won't delay the train, or get you there any the sooner. You may lie awake all night worrying over whether the morrow will be fine.

What's the good? Worrying accomplishes nothing. And you will see that to worry is an admission of personal inefficiency. You can't think if you are always worrying. A good worrier has a poor head.

Worrying is a morbid anticipation of the worst. It goes with a diseased imagination and an unbalanced mind. Something's always going to happen—but never anything pleasant.

Why picture battle, murder, and sudden death because Tommy is ten minutes late home from school? Why worry? He's only watching a dog-fight; and even if he were hurt, it would be of no use to worry.

It comes to this, that in every division of life when we've done our best, and done all, there's nothing more to do except to sit down and wait. And worry? No; the sentence ends at "wait."

You want to stop the habit? Good! Be active, then; content. Exercise foresight, and always expect the best. Don't imagine trouble. Don't worry over propositions. Bring clear thinking to bear upon them. Worry is the brain in a whirl. Keep buoyant.

What must be will be. It's no good worrying. It's all wrong. Worry kills!

Wells a Sprinter

It is not often that a heavyweight in any line of sport figures as a sprinter on the cinder track, and it is suprising that Bombadier Wells, aspirant for the world's title in the ring is a runner of some prominence. Wells competed in the 130 yards' professional handicap sprint at Pontypridd, and finished second in his heat in the good time of 12 3-5 seconds. An account of the race states that Wells would have gone into the final if he had not stumbled in a hole.

HAS BULGARIA HAD ITS FILL, NOW ASKING PEACE

Europe Will be Confronted Shortly With Russo-Austrian Troubles--Fifty Thousand Toll of This War

Cologne, Germany, July 9.—Nobody acquainted with conditions in the Balkans can doubt that Europe will be confronted shortly with events of utmost importance affecting the political and military relations of Austria-Hungary and Russia, according to the Sofia correspondent of the Cologne Gazette. He telegraphs that the quarrel between Bulgaria and Roumania has entered a new phase, and that King Ferdinand, of Bulgaria, is to be punished for lack of subservence to the wishes of Russia.

Bulgars Have Had Enough.

Vienna, July 9.—The Bulgarian Government is reported to have sent a circular to the European powers expressing its readiness to negotiate for peace.

The Bulgarian and Servian commanders-in-chief are stated here to be already negotiating an armistice as the losses of both armies in killed and wounded are so immense, and it is feared that the epidemic of cholera which has broken out among the troops may get beyond control.

Report 50,000 Killed.

London, July 9.—Reports of the evacuation of Kotchana and Istip by Gen. Kovatcheff's army are confirmed in a Sofia despatch to The Times, which estimates the losses on both sides as scarcely less than 30,000 killed and wounded. The Bulgarians faced most desperate fighting and performed greats feats of heroism before they were routed, suffering the severer losses.

According to high authority, the total casualties on all sides since the war was resumed have been fully 50,000.

LONDON BOBBIES ARE COCKY SAY THEY DOWNED MILITANTS

Police Patting Themselves on Back Because They Have Smashed the Suffragette Movement--Prisoners in Jail Greatly Decreased in Number

London, July 9.—The London police triumphantly repeat their boast that they have smashed the militant suffragette conspiracy. They dismiss the outrages now happening as the isolated work of individual fanatics. They say that the staff of the Women's Social and Political Union has been reduced from two hundred to fifty; and that financial aid has almost ceased, save from a few wealthy subscribers and sympathizers, fearing that if they contribute money they will render themselves liable to prosecution for aiding a conspiracy.

It costs $2,500 a week to run the militants' campaign. A year ago two hundred and four suffragettes were under sentence for militant outrages. To-day there are only twenty one, twelve of these being released under the Cat and Mouse Act. Of the number imprisoned, seven are taking food regularly. All suffragette arsenals have been raided.

This police optimism may, however, be premature. It is obvious that large numbers of militant women, foiled by recent police plans, are ready for mischief, and real danger exists that the militant movement will develop along lines of a secret terrorist organization. Last night women suffragettes crowded Queen's Hall, London's largest public building, in every part, denouncing Government action against the militants.

CHILDREN OF SIX AND FOUR IN A STRANGE KIDNAPPING CASE

Spent an Night of Terror in Riverdale Flats, Where They Were Taken by a Man--A Mysterious Case For the Police--Distracted Parents Made Frantic Search

Toronto, July 9.—Huddled in each other's arms through the long watches of a cold night, two little tots, Charlie Davies, six years of age and his tiny companion, Myrtle Butterfield, four years of age, of 191 Mutual street, were found by a workman who passed through Riverdale Park this morning. The babes were in such a condition from the result of their night's exposure to the cold that they could only sob brokenly ken them from their home and left as they told him that a man had taken them alone in the park.

BACK HOME AGAIN.

Back at the little home in Mutual street the parents of the children passed a night of terrible anxiety. Walking the streets from the long hours before midnight, until after 4 o'clock this morning, the parents of the little Butterfield girl searched in every conceivable spot, under steps, down areaways, on doorsteps. The heart-broken father and the frantic mother wandered about, calling the names of the little ones, stopping pedestrians, policemen, and others in the hope that the little tots might have been noticed.

PAREETS DISTRACTED.

"It was a terrible night," said Mrs. Butterfield to The Star to-day, as she hugged little Myrtle close in her arms. "We couldn't imagine just what had happened to them, and we expected to hear any moment that there had been an accident. Myrtle told me when she came home that a man had taken her and Charlie down town after buying them some bananas and had left them outside a hotel. When he came out he started walking northward. He walked and walked until the children became exhausted; then he took them over into Riverdale Park. He told the babes to lie down. Then Myrtle began to cry, and ask to be taken home, but the the man wouldn't listen to them. "'When I wouldn't stop crying, he spanked me, mamma,' the little one told me this morning," said Mrs. Butterfield.

COLLAPSED FROM EXHAUSTION

Although the children were fully clad, they were dressed in light summer clothes, and were thoroughly chilled when found thit morning. "The children told the man they were cold," continued Mrs. Butterfield, "and he took off his coat and spread it over them. After walking around a little while he came back and lay down beside them."

The babes dozed for a short time. When they woke up the man was gone. They got to their feet and wandered around the park trying to find their way out, but became hopelessly confused and from sheer exhaustion collapsed.

CUB'S FOOD

They Thrive on Grape-Nuts

Healthy babies don't cry and the well-nourished baby that is fed on Grape-Nuts is never a crying baby. Many babies who cannot take any other food relish the perfect food, Grape-Nuts and get well.

"My baby was given up by three doctors who said that the condensed milk on which I had fed her had ruined the child's stomach. One of the doctors told me that the only thing to do would be to try Grape-Nuts, so I got some and prepared it as follows: I soaked 1½ tablespoonfuls in one pint of cold water for half an hour, then I strained off the liquid and mixed 12 teaspoonfuls of this strained Grape-Nuts juice with six teaspoonfuls of rich milk, put in a pinch of salt and a little sugar, warmed it and gave it to baby every two hours.

"In this simple, easy way I saved baby's life and have built her up to a strong, healthy child, rosy and laughing. The food must certainly be perfect to have such a wonderful effect as this. I can truthfully say I think it is the best food in the world to raise delicate babies on and is also a delicious healthful food for grown-ups as we have discovered in our family."

Grape-Nuts is equally valuable to the strong, healthy man or woman. It stands for the true theory of health. "There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true and full of human interest.

INSPECTING THE TRENT VALLEY CANAL

Lindsay Warder:—Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., West Peterborough, J. W. Seffsmith, M.P., East Peterborough, Mayor Bradburn, Peterborough, W. H. Denham, of the Quaker Oats Co., J. H. McClellan, supt. Trent Canal, Sam. Clegg, overseer, and C. Robertson, engineer, Ottawa, passed through town this forenoon on their way home from a visit they made to the north lakes. They report that the conservation of the waters the last two years is showing good results. The dams which have been built have been well built and are holding immense quantities of water. There are a number of dams to be built yet and they know that Col. the Hon. Sam Hughes will continue the good work which is of so vital importance to the power users in Lindsay and Peterborough. The Hon. Frank Cochrane, minister of railways and canals, deserves the thanks of the people of this district for the interest he has taken in all matters connected with the Trent Canal, particularly in the work he has done around Lindsay, and in consuming the water in the back lakes for the use of navigation, lumbermen and power.

BRANTFORDS CLUB SAW COMING CLOUDS

It came to pass on July day that the braves of Brantford went up against the Petes. As the third innings proved the Petes had two runs to the same number of goose eggs for the Brants. A member of the visiting club saw a cloud in the sky, no bigger than a baseball mitt. To his fellow players, he saith "Yea, verily, in yonder sky is a cloud no bigger than a man's hand. That cloud means rain. Let us follow the example of Foxy Grandpa, begot by Noah, and we shall yet cheat the Philistine Petes out of their victory." With sound of lute harp and dulcimer, the Brants cried, "Yea! Verily! Let us procrastinate!" They did so. The first batter of the Brants stopped Umps Evans and asked "what thinkest thou of the doctrine of evolution?" The second batter, throwing the ball to 1st base, put it over the place of malt and hops. The eighths batter sliding to third quoth "yea, Mr. Umpire, I have a corn and I pray thee have me excused."

Umps Evans, however, unknown to the Brants, was a descendant of Foxy Grandpa, begot by Noah, and remarked "That cloud, no bigger than a man's hand has spread. The rain falls. Still, as the Brants put up so raw an attempt to beat the Petes, I decree that the Petes win 9—0. And the grand stand yelled "Yea! Verily! A Solomon has come come in judgment!" And the "Lowly Petes," as Brantford calls them slipped up one.

OPIUM SMOKER GETS SMALL FINE

"He inhaled the smoke from his opium pipe and then blew it into the other man's nostrils," stateh acting Crown Attorney Hughes. Charlie Hong was the smoker and pleaded guilty to the charge. The maximum in cases of this kind is $50 and costs Hong is only the fourth offender under the new Dominion Act, and was let off with $25 and cots or 30 days Charlie Fong the second smoker was similarly fined.

RIFLE RANGE HANDED OVER

A Long Felt Military Need is Today Officially Founded For

This morning a Board nominated by Col. Clegg of the 57th Regiment, will formally take over the new rifle range, in Otonabee, secured for Peterborough through the energetic efforts of our local member, for the Department of Militia and Defense. The committee contists of Engineer Dunbar, of Kingston R.C.E., and Majors J. Mills and D. Walker of the 57th Regt. The committee meets at the Armories at 9a.m. and then proceeds to the ranges. The ranges are protected from possible danger to outsiders by natural hills and a bullet proof wall. The ranges will only be open on Thursdays and Saturdays, when a man with danger flags will be on hand. It is understood that the old school house, replaced by one being built by the Government, will eventually be used as a shelter and store house.

As it is eight years since the old Curtis rifle range was condemned, the local marksmen will hail with joy the opening of thit splendid range of some 300 acres.

PROVEN BABY FARMER GIVEN A LONG PRISON SENTENCE

She Had Adopted a Thirty-eight-hour-old Child for Fifty Dollars--Traced by Police

Toronto, July 9.—With the sentence of six months imprisonment handed out this morning to the Benbow woman by Magistrate Kingsford, the standard has been set of what baby farmers may expect in Toronto.

There has been no doubt as to the existence of this evil here for some time, but it has taken considerable trouble, hard work and ingenuity on the part of Staff Inspector Gregory Sergeant McKinney and their assistants to obtain evidence necessary for convictions.

In the particular case that was ended this morning, a woman who gave her name as Mrs. Bates, of 142 Duchess street, took for adoption the child of Mr. and Mrs. Peckover, of 461 Willard avenue. The baby was handed over to the Bates woman 38 hours after birth, together with $50 and a quantity of clothing. She stated that she intended going to England with her husband and would provide the baby with a good home. The Morality Department was notified that a baby had disappeared from the Peckover home by neighbors and enquiries were made. A visit paid to the address on Duchess street revealed the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Bates had left the address and taken the child with them, together with their five year old daughter.

Caught Together.

The police are not revealing the manner in which they secured the couple, but it involved considerable ingenuity and caused officer Bl[illegible]worth to drive an automobile for the first time in his life considerably past the legal speed limit. He was accompanied by officer Taylor and Detective Croome, and the pair were arretted together and the child recovered.

FIEND WITH KIDNAPPING MANIA DRAGS OFF TORONTO CHILDREN

Three Wee Tots in Two Days Have Terrifying Experience Imar Rubinstein is Latest Victim

Toronto, July 9.—That there is a man of unbalanced mind wandering about the streets of Toronto accosting children and by threats or promises forcing them to accompany him to secluded spots where he keeps them all night, is indicated by the fact of two such mysterious disappearences in the past two days. The latest case indicates the need of immediate and thorough investigation.

Five year old Imar Rubinsteini of 239 Simcoe street staggered into the back yard of his home shortly after 4 o'clock this morning, his clothes covered with dust and wisps of hay, and in such a condition that he could hardly speak. In his childish prattle he told his mother that while on an errand he had been stopped by a strange man who insisted that he should go with him. The boy refused and the stranger promised to buy him anything he wanted if he would only go for a short walk with him.

Threatened to Shoot Child.

The promise of candy or toys, however did not move the lad, who steadfastly insisted that he had to go on an errand for "mamma." When his promises failed to secure the boy's consent to go with him, the stranger resorted to threats and abuse. He told the little kiddie that if he did not go with him he would shoot him and showed the littlelad something that looked like a revolver.

Terrified the boy walked away with the man. After walking through many streets and lanes, the little lad finally sank to the ground exhausted and commenced to sob brokenly as he begged to be allowed to go home to his mother.

The stranger picked him up and carried him a number of blocks. He turned down a lane and entering a stable at the rear of a large house, laid the boy on a bundle of straw. The little fellow, though very tired, watched the man take off his coat, and spread it over him, and lie down beside him. A short time later the little chap fell asleep.

Boy Awoke, Stranger Gone.

When he awoke this morning it was light. He noticed that the coat which covered him while he slept was gone, also the stranger who had brought him. He opened the door of the stable and discovered that he was in a place he had never seen before. Making his way through the yard to the lane, the little lad gained the street.

FEAR STRICKEN MOTHERS ARE TRYING TO GET THEIR BOYS HOME

Outbreak of Smallpox at Camp Causes Anxiety in a Thousand Homes

Toronto, July 9.—Consternation was carried into thousands of homes in Toronto this morning, with the news that smallpox had developed in the cadets' training camp at Niagara on the Lake. In addition to the cadets from Toronto High Schools who went into camp on Monday, over 900 of the smaller chaps from the public schools went over yesterday, and more than half of the number sailed on the boat with the companies from Sault Ste. Marie in which the dread disease was discovered a few hours afterwards.

Anxious telephone inquiries for further information were made at the newspaper offices, and in many cases worried mothers prepared to go at once to Niagara and bring their lads away.

Hurried to Catch Boat.

Some who heard the story early were able to catch the boat at nine o'clock. One woman who said she had two boys in camp was very anxious, and assurances that they would be perfectly safe, as the military authorities would take every possible precaution to protect them did but little to ease her mind.

"I didn't want them to go, but they bothered me so much and their father sided with them. I just knew there would be something like this," she said. "When I went to get the milk bottle this morning and picked the paper up off the verandah, it was the first thing that caught my eye, and I nearly fainted. I just got dressed and hurried down to the boat without doing anything else."

Want Their Boys.

The Corona, which sailed at 11 o'clock, carried a score or more mothers going over after their boys, and several with the expressed determination of bringing them home right away, no matter what the officers or anybody else thought about it. One of the ladies told the News reporter it was a shame the papers did not denounce the prevailing idea of "filling up boys' heads with this camp nonsense until there is no peace in the house if they are not allowed to go."

DOCTOR'S BOYISH FACE REVEALS SKIN RENEWER

I heard the other day the story of the physician with so admirable a skin that all his women patients asked the secret. He told one, who generously told others, that knowing the remarkable absorbent property of ordinary mercolized wax, he concluded this substitute would make an excellent complexion renewer and preserver. Knowing the wax could not harm the skin, he began using it after shaving. He soon observed that the old, withered, colorless cuticle was being gradually absorbed and replaced by younger, healthier skin. This was the simple secret of the silver haired doctor with the boyish face. The secret became public property. Now women everywhere use mercolized wax, applying it nightly like cold cream, washing it off mornings—continuing until the complexion is entirely renovated. An ounce of this wax, procurable at any druggist's, will banish the worst complexion.

Another valuable rejuvenator, used by this doctor was a wrinkle-remover and preventive in the form of a face bath, made by dissolving an ounce of saxolite in a half-pint witch hazel. This also has become famous. —Aurelia in Fashion Review.

BRANTFORD FORFEITS GAME LOAFED, WAITING FOR RAIN

At Riverside Park yesterday, the Brantford aggregation showed their class, when they tried to delay the game until the rain arrived. The score stood 2—0 in favor of the Petes, and with Betting in the box had the visitors in hand all the time. In the first of the third innings, the Brants started in to loaf and were doing pretty well, when the fans began to get restless and demanded that a little life be put in the game. In the first of the 4th the Petes hustled the game along; but here's where the visitors got in wrong, they did everything possible to delay the game, working as slow as they possibly could. Then away out in the left field Manager Kane was seen to remove his lid and to scratch his bean in an effort to think out some way to obstruct, when he suddenly hit upon a capital idea, and he started at a funeral gate towards Umpire Evans. When he reached that gentleman, he asked him to have the fans put off the grass at the fence rail (where the boys always sit in every game without a kick) and argued that they should not be there. Davie Rowan also had several kindly remarks to make in regard to the playing of the game. After a few seconds thought, Mgr. Kane was asked to get back into the garden in a little less time than it takes to tell it, Umps Evans putting the ticker on him. Kane, however, was no sprinter and the game was forfeited to the Petes, with the score of 9—0.

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 50c. and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 75c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 50c. Nugent's Sarsaprilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaprilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., [illegible] George St., directly opposite Crossman's store.

ONTARIO

The Glasgow Herald has the following description of Ontario.

"The natural wealth of Ontario is boundless. It produces 75 per cent. of all fruits grown in Canada, 69 per cent. of the plums, 70 per cent. of the apples, 80 per cent. of the small fruits and pears, and 99 per cent. of the peaches and grapes. There are 7,000,000 apple trees in the province bearing in a good season, at a moderate estimate, one barrel of packed apples per tree. South Ontario has 338,255 acres of orchard, vineyard, and small fruits. Three-quarters of the dairy produce of Canada comes from this province; the average value of the products for the past five years being at least $30,000,000, and in two or three "barren years" $35,000,000. Further, Ontario ranks higher than any other province in field crops, and she has a greater variety of mineral deposits in proportion to population than any country in the world, having been responsible the year before last for 41 per cent. of Canada's total mining production.

In the more populous parts of the province there are 175,000 farms, valued at from $1,000 to $50,000 and over. But there are about 20 million acres of good arable land left for settlement, south of the fiftieth parallel of latitude, and this wealth—given away free—awaits the enterprising emigrant.

HELD MANY OFFICES

Mr. McIntyre a Widely Experienced Man in Public Affairs

Mr. D. M. McIntyre, chairman of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board is a native of Kingston, and an experienced and successful practitioner in municipal law. He graduated from Queen's University in 1874, took up the study of law, and later engaged in partnership with his brother, James McIntyre, K.C. After serving a term as Alderman, he was elected Mayor of Kingston for 1892-3. He became Vice-President of the Ontario Municipal Association 1905-6. He was also Chairman of the Board of Governors of Kingston General Hospital, President of the Oddfellows' Relief Association and a trustee of Queen's University. When the Ontario Prison Parole Board was organised in 1910, Mr. McIntyre was invited to become a member, and rendered enthusiastic service as a member of that body.

At the Provincial general election in 1905 Mr. McIntyre, who is a Conservative, was defeated by a majority of twenty votes. In 1896 and again in 1900 he was defeated by Mr. Britton, now Mr. Justice Britton, for the Dominion House.

VARICOSE VEINS CURED

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.

Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on Varicose Veins. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skillful. I wrote them and got The New Method Treatment. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $12 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $25 and never loose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.
HENRY C. LOCUST.

SCARS THAT STAY

Marks of Superficial Injuries Soon Disappear—Deeper Wounds Show

There are people who say that everything in the body is changed every seven years, and that there is no part of it which was there seven years ago. This does not mean that we slough the whole thing off at once as a snake does its skin or a deer its antlers, but simply that the innumerable and tiny atoms which are used up by the daily wear and tear are replaced by fresh atoms supplied by our food and drink, which keep the body going.

But these changes are so minute and gradual that the form of the body remains the same, although such things as scars take a long time to disappear, and sometimes they remain for life, although they always lose a great deal of their prominence.

You may have noticed that if you cut your finger slightly it will soon heal up and the scar presently disappear, just as the marks of a superficial burn will gradually go away; but if the cut is deep the scar remains. This is because it went down to what is called the true skin. Any cuts, stains, or burns on the outer skin are gradually pushed up and worn or washed off, just as the hair on the back of your hand wears off without your cutting it and grows again; but anything that goes down to the true skin, like tattoo marks, always remains.

From Marsh to Farm

The land in Kent County, Ont., near the lighthouse on Lake St. Clair, which has been considered nothing but a worthless marsh was purchased by a Toledo syndicate that will conduct farming operations on a modern and large scale. The land is being reclaimed for agricultural purposes and it is expected to turn out to be the most productive in the district.

Seat for Boats

A wire frame, partly covered with canvas, the invention of a New Brunswick man, forms a back rest for a boat seat which can be snapped into place in an instant.

Used Old License

Judge Martin of Chicago recently married a couple whose license had been obtained 12 years ago. Christopher C Owens obtained a license to marry Miss Emma Brandy in 1900. "We had a quarrel," he told Judge Martin, "and we didn't see each other for about eleven years. Recently we patched up the trouble."

Lived 86 Years in One House

Mrs. Williams, widow of the Rev. Samuel Williams, pastor of the Congregational Church in the Village of Cripplestyle, England, for forty years, died in the house in which she was born and had lived all of her eighty-six years. During this long period she did not sleep away from the house more than six times.

It has been revised and brought up to the PRESENT DATE in accordance with the best authorities from the greatest universities, and is published by the well-known SYNDICATE PUBLISHING CO. of N.Y.

It is related that a grizzly bear that had had one of its fore paws so shot as to render it useless, employed the other to draw its weight of 1,000 pounds up an incline almost precipitous, a seemingly impossible feat.

A Californian asserts that while in the mountains he observed a big grizzly in the act of carrying a dead cow home to her cubs. From his position on the mountain side the observer could follow every movement of the bear in the sparsely timbered valley below. He contends that the big beast carried the cow in her forepaws for a distance of three miles, across jagged rocks several feet in height, over fallen logs around the rocky mountain side, where even a mule could not get a foothold, to a narrow trail up the steep mountain.

This bear, it appears, stopped not for a moment's rest, but proceeded straight on. The observer followed her, and about half a mile from her lair abot her.

BRITISH EMPIRE'S OBLIGATIONS.

Concerning Imperial Britain's obligations to our far-flung Empire, a writer in The Round Table says:

"The responsibility is not " one to be chosen at will, or " one that the British democracies may take or leave. It is " one that concerns not only " their own welfare, but that of " millions of less civilized human beings whose moral destiny is entrusted to their " charge. No state in human " history has ever before been " confronted with a responsibility so tremendous. This responsibility demands that it " should be faced, and, if the " issue is not to prove disastrous. It must be faced in the " two-fold strength of clear insight and moral conviction."

WHAT DID WATERLOO DECIDE?

Looking back from Sedan, a child can now see what Waterloo decided. It decided that the French revolution, as far as it was an orderly process, was triumphant. So far as it was mob and terror, it was a failure. Waterloo crushed both the despotism of Napoleon and the absolutism of the Bourbons. That vague thing called authority by divine right, or by some other blasphemous claim, an authority suspended between earth and heaven, like Mahomet's coffin, was not revived, but slain at Waterloo.

A moral basis for all rulership was established. The echoes of Blucher's guns lasted till Sedan. There was little left of the Bourbons after Waterloo. A few ballots buried the remains. But it took united Germany to wrench from France the Napoleonic idol and shatter it to bits on the pavements of Paris.

The crowning of the Prussian king at Versailles as German Emperor might indicate that another revival of divine right doctrine was in the making. The third emperor of Germany has talked some nonsense on that theme. But when China has a republic and Russia has a duma, even the half blind can see that the democratic idea, invading the fastness of absolutism, is an onward force that will not halt.

If the first Napoleon had accepted the democratic idea he never would have been beaten at Waterloo. But he missed the signs of the times. He thought he could set up in the nineteenth century a feudal overlordship which belonged to the age of Charlemagne.

He did not understand that only by having as its basis the moral conscience of men and women, expressed through democratic channels, can nations hereafter become great.

Waterloo was a great victory for the moral idea.

Blinding Headaches From Catarrhal Irritation Now Quickly Cured

The New Inhaler Breathing Treatment Does Away With All This Sort of Thing.

"A stuffy cold in the head, or an old fashioned attack of Catarrh are simply ancient history to me nowadays," writes S. Nathan Smith, from Cornwall, Ont. "I used to have the worst kind of building headaches. They were torture to me on damp days when my catarrh was bad. I would still perhaps be suffering but for the fact that I saw a friend inhaling Catarrhozone with apparent pleasure, and I got the dollar outfit in the Windsor Hotel Pharmacy in Montreal. I could scarcely believe the way Catarrhozone cleared out my head. It let me breathe easier than I had breathed for five years. Catarrhozone has cleared away every vestige of Catarrh from my system. My breath used to be rank—now it is sweet. My digestion was constantly disordered, but since the catarrh is cured I have no stomach trouble. I am a perfectly well man, and Catarrhozone did it all."

For speakers and singers and persons troubled with an irritable throat, bronchitis, asthma, catarrh or la grippe, Catarrhozone is of inestimable value.

The inhaler can be carried in your pocket and may be used at any time or in any place.

A CRIPPLE FACTORY

All the Employes Are Shy a Limb But Earn a Living

In Kansas City, Mo., there is a three story factory where armless men and women make artificial arms for other armless people. Wm. T. Carnes, who has only one arm—his left— is manager of the plant. Ten years go Carnes, then a machinist, was working in a shop at Pittsburg. His right arm was caught in a cog wheel and later amputated above the elbow. When he left the hospital he looked in vain for an arm that was serviceable, so he started to make one himself. He studied anatomy of the arm and fingers and combined their natura principles in an arrangement of stee levers, ratchet gearing and crank s that they would readily respo d to th muscle force and nerve impulses c the stump. He developed an arm that could be flexed or straightened and fingers that could be opened and closed at will.

WM. T. CARNES

Carnes made a meagre living for eight years building arms for other people. His orders were few, and he never got enough money to buy the tools he needed. Some years later J. P. Prescott lost an arm and leg in an elevator. He soon found a leg to walk upon, but his physicians told him it was useless to look for an arm. Prescott heard of Carnes and went to see him. Carnes built an arm which Prescott still wears.

Then Prescott, who had plenty of money, suggested a factory. He organized a company and Carnes was placed in charge.

"Our aim eventually," said Prescott, "is to have the entire work here done by cripples. We are using 12 men and a girl now who are 'disabled' like Carnes and me."

Carnes can do anything any man can do—slower, of course, but just as well. The secretary of the company is an expert pool player, but he has only one arm of real flesh and bone. Carnes shaves himself and manicures his own nails.

About the office and factory there is joking and laughing. Everyone feels he is giving service for value received, and incidentally helping someone else along.

FOR A GARDEN GATE

Gas Pipe and Poultry Netting Answer all Requirements

The use of old gaspipe to make gates is a new idea that originated with a small railroad company that owned a quantity of pipe and had a number of gates to make. The pipe was bent in the form of the letter Z and covered with poultry netting. The hinges used were made of heavy wire bent in the way shown at Fig. A. The hook part fitted into a large screw eye fastened into the gate post. The gates are durable, cheap and easy to make and the idea might be utilized with profit by people who want to make attractive gates that will last.

SPORTING NEWS

BALLOON.

Kansas City, Mon., July 9.—Four of the eight giant racing balloons scheduled to start in the national race to choose America's representatives for the James Gordon Bennett trophy contest in France this fall are in the air to-night. They are: "The Kansas City III," Kansas City "Million Population Club," St. Louis; "the "Goodyear," Akron, O., and the "Kansas City Post." All took a northwest direction.

It was a disastrous day for ballooning. Two of the great bags were destroyed by a stiff wind that swept the field, a third withdrew at the last moment, on account of a defective valve, and the "Overland" was forced to land a few miles from the starting point.

ATHLETICS.

"You've made a mistake in your paper," said the indignant man, entering the editorial sanctum. "I was one of the competitors at the athletic match yesterday, and you have called me the well known lightweight champion." "Well, aren't you?" said the editor. "No, I'm nothing of the kind, and it's confoundedly awkward, because, you see, I'm a coal merchant."—Cleveland Leader.

YACHTING.

Eew York, July 9.—A new record for the big steam yachts over a measured mile course is claimed for the Sovereign, built for the late M. C. D. Borden, of Fall River, at a cost of $250,000. In a speed trial on the Hudson river, near Yonkersi Wednesday, it was asserted the yacht covered the mile in one minute, thirty-five seconds, or at the rate of 37.89 miles per hour.

New York, July 9.—The prediction is made that European athletes will give the United States team a much harder and closer battle for Olympic honors at Berlin in 1916 than heretofore, by J. W. Spalding, vice president of the American Olympic Committee. As a result of his observations while abroad he asserts that American track and field performers will have to compete up to the high standard set in previous meets if they are to win the point trophies at the next Olympic games.

BASEBALL.

Seward, Alaska, July 9.—Thomas Menifee, formerly one of the best known baseball players in the National League, went violently insane at Homer, Alaska, a few days ago, and started out to kill the village. He armed himself with a rifle and started firing at every man, woman or child who showed signs of moving.

One man ran up the main street of Homer and Menifee fired thirteen shots at him without hitting him.

Fortunately for the inhabitants the insane man had lost his eye and did not hit anyone.

A posse was organized and the demented baseball player was taken into custody.

A decade ago Menifee and his brother formed the star battery of the Philadelphia National League team, and later Tom Menifee played in Seattle.

Alabaster Sphinx Found

Another sphinx, weighing 80 tons and carved from a single block of alabaster, was unearthed at a point between the world-famed Colossi on the water-logged plains of Memphis in Egypt. For hundreds of years it has lain in a recumbent position buried beneath the sands on the road to Sakkarah. This newly found sphinx was betrayed in its hiding place by its tail, which Mr. Mackay, one of the students of the British school in Egypt, discovered about a year ago. The figure bears no inscription, but it is considered by Prof. Flinders Petrie, the director of the British school in Egypt, to have been carved about 1300 B.C.

BASEBALL STORY

I figured as a principal in one of the funniest stories ever told in baseball, says Clarke Griffiths. Jimmy McAleer, then manager of the St. Louis Browns, and "Big John" Anderson, were the other two men in what was a tragedy as well as a comedy. The episode dates back to 1904, when I was managing the New York team of the American league.

When the St. Louis club arrived in New York for a series of four games, I decided to try to make a deal with McAleer for one of his outfielders. John Anderson, who could hit the ball as hard as any one, was the player I had by eyes on. I knew McAleer was very fond of Anderson's ability to hit, but I was also aware of the fact that on several other points Anderson did not stand so strongly with McAleer.

CLARKE GRIFFITHS

Prior to the start of the first game I made an attempt to put over the deal for Anderson. McAleer, realizing that I wanted the player badly, held out for all the best of the transaction. Anderson played great ball in the first three games against us, which only helped to make it all the harder for me to acquire his services. It seemed as if Anderson was lost to me, when a baseball classic, happening in the ninth inning of the final game, made him a New Yorker.

At the start of the first half of the ninth, New York had the Browns 5 to 0, and seemed to have the game cinched. All at once the Browns began to hit the ball, and before I could realize what had really happened the score stood 5 to 4, the bases filled and only one man out.

At this stage of the game, Anderson, who was on first, stole second—with the bases filled.

When the smoke had cleared away, two men had been retired and the game was ours 5 to 4, when a moment before defeat was staring us in the face.

I looked over at the St. Louis bench and saw McAleer tearing his hair. "What do you say now, Jim?" I yelled.

"He is yours for nothing," replied McAleer.

That evening I got Anderson for the waiver price, simply because he made the mistake of trying to steal second with the bases filled. Four days before I had offered three times that much in vain.

Anderson by his hitting almost won the pennant for me in 1906.

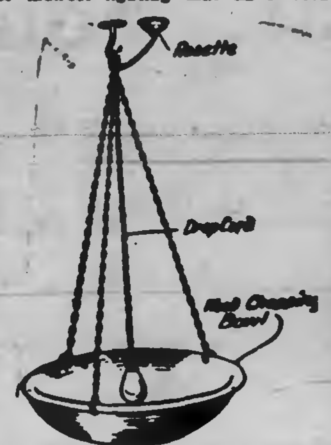
Fears the "ic"

A man who spends much of his time figuring on the whys and wherefores of the world and its people has come to the conclusion that sailors will steer clear of vessels that have names ending in "ic" for the reason that the "Arctic" was lost in 1854; the "Pacific" in 1856; the "Atlantic" in 1873; the "Naronic" in 1893; the "Republic" in 1909, and the "Titanic" in 1912; all of these wrecks being notable disasters for loss of life and property or both.

INDIRECT LIGHTING

Chopping Bowl and Brass Chains Make Inexpensive Fixture

Indirect lighting is the proper thing now and while most of the systems of indirect lighting that have been put on the market are expensive, it is possible for anyone possessed of money enough to buy a few wooden chopping bowls and some lengths of brass chain to have indirect lighting fixtures that do all the work with very little trouble or expense.



The inside of the bowl is painted white and then enamelled. It is necessary to get a smooth, glossy finish so that the light will be properly reflected. The outside of the bowl may be gilded or painted to harmonise with the decorations of the room.

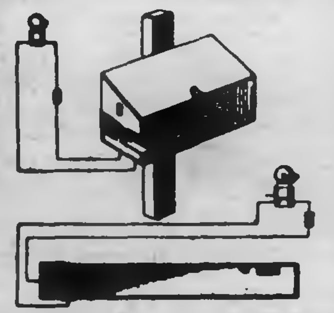
The edges of the bowl are pierced in three or four places, whichever scheme suits best, for the attachment of the chains. The other ends of the chains are attached to a metal ring with which to hang the fixture from a hook in the ceiling. The electric light cord is made long enough to reach from the rosette in the ceiling to the bowl, just clearing the bottom, but not touching. With the light turned on the white interior of the bowl will reflect the rays on the ceiling and indirect lighting will be secured.

It is necessary that the ceiling of the room where this light is used should be white or a brilliant yellow. Other colors will absorb the light.

NO DELAY TO MAIL

Progressive Farmer Improves on Rural Mail Delivery

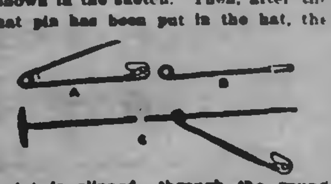
The way progress begets progress is shown in no better way than by the manner in which an Ontario farmer has arranged his rural mail delivery box so that whenever a letter is placed in it a bell rings at his house. And the bell continues to ring until the letter or paper is removed from the box. Not content with the convenience of having the mail delivered practically at his door, this farmer devised a means of making the mail announce its presence.



A false bottom is placed in the box which is hinged at one end. In the center is placed a very delicate spring and at the other end an electric contact to form connection with another contact placed on the actual bottom of the box. The spring is so arranged that even the weight of a postal card will force the false bottom down and make the contact. Wires are run to the house and a bell and battery attached. Then when anything drops into the box the bell rings until it has been removed.

Safety Hat Pin

The deadly hat pin continues to claim its victims, despite the fact that legislatures have enacted laws against it and city governments have authorized the police to do all sorts of things to the wearers. However, it is a comparatively easy matter to take the sting out of the hat pin. A supply of safety pins is all that is needed. The pin part of the safety pin is cut off at the coiled end, as shown in the sketch. Then, after the hat pin has been put in the hat, the point is slipped through the round coil and the safety end of the safety pin twisted around so that it will engage the point of the hat pin. The pressure against the hat pin holds it in place like a spring.



Servia's Royal Family

Before his accession to the Servian throne, King Peter lived in exile in Paris, in a flat for which he paid the very modest rent of $150 per annum. He was in those days a great athlete and boxer. King Peter has three children, two sons and one daughter. The elder son, Prince George, known as "the Madcap Prince," whose escapades and amours have been the talk of Europe, was relieved of the right of succession to the throne in 1909. The younger son, Prince Alexander, now is heir apparent. Princess Helena, the daughter, married a Russian prince a year or so ago.

LOVES GIPSY LIFE

Partially Paralyzed English Girl Lives in Her Donkey Cart

Although so badly paralysed that she can only crawl on her knees, "the pluckiest young woman in England" travels about the country the greater part of the year in a little donkey cart. Her only companion is "Eve," the donkey.

She is a woman of 27, of good social standing. Her outfit, besides the donkey and cart, consists of rugs, a few pots and pans and a small store of provisions. She sleeps outdoors every night, making her solitary camp in the woods. She lives a life more primitive than a gypsy, making her fires, cooking simple meals, and often for days at the time having no other comrades than the donkey and the birds.

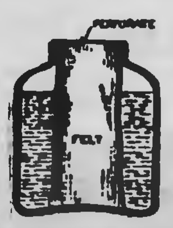
"Miss Frances" and her donkey cart

A year ago she was feeble, discontented with her lot in the world, and thought her days of life were numbered. Now she is the picture of health with her clear, tanned skin and sparkling blue eyes, and expects to live many years.

"You see, both my father and mother are dead and I have no real home. So I have made the whole out-of-doors my home; the sky will be my roof; the stars my candles. The little money I have will pay my expenses. I hope to spend the rest of my life travelling around in my donkey cart," she told a woman with whom she came in contact. This remarkable young woman prefers to be called "Miss Frances" although that is not her right name, and her stationary home—when she had one—was in Withersfield Green, Sussex.

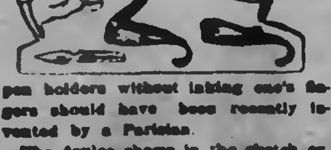
Stamp Moistener

Licking stamps and envelopes is a dangerous practice. There are hundreds of disease germs lurking in the mucilage that is used on these things. The use of a sponge is not always convenient and it is a rather sloppy way to dampen the glue. A better way is to make a regular moistener. It's an easy thing to make. Any screw top jar, like a fruit jar, will do. Cut a strip of felt that is as wide as the jar is deep. Roll it so that the roll will exactly fit the mouth of the jar. The metal top is then perforated with a number of holes and the jar filled with water. The felt conducts the moisture to the top and it is only necessary to pass the stamp or envelope flap over the perforations to get sufficient moisture on them to make them stick and yet not so much that they will be sloppy.



No More Inky Fingers

The average Frenchman is particular as to his personal appearance, and it is not surprising that the most original device for pulling pens from pen holders without inking one's fingers should have been recently invented by a Parisian.



The device shown in the sketch explains itself. The pen is gripped in the jaws of the clamp shaped to fit it and is pulled out by the hook. The device is made of tin.

DIED ON STAGE

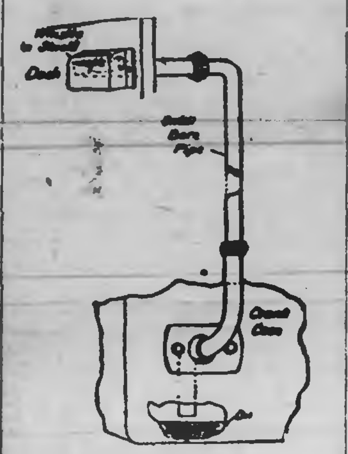
Warren Conlan, a well-known character and Shakespearean actor, dropped dead on the stage of the Orpheum Theatre, at Winnipeg, just before the close of the one-act play, "Man to Man." Mr. Conlan died literally in harness, as he had just finished his strongest lines when he collapsed. Gastritis, causing heart stoppage was given as the cause of death.

Mr. Conlan's death was dramatic, and not a person in the audience knew other than that his fall from the chair was a part of the business of the sketch.

LIKE A HUNGRY BABY

You Can Make Your Automobile Engine Cry For Oil

An Englishman is responsible for a new automobile accessory which virtually makes the engines call for oil when the oil gets low. A continuous alarm is sounded if the lubricant in the crank chamber falls below a given level. The device consists of a small brass tube with a whistle of suitable size fixed in one end and mounted on the dash.



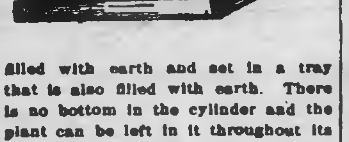
The tube is inserted through the crank chamber and the air pulsations produced by the moving piston have the power to sound the whistle. This can only be done, however, when the oil goes below the level of the tube which is placed so that its end will be just above the bottom of the case—or as soon as the quantity of oil becomes too low to get to the cranks.

Use a Knife Blade

The newest way to remove small particles of metals that become lodged in the eye is with a magnet, and as these small particles are flying about in the air most of the time it is a good thing to know that a knife blade makes a splendid magnet for this purpose when properly treated. Unscrew the cap and remove the diaphragm of a telephone receiver and gently stroke the knife on one of the magnet's exposed. Be sure you use the same magnet. Within a very short time the blade will become sufficiently magnetized to be used on the eye.

Paper Flower Pots

A good way to start plants is to plant the seed in a cylinder of paper filled with earth and set in a tray that is also filled with earth. There is no bottom in the cylinder and the plant can be left in it throughout its life. When sufficient growth has been attained to warrant transplanting the plant, cylinder and all are set into the ground. The roots will break through the paper if it is necessary for them to do so. This makes transplanting a much cleaner and quicker job than the old method of taking the plants from pots.



Churn on Rocking Chair

A Maine inventor has mounted a churn under a rocking chair in such a way that butter is made by an occupant of the chair quietly rocking.

Canadian Doctor Saw Strange Method of Curing Tuberculosis in Europe

"Ninety-six out of every 100 school children are infected with tuberculosis between the ages of five and eighteen," says Dr. A. G. Richer of Montreal, who spent seven months in Europe investigating the cure of tuberculosis for the Dominion Government.

"This was proved by M. Calmette director of the Lisle Pasteur Institute at the International Tuberculosis Congress in Rome," continued Dr. Richer. "This infection constitutes a sort of protection to them as does vaccination in the case of smallpox, but it sometimes wears itself out as they progress to the adult stage, because of starvation, unsanitary conditions or hard work."

During Dr. Richer's stay in Switzerland, he saw little children playing naked in the snow in order that the sunlight might beat directly upon their bodies for the cure of tuberculosis. With only their feet and their heads covered, they play about in the snow as happily as other children warmly wrapped. This method undoubtedly cures, taking a year in the process.

Dr. Richer urges that the Provincial and the Federal Governments and the other forces fighting tuberculosis to join in a new kind of compaign. Canada, he thinks, will be able to accomplish more than some of the older countries have done and at less expense. "I believe I am not exaggerating when I say that we have a perfectly systematized plan by which the entire problem can be dealt with at little or no expense."

Both the English and German schools now lay much less emphasis, or none at all, upon the plan of overfeeding. The danger of human beings contracting tuberculosis from cattle is, also now considered negligible

PILLOW SHAM HOLDER

Wire Device With Gripping Buttons Spans Across Headboard

When guests are expected at least, the proud housewife gets out her best pillow shams and arranges them on the bed. No matter how stiffly they are starched, shams will not remain in position without assistance. A South Carolina woman has patented a device to hold them up. A long piece of wire has hooks at the ends and coil springs in the centre. At proper intervals along it are gripping buttons to seize the tops of the shams without damaging them. The hooks, as will be understood, fasten around the sides of the headboard and the springs provide enough tension to keep the device up, besides accommodating it to any size bed. It is the work of an instant to put up shams with this, and when they are up they stay in position. If desired the shams may be kept on the wire until they need to be washed.

FITS ANY SIZE BED IN HOUSE.

NOT NEAR RELATIVES

Sword Fish and Saw Fish Belong to Different Families

Related to the sharks are the odd saw fishes of the tropics, which are common in the lagoons, bayous and sounds of the West Indies. These fish grow to a length of twenty to twenty-five feet and as they are of no real value are never fished or hunted to any extent.

In fact, the fishermen dread these creatures, for they often become entangled in their nets and rip and tear them to pieces by lateral jerks and sweeps of the huge "saw" on the nose. This "saw" is a bony elongation of the nose and is armed on either side with large, sharp, strong teeth, and in the largest fish these "saws" grow to be five or six feet long and nearly a foot wide.

Very different from the saw fish is the sword fish, which is related to the mackerels and is of great value for food and is widely and assiduously hunted or fished on the southern New England coast as well as in the Gulf of Mexico and in the West Indies. The sword fish is a splendid creature, often weighs as much as six hundred pounds and has huge, brilliant eyes, clean, speedy "lines" and a long horny snout or "sword" with which it can impale another fish or even pierce the strongest oaken timber of a boat.

JUDGING MEN'S AGES

Bachelor Claims Young Women Cannot Do It Correctly

"Women—especially young women—seem to have no capacity for judging a man's age." This is the mature opinion of "Bachelor of Forty," who has made some exhaustive tests in the matter, and has some interesting conclusions to advance. The truth of his statements, he says, can be tested by all, and he is convinced that anyone who cares to take the trouble to find out will discover that men between the ages of 25 and 50 always appear from five to ten years older to the ordinary young women in her twenties. After 50 and up to 65 men appear to these same young women as being from five to ten years younger than they really are. There is, however, a period in the middle thirties when young women seem to judge a man's age fairly exactly.

Department of Militia and Defence.
NEW DRILL HALL AT BLACKSTOCK, ONT.
NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

SEALED TENDERS marked on the envelope "Tender for Construction of a Drill Hall at Blackstock, Ont.," and addressed to the Director of Contracts, Department of Militia and Defence, Ottawa, will be received until noon, July 24, 1913, for the construction of a new Drill Hall, at Blackstock, Ont.

Specifications may be seen and full particulars obtained at the offices of the Officer Commanding the 3rd Division, Kingston, Ont., the Town Clerk Blackstock, Ont., and the Director of Engineer Services, Headquarters, Ottawa.

Tenders must be made on the form supplied by the Department and accompanied by an accepted cheque on a Canadian Chartered Bank, for ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Militia and Defence, which amount will be forfeited if the party tendering declines to enter into or fails to complete the contract in accordance with his tender.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

BANANAS AS FOOD

Only Good When Ripe And That is When They Look Over-ripe

Bananas are brought to our northern markets green, and are ripened by artificial heat. This process can be hastened or delayed within certain limits according to the momentary demands of the retail trade. The color of the peel gives evidence of the degree of ripeness. The green banana contains, in the part exclusive of the skin, about 15 per cent. of protein and 20 to 25 per cent. of carbo-hydrate almost entirely starch. Broadly speaking, then, the ripe banana is about one-fifth sugar; the green one-fifth starch. Most of the [illegible] edible pulp is water. Intermediate degrees of ripeness present starch and sugar in reciprocal proportions varying between the limits set above.

Inasmuch as bananas are commonly eaten uncooked, it is obvious that more or less raw starch will be ingested if the fruit is not ripe, that is, if the skin has not begun to shrivel and darken. Raw starch may be singularly irritating to the alimentary tract of man, and is at best poorly utilized, whether it be ingested in the form of uncooked potatoes, chestnuts, bananas or other native starchy foods. No one would advise the use of uncooked potatoes; yet many people eschew a thoroughly ripe banana in the belief that this wholesome fruit is "rotten" when the skin becomes darkened, whereas they eagerly eat the yellow-green starch-bearing fruit at a stage of incomplete ripeness.

"Green" bananas like "green" apples are unwholesome so long as the starch has not been adequately converted into sugars in the ripening processes. But the delicious and innocuous ripe banana should be not be made to suffer in its dietic reputation because of the ignorance of the consumer.

Experience shows that the thoroughly ripe banana (or the less ripe fruit after cooking) is undeserving of the unfavorable reputation which it has won in certain quarters. It forms a useful addition to the dietary, is richer in nutrients and far more delicious than some of its more expensive competitors.

Assisting Stock Raisers

Plans for the building up of a big live stock and dairying industry in Northern Ontario are now being perfected by the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Any group of twelve settlers may form an association and each one will be given a choice of a high-grade bull, two boars or five rams. These animals will be purchased by the Ontario Government from well-known cattle, sheep and hog breeders in older Ontario.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at the office of any Local Agent of Dominion Lands (not sub-agent), on certain conditions.

Duties.—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required in every case, except when residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside of his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties—Six months residence in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and 50 acres extra cultivation. The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land after report by Homestead Inspector on application for patent.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price, $3 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

MAULED BY BEAR SAVED BY A RUSE

Surveyor Shammed Death and Angry Old Grizzly Went Back to Cubs

Left for dead by an infuriated female grizzly bear, who had mauled him almost to unconsciousness, was the thrilling experience of K. C. Chipman, chief of a Dominion geological survey party, while camping near Wilmer, B.C. Had it not been for Mr. Chipman's presence of mind there is no doubt but that the bear would have killed him.

He had gone out from camp alone with his rifle to examine the mountain side, behind the camp, as to the best place to scale it. He sat down an a log to rest and fell into a reverie, from which he was awakened by the advance of a bear, which had charged at him from some bushes without the slightest warning. Hastily looking around he saw a pair of cubs to one side and behind him. Unknowingly he had sat down to rest between a female grizzly and her young. Firing one shot, he rushed down the steep mountain side, the bear following with such determination and force that it rushed clean past him. Instantly Mr. Chipman turned and went back up the hill. As a bear, however, can run faster up hill than down, he was quickly caught by the infuriated animal, who shook him from side to side as easily as a terrier shakes a rat. Luckily the fierce shaking caused the bear to lose her footing on the steep hill and both rolled down together some distance.

On bringing up among some bushes Mr. Chipman lay perfectly quiet, feigning death. Satisfied, after sniffing him all over, that he really was so, the bear ambled away.

On his men getting to him he was carried into camp and a doctor summoned. He found that the leather leggings worn by Mr. Chipman had practically saved his right leg below the knee from serious injury, but the left was badly torn above the knee from the shaking, the bear's teeth having been deeply buried in the limb. Otherwise Mr. Chipman was not seriously hurt.

SCOTTISH SETTLERS

Priest Plans to Bring Out Orphans, Millhands and Fishermen

A new project for bringing settlers from the north of Scotland to Vancouver Island, British Columbia, is that of Rev. Father Macdonell, of Fort Augustus Abbey, of the Benedictine Order of Scotland.

One of Father Macdonell's activities in the north of Scotland was the establishment of a home for orphan girls. Only such girls are taken in as are physically sound and, therefore, capable of growing up into healthy useful women. Two housekeepers are provided and also two certified trained nurses. This home, housekeepers, teachers and children, he proposes to transfer to the neighborhood of Alberni, British Columbia, to a farm of about 80 acres where the girls will be taught housekeeping and poultry raising, dairying, fruit culture and, generally speakng, whatever pertains to woman's work on the farm or in the house. They will thus be enabled to grow up capable and self-reliant.

Somewhat in the same connection but not in practical form, is Father Macdonell's plan for bringing out adults from the Highlands of Scotland.

There are also many fishermen in the north of Scotland, says Father Macdonell, who would be glad of a chance to follow their occupation in this new country.

LIFE IN THE FAR NORTH

Sailor Willing to Risk Another Winter Among the Eskimos

Undeterred by a previous distressing adventure in the regions of the extreme north a Scottish sailor named John Westrell, of Aberdeen, intends to embark upon a walrus-hunting cruise in the Arctic Ocean. On his first voyage he was shipwrecked and spent a long, dark winter in an Eskimo's hut.

"We intended our voyage to be one of four or five weeks only," said the hunter, in an interview. "We had not a large crew; four of them were King Island Eskimos, who had been taught by the skipper to run the engines and steer the ship. There was also a Japanese cook. He began to shiver whenever he saw the ice.

We picked up some more Eskimos at Cape Prince of Wales, all of them eager hunters, and then we went through Behring Straits, and were soon in the Arctic Ocean, going in a northerly direction. We reached the icefield two or three days later. I believe we stayed too long, but the hunting was good. It was a gale which separated three Eskimos and myself from the schooner. We were a good many miles away, and we had to take what shelter we could, and that was not much, among the hillocks. Then after the gale came fog. We got lost. Fortunately we had some food with us, but by the time the fog cleared the ship had been carried away by the breaking ice floe. We wandered for nearly a week, and at last struck a small Eskimo village, where we stayed the winter."

Housekeeping in the Arctic is an interesting if sometimes disagreeable necessity. There were only four houses in the village at which the shipwrecked men had arrived, and Westrell knew that if he was to live through the winter he must live as the Eskimos lived. A real snow house was built, and for several months the party ate raw meat and obtained drinking water by melting snow over a blubber fire. Seal and walrus meat were their mainstay. When the cold became severe the houses were sealed up, and everyone huddled round the fire.

"I found these Eskimos goodhearted, kind people," said Westrell. "They did everything to make me comfortable, and my hunter companions acted as interpreters. Often of an evening, after we had been hunting seals during the day, we all assembled in the largest hut and spent some hours singing and dancing." When the weather permitted, walrus hunts were organised, and in the early days of the winter hundreds of the animals could be seen lying asleep on the ice. When the ice broke up the following summer Westrell and his companions were rescued.

TRIED TO SELL BODY

Dejected Stranger Wanted to Mortgage His Remains at Toronto

The caretaker of Toronto's morgue straightened up in his chair one night recently at the entrance of a man bearing all the marks of outward respectability, but who looked much troubled.

"Are you the boss of this joint?" began the visitor.

"At present I am," replied the genial caretaker.

"You see, pardner," the stranger went on, "I'm in a mess of trouble and have got to have $50 before 9 o'clock to-morrow morning. Don't get frightened; I'm no gunman; but it's this way: I want to sell my body for scientific purposes, and came here to-night to clinch the deal."

When told that no such traffic was carried on the young man broke down and cried. He then poured out a story of family troubles and a "woman." He also said he had once raised $50 by selling his body to a doctor, but good fortune followed him soon afterwards, and by paying back the money he was released from the bargain.

A TENDERFOOT'S WOOING

His back was not broken nor was he in any misery. He wondered who was, and turning to see was struck by a hideous shock of pain, after which it was night again.

When he came to himself he knew that he was dead. He knew more than that. He was lying in his coffin; he could smell the new boards of it, and they were nailing down the lid, but this strangely enough did not worry him a bit. Death was a silly painless thing after all, very much like sleep. How even their strokes were. There were two of them at work, one on each side of him, beat, beat, beat! The ring of their hammers was rhythmical; rather good dream music he thought, but how hard they worked, and what a lot of nailing up that coffin required. He wished that they had not thrown the earth in before they nailed him down, the weight of it above him was so great that he could not move his limbs. And then quite suddenly the weight was lifted, and he drew a great breath, and again the fierce pain came and took him away into the cool dark where there was no trouble.

Reckless of falling limbs and risking, with eyes open to their danger, a fate similar to that of the man below them, two of the half-breed boys of the ranch had been swinging their axes as they had never swung them before, and as the blades bit and the white chips flew, two pale faced women, drenched with rain, and wild with grief and terror of the storm, pleaded with them to work "faster, faster, for God's sake, faster," clenching their feeble hands, and, yearning for something to do where there was nothing they could do.

Heavens! how long the time seemed. Surely between them they could lift the tree off him now, and they strained at a trunk, one limb of which was too heavy for their united strength. They might as well have tried to lift the ranch house. Those only who have handled a Douglas pine know what the weight of it is.

The Indians way was the only way, and there was no help but theirs, though by some miracle Frank Anstruther lived still. The hand that poor Kitty held in hers was limp and cold as a dead man's, but he was not dead yet. Not yet. Surely the men could work more quickly. Ah, if only Jim had been there.

At the very last the half-breeds stopped and consulted. Those two men, as if time was of no value, consulted and argued, and then one of them went to the house for a saw. That was the most insufferable five minutes of all to Kitty, and even when the saw cut through, and the ends of the log were free, the log did not rise an inch. Another cut had to be made, and all the agony of waiting endured again. Even when a six-foot length had been sawn out of the pine those two imbeciles could not lift it, a log which Jim would have carried on his shoulders.

It was well for Anstruther that they could not. But for the broken limb on the underside which had buried itself many feet deep, and held now like a tap root, Anstruther would long since have learned the great secret.

Thanks to that bough he was held as in a vice but not crushed, as a Douglas crushes what it falls upon. With levers and bars and all the ingenuity of practised loggers the men at last pried up the log sufficiently for their purpose, and drew out their man, still uncertain whether he was dead or alive.

With gentle strength they unclenched the long white fingers from the fawn's collar. Poor beast. It at any rate would not come in again from that storm. The tree had broken its back, and a merciful axe stroke had split its graceful head from end to end. And yet Kitty, who at another time would have wept for a day over her pet, had now no thought of it.

On a rude stretcher, improvised by the Chinaman whilst the Indians chopped, Mrs. Rolt and the three men carried Anstruther to the house and laid him in the warm, firelit room on the Boss's bed, and then the greatest terror, the only one of ranch life, faced those women. As long as all goes well to those who are country bred, there is no hardship in the enforced separation from the town and its thousand and one conveniences. Every difficulty is a joke to be laughed at, a puzzle which natural ingenuity will delight in overcoming. You can do without the shops and the theatres, you can hold service if you want to, and the strong man needs no policeman to protect him; but the time comes when even he cannot do without the doctor, when he would give all that the world holds for someone who could tell him what to do to save one dear life.

Anstruther might be dying for some little help which they could have given him if only they knew what was the matter with him, but they did not know.

There was no broken bone that they could find, no bleeding wound for them to staunch, and yet whenever consciousness returned to him, at the first effort to move or speak he fainted, and each faint seemed more and more like death.

The resources of the ordinary ranch in such cases as this are pitifully inadequate. As a rule the wife knows a little about the treatment of ordinary accidents and the simpler ailments, and in the house there is generally some book which professes to be a substitute for the physician. You have only to turn to it in an emergency to discover how little there is to justify its claims.

Mrs. Rolt read such a volume from cover to cover, only to fall back in despair upon such simple remedies as warmth and quiet. She could only give nature a fair chance. Probably she could have done no better, and half the doctor's success at least depends upon the patient's faith in him, but when you good folk at home boast yourselves of your many colonial possessions, in which you take only an occasional pride and a very little serious interest, allow something not only for the courage of the men who hew out fresh dominions for you all over the world, but something too for the martyrdoms of women, who watch through the long nights of lone lands, growing old between a sun's setting and a sun's rising, whilst all that makes life valuable for them is fading away under their eyes, for want of that which to you is but a natural accessory of your every-day life.

Through that long and wild night those two women watched; whilst it seemed to them that the winds clamored round the house for the prey which had escaped them.

Towards morning, Mrs. Rolt, who had been dozing in a chair by the fireside asked:

"Is he sleeping now, Kitty?"

"No, he is pretending to, but I can see how his poor lips are pressed together. I don't believe he has slept once since they carried him in," she whispered.

"Oh, nonsense. He was sleeping nicely through the night while I watched."

"He was shamming, Mary, so that we should not worry. Isn't it brave of him?" and bending over her head, she pressed her fair head upon Mrs. Rolt's shoulder to smother tthe sobs which shook her.

Mrs. Rolt's arm wound round the girl, and drew her gently to her knee, soothing her quietly, whilst a very wistful motherly look came into her own steady grey eyes.

This woman had a right to know Love when she met him, for she had served him very faithfully, and she knew him now.

Whatever had been her dreams for Jim Combe she recognized that they had only been dreams. Whether he lived or died, the man lying there with strained pale face, would always hold the first place in Kitty Clifford's heart, so her arm held up her younger sister whilst she whispered to her, "Be brave, darling, and we will save him for you, if only God would send our men home."

Hardly were the words out of her mouth, when the girl sprang from her and stood with lips parted and head bent forward listening.

"He has, Mary," she cried. "He has. I can hear the beat of the hoofs."

But Mary Rolt, looking out into the blizzard, could neither hear nor see anything.

"Not yet, dear, I am afraid, but they cannot be more than another day now," and her own heart failed her, wondering whether it was all well with her own man.

But the great hounds, chained near the stables, contradicted her. First a low growl, and then a chorus: Glory, Lupus, and Venom, bayed their welcome as, dim and indistinct from the driving sleet, half a dozen horsemen emerged and dismounted in the corral, and before Mrs. Rolt could reach the door Kitty, all her waywardness forgotten, was clinging to Jim Combe's arm, and dragging him towards the house.

For the others she had no word, not even the Boss, but only, with wild hair flying in the storm, she clung to her old friend, crying:

"Oh, Jim, Jim; you dear old Jim; come quickly. I want you so badly."

And Jim fell into his old place at once.

It was so natural to him to serve this spoiled child, who always came to him in trouble, that he forgot himself and answered:

"What is it, dear? What do you want Jim to do for you. Can't it wait?"

"No, no, not a second. Come," and she drew him away from his horse, which he would have left standing in the storm for no other person on earth. "Oh, Jim, he has waited so long. I thought that you would never come. He's almost dead, Jim," and her sweet mouth quivered in a way that made him wince.

"Who is nearly dead?" he asked, climbing the stairs three at a time with clanking spurs.

"Frank. Mr. Anstruther."

Jim's face contracted as with physical pain, but he controlled himself, and said no word until he was in the sick man's room, where Mrs. Rolt welcomed him silently.

One glance at that strained white face on the pillow banished Jim's devil for good. Here was a comrade down, and all the woman in the big fellow's heart came to the surface at once.

It was a marvel how his long loose limbs moved now. Even his great Mexican spurs ceased to clank by the sick bed.

"What's the trouble, partner. Been riding Job for amusement?"

The sick man's eyes smiled, but the involuntary effort to turn sent a spasm of pain across his face.

"Lie still, old chap, and let me see what the trouble is. Would you ladies mind leaving the room. I won't be rough on him, Kitty," and he pushed her gently before him to the door.

When they had gone Jim stripped off the bedclothes and, as tenderly as might be, felt for the injuries he could not see.

"How did it happen?" he asked.

Anstruther told him.

"I see, I see," he muttered. It was a foolish thing to do to go into that brule when the trees were tumbling. But then he would have done it himself for Kitty. That made all the difference.

"Don't hurt any whilst you lie still, does it? Hurts considerable when you move."

The sick man nodded. To turn did hurt "considerable."

"Well, so far as I can see, there ain't no great damage done. It's a bad smash up. Three ribs, or it may be four, stove in, but so long as the inside machinery ain't injured you'll be about again in a week. We'll have to get Protheroe from Soda Creek to splice you up a bit. You can come in, ladies."

They came in followed by Dick Rolt.

"Is it, is it anything very bad, Jim," whispered Kitty, taking both his hands in hers.

"It ain't no undertaker's job, if that's what you mean, Miss Kitty," laughed Jim. "'Twon't take so long to mend as a broken heart, and they mend easy. It's just three or four ribs stove in. If you'll get me some linen bandages and something stiff to make a waistcoat of, I'll cinch him up so as he can't do no harm until we get Dr. Protheroe to fix him up properly. Your job is to keep him still if you want him well again soon," and still holding both her hands in his, he led her to the chair by his rival's bedside and left her there.

It was Jim's act of renunciation and he did it, as he did everything, quietly and without protest.

CHAPTER IX.

A Ride for Life

"Where are you going to, Jim?" asked the Boss, who had followed Combe out of the sick room.

Jim came back from his dream with a start and turned a very white and haggard face to his old friend.

"To Soda Creek to fetch Protheroe if you can spare me."

"But you can't go yet. You haven't had a bite of food to-day, and after all, Anstruther's injuries do not appear to be so very serious."

"Can't tell. She might lose him."

There was something strangely pitiful in the way in which all Jim's mind turned upon what she might suffer, the woman who had just dealt him the hardest blow of his life.

"Oh, nonsense, man, she has got to take her chance like the rest. I insist on your having something before you go."

"Well, if you insist, Boss," replied Jim, with a queer laugh, "you can put some cold grub and a little whiskey in a cartridge bag for me. I can eat when the horse plays out."

"What do you mean to ride? We've ridden the tails off the best of the stock. Will you take that big hunter? Anstruther's?"

"No. I'll take the young roan. He's the only horse that could make it."

"That devil! He isn't broken and never will be."

Jim grinned. "May be," he said, "this will break him. It'll break him or me," and he went over to the stables calling to the men to help him saddle a beast which no one else had attempted to handle, a young stallion as beautiful as Lucifer and as tractable.

When Rolt hurried out to him with the cartridge case and the flask, four men were trying to hold as perfect a demon as ever wore hide.

The wind shrieked around them, the loose litter of the yard rattled about the frightened horse's feet, and the rain lashed his blood red flanks.

Within a radius of twenty or thirty feet of his flying heels it was unsafe for any living thing to come, but the men held on to the ropes, hoping that in time he might quiet down a little.

"Cinch the bag on for me good and tight, Boss. It might get shook off."

Rolt obeyed, and Jim shook himself to try the fastenings.

"Nothing loose is there? Now, steady, you devil," he went to the horse's head, which bared its teeth, laid its ears down, and backed away from him across the corral, dragging the four men with it.

For a quarter of an hour Jim tried in vain to approach near enough to mount the roan, but by striking, biting and kicking, the savage brute frustrated every effort.

"Guess we'll have to throw him after all, but it's a pity to take anything out of him that way," and then suddenly Jim's voice came from a higher level.

"Gee whiz! Let him go."

The chance had come whilst he was speaking, and with a tiger-like spring the cowboy had taken it, dodging the flying heels like a miracle.

It was done so quickly that no one had time to see how Jim scrambled into the saddle, and after that there was not enough time for the spectators to seek shelter in the first doorway that offered.

But it was a magnificent sight for those who were safe from the mad beast's heels.

In spite of Jim, the horse had got its head down. Its back was arched so that there seemed nothing in front of the saddle except space, and even that receded as soon as the brute shot up into the air, coming down again stiff legged and sudden at every point of the compass in turn. But this was not good enough to shake off Jim Combe.

"Them's baby tricks," he muttered, and as if the roan heard him, it reared until those at the window saw nothing in the driving rain but the vast figure of a horse rampant, like the supporter of an heraldic shield.

The man was invisible until the great beast, jerked backwards by its rider, crashed heavily to earth.

Then, for a moment, they saw Jim on his feet, his cigarette, one only sign of his horseman's vanity, still between his teeth, the next he was again astride of the rising beast.

Then he vanished from the corral with a crash.

As the roan rose again on its hind legs, Combe drove the long rowels home with all the cruel force that there was in him, and the panic stricken beast rushed blindly from the corral.

There was a fence at the far end of it, luckily only of light poles, set up to keep in young calves.

It never seems to occur to a prairie horse to rise at a fence. Certainly it never occurred to that maddened roan. With a rending crash he went through the young pine poles, shattering them like match stalks, and so was gone, the rain-lashed ocean of dim prairie swallowing up horse and man.

In winter upon the northern ranches evening comes early, and on this day of storm it seemed to come upon the heels of midday, so that as Jim Combe dashed out of the corral it was already dark.

For the first half hour of his ride he had no time to think. Nature provided him with that panacea of man's pain, action.

The storm swallowed him up; so drove against him that he sat bowed low in his saddle, so drenched him that it seemed to flow through him. Yet he had no time to feel the misery of it all. He was riding it seemed in a great void, out of which from time to time huge beasts loomed uncertainly. He knew them for the Herefords which moved lumberingly and unwillingly out of his way, and alongside him, though he could barely see it as he raced past it, ran three and twenty miles of the fencing of the winter pasture.

Twice he grazed it, so dark had the day become, and each time he left a fragment of his clothing behind him to mark his course. On the second occasion he struck hard against a projecting bar, and his left leg seemed to lose consciousness. But he sat down and rode as steadily as ever. He could not afford to worry about trifles, and as it grew darker every minute, he realised that there were no precautions that he could take to minimise his risk. He had to stop or chance everything.

He could not see where he was going, perhaps the roan could, and even if he could not, Jim was not going to take a pull at him yet. As long as the horse stood up and kept going, the miles were eaten under his feet. That was all that mattered. Time was of the essence of Jim's contract.

His partner Fate was playing his hand now for him, and he refused to interfere in the game. As long as it lasted it was excellent to fly through the dark stinging sleet, and as to the end he cared nothing. When the roan first bolted, the wildness of the storm, all the splendid energy of the crazy beast between his knees got into Jim's blood, and he became intoxicated with the madness of his ride.

He cannoned into the flank of one of the great Hereford bulls, half seen for a moment in the gloom, so that his horse reeled and slithered, and almost lost his feet, but the man only laughed as they staggered and went on.

It was absolutely immaterial whether he broke his neck or not at first, but as the pace and distance began to tell upon the horse, the beast's tamed mood began to communicate itself to the man, so that instead of the glory of the strife, the misery of those infinite waste places through which he rode impressed itself upon him.

The homelessness of the prairie was revealed to him and almost frightened him. He had known the prairies all his life, but this aspect of them had never struck him before.

He had committed suicide, and he knew it, not an unjustifiable cowardly act, but the voluntary killing none the less of Jim Combe.

Henceforth the world as he now saw it would be typical of his own grey and barren life without rest, without warmth, without the light of hope. But he had taken the plunge, and since it was too late to reconsider it, he made up his mind at any rate he would not be robbed of his reward.

She would be happy even if her happiness was bound up in that of another man, and therefore at last he took a pull at his horse and began to ride more cautiously.

It was then that he felt how much his own strength had waned. That day he had so far eaten nothing. He had done work enough to kill an ordinary man, and unless he was much mistaken the boot on his left leg was slowly filling with his own blood.

He could ride the roan with one hand now. With the other he contrived to extract the sandwiches and flask from the cartridge bag, which still rode securely on his back, and reducing his pace to a lope he ate and drank as he rode.

He supposed that the night must have commenced, though there were none of the ordinary signs of time to guide him, and he marvelled at the endurance of his horse.

Fortunately the savage wind had not suffered the sleet to lie sufficiently upon the plateau over which he rode to seriously deteriorate the going. The ground rang hard as iron and as the fever of excitement died out Jim realised that the night had turned bitterly cold.

For half of that night Combe hardly knew that he was riding. A man sat in the saddle in the heart of a great darkness, swaying in time to his horse's stride, and at the proper time lending such assistance as the rider can to the ridden, but that was not Jim Combe.

Jim himself was away, sometimes in one place, sometimes in another. Now he was holding a yellow-haired child up on his shoulder so that she could see over the corral and watch old Al lassoing a wild cow; now he was back in England in places of purely imaginary magnificence, where a young queen with that child's features was holding court amongst innumerable Anstruthers who moved slowly and spoke in Book-English with a low-pitched drawl; or again he was back in the sick-room looking into the heart of the girl he had loved since she had grown grass high and reading in it the name of another.

Twice the roan "pecked" badly, and the third time so nearly came down on his head that Combe came back from his mental wanderings, pulled up and dismounted. If he would ride farther he realized that he must give the horse rest even if he needed none himself.

The fence of the pasture had long since been left behind; it was too dark to look for a stake; there was nothing bigger than a clump of sage brush to tie to, and tired as the roan was, he dared not leave him loose, as he would have done with any ordinary cow pony.

Taking out his jack knife, he dug a deep hole in the hard earth, tied a knot in the loose end of his tie rope, put the knot at the bottom of the hole he had dug, replaced the soil he had taken out and stamped it in firm and hard with his heel.

Then he lay down on the frozen ground to rest. Unless the roan could pull the world with him, Jim had no fear of losing his horse so fastened.

CHAPTER X.

Close Quarters

For over an hour Combe lay where he was, watching the horse and thinking, whilst the blackness of the night paled and grew even more weird and ghastly from the grey that had crept into it.

Then it seemed to him that something heavier than a coyote moved among the sage brush on the ridge to his left. He listened, but the noise was not repeated. Jim was too good a plainsman to persuade himself that his ears had played him false because he could not understand their message, and beside, the red roan had heard it too. The horse was standing with his ears pricked, watching as he would never have watched for coyotes. In spite of the cowboys' constant attention those vagabond thieves were far too numerous on the home ranch for the roan to pay much attention to them. Still watching the ridge, which was as yet but a vague line in the fog, Jim saw at last what he took to be two coyotes moving slowly along it. A longer scrutiny showed him four, no, five indistinct objects passing just above the line, and at last he knew them for the heads of riders passing, as they believed, unseen on the further side of the ridge. He could see how the heads rose and fell with the movements of the horses beneath them, and then for a moment the riders came plainly into sight where a dip occurred in the ridge.

In the mist and darkness he might never have noticed them at the distance at which they passed, so vague and so silent were they, if his ears had not warned him of their coming; but they saw him, of that he felt sure, though he had not stirred in his lair of wet sage brush, and curiously enough his horse had not whinnied.

TRIMMING LAMPS

Cleanliness is a Necessity Even in Burners

Despite the reign of the electrolier the lamp still has many followers. Many take to lamps because they must; some because the light it sheds is softer, more becoming and better for the eyes.

When a lamp fails to give a good light do not waste time reviling the manufacturer, but look to your own duties.

Perhaps the wick is crooked, or too short or not in squarely. Rub off the top of the wick each day with soft paper, and if it fails to draw pull it up on the latches or get a new one. Unless sure you can put in the wick correctly send the lamp to a store and have it done properly.

Perhaps a new wick is less necessary than removing the oil with which it is clogged. Boil in vinegar and water and dry thoroughly.

Fill your lamps daily. Never light a lamp that is nearly empty, as it increases danger of explosion. Fill a lamp by daylight; if it must be done after dark, keep away from a flame and wipe all oil from the outside.

Even with the best oil a poor light results if the burner is not clean. They should be washed once a month in a quart of cold water, to which has been added a tablespoonful of washing soda and a little soap. Boil several hours, pour off the blackened water, cover with fresh boiling water, soap and soda, boil five minutes, rinse in clean hot water, and rub dry with a clean soft cloth that is not linty.

Lamp chimneys may be rubbed off with soft paper daily, and when smoked should be washed in hot ammonia water, rinsed in cold water and polished with a tea towel and soft paper.

BEAUTY BATHS

Nothing Like Bathing to Improve a Woman's Appearance

According to Dr. Caissarato, one of the most famous beauty specialists bathing is one of the principal assets to the beauty of the well-groomed woman, as well as of her who is anxious to keep at a respectful distance those tell-tale lines that are the first sign of vanishing youth.

The main thing in bathing, no matter of what temperature the water may be, is to open the pores of the skin and to cleanse it by the free use of a good soap, oatmeal bags, or some soothing soap paste—followed by abundant friction. A bath of this sort with the water aromatized and softened with tincture of benzoin or some fragrant toilet water, can be taken every morning, summer or winter, with none but the most happy results.

Soap pastes, dried herbs or oatmeal bags are better than highly-perfumed soaps, which are generally made of alkolines and animal fats. Dr. Caissarato disapproves of the hot, soapy baths that many women indulge in daily. These so-called cleansing baths are bound to make the flesh flabby and wrinkled. The outer layer of skin is dried and shrivelled from the persistent use of both soap and hot water, the natural oil is gradually absorbed, and the shrinking of the epidermis produces wrinkles.

If possible, spend a few minutes before the bath in rousing the blood with brisk exercise, after which either a warm or cold bath is beneficial, but, when the vitality is lowered by a cold plunge, it should not be indulged in unless recommended by a physician.

KILLING CATTLE WITH AIR

Experiments With Pneumatic Poleaxe for Slaughtering Purposes

A poleaxe two and a half inches long, more efficient in cattle slaughtering than its primitive antecedent, is occupying the attention of London butchers, since a demonstration of humane methods of killing conducted at the Islington abattoirs under the auspices of the Council of Justice to Animals.

The weapon employed was the council's "air-killer." In appearance it looks like a large sky rocket; the rocket end is a chamber charged with compressed air, the stick an elongated valve terminating in a poleaxe only some two and a half inches long. On the pressure of a trigger the poleaxe is liberated against the head of the animal, the skull of which it penetrates without difficulty. The animal falls instantly, showing hardly a trace of the hole thus pierced.

The "air-killer" was used upon sheep, calves, and bullocks, all of which were, with one exception, killed expeditiously. It was clear that the efficacy of the instrument depended upon the operator's knowledge of the vital spot in an animal's skull. In the hand of an expert there should be no failures and the instrument costs but a trifle.

UNITED AFTER 60 YEARS

Man of 78 Marries the Fiancee of His Youthful Days

After a separation of almost sixty years, Mr. M. F. Beach, seventy-eight years of age, was married at Ottawa to the sweetheart of his younger days, Mrs. Benjamin Barber, of Winnipeg, whose age is seventy-seven years. Both of the old people are grand parents.

It was a pretty romance that the two went through before their meeting a few months ago. Both were born in the same Ontario village. Comrades during their childhood, at the approach of maturer years they became engaged, and the wedding was set for an April day in 1854. An unhappy circumstance, however, forced the young woman to go with her relatives to the west before the ceremony could be performed, but the young people had no idea of the long separation which was to be their lot. With the passing of years, each lost track of the other, both married and each was blessed with a large family.

On the death of her husband a little over a year ago, however, Mrs. Barber returned to Ontario. Mr. Beach, now a prominent merchant in their native village, Iroquois, met his former fiancee at the house of a Cornwall friend, but neither recognized the other. When told that Mrs. Barber was none other than his first love, the septuagenarian was delighted.

The second courtship was a short one, and it was only two months after the reunion that the couple were married.

When Appetite Fails And Digestion is Bad

THERE IS DANGER AHEAD FOR THE MAN WHO NEGLECTS NATURE'S WARNING.

Dyspepsia Tendencies are Serious and Should be Treated Accordingly.

There is a strong moral in the statement of James Schrum, of Pleasant street, Dartmouth, N.S. Like thousands of people, he was failing in health because his stomach and digestive organs were out of repair. His vitality was slipping away; he was losing ground every day.

"I could not have held on much longer. I was wasting away simply because no remedy I used gave tone and strength to my stomach. The vital forces of my system seemed dead. I was advised to try Dr. Hamilton's Pills. What hidden weakness they searched out I don't know, but in a miraculous way they have made a new man of me. My stomach troubles are cured, rich blood now runs through my veins—clear skin and unmistakable evidences of health and vigor I feel every day. Dr. Hamilton's Pills have certainly mastered the secret of curing the sickly unnerv-ated man and I strongly urge everyone in failing or lost health to use this grand remedy."

Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut are purely vegetable, 25c. per box, five for $1.00, all druggists and storekeepers, or postpaid from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

CITY AND DISTRICT

DASHES HERE AND THERE BY TIMES' REPORTERS.

Chamber Maid Wanted.

Chambermaid wanted at once at the Montgomery House.

A Correction.

In our issue of yesterday we noted that the new wharf pavilion on George street, was 40 x 22 feet. This should have read 53 x 36 feet.

Has Lindsay Gone Broke?

Lindsay Warder: "The town cannot build one dollar's worth of sidewalk for anybody at the present time and that is final. We haven't got the money."

Board of Works Met.

The Board of Works met last night, but nothing of public interest developed. It was only a meeting to consider routine work, when this important branch of the civic administration adjourned.

A Camp Meeting.

The meetings are in progress at Edward's Grove, west of Jackson's Park. There are 32 tents and a large tabernacle on the grounds. Services are held every day until the 15th, beginning at six o'clock a.m., closing about 9.30 in the evening.

A Zealous Civic Employe.

Yesterday morning, as a civic work man was shovelling gravel on George street, he sped a pool of wateri beside the curb. Lifting a man's sized shovel full of gravel, he flung it into the pool. A lady was passing and got all the water, which was splashed up over her raiment.

Excursion to South Beach.

About 200 took in the excursion yesterday to South Beach per Str. Esturion. The excursion was run under auspices of Bethany Tabernacle. Those who went spoke in highest terms of their reception at Clear Lake and also of the treatment of the Esturion's crew.

A Medal Found.

Yesterday a young lady at the ball ground found, and handed over to Mr. E. J. Hartley, the efficient ticket collector at the grand stand, a bronze medal, round the rim of which appear the words "Canada, Australia, South Africa and India." The loser can procure the medal by applying to Mr. Hartley.

Presentation of 30 Years Ago.

Thirty years ago Mr. R. W. Grubbe still a resident of the city, but then on the Bank of Toronto staff, was presented with a handsome meerschaum pipe by his fellow clerks. It is to be hoped that Mr. Grubbe still owns that pipe and may he be spared many years yet to smoke it.

Injunction Against Cavan.

Mr. Geo. C. McBain of Cavan, has issued through Messrs. Bennet and Goodwill, an injunction against the corporation of the township of Cavan commanding the township to restore the plaintiff's rights to the watercourse followed by the Cavan drain. The old drain was diverted, and in its former course circled in two loops through Mr. McBain's property. One advantage thus afforded was good water facilities for his cattle.

Where is Lang of Fairmount?

Yesterday morning Mr. Cathcart of Cavan Township, was in the city looking for a Mr. Lang, of Fairmount. It is said that Mr. Lang has been in Peterborough for about a week, during which time he did not "shy" as he passed the local places of liquid refreshments. Anyhow, on Monday night Lang's horse, attached to a buggy arrived at Lang's house, but not Lang.

Lindsay to Stop Noise.

Lindsay Warder: The town fathers listened to a peculiar complaint last evening, when Mr. Jas. Storer, of the south ward, who lives in the vicinity of the Grand Trunk shops, reported that the whistling of the railway trains was excessive. "The oldest engineers on the line say that there is too much whistling on the line along the south ward. The law is you can pass a by-law against excessive whistling. They should not whistle in the corporation and at crossings the bell should be tinkled.

Yesterday's Police Court

At yesterday's police court, John Conners was charged with D- and D. John pleaded guilty to having been drunk. He is just 20 years of age. He got his liquor "from some other fellows." P. C. Sills said Connors was raising a row and said he had lost $45. $5.75 to be paid forthwith. Connors asked for a few days to pay up, but the Cadi replied "I won't give you 5 minutes."

Herbery Rorke was charged with having been drunk and disorderly. P. C. Sills said Rorke was very drunk and interfering with people. Rorke when arrested put up a fight. $5.75.

Millbrook Negro Fined

At yesterday's police court, a man named Huffman, of Millbrook, was charged with assault on West Gray, of the same village. Gray said he was here on Circus day. Huffman met him in a local hotel and ran his (Huffman's) fingers through his Panama hat and said: "You are getting to —— tony for this crowd." Huffman also gave him a black eye. Huffman was fined $5 and costs, $11.60 in all. Huffman is a negro weighing about 200 pounds. As Mr. Gray was leaving Millbrook yesterday a storekeeper said to him, "Don't have him fined too heavily as Huffman owes me a bill and his family has not had a bite to eat for some days. Huffman is a housemover and makes about $100 a month, bdt booze makes a big hole in it.

Camp Meeting.

The services in Mr. Edward's grove near Jackson Park are progressing very favorably and increasing in interest. The construction work was completed yesterday and the ground dotted about with about 35 tents and lighted with electricity, presents an attractive appearance. Services begin on the ground at six o'clock in the morning and are in progress almost continuously until 10 p.m.

Rev. A. Bell, of Campbellford, preached at 2.30 yesterday from the text, Matt. 26:75, and Rev. A. D. Zagmiser, of Pittsburgh, Pa., preached a soul stirring sermon in the evening from Isiah 62:10, showing the true standard of Christian religion as set forth in the inspired word and the great necessity of getting a definite experience in the things of God by getting through the gates into the way and then making the way manifest to others by clearing away the obstructions and lifting up the standard.

NO NEED TO HAVE SUPERFLUOUS HAIR

(The Modern Beauty).

In delatone, a simple way has been found to remove hairy growths from the face, neck or arms, and one application usually is sufficient to permanently banish every trace of disfiguring hair or fuzz. This treatment consists in applying a paste made with water and a little of the powdered delatone. After remaining on two or three minutes, rub it off and wash the skin, and it will be white, firm hairless.

Short, straight eyelashes will grow long and have a silken sheen and delightful curl if pyroxin be applied at lash-roots with thumb and forefinger. Thin eyebrows come in thick and lustrous by rubbing on pyroxin every day. Use care and don't get any where no hair is desired.

THE FIGHTING BULL IS AN ARISTOCRAT

An Interesting Glimpse Into the Development and History of the Spanish Sport

The fighting bull of Spain is a race apart, as distinct from the breeds reared upon the farm as is the thoroughbred from the heavy Shire horse that draws the plow. He is an aristocrat among bulls, and resembles the former in the two supreme qualities of courage and speed. Bred for centuries with a care and skill which no other strain of animals received from so early a date, he stands to-day as an example of the wonderful effect which consistent selection can produce when applied steadfastly for centuries of time. For ever since the reconquest of Seville, in the thirteenth century, the breeding of bulls for the ring has received in Spain the enthusiastic attention of some of the richest and most experienced land owners in the country.

The Beginning

To trace the rise of bull-fighting in the Peninsula we must go back to the eighth century, when the Christian knights adopted the custom from their Moorish conquerors. It was the habit of these latter to maintain their skill at arms and to train their sons to war in baiting the wild bulls which then roamed free on the vast and uncultivated plains of Iberia. The knights would ride out singly, attended only by a couple of retainers on foot, to seek the beasts on their pastures. The contest was a straightforward one between the horseman and the bull; and it needed a well trained charger and a firm seat in the saddle to receive and frustrate the attack of the bull without being hurled to the ground.

Saving the Master

The servants were provided with cloaks to distract the attention of the foe should the master be unseated or wounded. It was from these beginnings that the modern sport of the "toreo" took its rise. Later on when the Moors had been expelled from the country the bull-fight acquired great popularity from the favor extended to it by the Spanish kings and the nobility of all classes. Indeed, so firm a hold did it take upon the affections of the people, that even though Isabel, the Catholic, disapproved of the sport, she was unable to suppress it. It was, however, until quite recently, essentially a contest in the nature of a joust between rider and bull. The later development, and especially the commercial aspect of the "toreo," has effected a radical change in the old traditional sport. To-day it is no more than a highly organized show, but in past times it was different, when even kings did not disdain occasionally to break a lance or risk a fall with the fiery "toreos" of Andalusia and Leon. Then vast sums were expended in perfecting the magnificent breed, which has been handed down to the present day through eight centuries of patience and skill.

THE BITTER PILL

"There is more willing helpfulness in humanity than many ever find out," declared Sir Henry Irving. "In most of the troubles of life we can find the clever brain and the good heart to freely assist us if we only use sense. But then there comes, perhaps, a restraining force. It is a bitter pill for some people to swallow—the confession that one fails oneself to see the way, or has not the strength to pursue it. Everyone has occasionally to make such a confession—if one is bent on doing the best. It is only confessing one is human, after all, and paying the other person the compliment of believing he is human enough to extend the hand. There is more brotherhood in the world than many imagine."

BULGARIAN RACE IS NOW FIGHTING FOR VERY EXISTANCE

Present is Greatest Crisis Since Servian War of 1885--Enemies Pressing in Every Quarter

London, July 10.—The present is the most fateful crisis for the Bulgarian race since King Milan of Servia declared war in 1885 against Bulgaria in the absence of the Bulgarian army on the Turkish frontier," says the Sofia correspondent of the Times.

"Bulgaria is now threatened by hostile forces on every side, but the manifold dangers of the situation," he says, "are being confronted with extraordinary calmness and resolution. All reserves who hitherto have been excused from military service, have been called out, and they respond readily, it being realized that the whole future of the Bulgarian nation is at stake.

Bulgars More Cheerful.

"A more cheerful view, however, prevails to-day. Instead of a serious defeat, it appears that no fighting has occurred in that region in the last two days, which have been occupied by the Servians in collecting their dead and wounded. The troops have now taken up strong positions from which it will be difficult to dislodge them.

"Up to Tuesday night Serres was not occupied by the Greeks. Communications have been interrupted by the flight of telegraph operators. King Ferdinand has bestowed an order for bravery on Gen. Ivanoff for his stout resistence against overwhelming forces."

Hamilton Man Calls Self Friendless Was Turned Out of Boarding House.

Hamilton, Ont., July 10.—Charles Smith, 72 years of age, who has been brooding for a long time over the death of his wife, slept on her grave in the cemetery last night and then this morning he slashed his throat and wrists with a knife. Smith told the police he was alone and friendless, and that he had been put out of his boarding house last night.

CONSERVATIVES SEND ANOTHER INVITATION TO MR. PROUDFOOT

Will Give Him Same Length of Time as Mr. Hanna to Speak on His Charges Saturday Night at Owen Sound

Owen Sound, July 10.—In view of the refusal of the Reform Association of North Grey to accept the arrangement proposed by the Conservative Association in their letter of the 8th inst., as above set out, the committee of the Liberal-Conservative Association met yesterday and agreed to give Mr. Proudfoot the hour's time that had been requested; this in view of the fact that Mr. Proudfoot has spent the past week in the constituency, is very generous treatment, but it is not anticipated that the offer will be accepted. The following is the letter sent to the Reform Association:

"To R. Patterson, Esq., Secretary the North Grey Reform Association, Town:—

"Dear Sir,—At the meeting last night between a Committee of your Association and a Committee of the Conservative Association, we made you an offer to permit Mr. Proudfoot to speak at Mr. Hanna's meeting on Saturday evening next, our offer being as follows: Mr. Cameron to open the meeting with a speech lasting from twenty minutes to half an hour; Mr. Proudfoot to follow and speak for half an hour on the Proudfoot charges only; Mr. Hanna to follow and speak for a half hour only on the Proudfoot charges, and thereafter to be at liberty to discuss other political issues.

"Your committee objected that the time allowed to Mr. Proudfoot was not sufficient for him, and would not consent to this arrangement, but suggested that if an hour were given it would be satisfactory.

"We have talked the matter over with our executive and with Mr. Cameron, and we are now pleased to be able to advise you that we will change our proposition to meet your wishes, namely: Mr. Cameron to open the meeting with a speech of from twenty minutes to half an hour Mr. Proudfoot to follow and speak for one hour upon the Proudfoot charges only; Mr. Hanna to follow him and speak for one hour or less on the Proudfoot charges only, and thereafter on any of the other political issues of the day.

"We trust, therefore, that we shall have the privilege of having Mr. Proudfoot at our meeting and take advantage of an equal amount of time with Mr. Hanna. We think this is more than fair to Mr. Proudfoot, as he has already been in the riding, and has discussed these charges before the electors in the town of Owen Sound and in the country, while this is Mr. Hanna's first appearance in the riding.

"We would request that your answer be given us by to-morrow noon July 10th, as we wish to make our arrangements accordingly.

"Yours truly, W. A. Grier, Secretary, North Grey Liberal-Conservative Association."

MARCHED THEM TO THE FIRE MARCHED THEM BACK AGAIN

Californian Captain Won't Risk the Lives of His $25,000 Gun-pointers in a Mere Conflagration

San Francisco, July 10.—Five soldiers are reported burned to death, and half a dozen little hamlets and towns at the foot of Mount Tamalpais await their salvation or destruction to-day, while the fire which has swept the mountain for three days is reaching towards the plains and vineyards to the north, and the Muir Woods National Park on the south.

Captain Plunkett, commanding the cruiser South Dakota, marching 600 of his men from the Mill Valley station up the border of the fire in Cascade Canyon early to-day, took a look at the fire and marched them back again.

Captain Plunkett said:

"It would take all the people in California to put out that fire. Let it burn out. I have expert gun pointers among my men, worth $25,000 apiece to the Government. I am not going to risk their lives."

BASEBALL

SERIOUS ACCIDENT AT CRESENT STREET

Yesterday at noon as Mr. Emberson of Bensfort was driving at the corner of Crescent and Lake streets an engine whistled. The horses driven by Mr. Emberson took fright, shied and the rig went on the bias. Mr. Emberson was thrown heavily to the roadway and had his leg broken. Dr. Morgan attended to the sufferer, who at latest reports was doing nicely.

TORONTO YACHTSMEN FACE DEATH ON LAKE

Picton, Ont., July 10.—The yawl Maysie of the Queen City Yacht Club Toronto, arrived here last night after an exciting experience in a storm on the lake. She was at Mexico Bay on Sunday with two American boats, the Kioske and Comrade, and all of them had to back out in the pitch of the storm to prevent going ashore. The Kioske and Comrade were both wrecked, and four people were drowned off the Kioske. The skipper of the Maysie, Bud Fisher, fought the storm for nine hours before he succeeded in putting her into shelter at Sacket's Harbor. On board with him were ex-Com. A. D. Ellis, J. M. Moore and K. F. Munroe. Ellis who is a veteran yachtsman, says that the fight for life was the hardest he was ever in.

TSAR FERDINAND OF BULGARIA LEAVING THE SOBRANJE

DRANK 23 BOTTLES MAN IS STILL SOBER

Temperance Hotel Keepers Show That Liquor They Dispense is not Firey.

Quebec, Que., July 10.—Because beer sold by a number of St. Romauld temperance hotel keepers contained not more than 4.3 per cent of alcohol Judge Charles Langelier has dismissed the charge laid against them of selling liquor without a license.

Dr Vallee, an analysist, in response to a question declared that the temperance beer sold by defendants was not intoxicating, and that a person could drink it in sufficient quantities to make himself ill without becoming intoxicated. the defendants swore that he had seen a man drink 23 bottles of it within the space of a few hours, and yet not become drunk

After the judgment the collector of provincial revenue declared that he intended to petition the Superior Court for leave to issue a writ of certiorari to determine whether a liquor which contained more than two and a half per cent of proof alcohol was a temperance drink or not.

ROCKEFELLER'S ELIXIR OF LIFE

Cleveland, July 10—"I'm seventy-four years young" declared John D. Rockefeller, richest man in the world, as he stood on the golf links of his Forest Hill estate and greeted a score or so of friends who had called to congratulate him.

There was a twinkle in his eye and an elasticity to his step that is unusual in a man of his years, and his friends remarked upon the excellence of his health.

"Youth is a matter of training," he said in reply to a question; "plenty of exercise in the fresh air, common sense rules concerning the kind and quantity of food eaten, an easy mind and a friend or two will keep one young.

As he travelled about the links, showing unusual accuracy with the golf stick, the oil king issued a warning to those of the present generation.

"Waste of energy is one of the wanton extravagances of the times," he said; "conservation of energy temperance in all things, is something this age does not appreciate."

MAN AND WOMAN PINNED UNDER AUTO

Windsor, July 10.—Supt. McKeyi of the Studebaker Corporation while driving his car, plunged into the Detroit River to avoid striking a girl. Both Mr. Mckey and his woman companion were pinned in the shallow water beneath the machine, but the man managed to extricate himself sufficiently to raise the woman's head from the water. They were kept in that position for some time before they were pried loose with a plank.

YOUNG MAN DROWNED

Charles Spradbrow Met Death While On Vacation.

Toronto, July 10.—Charles W. Spradbrow, of 301 A Spadina Road, was drowned yesterday in Sparrow Lake, near the mouth of the Severn River, a short distance east of Port Stanton. Excepting a brief telegram with the sad announcement to the young man's father, Mr. Charles Spradbrow, who is a gardener for Mr. John C. Eaton, has no particulars.

Dr. MacEachern was born on a farm near Argyle, in the county of Dr. Malcolm T. MacEachern.

Victoria, and was a son of the late Hector MacEachern. Here he received his early education and after beds. Dr. MacEachern will be chief executive head of this institution. finishing his public school course learned the art of farming before continuing his studies at the L.C.I. After graduating from the L.C.I. and the Lindsay Model School he taught school at Hartley and Fenelon Falls for a few years.

In 1910 he graduated with distinction from McGill Medical College, Montreal. Since then he has been closely associated with the Royal Victoria and Montreal Maternity hospitals, now holding the position of medical superintendent of the latter for the past two years and furthering his specialty.

Dr. McEachern in accepting this position in Vancouver, a most desirable one receives the same because of the merit of his work in Montreal. He leaves a host of friends and supporters in that city. He will assume charge in Vancouver on or about August 1st.

The Warder joins with Dr. MacEachern's many friends in Lindsay and vicinity in extending congratulations to him on having received the appointment. He has a host of friends in Victoria County, who will be more than pleased to hear of his continued success, and in leaving for the west he carries with him the very best wishes of the people in general.

COUNT HAYASHI IS DEAD; IN ACCIDENT

Formerly Was Ambassador at the Court of St. James—Profoundly Educated.

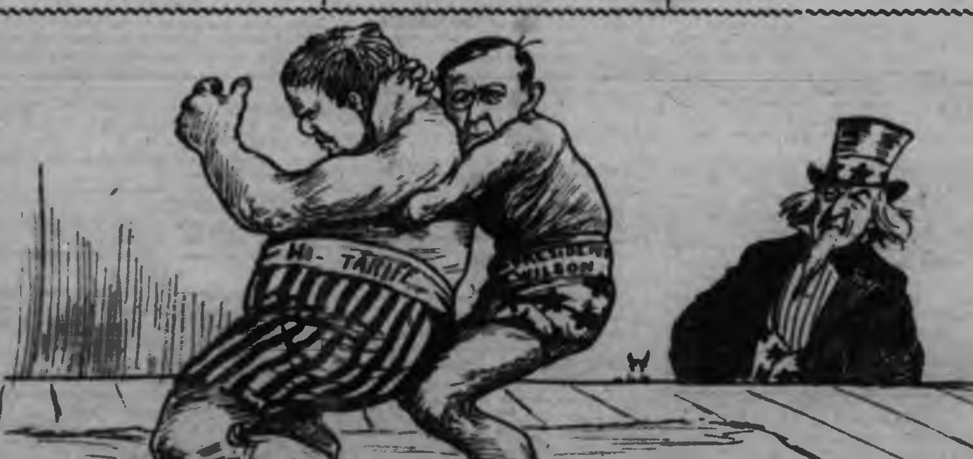
Tokio, Japan, July 10.—Count Tadasu Hayashi, one of the leading statesmen of Japan, died to-day at the age of 63, after a surgical operation rendered necessary by injuries he had sustained in an accident.

He was at one time Minister for Foreign Affairs under Premier Saionji, and in the last Saionji Cabinet, which resigned in December, 1912, was Minister of Communications. He had had a long diplomatic career, having been Minister to China and to Russia and Ambassador at the Court of St. James, during which latter appointment he was instrumental in bringing about the Anglo-Japanese Alliance. He was a prolific author, andhad made a profound study of foreign politics and history.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS HONOR MR. SAVIGNY

A very pleasing event took place on Wednesday evening when Mr. T. A. Savigny whose marriage took place a few days ago, was presented with a beautiful case of table cutlery by the Knights of Pythias, to which order Mr. Savigny is an esteemed member. The address was read by Mr. E. N. McWilliams, which conveyed to Mr. and Mrs. Savigny the good will and hearty wishes for a long and properous life.

Mr. Savigny who was taken entirely by surprise, thanked his friends for their kind remembrance. The presentation was made at the residence of Mrs. Hunter, Water street, his mother. A very pleasant evening was spent, when about 20 members of the Order being present. Short speeches and music passed the time pleasantly away. Mr. Frank Clark the local banjo player added much to the pleasure of those present by selections, whilst Mr. William Allen gave some vocal selections which were also much enjoyed.



HAVING A HARD TIME TO GET HIM DOWN.

WAS THAT MARRIAGE FAKE? MOTHER PUTS IN APPEAL

Berlin Woman, Formerly of Toronto, Asks Aid in Gaining Facts

Niagara Falls, N.Y., July 10.—Further evidence of a man's deception and duplicity and woman's misplaced confidence came to light today when Mayor William Laughlin made public a letter written in a woman's hand, and signed by a woman. This is one of many letters he gets containing requests, for various things, but none received by him has contained an appeal to his human side as this one, and he immediately set to work to comply with the request.

"Emelie Harding, nee Croth," is the name signed to the letter and she gives her address as No. 23 Queen street north, Berlin, Ont. She tells of a trip to Niagara Falls six years ago and of what has every indication of being a "fake" marriage here. The woman appeals for the Mayor's assistance in establishing the fact of her marriage here all in behalf of her little five year old son.

Here is the letter in part exactly as she wrote it to Mayor Laughlin:

Berlin, Ont., July 1, 1913.
The Hon. Chief Magistrate,
Niagara Falls, N.Y.,

Dear Sir,—Kindly excuse a stranger taking the liberty to trouble you with the following. May I ask you to find out if there was a marriage registered between Gerhard Harding and Emelie Croth, on the 29th day of August, 1907 (the date is underscored) I was taken over there from Toronto by the man mentioned above to get married by the Reverend Henry McDonald, Presbyterian.

Cab Was Waiting.

When we arrived on the steamer Cayuga a cab was waiting with two of his friends and we drove to the American side of the Falls. I could not tell you where we drove to, as I was entirely strange over there and all three engaged me deeply in a very interesting converation about the voyage. We returned to Toronto and lived there for three months. He had told me that we would go to New York and live there. He was very often away travelling, and he said. At the end of the third month he told me that he had to go to Edmonton for a longer time, and he never returned.

"In my distress I went to the German Consul, Mr. Nordheimer, and after I had told him the whole story he said to me: "Looking for that fellow is like looking for a pin in a hay stack." I am of the opinion now that it was all a fraud and very likely is amarried man. I had no means to give into a lawyer's hands so I tried to make the best of it and earn my living."

AWFUL CRIME DESPONDENT YOUNG WOMAN--GAS PUT ON

Caused Daughter's Death and Wrote Farewell Note Beside Her Body

Toronto, July 10.—The bodies of Mrs. Mary Willcocks and her young daughter, Evelyn, arrived in Toronto this morning from Buffalo and were taken to Craig's undertaking establishment in Parkdale.

Mrs. Willcocks and her child were the principals in a double tragedy what occurred yesterday in Buffalo. From theevidenceit is apparent that the woman murdered her daughter, a girl of about sixteen years of age, and then committed suicide.

Killed Her Daughter.

Mrs. Willcocks was housekeeper for Dr. A. F. Leonard, 270 Goundey street, Tonawanda, and was found lying dead on the floor of her bedroom at eight o'clock yesterday morning, while the daughter also dead, was lying on the bed. The gas was turned on and both women had met death by its fumes.

A note left by Mrs. Willcocks stated in substance that she had killed her daughter and was about to take her own life. From the state of the bodies when discovered it is apparent that the daughter was dead, while the mother was writing the note as the girl's body was cold when found, and that of the mother was still warm.

A Deliberate Act.

It is supposed that after turning on the gas in the room where her daughter lay sleeping, Mrs. Willcocks wrote the note and then deliberately entered the room and lay down to die.

SECOND ATTEMPT A COMPLETE SUCCESS

Thorold Man Ended Own Life With Gun After Telling His Friends of Purpose.

St. Catharines, Ont., July 10.—Joseph Cook a former resident of Thorold, ended his life to-day with a revolver.

He told his Thorold friends he intended killing himself. He had tried a few days ago, but was deterred. Then he said, "I'll try again and succeed, I am tired of life and have nothing to live for." He formerly worked on the canal. Cook was 55 years of age.

BARBERS' BYLAW AGAIN IN COURT, JUDGMENT RESERVED

Toronto, July 10.—"Whatever merit there may be in my learned friend's argument, it is entirely swept away by the fact that the statute on which it is based has been repealed. It was not the statute under which the by-law was passed."

Mr. T. S. Fairty, assistant City Solicitor, exploded a would-be bomb in the Weekly Court at Osgoode Hall to-day when for the third time. Mr. Chas. McCoubrie, the Yonge street barber, moved that the Barbers' Early Closing By-law be quashed on the ground that it was not statutory, inasmuch as it affected shops situated in hotels, etc., which the applicant's counsel contended was beyond the authority of the civic administration.

The afore-mentioned bomb, apparently did not have the expected effect. In fact, the Judge, Mr. Justice Lennox, was firmly convinced that it had not the slightest bearing on the argument of Mr. McCoubrie's counsel, Mr. Thos. O'Connor, K.C.

Acts Are Similar.

"There is no difference between the two as far as your opponent's argument is concerned," his Lordship pointed out. "The two are identical; everything that the section you quote embodies is in the clause of the Act you say has been repealed." Incidentally, the city's representative came in for a few scathing remarks from the Bench for allowing his opponent to argue his case for half an hour, apparently he was laboring under a delusion. I just want to point out that this surprise which you have reserved has no bearing on the case as put forward by your opponent," was the comment of the Bench.

No judgment was delivered on the motion, although Mr. O'Connor's argument that the city cannot control hotel barber shops was subjected to a veritable bombardment of interrogations.

TWO CITIES HAVE PROBES ON HAND

In Medicine Hat and Calgary Allegations of Wrongdoing Stir the Authorities.

Medicine Hat, Alta., July 10.—Sensational charges against Magistrate Kealy and Chief of Police Bruce have been made by Sergeant Campey Manipulation of funds entrusted to them is the basis of the charges and at a late hour last night Campey, who was on night duty, was dismissed. An investigation into police matters will likely follow.

Eight Dismissed at Calgary.

Calgary, Alta., July 10.—Following the dismissal of eight employees of the Provincial Government Land Titles office, after an investigation by Provincial and city detectives, into the mysterious disappearance of Government cash books dating from the year 1906 and the sum of $74, which was stolen from the cash box in the office, sensational rumors are rife all over the city.

The eight men who ceased connection with the Government are: Barrieau, Dulmage, Burdette, Phelps, Herdman, Eldridge, Sawyer and Wilson. Several have been taken to the police headquarters and have been interrogated by Provincial Chief Nicholson. All deny any knowledge of the disappearance of either the cash books or the money.

HYDRO POWER IN JAPAN.

It is estimated that the force developed by the hydro-electric companies of Japan is over 2,000,000 horse power.

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 35c. and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 9c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 35c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., 356 George St., directly opposite Greenman's store.

ARTIFICIAL LUNGS

Apparatus for Restoring Life to Persons Asphyxiated

It is an astonishing fact that until quite recently only the crudest methods of resuscitating victims of gas poisoning, electric shock, immersion in water, or other accidents of a like nature, were evolved. The rough and ready methods of bringing back the vital spark in persons who have been under water are successful only in a few cases. They are exhausting, tedious, and ineffective. In the case of electric shock, the chances for the victim are even less. In both cases the victim may be unable to breathe naturally, and yet there may be life present. The patient requires oxygen, but he is unable to inhale it.

The "Pulmotor" is a device that is designed to supply this very need. To the unconscious victim, to the invalid of low vitality, it supplies not only the needed quantity of oxygen but it actually breathes for him, inflating and deflating the lungs for him exactly as may be needed. The infant can be treated as safely as the adult.

The field of usefulness of the pulmotor is extremely wide and varied. It is being used in all kinds of mines in Europe and America. Fire departments, hospitals, and municipalities have adopted it for general use. In a score of ways it can be used in emergencies.

Another apparatus, evolved more recently, is a diver's helmet. This is attached to a self-contained supply of oxygen, and requires no connection with the surface. An amateur wearing this is able to stay under water for half an hour at a time.

The pulmotor is in use in Cobalt, in several Canadian collieries, and at the Government rescue stations.

DESTRUCTIVE SAWFLY

Dr. Hewitt on Experiments to Prevent Tamarack Destroyer

The almost total destruction of the tamarac, or larch, which took place throughout eastern Canada almost thirty years ago, was caused by an insect, the larch sawfly. It appeared again about eight years ago and in its spread westward it is repeating its former devastation on the younger tamaracs. To all who are interested in Canada's forests the appearance of a little book by the Dominion entomologist, Dr. C. Gordon Hewitt, will be welcome.

Dr. Hewitt studied the life-history, habits and means of control of this injurious sawfly, both in England and North America. In England, it was found that the natural enemies, especially parasitic insects, effectively gained control of outbreaks of the insect. Other natural enemies were mice and birds, and a system of bird encouragement was started on a large scale. The devastating spread of the sawfly in North America was due to the comparative absence of the natural means of control. Several important species of parasites new to science were discovered and studied. To increase the number of natural enemies of the sawfly, attempts are being made to introduce and establish in Canada parasites which were discovered in England and which appeared to control the pest there.

Just Being Discovered

Writing in Industrial Canada Mr. Norman Lambert says: "Sufficient has been shown now to prove that the prairie provinces, besides admitting of cultivation in places which at one time were regarded as indomitable, have revealed great opportunities to the manufacturer. The development of the past two years shows also that the West is just being discovered, and that discovery will not be complete until more factories, and more mixed farms, and more routes of transportation are established, making the vast prairie territory the self-supporting country it should be."

AN INCH OF RAIN

How It is Measured by a Simple Little Instrument

Few people really understand how rain is measured. We often read in the newspaper that so many inches of rain have fallen during a certain period, but it is difficult to realise what an inch of it actually means. There are several methods of measuring rain by what are known as "gauges." The most skilful is a contrivance with a funnel at the top, through which the water passes into a cup-receiver. The weight of the rain automatically works a pencil. This marks on a sheet of paper wound round a cylinder, and when it has marked in this fashion two-tenths of an inch, the cup tilts over and empties the contents. The pencil returns to its former position, and the same little device is repeated incessantly until the rain ceases to fall, whilst the pencil continues to register on the paper attached.

African Drum Signals

For centuries before Marconi wireless telegraph was known the mystery of swift communication puzzled explorers of barbarian regions. In the heart of Africa a missionary discovered the method of hollowing a large gourd, which was then dried, and round it was stretched the skin of a kid, hard and thin as parchment. Beaten with a padded drumstick this instrument gives a sound which can be heard eight miles away. And each village contains the expert who can tap the message and send it on.

The Cork Industry

The best cork comes from trees in Spain and Portugal that are allowed to become 40 years old before the bark is cut and then it is removed only every eight or ten years.

CAN'T SLEEP ON THIS

One-legged Stool Prevents Occupant from Taking Snooze

Few people are looking for things to keep them awake—rather the contrary—but when a man has a job as watchman in a gunpowder factory for example, he is willing to stay awake until he gets home, inasmuch as this kind of a watchman is supposed to keep his eye on the thermometer and see that the temperature does not get high enough to send him off into a sleep from which he would never awake. However, sometimes nature is too strong for us and some provision must be made that the watchman cannot snooze, even against his own will. He is therefore provided with a one-legged stool upon which to sit. If he should happen to fall into a doze he would promptly lose his balance, and if the resultant crash to the floor does not wake him, his future is not worth worrying about any further.

WHEN SLEEP MIGHT BE FATAL

"MOST POPULAR MAN IN KENT"

Lord Harris, who recently celebrated his 61st anniversary, has had a distinguished career as diplomat, courtier, cricketer, and organiser. He has been described as the most popular man in Kent, a reputation earned as captain of the Kent eleven, when he did more for the game than almost any man of the day. For five years he acted as Lord-in-Waiting to Queen Victoria, and he spent the same term as Governor of Bombay, during which period he and Lady Harris are said never to have made an enemy.

Canadian Flying Corps

It is possible that a military aviation company will be organised in Toronto—the first in the Dominion. It has been suggested to the Department of Militia that such a company might be organised with "Casey" Baldwin and J. A. D. McCurdy, the Canadian aviators, as two of the chief officers.

FOOD OF A LIFETIME

Estimate of the Total Amount One 75 Years Old Has Consumed

If you should live to be 75 years old, have you any idea how much food you would have consumed in the course of the years, taking it for granted that you are a person of average height, weight, and appetite?

In both solids and liquids you will have consumed something like 1,300 times your own weight in both solids and liquids, or fifty-four tons of solid food and fifty-three tons of liquid.

Probably if your desires were normal you would have eaten some seventy-six tons of bread, which if they were piled together would equal in size a small family hotel. On that bread you would have spread about a ton and a fourth of butter. If you had been fond of bacon and were to stretch it out in a long single slice it would stretch about four miles. You would have managed to eat about five tons of fish and some 12,000 eggs, while if you were at all a lover of cheese you could easily get outside of 400 pounds of it.

It is interesting to imagine how, if you were to see all the vegetables you had consumed pass before you in review, they would make a train of cars at least three and one-half miles long. Also on that train you could add 10,000 pounds of sugar and 1,500 pounds of salt.

EUGENICS AND GENIUS

Toronto Professor Sees Close Relation Between Master Minds and Imbeciles

"All men of genius and poets are the result of degeneration on the part of some of their ancestors. If we seek by the prevention of indiscriminate marriage to eliminate the imbecile and otherwise unfit we will also prevent the production of these."

This is one of the remarkable statements made by Prof. Gilbert Jackson during the course of an address on the subject of "Poverty," at Toronto.

Prof. Jackson entirely repudiates the value of the principles of eugenics as applied to the prevention of the propagation of the mentally and physically unfit. He stated that, personally, he preferred to have these latter in the world rather than run a chance of the elimination of men of genius, which would result from the adoption of such methods.

When the weather is very hot it is possible for you to find some comfort in the promise of a scientist that the sun Uill cool off in about 90,000,000 years from now.

Those counterfeit Canadians who insist that they will be at war with the Empire only in those wars which suit them, may find some day that the enemies of the Empire may have something to say about that.

THE SCOTT GOVERNMENT

The Scott Government is at its old tricks in Saskatchewan. Dispatches concerning the Hanley bye-election tell the story of open corruption on the part of the wovernment heelers. And five cabinet ministers of the Liberal government were there to see that the constitution was debauched. Bribery was open and unashamed. The day before the polling, a citizen went into Watrous and appealed for lawful aid to repel the attack of these Scott hirelings. He said that Liberal gangs were displaying money with no attempt at concealment, and using it freely to debauch the electors. It was estimated that $20,000 was the amount Scott found necessary to place in the constituency to avoid defeat. This does not include the road funds, which were lavishly distributed where the money would help the Liberal interests. These methods and these men are the same that Scott and Oliver attempted to utilize in the Macdonald federal bye-election. They might have succeeded in their corrupt scheme but for the alertness of the Manitoba government.

With all the machinery of the province at their disposal, they were successful in Hanley, though the majority was 130 less than the riding returned the Liberal candidate by at the last election. However, the activity of the heelers and their boldness indicates the desperate state of the provincial government. That Scott thought it necessary to pht his five ministers anh a dozen members of the Legislature in the constituency during the campaign is evidence that he feared the resentment of the people. He knoRs that even the Liberals of Saskatchewan resent the corrupt methohs by which he maintains himself. Years will be required to overcome the degrading influence exerted by these hirelings in this instance. No one is deceived by the campaign the conducted. It was a disgrace to the country and worthy of the men with which Premier Scott has surrounded himself.

SOMETHING YOU OUGHT TO KNOW.

With all our learning there are yet a great many things we do not know, says the Christian Guardian. But the hope in the situation lies in the fact we are coming to know more each day. And in no field is human knowledge extending more surely and beneficently than in that of human disease.

Everyone has heard of infantile paralysis, and there are not many of us, indeed, who habe not had a more or less intimate knowledge personally of its terribly disastrous consequences. For some time it sorely puzzled scientists, but careful research has found out at least something definite about it. That something it is important that everyone should know.

Infantile paralysis is a summer disease, occuring chiefly in the late summer and the early autumn. This fact, of course, suggested the thought that it might be due to an insect carrier. An investigation has proved clearly that such is the case. And one of the carriers at least has been found to be the stable fly, scientifically called the stomoxys calcitrons, which resembles the common house-flie very much, but which is found chiefly around stables, and lives on of careful investigations has the blood of animals. A series proved this beyond a doubt.

We now know why it is that this disease usually affects only little children, who would not be able to protect themselves from this fly and why a,so it occurs chiefly in the late summer, when the fly is most numerous and voracious.

And the moral that comes from this knowledge is, of course, manifest. Little children should be protected in all ways possible. This fly stays around stables chiefly. It does not come into human dwellings to any great extent except as it seeks shelter during a storm. Many of our readers in the country no doubt, can testify to being bitten by a stable fly in the house during a rainy day. To get rid of the fly altogether wi,l probably prove to be a greater undertaking than to get rid of the house-fly. But every thing that can be done to keep it away from children ought to be done.

HOME HEALTH CLUB

SUMMER NOTES FOR THE BABY—The hot season is a trying one for both mother and babe. This should be remembered by every one in household, who should do all in their power to help relieve the mother of other work and give her an opportunity of caring for her baby and herself, relieving her mind from other matters, as summer has many worries for the mother and danger for the little ones.

The infant should sleep on a cot or cradle by itself, not in a bed with other people. It should have plenty of fresh water to drink, and adjust the amount of clothing to suit the weather. Do not let the babe suffer from heat, neither expose it to cold draughts. The flannel stomacher for babies should be worn in summer always. It prevents chilling of the bowels, which is a common source of diarrhoea. The milk should be heated to 170 degrees F. This is sufficient to kill the germs in it, but not make it indigestible as it would if boiled. If the baby's bowels are too loose, scald the milk given, until they become properly regulated. A little lime water should be added to neutralize the acidity in the stomach or correct the milk when it is on the point of turning, though not actually sour.

To make lime water:—Take a piece of unslaked lime the size of a hen's egg, pour on half a gallon of perfectly pure water. Shake well and allow to stand for a few hours, then use the clear water on top.

Bottles and nipples should be given especial care in hot weather. Nipples should be washed in scalding water and then kept in a vessel of water, in which a teaspoonful of borax of sodium bicarbonate of soda has been added to a quart of water. The greatest possible care must be given to containers for babies' food, inasmuch as milk develops poisons whicj are very dangerous. A little borax added to the bath of the child in hot weather is better than to use soap, which often promotes chafing and discomfort.

Over feeding as I have often told you, kills by far more people than starvation. I mean by that, actual starvation for want of food, for there are cases of starvation in which an and but little if any of it digested, over abundance of food is eaten daily not enough to repair the natural waste. In the case of infants there are two processes necessary. Nutrition which simply replaces that which is worn out and discarded and assimilation, which builds new tissue or replaces that which has been injured or destroyed.

I have many times cautioned you against over eating, don't over feed the baby. Keep it and its food clean. Dress it cool in the summer and warm in the winter and you won't have many sick spells to contend with.

CLUB NOTES.

I will gladly answer all inquiries for information on health subjects from readers of this publication if same are addressed to Home Health Club, 5030 Cottage Grove Ave., Chicago. Send full name and address, with 4 cents postage.

Dear Doctor:—I was taken with what was supposed to be the grip a few months ago and doctored myself as usual and felt pretty well for a few days, but later began to ache and feel very badly. One morning while ironing I suffered so severely, when I happened to think that you advised drinking hot water every five minutes and decided to try it. I had taken it regularly for about an hour and half when I felt the gall stones passing, the pain was very severe and as I was home all alone I wondered if I would have to die alone. I did not go to bed, but worked on all the time. Next morning I found three deposits. You cannot understand how relieved I felt after they had passed away. I was so nervous I wanted to cry about it, and could not sleep nights; but afterward used to take a book and read for a short time, when I would drop off to sleep in a few minutes. The doctors have never told me 'I had gall stones, but know now that has been one of my troubles for some time. However, I have no use for medicines or drugs of any kind. I had dear children who might be with me today if I had known then what I hape learned since through your books and lectures; and I assure you I am eager to learn more in order to help others. Your friend and well-wisher. Mrs. F. R.

It was indeed with pleasure that I read your letter, and learned that you have been benefitted by following home treatments described in my books and lectures. I would advise you to adopt the Home Health Club method of treatment for gall stones. First procure a quart of pure olive oil, and a small quantity of cream of tartar. Every evening just before going to bed take a small wineglassful of olive oil and upon rising in the morning take a teaspoonful of the cream of tartar in a wineglass full of water. This regime can be followed for about six weeks with very beneficial results. It may prove very laxative but do not let this alarm you, as it is very essential in a condition of this kind. Further instructions were given in a personal letter to you.

Dear Doctor:—I noticed in the club notes recently a recommendation of the carbolic acid preparation for relief of itching caused by Eczema. I have found that a better way is to expose the itching part to heat from a gas or cook stove, until the itching begins to leave, heating in turn various parts of the affected surface until all has been heated. After exposing in this way to as great heat as can be borne, two or three times, you will find that the results are far ahead of all medicines. Soaking the surface in water as hot as can be borne is also very good, but not as effective as dry heat.

M. E. C.

Any reader who suffers from this annoying disease may give the above method a thorough trial and I shall be very glad to publish the results, if they are reported. The preparation of Commercial Acetic Acid, Hazel and Glycerine which has been recommended frequently would undoubtedly render the cure much more rapid and I will suggest that the treatment be combined.

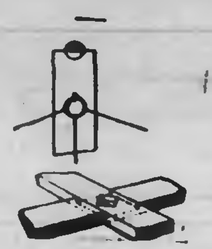
JOY FOR KIDDIES

Real Ferris Wheel Will Give Them Lots of Exercise and Fun

Anyone who wants to amuse the children with a really simple bit of mechanical construction can do so at the expense of very little time, money or labor, and any child would be delighted with a Ferris wheel.

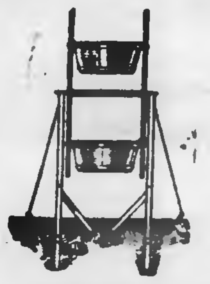
This wheel has four spokes and four baskets which can be made from half barrels or from heavy clothes baskets, provided the baskets are strong enough to carry passengers.

Uprights of 2x4 timbers 10 feet long are sunk 2 feet in the ground 4 feet apart. These are braced inside with stout short posts and outside with strong wire cable. The wire bracing is attached to a ring that is fastened near the top of each post with a suitable staple. There are three wires for each ring. One of these is fastened to a peg driven deeply into the ground about two feet from each upright on each side, and the others are carried to the front and rear as far as necessary and also attached to pegs driven into the ground.



Details of Uprights, Axle and Spokes

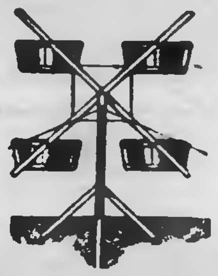
The shaft for the wheel is a square piece of 2½ inch timber 4 feet long. A semicircular depression is cut in the top of the uprights large enough to receive the ends of the shaft which is rounded at each end to a large a diameter as possible. Blocks are fastened over the shaft when it is put in place.



End Elevation

The spokes of the wheel are made of four pieces of timber, two on each side, 1 inch thick, 4 inches wide and 13 feet long. Before painting, square holes should be cut in the center of each piece to fit on the square part of the shaft. The spokes should be notched in the center so that when each pair is crossed they will fit together. These are then fastened together and attached to the shaft which is then placed in position on the uprights. The spokes are braced with stout wire.

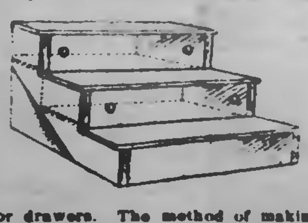
Holes are bored 2½ feet from the ends of the spokes, and the barrels or baskets are attached. Care should be used to attach them securely. With this arrangement, and a bit of soap or tallow applied to the bearings, the Ferris wheel is all ready for the youngsters who wish to ride.



Completed Wheel With Baskets Attached

Utilizing Space Under the Stairs

There is a lot of space wasted in most houses in the cellar and kitchen stairs that can be put to use by an ingenious person. The stairs have got to be there and the room they occupy is entirely lost unless utilized for drawers. The method of making the drawers is shown in the sketch. It will probably be necessary to make supports for the drawers along the stair framework, but this can easily be done and the storage space thus secured will more than pay for the trouble.



Accurate photographs of buildings and land have been taken by aviators from altitudes as great as 1000 feet.

Bluing Steel

A fine and fairly permanent blue is obtained on polished steel goods by immersing in fused black oxide of manganese one part, nitre nine parts. When sufficiently blued, they are partially cooled in water, then entirely in linseed oil.

Removing Rust From Iron

Rust on iron or steel goods may be easily removed if the goods are first soaked in a hot caustic soda or hot caustic potash solution. This softens the rust so that it is much more rapidly and effectually removed than by the acid pickle. The method, although old, is generally satisfactory.

Swiss Women Open "Petticoat Cafe" and Cure is Effective

The women of Piona, a small village in the Canton of St. Gall, Switzerland, have opened a cafe in order to prevent the men visiting neighboring towns.

The men petitioned the local authorities to open a cheap public cafe in Piona, where they could spend their evenings. Their wives and daughters objected, and the petition was refused.

In revenge the men sought entertainment in other villages, and the women thereupon organized a syndicate for the purpose of establishing a cafe of their own. Refreshments are sold at a little over cost, and the women take turns in acting as waitresses.

The "Petticoat Cafe" has proved such a success that the rival resorts were obliged to close.

He is a Toronto boy.

Agonies of Gall Stones

SANOL is the only Reliable and Rapid Cure for this Painful and Dangerous Disease

There are hundreds of sufferers from Gall Stones who will be glad to know of the great results being derived from the use of SANOL; the remedy that is safe, sure and remarkably rapid in its action. It removes the necessity of an operation; relief comes promptly, the stones being dissolved or passed off in the stool without danger to the patient and without pain.

We have many testimonials from people who have thus been cured. We are able to give name and addresses of numbers of these, and will gladly do so to all who enquire.

The following from the letter of a well-known Toronto gentleman:

"Replying to your letters, I followed your instructions and purchased two bottles of SANOL, you might send me as much of the mixture as I need. If I can, in any way, help the sale of SANOL, and by doing so help some other unfortunate, I will be only too pleased to do so, as I consider it the best remedy made."

SANOL is made only by the SANOL MANUFACTURING COMPANY, LTD., Winnipeg, Man.

Enormous Output of One Great Publishing House—Demand in Canada for Diglot Edition

There is only one book in the world whose annual output from a single publishing house is quoted at 500 tons.

There is only one book in the world that can, in the nineteenth century of its age, double the demand for itself in three years.

There is only one book in the world that is translated into 630 tongues, read from the igloo of the Eskimo through the grass hut of the Hausa trader, clear down to the last lone village of the Southern and most South Sea islander. It is the Bible, of course.

"The Brittish and Foreign Bible Society alone issues its book in 440 languages," said Dr. R. Kilgour, editorial superintendent of that institution, while on a visit to Canada, "and eight new tongues were added last year, one for an obscure tribe in an island beyond Borneo, one for a people on the borders of Siam, one for New Guinea, two for Africa, two in European Gypsy dialects, and one for the Chinooks who are scattered from Oregon to Alaska along the Pacific. The young people of this tribe could read English, but the old folk longed for at least a little portion of their own jargon. So, of course, the society had to give it to them.

Fifteen Millions a Year

"Last year we issued 7,000,000 bibles, testaments, and portions," Dr. Kilgour went on, "and when you add to this the contributions of the society of Scotland, the German and the American societies, you'll find that the old book was turned out in upwards of fifteen million copies." These bibles are distributed not only through branches, but are carried to the farthest, queerest corners of the world by an army of 1,100 colporteurs. In the cafes and music halls at Budapest, on the docks at Antwerp, in the apple orchards of Tasmania, the nitrate fields of Chili, the mines of Johannesburg—everywhere these silent, intrepid missionaries go with the old book.

The Diglot Edition

And Canada has been the cause of about $80,000," said Dr. Kilgour. "At the newest departure in the society's plans—the diglot edition. Here we see the English, side by side with any one of 29 other languages. Port Said, Johannesburg, and Winnipeg lead the world in the use of these diglots.

"And I'm inclined to think Winnipeg comes first," said Dr. Kilgour.

One doesn't wonder that an income of over a quarter of a million pounds sterling is needed for so stupendous a work.

"Last year we had a deficit of 16,000 pounds," said Dr. Kilgour. "At first we couldn't understand it, but when the figures came in we realised that it was because of the enormously increased demand from China, Japan, and India. Asia is waking up."

TWO OLD CHURCHES

Montreal Has One With Foundations Two and Half Centuries Old

The old Bonsecours Church is the oldest stone church in Montreal, or probably in the Dominion. It was commenced in 1657; burned in 1754; reconstructed in 1772; and restored in 1888. The first church was of wood and was the united effort of the first colonists, who were aided, both by the zeal and the means of Mother Bourgeois, who came out to teach the young alike of the Indians and the early settlers. The original foundations of the church remain intact.

St. Gabriel's Presbyterian Church on the Champ de Mars dates back to 1792; but the old Bonsecours was commenced at a time when the colony was still in its infancy, and the Indians were a source of constant terror to the handful of men and women who, acting as they believed under the inspiration of God, came out to the wilderness to civilize and Christianize the barbarous aborigines.

Bread-and-Butter Studies.

The complaint that colleges are moving too rapidly away from the old learning is one very frequently heard in our day. Many people have attributed this drift to the fact that undergraduates are permitted to map out their own courses of study, and to do this under the influence of a delusion that only the so-termed "practical" subjects are apt to prove of any service to them in after life. Hence the classes in accounting, or in industrial chemistry, or in political science are large enough to tax the capacity of college lecture rooms, while professors of Greek or Sanskrit discourse to half-empty benches on the beauties of the "Odyssey" and the aphorisms of the "Rig-Veda."

But the experience of the university extension courses which have been offered in Boston during the last three or four years seems to prove that the superior magnetism of the so-called bread-and-butter studies is just as pronounced in the outer world as it is within the college gates.—Boston Herald.

Native Brazilian Drama.

Brazilian authors have for some time been endeavoring to create a national drama for the big South American republic. Heretofore the plays presented have for the most part been of French origin. Le Brazil Economique, of Rio de Janeiro, now heralds a native success in "La Belle Madame Vargas," by Joao do Dio, a newspaper man of that city, a play which it is predicted will be the beginning of the Brazilian theater. The play is to be taken to Paris, where it is expected to meet the same success that it has had at Rio, and from which "La Belle Madame Vargas" may find the road to English and American theaters.

Former Ontario School Teacher Achieves Success Across Border

From a teacher's desk in a country schoolhouse in Mono Township, Dufferin County, Ontario, to a desk in the capitol at Washington, D.C., is more than a few steps up the ladder of fame.

To some extent at least Robert G. Bremner's political ambition has been realized and it must afford him considerable satisfaction to look back over twenty years when not much more than a boy he taught school at Granger, which was then as it is today, nothing more than a post office at the corner of a sideroad, and a concession line. It was in those days that "Bob's" ambition took root, and as day after day he gazed across the green fields and the wooded hills of Mono, he could see greener pastures and greater opportunities far beyond.

"Bob" Bremner—now Congressman Bremner—was the oldest of a family of eleven. He was born in Scotland but came to Canada with his parents when about four years old. His widowed mother still resides at the old farm on the Prince of Wales Road, near Camilla, Ontario.

About 1895 "Bob" went to the States to seek his fortune, finally landing in Paterson, New Jersey, where he became editor and proprietor of the Passaic Daily Herald. He had had some experience at stump speaking in Ontario and turned naturally to politics, casting in his lot with the Democrats, and now he finds himself representing a New Jersey district at Washington. "Bob's" education consisted of a primary training in the little red school house and a couple of terms in the High School at Orangeville, where he was a general favorite, as the result of his genial manner, and where he proved himself a good debater.

Eskimo Inventors

A collection of Esquimaux inventions exhibited at San Francisco, substantiated the claim that the Esquimau is the most able inventor and skilled engineer among uncivilized people. In support of this, the collection included the first form of the oil heater and cook stove, water-tight boat, arch used for building purposes, and waterproof overcoats, as well as the most perfect types ever developed of the fish spear, spear thrower and harpoon. The smoking pipes form a link with Asia, and their carvings with prehistoric Europe.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at the office of any Local Agent of Dominion Lands (not sub-agent), on certain conditions.

Duties.—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required in every case, except when residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside of his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties—Six months residence in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and 50 acres extra cultivation. The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land after report by Homestead Inspector on application for patent.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price, $3 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

Advertise in THE TIMES

Be a Weather Sharp

The following formula of weather signs has been found to give satisfaction:

1. When the temperature falls suddenly there is a storm forming south of you.

2. When the temperature rises suddenly there is a storm forming north of you.

3. The wind always blows from a region of fair weather towards a point where a storm is forming.

4. Cirrus clouds always move from a region where a storm is in progress to one of fair weather.

5. Cumulus clouds always come from a region where a storm is forming.

6. When cirrus clouds are moving rapidly from the north or northeast, no matter how cold it is there will be rain within twenty-four hours.

7. When cirrus clouds are moving rapidly from south to southeast there will be a hailstorm on the morrow, if it be in the summer, and if it be in the winter there will be snow.

8. The wind always blows about a storm in a circle; when it blows from the north, the heaviest rain is east of you; if it blows from the south the heaviest rain is west of you; if it blows from the east, the heaviest rain is south.

9. The wind never blows, even moderately, unless rain or snow is falling within a radius of 1000 miles.

10. Whenever heavy white frost occurs a storm is forming within 1000 miles north or northwest of you.

A HORSE'S AGE

There are things which we may reason out, and others which to be remembered must be in a sense memorized. One of the latter is the method of telling the age of a horse. Here it is set to rhyme so as to more readily stick in the memory:

To tell the age of any horse
Inspect the lower jaw, of course,
The six front teeth the truth will tell,
And every doubt and fear dispel.

Two middle "nippers" you behold
Before the colt is two weeks old,
Before eight weeks two more will come,
Eight months, the "corners" cut the gum.

Two outside grooves will disappear
From the middle two in just one year.
In two years from the second pair.
In three the "corners," too, are bare.

At two the middle "nippers" drop,
At three the second pair can't stop.
When four years old the third pair goes,
At five a full new set he shows.

The deep black spots will pass from view,
At six years from the middle two,
The second pair at seven years,
At eight the spot each "corner" clears.

From middle "nippers" upper jaw,
At nine the black spots will withdraw;
The second pair at ten are white,
Eleven finds the "corners" light.

As time goes on the horsemen know
The oval teeth three-sided grow;
They larger get, project before,
Till twenty, when we know no more.

CAUTION IN SPEECH

Unpleasant Matters Had Better be Allowed to Rest

Learn caution in speech; there is no need of telling all you know to every casual acquaintance. Be patient and achieve the joy of enduring a few trials. We are all called upon to stand for a good deal in this life; if not in one way, then in another. How we do it is what counts in the long run. The average human being, and especially the woman, is not given any glittering chances to distinguish herself by deeds that shine. Just bear what comes bravely—and to do this you will need self-control, the mastery of moods, the ability to realize that there are lots of others in the world with you.

If you don't conquer your sudden impulses and unreasonable whims they will conquer you in time, and you will find that life has grown stale and lacking in all interest. Lives are ruined, homes lost, friends antagonized all through sudden ways of writing letters or bringing up unpleasant matters that could better rest.

Let events decide your moves for you—in most matters. Few of us are masters of destiny.

The wise men were not so wise but that they chose to follow the star in the east that led them across the desert.

THE OLDEST NEWSPAPER

Suppressed After Fifteen Centuries of Publication in China

The "King-Bao," a Chinese journal recently "suppressed forever" by President Yuan-Shi-Kai, is without doubt the oldest newspaper in the world. In Chinese history and literature it has played an enviable and supreme part. For 1,500 years this publication has informed China of the important events in the known world, and exercised a profound influence upon the growth of the Chinese community.

At a time in which Europe was plunged in darkness, without the faintest glimmering of the future developments of book-and-newspaper-printing, a Chinese discovered that type could be made out of an alloy of lead and silver, and accordingly founded about the year 400 A.D. the King-Bao, which appeared without interruption until a short time ago. Originally the paper was printed upon ten yellow silk pages which were bound together like a book and sent to the highest dignitaries in the kingdom. In time this news-sheet became famous throughout China. Probably the most fascinating and significant of all the incidents in the history of the paper was the action and fate of a twelfth century editor, who wrote an article demanding that the Government should turn its back on tradition and ceremony and should "send clever men to Europe, to learn there, to see and to hear." For this advice the editor was beheaded; and his head, with ears torn off and the tongue plucked out, was exhibited as a warning to modernists in every town of North China.

A TENDERFOOT'S WOOING

—BY—

CLIVE PHILLIPPS WOLLEY

(AUTHOR OF "GOLD, GOLD IN CARIBOO," ETC.)

Supplied Exclusively in Canada by The British & Colonial Press Service, Limited.

For a moment he thought of calling to them, but men do not hail every passer-by on the prairie, and he changed his mind. He did not want anything of them, so he lay still, whilst they, without a pause or turn of the head, rode silently past him and disappeared in the mist.

"Indians, of course," he muttered, "they must have seen the horse." And then he fell to wondering why they had made no sign and why they were riding at that hour in the morning towards the Risky Ranch.

In the ordinary course of things though they would have passed by in silence, and near enough to satisfy their own curiosity.

He did not feel easy about it. The expedition of the posse had accomplished nothing unless it were to prove that the Chilcotens had broken up their camp and left the country, probably for an early winter hunt towards Tatlo Lake, and in all the years that he had lived on the plains and in B. C. Jim had never had any serious trouble with Indians.

He had become so used to them indeed as peaceful neighbors, that he had almost forgotten the red stories of which the plains used to be full: legends of burnt ranches, of men and women murdered across their own thresholds, and brutally mutilated in order that their long hair might trim a chief's robe. But those stories were of Sioux and Apaches. He doubted whether the Indians of B.C. had ever taken scalps until he remembered a hideous dancing mask which hung in the Boss's library that had tufts of long soft hair round it, as to the origin of which he had never hitherto troubled.

Now everything seemed changed.

There was a terror abroad on the ranch lands, not so much seen as felt, and though he scoffed at presentiment, he was conscious of it himself.

The cattle had been disappearing as they had never disappeared before; there had been no friendly visits from the Chilcotens as there used to be. Whenever he had met any of them, even before the quarrel in their camp, they had been sullen and silent and then there had been the reappearance of Davies' murderer and that unlucky quarrel.

Jim would have liked it better if the Indians had visited the ranch to demand compensation for those broken rifles, and would almost have been inclined to listen to their claims, but they had made no sign.

Just then [illegible] Jim turned his head in the [illegible] of the [illegible]. The five figures which had passed him ten minutes earlier [illegible] stood almost at his back, arrested in their stealthy approach by his sudden movement. He could see, though he had paused, how the leading figure gripped a short bludgeon which he carried, and he knew Davies' murderer and understood the look in that sullen animal face; but though his heart seemed to give a jump and then stand still, Combe did not attempt to rise or show any sign of surprise.

He understood why these five had crept up behind him, through the misty dawn in this featureless waste, but his hand only closed over the revolver which was sheltered in the breast of his coat, and he rolled leisurely over so as to face the five and bring his left elbow across the rifle which he had taken from his saddle before picketing his horse.

"Oh, Jim, Jim! You dear old Jim! Come quickly; we want you so badly," was what he seemed to hear; though as the five squatted silently round him they uttered no word.

Except for that bludgeon they were none of them armed, a curious thing Jim thought for Indians who carry rifles as townsmen carry walking canes, nor was he much less puzzled when he realized that these were the very five whose weapons he had smashed against the pine trees. Rifles were not as common then as they are to-day amongst the Indians, but as one of these was Khelowna, the chief, he at any rate should have been able to replace his broken weapon.

For what seemed like an hour the five savage figures crouched upon their hams around Combe, like wolves around a kill, their mouths shut, their limbs motionless, only their eyes alive, but those so vigilant that they seemed to follow his very thoughts. It is his vigilance and his eternal patience which enables the Indian to win in his life-long battle with the wild things around him. The beasts' senses are keener than those of his pursuers and he loves life, but the tireless patience of the hunter wears down the patience of the hunted.

Jim felt the power of this watching silence. It was as if he were being mesmerized. At last he broke it.

"Well," he said. "What do you want, Khelowna?"

The chief shifted his seat a little.

"What you doing here?" he asked.

"Taking a cultus coolie" (stroll).

"Too much cold wind. Cultus coolie no good."

"Then why are you out?"

"Indians got no grub. Got no guns now. Indians very hungry. You got any grub?" and he reached out his hand like a cat that steals from the table, his eye all the time upon Jim, and drew away the cartridge case which had contained the sandwiches.

That was the first move in the game.

Until that day no Indians on the Risky lands would have dared openly to take a white man's property from under his very eyes without leave, and Jim when he saw the chief take his cartridge case and search it, understood that the old restraint was breaking down and that a change was in the air. All the food had been eaten, but the flask remained in the bag, and this Khelowna opened, unscrewing the top with clumsy fingers and sniffing at the mouth of it like a beast.

"No more fire water?" he asked.

"No, there wouldn't have been any for you anyway. Think I'm going to be run in for giving Indians whiskey?"

Khelowna laughed, and his laugh was like a wolf's snarl.

"Whiskey very good for Indians. Any water here?"

"Plenty. Nothing but water in this cursed hole."

"You go get some," and the chief held out the flask to Jim, but though the blood rose to his face at the insolence of the bidding, Jim neither stirred nor held out his hand for the flask.

"You go, I say, hyak (quickly)," and the chief, who misinterpreted Combe's silence, pushed the flask almost into his face.

"Go to hell and get it yourself," the cowboy replied and his steady eyes met Khelowna's without flinching.

For a moment the chief hesitated. Then he threw down the flask with a laugh, and the murderer under the pretext of picking it up, edged a thought nearer to Jim.

As, even so, the Indian was not near enough to strike or grip him, the watched man never moved, and again the silent game of cat and mouse went on.

"You got good rifle, Jim?" asked the murderer, and he writhed forward and laid his hand on the stock of Jim's Winchester, pulling at it gently.

"Take your hands off," snapped the white man, and certain now that the Indians had not pluck enough to rush him all together, he whipped out his six shooter and covered his man.

Instantly the Indian's hand was withdrawn and a change came over the five faces.

The Chilcotens had only calculated upon the rifle, which they could see.

"What for you so mad, Jim?" asked Khelowna. "Indians all time good friends. He not want to take you gun."

"I know, I have plenty very good friends. Six here, the very best," and he glanced at the revolver in his hand.

Then he reached forward in his turn and took back the empty cartridge bag from between the chief's knees, and the silver flask from the ground where the murderer had dropped it.

For a moment he looked at the flask, and then a grin-smile flickered round his mouth, and looking Khelowna squarely in the eyes he said, "I think you go and get me some water," and as the chief hesitated, he tossed up the black muzzle of his revolver and added "Get."

At that moment the roan snorted, and Jim's quick eye noticed that there were only four Indians round him. Whilst he had been playing his game with the old chief, Kineeshaw had slipped from the circle. In a flash the white man was on his feet, and his revolver shot was echoed by a sharp cry of pain.

"Come back," he roared. "Kineeshaw; leave the knife there," and then dropping the muzzle so that it looked Khelowna straight between the eyes, he added, "You next if you move."

"Now get," he said, as Kineeshaw came back, "I want that horse and I want you out of this blanked quick. Hump it. March," and for the second time in a week he drove the five redskins before that deadly little weapon which has done so much in the States towards the equality of man.

CHAPTER XI.

Soda Creek

"You think you heap savvy Indians. You dam fool. I fix you plenty."

As they made for their horses, Kineeshaw shook his bleeding hand at Combe, and that was his last message. He knew that at a hundred yards a revolver was practically useless, and though when Jim picked up the Winchester the five hurried to horse and galloped swiftly away, at the clank of its pump, he almost wished that he had fired.

"As well now as later," he mused, "and it has got to come. It is pretty near a blood feud between us now. If they'd had a gun amongst them I'd have let them have it."

As he tightened the cinches of the roan, it worried him to remember that these five red devils had ridden off in the direction of the Risky Ranch. They meant mischief, of that he felt sure, but after all they were only five, Indians and unarmed, and he had left more than that on the ranch, white, and well armed.

It was his business to go and fetch the doctor. That was what Kitty wanted him to do, so he swung himself into the saddle, and rode steadily east.

Twice that morning he saw Indians, in small bands, but on both occasions he thought that he had been seen before he saw them, and was uncertain of the direction in which they were heading, and once, just before reaching the Fraser, he came across a large camp of Chilcotens, just preparing to move.

To his questions they replied that they were en route to Tatlo Lake, but they struck him as unfriendly, and lying for some set purpose.

If such things had ever happened in B. C. he would have suspected that an Indian rising was on foot, but that was practically impossible, and Jim dismissed the idea as born of fatigue and an empty stomach.

And then he heard the voice of the Fraser, and presently came over grey bluffs to that great river. It is never a pretty river, no, not even in springtime, when the patches of white flowering olall bushes do their best for it. Grand as it is at times, and at Hell's Gate and other places, picturesque, a show for the C.P.R. and a pleasing horror for tourists who ride safely along its precipitous banks in a luxurious Pullman car, its waters are too turbid, and its strangely shaped mud cliffs too weirdly colored with mineral matter, to be more than grotesque and uncanny. At the crossing where Jim struck it, the river was certainly not looking its best. Like the whole country it seemed in evil mood. The river had already felt the first touch of winter; small cakes of ice were thickening its dun-colored waters, grinding against one another, and rendering a crossing a matter of some difficulty.

However, the ferry man made light of it.

"It's all right, sonny, for twenty hours yet, and maybe for a week after that, but it's coming, it's coming sure, and if I was you I wouldn't get on no tear in Sody Creek as'll keep you more'n a week. If you do, you may have to wait there until you can walk across. A week on bug-juice ought to do you, though cow punching does seem to make man powerfully dry."

The ferryman was new to Caribou, and did not know Jim Combe, but he spoke from a long experience in other parts of the North-West, where prohibition had mightily increased the thirst of the people.

"All right, Cap." Everyone is a captain who owns anything bigger than a canoe in Canada. "I'll see to that. You be on hand in an hour's time."

The man laughed good-naturedly.

"Sure," he said, "I will, but you won't be. I never knowed a man yet as didn't calculate to do his business in half an hour, nor one as did it in a day. Seems to me this here metropolis had ought to be called Whiskey Creek 'stead of Sody."

Jim laughed at the old joke. There were many worse towns than Soda Creek, but of course there was whiskey in it.

"Do you know where I can find the doctor?"

"In the bar of the Ideal. Or no, stay! You won't get the doctor there to-day neither. He's away up to Snow Gulch."

Snow Gulch was fifteen miles outside Soda Creek, and Jim fretted at this new delay.

"What is he doing up there?"

"Guess he's gone as one of a reception committee to old man Hayes' place. The old man's got a raise."

"I thought he always was mine manager. Is he owner now? Got the mine for his wages?"

"No, thought that wouldn't make him a bloated millionaire by all accounts. The old man raised himself, sort of informal, with a stick of giant."

"Blown himself up? Is he much hurt?"

"Don't complain any, and I don't know as he ought to. He's only blowed the roof off his head, and that was never any good to him, even for carrying his liquor."

"Do you mean to say he's dead?"

"Dead as a mutton."

"Then why has the doctor gone out?"

"Give that chunk of ice a boost with the pole will you? That's bully," as the great cake slid down the side of the boat with a dull rasping sound. "Well, I don't know, I'm sure, why the doc's gone, 'cept that Sody is slower just now than a funeral. It's nothing here now but bug juice all day, and more bug juice all night, with interludes for crib. Not as a man really tires of bug juice, but it's monotonous even the way as the doc fixes it."

"How does the doctor fix it?" asked Jim, humoring him.

"Wall, the doc, he's got a sort of lay helper, what the gospel sharks back east call a deakin, and they've arranged to make what the doc calls a concession to the conveniences. They does it this way—doc he takes morning watch and the bottle, deakin, he takes the patients. Then doc and the deakin take dog watch together, both drunk for a spell. Then doc comes in for night watch, and in general manages to sober up before any of the boys get around. Drunk or sober, he's better nor the lay helper, so I guess your friend had better hit him a lick in the night watch."

"Cheerful for an invalid," commented Jim, as the ferry touched the bank.

"Oh, it's all right. This country ain't meant for cripples. I'll come along," and the philosopher who had really hit the nail on the head, tied up his boat, and loafed after Jim for his morning eye-opener.

The town (alone among its peers it never aspired to be a city), had once in the good old days of the Caribou excitement, been a place of some importance. Its grass-grown streets worn bare by many feet, but since then it had fallen a prey to stagnation.

The houses were mean and far apart, and except for stray dogs, and one or two melancholy looking horses tied to a rail, there was no outward visible sign of life.

As the horses were tied in front of the Ideal, Jim followed the ferryman's advice, and made his way into that high-sounding hostelry, a wooden building apparently of two stories, though its appearance was as deceptive as its name. Closer inspection revealed the fact that its top storey was a "bluff," being only a board extension of the front with nothing but the free air behind it.

But if the outside of the Ideal was dull and gloomy, inside the gloom was intensified. A more sordid interior than that of this saloon no man ever saw. A great stove which made a red glow in the middle of the bar room and raised the temperature to something nearly tropical, was the only apparent apology for any man's coming inside.

The floor, which had not been swept for weeks, was a chaos of dead cigar ends and a table at which three men [illegible]

A droway bar tender leaned on his elbow across the bar, watching the game listlessly, spitting and encouraging the players by turns, and in front of the stove a middle-aged man of immense brawn, sat hunched up, looking wearily into the glow.

Jim, who knew the man's story, wondered what he saw in the fire. A few years ago the loafer had been a steady and prosperous rancher in a small way, but his wife had died in child birth, and since then the Ideal had been his home.

Unless he lived only in his work the Ideal would have to be Jim Combe's home in the future. For lone men with nothing to look forward to there are only two alternatives in the West, work or drink, and Jim knew it. With a shudder he pulled himself together and turned to the bartender, who had begun mechanically to polish up certain solid little tumblers at the advent of a newcomer, whilst the whist players moved restlessly in their chairs, ready to "line up" to the bar at the first sound of those magic words, "What shall it be, gentlemen?" But Jim did not utter them, and the hope died out in their face. Instead, he asked civilly where the doctor was.

"Gone to a buryin'," the bar man replied. "It's all deadheads to-day," he added with a sneer, which invited the approval of the disappointed whist players.

"Will he be back soon?"

"It all depends, Mister, on how the corpse travels. Corpses ain't gay on the hoof, as you may have heard, and it's all of fifteen miles to Snow Gulch. Don't see why they couldn't have left the old man where he was. One place is as good as another to be planted in to my mind."

"There you're plum off the track, sonny," broke in one of the players reprovingly. "There's no call for a man to demean himself if he does live in Sody Crik. Old man Hayes was a decent citizen, fix it which way you will; took his glass reg'lar, an' paid for it when he had any dust, and if he owes you a blanked cent, say so, and I'll foot the bill," and the speaker, who looked anything but opulent, eyed the bar tender fiercely, and pulled out a greasy deer-skin sack.

"No, Jake, the old man didn't owe me nothin'. I didn't say as he did."

"An' you hadn't better, you slab-sided cross between a galloot and a buck nigger. I say as old man Hayes has a right to all the frills he has a mind to when it comes to buryin,' and I'd like to hear from the gent as thinks contrary."

To patch up the breach, Jim stood drinks. It is the only civility you can show to your neighbor in some places, and then for want of anything else to do, rather than in the hope of hurrying a funeral procession, Jim borrowed Jake's cayuse, and rode out to meet the burying party.

CHAPTER XII.

A Backwoods Funeral

On a steep bluff, through the heavy brush of which a narrow trail had been roughly cut, Jim found a party of about a dozen men, half of whom wore black coats. They were almost the only black coats in Caribou, and had been collected with infinite trouble to give tone to the proceedings. There was also one top hat. That belonged to the doctor, and was worn by him. The bottle, too large for a medicine bottle, which protruded from his coat pocket, belonged to the party.

When Jim first sighted them, the proper spirit of their occupation possessed them. Two and two they paced behind a sorry nag, at whose head paced the doctor and another. All had their hats off, and their coats on, and no one spoke.

Upon the horse's back was all that remained of old man Hayes, a white handkerchief bound reverently over his face, and his body decently disposed in a blanket.

In a corner of this, unfortunately, was caught one of those sharp-ended boughs which B. C. people call a rampike. Gently and without a word the doctor wrestled with the impediment, and the horse stood still whilst he did so.

At the next step a small bough caught the handkerchief and lifted it off the face. It was recovered and replaced without a word. As soon as this had been done the horse stumbled over an unseen log, and its pack moved up a foot nearer to its neck. The doctor's companion caught the beast by the head and jerked at its bit, as a hint to it to take more care, and at the same moment another rampike caught in the blanket. This time the horse could not stand still, neither would the rampike loose its hold. For nearly thirty seconds the two at the horse's head did their best to undo the tangle, then the horse plunged forward, the blanket tore, some of the lashings gave, and old man Hayes rolled out with a thump, brandishing one stiffened limb in ghastly fashion as he fell.

The doctor's mate swore, and his fluency made up for his former silence.

"This is a positive scandal, boys. It's irreverent to the dead," Jim heard the doctor say.

"It's blanked poor packing, that's what it is," retorted one of them. "Ed don't know enough to tie a granny knot let alone the diamond hitch."

"You tie it better yourself, you web-footed blue nose."

"That's dead easy, and I'll tie your blamed neck in a knot when I'm through with it," said the other angrily, taking off his coat to work and swear more easily. But he did not find it "dead easy."

"Cinch the beggar good and tight," suggested one. "Corpses ain't got no feelin's," and putting his foot against the horse he threw his weight into the rope.

"Hold on, Mo; you'll break him all up."

"Not much. He's stiff enough. There, git up now," and he gave the horse a slap on its quarter.

Frightened by its mishap, or more conscious of the dead nature of its burden than its masters thought, the horse bolted, galloped through the range of timber, and on to the open hillside, where Jim was standing, and there with two or three vicious bucks sent the body of Mr. Hayes rolling down the slope.

This denouement evoked a volley of imprecations from the mutes, but even that had no apparent effect upon the gravity of the late Mr. Hayes.

Never in his life had he proceeded with more deliberate dignity than he did then in his death. The pitch of the hillside was only just steep enough to induce a bale of goods to roll, so that the swathed body went down it in slow time, with grave pauses, whilst the limbs of it, which had broken loose, swung in solemn mockery as the body rolled over.

In spite of pauses, it would not stop. As soon as [illegible] moved to catch it, it swung its [illegible] and started again, regaining its momentum sufficiently to [illegible] agitators.

AN ENGLISH COMPANY TO SUPPLY TRACTORS

Factory to be Established in Canada With a View to Securing the Trade

Two more English manufacturing companies are establishing important branches in Canada, Henry Hope and Sons, Limited, of Birmingham, makers of steel window sashes, etc., and Marshall, Sons and Company, Limited, of Gainsborough, engineers and boilermakers. These are two additions to a small list of English houses with branches here, as compared with hundreds of United States companies with sales offices, warehouses, or factories in the Dominion. Both firms are incorporating Canadian companies to handle their business in this country. Messrs. Henry Hope and Sons, of Canada, Limited, with capital of $240,000 and head office in Toronto, has been incorporated with a Dominion charter. Messrs. Marshall, Sons and Company are obtaining a Canadian charter, and will establish a branch in Saskatchewan. The capital of this subsidiary company will be about $200,000. This company will seek to obtain a larger share of the market in Western Canada for tractors, which it manufactures largely. The company manufactures horizontal engines up to 2,000 horsepower; Cornish, Lancashire, locomotive, vertical boilers, etc.; undertype engines, simple and compound; vertical engines, simple and compound; portable and semi-portable engines; traction engines, road rollers; steam and oil tractors; threshing machinery for all countries; grinding mills; sawing machinery; oil engines.

INDIANS' "HIDDEN RIVER"

Region About Scene of Mayflower Disaster is Very Picturesque

The section of country through which the ill-fated steamer Mayflower for years plied her trips between Combermere and Barry's Bay is probably one of the most picturesque in Ontario. From the shore the banks slope to towering heights along the greater part of the way.

The shores in some places along the route are sandy while in others the rock rises straight out of the water. The country is sparsely settled and the clearings are not large, although it is an old settled district. Only about one-quarter of the land is fit for cultivation, which accounts for the small, irregular fields seen from the river and lake and which resemble tiny patches in the forest. Blueberry patches are seen here and there along the banks in which the Mayflower's passengers, as the boat glided along, were often treated to the sight of bears feeding on the berries during the summer season. The entire district was formerly a pine timber limit and owned by the old Skead Lumber Company, which had its headquarters at Ottawa. Fire swept over a great part of the limit about thirty years ago and the old pine tree trunks are still to be seen standing from Combermere southward.

From Combermere eastward the banks of the Madawaska river are very steep for the greater part, as far as White Lake. Madawaska is in Indian language "hidden river," so called because the valley through which it runs is so deep.

FOREIGNERS IN WEST

Austrians and Galicians in Alberta are Clever But Lead Monotonous Lives

At Calgary, Miss McLean gave an address on her work among the Galicians and Austrians in Kolserick, Northern Alberta.

In speaking of the women, Miss McLean said that they led a most monotonous home life. They cannot read or keep house properly. This latter is probably because of the lack of housekeeping conveniences. The only occasion of social festivities are marriages and deaths. The women have to work in the fields, and the results are that there are many beautiful gardens. The women often have beautiful embroidered dresses. They also have some very fine pieces of tapestry work, which are exhibited for decorations on festive occasions.

These foreigners are very ambitious and progressive. They are suspicious of each other, and will trust a Canadian more quickly than one of their own countrymen.

Their religion is one of ceremony rather than [illegible] heartfelt belief.

Had Stomach Rumblings Distress Before Meals

WAS SELDOM FREE FROM THAT WEARY, DROOPY, HALF-DEAD FEELING.

Now Cured, and Gives Good Advice to Others With Dyspeptic Tendencies.

If you have any stomach distress at all you will certainly be interested in the following experience which is told by Mr. Edward Dawkins:

"When I was working around the farm last winter I had an attack of inflammation," writes Mr. E. P. Dawkins, of Port Richmond. "I was weak for a long time but well enough to work until spring. But something went wrong with my bowels, for I had to use salt or physic all the time. My stomach kept sour and always after eating there was pain and fullness and all the symptoms of intestinal indigestion. Nothing helped me until I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills Instead of hurting, like other pills, they acted very mildly, and seemed to heal the bowels. I did not require large doses to get results with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and feel so glad that I have found a mild yet certain remedy. To-day I am well—no pain, no sour stomach, a good appetite, able to digest anything. This is a whole lot of good for one medicine to do, and I can say Dr. Hamilton's Pills are the best pills, and my letter I am sure, proves it."

Refuse a substitute. Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut, 25c per box or five for $1.00 at all druggists and storekeepers, or post paid from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

CITY AND DISTRICT

DASHES HERE AND THERE BY TIMES' REPORTERS.

Chamber Maid Wanted.

Chambermaid wanted at once at the Montgomery House.

WANTED

Chambermaid and Dining Room Girl wanted at once at the Montgomery House.

There Are Others ! ! !

Belleville Ontario: Two cases of reckless driving of automobiles will be tried in the police court tomorrow and a third will be tried on Friday.

A Hint for Peterborough.

Belleville is going to give a right royal Bay of Quinte welcome to the old boys and girls who are coming to the home town from Toronto on Saturday, July 19th by C.N.O.R.

Boys Were Discharged.

At a juvenile court held yesterday two boys small enough to pass through the eye of a needle on a remanded charge of stealing bananas from Mr. Oke. The magistrate discharged them with a warning.

Belleville Grocer Fined.

Belleville Ontario: Dan O'Donnell who conducts a small grocery on the South Front Street was this morning fined $100 and costs for having for sale 72 bottles of lager beer without a license.

Change of Local License.

Application has been made by Mr. Van Woodruff, who only recently took possession of the Grand Hotel, for a transfer of the license to Mr. E. O. McCrohan, of Toronto. The license commissioners will deal with the application on Wednesday, July 23rd.

Bad Storm Up North.

One of the worst storms on record passed over the northern part of the County on Wednesday afternoon. With the high wind and hail the size of hen's eggs, the storm took everything possible before it. Windows were broken and trees thrown down.

City Fathers Make a Bet.

At a meeting of the Board of Works a bet was made whereby Ald. Gordon buys Mayor Bradburn a new hat—one of the best that can be obtained—if the street paving plans are put into operation before Christmas, and if at least part of the work is not done by that time Ald. Gordon gets the hat.

A Coming Convention.

The Canadian Horticultural Association meeting to be held here on August 4th to 6th, when the Gardeners and Florists Association of Toronto will run a special train to Peterborough, bringing a large contingent, will be a big affair. Altogether some 300 visitors will be in the city and the [illegible] committee is determined to make good their promise given when they secured the convention for Peterborough.

Old Peterborough Boy Back.

Mr. W. Wright, representing the Steele Briggs Seed Co., of Toronto, an old Peterborough boy who was formerly on the staff of the late Jas. Campbell, grocer, was again in Peterborough yesterday on his 26th annual visit. Mr. Wright was the guest of Mr. Fred Walker, the local grocer, whom he first met in Oshawa 20 years ago. Mr. Wright, like all other Peterborough men is a live wire in business.

A Report on Local Power.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., when asked yesterday if the party would make a report on what they had seen concerning the Trent Waterway system and their trip to the North country, replied in the affirmative, and further stated that in all probability the Power Users' Association the Mayor and himself would meet and make a joint report to be forwarded to both Governments.

Improvements Victoria Park.

Another improvement is being made at Victoria Park. For several seasons the holes around the taps on the eastern section have been very dangerous especially at night. Mr. Cree, the caretaker, has overcome the danger by placing covered boxes around the taps. Whilst the Society is looking after the underground trouble why not put in a modern system of colored lights, that would make this beautiful spot adream of beauty by night? It would not cost a King's ransom to effect this.

Police Are After Him.

Yesterday afternoon, we are informed on the authority of two responsible citizens, that a bad case of "exposure" was in evidence in Victoria Park. A clean shaven man of about 30 yeart of age, dressed in a new straw hat, a new suit of navy blue and wearing new tan shoes was seated on a bench at the front, or Water street side of the Park, who acted in a manner that can only include him among candidates for a "de lunatico querendo" investigation. He entered a yard facing on Water street and gave every manifestation of either being a would-be burglar or a crazy man. The gentleman who saw him notified the police. The latter are watching for him.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Former Local Man Dead.

Word was received here yesterday that Mr. James Crossley, a former resident of Peterborough, had passed away at Winnipeg, last Friday, and that the remains might be expected to arrive here this evening via C.P.R. Arrangements have been made to have the funeral take place from Belleghem's undertaking parlors, on Saturday morning, to the Little Lake Cemetery.

An Affinity Chaser Here.

A few weeks ago a young lady stenographer employed in a local factory, saw in a Buffalo paper, the advertisement of a man who wanted a wife. For a joke she answered the ad., describing herseld as a "nurse." A correspondence began, after the girl had sent her photograph. Last week, she learned with horror that the affinity chaser had come to claim his promised bride. The girl quickly changed her boarding place, leaving instructions with the landlady to say she had left town. The wife hunter spent ehree days looking for a certain pair of brown eyes, hoping to bathe in their love-light and for a pair of pouting rosy lips he had hoped to kiss. He left for home on Saturday, leaving a badly frightened girl behind.

A Live Lindsay Lodge.

Lindsay Warder: L. O. L. No 32 of Lindsay, have a large class of candidates to initiate on Thursday evening, July 10th, when the Grand Organizer, Bro. McCartney, of the Grand Orange Lodge of Eastern Ontario, will be present.

It is expected the turn-out to Port Hope will be the largest the local lodges ever had. They will leave on the 9.20 special, G.T.R., returning from Port Hope on the 5 o'clock train. Arrangements are now under way in regard to meals at Port Hope and it is expected Lindsay lodges will be the guests of either the Methodist or Presbyterian churches, invitations having been received from both churches.

Kinmount Boy Badly Hurt.

A serious accident took place at Kinmount, by which Claude Austin, and grandson of Mr. John Austin, lost his right arm, below the elbow.

Claude, who is fourteen years of age, was helping in his father's saw mill, during the summer holidays, and while working near a gang saw managed in some way to fall against it with the result that two of the saws split his forearm in two places from the elbow to the finger tips, mashing the bone so badly that there was no hope of saving the member.

Medical attention was secured at once, and the unfortunate young lad was hurried to Lindsay on the afternoon train. At the Ross Memorial Hospital, it was found necessary to amputate just below the elbow.

To-day the boy was resting nicely, and doing as well as can be expected under the heavy shock.

Cured My Cough In One Night

Relieved Me of a Throat Weakness That Resisted Every Treatment.

"SUFFERERS, FOLLOW MY PLAN"

;'After being loaded down with a chronic hacking cough for months, you can imagine my joy at finding even a relief from it," writes Mrs. O. A. Tooker, of Monson, Mass., U.S.A. "I was troubled with an irritable throat weakness and asthma that simply defied every medicine I ever used. I was discouraged until a friend recommended Catarrhozone so strongly that I bought a dollar outfit from my druggist. I breathed in the healing fumes of Catarrhozone very deeply—used the inhaler five minutes every hour. After the first day I was better, and next morning my cough was gone. My asthma is cured, my throat weakness is gone, and I am well. For two years indeed, with the aid of Catarrhozone, I have kept perfectly well. I have also used Dr. Hamilton's Pills for constipation with grand results, and consider your remedies have done wonders for me."

Thousands of wonderful cures are reported every year. Catarrhozone does all that is claimed for it, and is certainly most efficient for colds, bronchitis, throat trouble, asthma and catarrh. The two months' treatment (large size), price $1.00, is guaranteed, smaller size 50c., sample size 25c., at all storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Canada.

A Quartette of Drunks.

At yesterday's police court, a trio of drunks were in the dock. The cadi remarked "The same old familiar face!" William Kelley and E. Bradley were charged as drunk and pleaded "not guilty." P. C. Bullied said he found Kelley and his pal holding hands on George street. They were staggering about and trying to get into Anthony's store to buy a pair of boots, but had taken the wrong store which at that hour was locked up. $2 or 10 days. Walter McLean was charged with D. and D., and pleaded guilty. He is working at the De Laval Co. $2, with 10 days to pay the fine. John Campbell, was charged with having caused a disturbance. He came to work at the De Laval Co. He was given 10 days in which to dig up a $2 fine

LATER.

Campbell was later on in the day picked up by the police again and will face another charge of drunk this morning.

Up-Stairs and Down-Stairs

If the Main telephone is downstairs, an Extension Telephone upstairs will add greatly to the usefulness and convenience of the Service. Upstairs or downstairs a telephone will be close at hand and the necessity for stair-climbing eliminated!

Incoming and outgoing night messages are often urgent. An extension telephone upstairs, in or near the sleeping apartment, will save time and add greatly to comfort and protection.

The extra expensive is trifling—hardly three cents a day.

ROUMANIAN MOVE TO END THE CARNAGE, WILL POWERS ACT?

Europe Invited to Intervene May Call Halt to Wholesale Killing of Men

London, July 11.—The Roumanian declaration of war on Bulgaria is expected here to assist in bringing to an end the carnage in the Balkan States by forcing speedy action on the part of the powers who have been invited to intervene.

The object of King Charles, of Roumania in assuming the part of a belligerent is to strengthen Roumania's claim to participate in the ultimate sharing out of territory in the Balkan peninsula. For the present, Roumania, it is thought, will probably content herself with occupying the strip of Bulgarian territory from Turtukai on the Danube to Baltchik on the Black Sea, including the city of Silistria. She has coveted this for a long time and it is believed she will accomplish her object under the prevailing conditions without Bulgarian resistance.

Will Not Resist Roumania.

Sofia, Bulgaria, July 11.—The Roumanian Minister to Bulgaria left his post to-day after notifying the Bulgarian Government that the Roumanian army had crossed the Bulgarian frontier.

Bulgaria has decided not to resist the invasion by the troops of her northern neighbor which she considers, however, an unprecedented provocation.

A PISTOL FIRED IN HOUSE OF COMMONS SCARES SOLONS

Simultaneously With Report Came Shower of Pamphlets: "Votes for Women"--Toy Mouse Traps Thrown To Floor--Militants Start Window-Smashing Campaign as King Visits Liverpool

London, July 11.—The report of a pistol shot fired from the strangers' gallery in the House of Commons to-day, accompanied by a yell of "Justice for Women," caused a panic among the members who were in session.

Simultaneously with the report a shower of pamphlets rained down on the members. They were printed with the words "Votes for Women."

Two persons pointed out as the perpetrators of the outrage were seized by the officials, hustled from the gallery, and detained pending investigation. It was later discovered that the weapon was merely a toy pistol.

A number of toy mouse traps satirizing the "Cat and Mouse" Act reached the members wrapped in the pamphlets thrown from the gallery.

Recognizes King's Visit.

Liverpool, July 11.—Militant suffragettes started a window smashing demonstration during King George's visit here to-day. Armed with pokers squads of women shattered several large windows along the route of the procession, but the police quickly rounded them uo and order had been restored before the arrival of His Majesty.

Heiress is Fined Fifty.

Newport, Eng., July 11.—A fine of $50 or one month's imprisonment was inflicted to-day on Mrs. Margaret Haigh MacWorth, daughter of the "coal king" David A. Thomas, by the police magistrate here for setting fire to a public mail box on June 26.

Mrs. MacWorth elected to go to jail. Her husband is Captain Humphrey MacWorth of the Royal Monmouthshire Engineers. He is the eldest son of Sir Arthur Macworth and heir fo the baronetcy.

A BRAVE LIFE SAVING DEED LINDSAY LOCK YESTERDAY

(Special to The Times.)

Lindsay, July 11.—This afternoon a daughter of Mr. John Carew, the well known lumberman, had a close call by death. As the youngest daughter of Mr. Carew was viewing the busy scene of steamers passing through the locks here, she accidentally fell into the deep water of the lock. The undertow of the gates beneath at once drew the girl under the water and she never rose to the surface. Whilst scores of bystanders saw the accident, no one volunteered to dive to her assistance until Joe McFadden, a laborer, realized existing conditions. McFadden at once threw off his coat and vest and dived into the dark waters of the lock. Just as only the heels of his boots were visible, he succeeded in getting a grip on Miss Carew's skirt. He brought her to the surface in a semi-conscious condition, from which she later recovered.

PERSECUTION FOLLOWS WOMAN, DRIVES HER FROM HER HOME

Parcels Were Sent From Big Stores Marked "Collect On Delivery"

Toronto, July 11.—What looks like a mean pursuance of petty persecution which has resulted in a respectable woman being hounded out of the neighborhood in which she lived, has occurred in the east end of the city. Evidence of the annoyance to which she has been put is contained in the following communication which was received at The News office this morning:

240 Withrow avenue.

Daily News:—Kindly put this notice for 3 nights.

Notice.

Between 6 and 6.30 this morning The man who was seen picking up a black pup on Withrow avenue near Pape, kindly return at once and save trouble, as he was seen out of an upstair window, Put in 3 nights.

Mrs. Benoit, 240 Withrow avenue.

Circumstances investigated by The News this morning revealed that the above letter is only one of many practical jokes played upon Mrs. Benoit by some person or persons whose chief amusement is apparently the exercise of cheap malice.

Parcels Sent to Her.

For some time Mrs. Benoit had been receiving parcels sent C.O.D. from big departmental stores downtown, presumably ordered for her by some kind friend. This "black pup" story is but another attempt at persecution. Mrs. Benoit has now gone to the United States, vacating 240 Withrow avenue.

When a reporter called this morning on a neighbor of Mrs. Beniot's he was told of the state of affairs. "Mrs. Benoit had no friends in the neighborhood but us," said the lady, "and for that reason people were curious to know everything about her. When they could learn, very little, someone began to play practical jokes on her, and to send her parcels from Simpson's and Eaton's C.O.D. Mrs. Beniot had no pup and never bothered her head about dogs, and I am sure she never wrote the letter. It is probably of a piece with the rest of the jokes."

The Landlady Laughed.

The News learned that no dogs had been lost, strayed or stolen on that part of the street. The landlady of the house, Mrs. T. M. Connor, of 267 Withrow avenue, possessed the only black pups in the neighborhood.

"Have you lost a pup?" said The News to the landlady.

"No, but I hear Mrs. Beniot has," she replied.

When The News told her that lady had never possessed a dog, she seemed very much amused, but could throw no light on the subject.

The house Mr. and Mrs. Beniot occupied is now vacant. They were a young couple and the neighbors say that the lady has gone to her parents and her husband has gone elsewhere.

RAILROAD BOAT FIRST

Winnipeg, July 11—The first boat through the canal will be a Panama Railroad boat, announced Colonel Goethals.

X-RAY INVENTOR DIED VICTIM TO THE RAYS

Burton Baker Continued Research Work Despite Warnings and Operation.

Hartford, Conn., July 11.—Burton E. Baker, inventor of the Baker X-ray tube and other machines of that type, is dead at his home here today following an illness since last September, since which time no less than nine operations were made. He was virtually a victim of constant exposure to the X-rays, and despite warnings of his danger four years ago, he had kept at his work until he had perfected one of the very best machines on the market.

MONTREAL POLICE CALLED CORRUPT

Good Templars Ask Sir Lomer Gouin to Put Force Under Competent Head

Montreal, July 11.—That the city police here are in league with a gang of hoodlums, who on Monday night almost killed John H. Roberts at the close of an open-air temperance meeting is one of the serious charges made by the Grand Lodge of Quebec, Independent Order of Good Templars in a letter forwarded to-day to Sir Lomar Goiun, the Provincial Premier, who is asked to control the Montreal police force, and place it under a competent head.

Mr. Roberts himself, in an interview, says that the local police administration "out-Beckers Becker," and values prudence and savoir faire more than honor, justice and right.

Mr. Roberts traces the alleged animosity of the administration to him to accusations, denied by the parties concerned, he has lodged that Chief Campeau and other police officials are connected with the Frisco Soda Water Company, whose products hotels and houses of ill-fame buy for "protection."

MORE EQUIPMENT FOR THE TIMES

It will be pleasing news to the many friends of The Times to learn that it has been decided to equip the office with a modern newspaper web printing press, with a capacity of from five to six thousand papers per hour. This has become necessary on account of the increasing circulation of the paper. This will make the third modern printing machine added to our equipment. The first of these was installed some weeks ago, and the second which is known to the trade as a double royal Optimus printing press, is now running in The Times building, and is a gem.

With the new modern newspaper press will come many improvements to the paper. It will enable us to classify our news, giving a sporting page, a society page, telegraphic, editorial, local and financial pages.

It is said that there is nothing that will do more to promote the healthy growth of a rising young city than a bright morning daily newspaper. Its advertising pages show the progressiveness of its business men, while its news columns likewise keep the outside world posted on what is going on within its borders. We therefore confidently appeal to the citizens of Peterborough to accord The Times a liberal support in its efforts to build up a strong morning daily newspaper that will be generally read and regarded with favor in all parts of Central and Eastern Ontario.

THE WEATHER.

To-day — Easterly, to southerly winds with rain.

DIG ADDITION TO CRESSMAN'S STORE

Rear to be Raised Two Storeys And Two More Floors Added

The A. W. Cressman Company, Limited, have found it necessary to enlarge their premises, and will proceed at once to add two storeys to the rear portion of their already extensive establishment.

This large addition will provide room for the over crowded departments on the second floors, and will add greatly to the appearance of the interior of this popular store. There will be seven new departments including one for furniture and children's goods. The whole ground floor will be entirely refitted.

BELLEVILLE WOMAN MUST STAND TRIAL

Mrs. Nelson Shaw is Charged With Giving Oil of Cedar to End His Life

Belleville, Ont., July 11.—The preliminary trial of Mrs. Nelson Shaw, of Point Ann, on a charge of attempting to murder her husband by placing oil of cedar in his dinner pail was concluded to-day before Police Magistrate Masson of this city.

The result was that the accused was committed for trial at the fall assizes.

Mr. Carnew, counsel for Mrs. Shaw made application for bail, but the Magistrate said the charge was of such a nature that he had not the power to grant it. Mrs. Shaw was remanded to the County jail.

TORONTO MAN IS HELD AT BORDER

Sarnia, July 11.—Eugene Mayette, and a young woman are held in Sarnia to-day after being refused admittance to the States at Port Huron.

Mayette has a wife in Toronto. His companion will be sent back to her home, and Mayette will be held till the department at Ottawa is heard from. He is an Englishman having lived in Canada less than three years.

LOCAL ORANGEMEN FOR PORT HOPE TODAY

This is the "Glorious 12th." The local Orangemen leave for Port Hope to participate in the big demonstration in that town, at 9.30. It is expected that some 600 of the local fraternity will visit Port Hope, augmented by some 500 from Lakefield.

Mr. Burnham, M.P., is one of the speakers going to Hastings to address the Orangemen. There will be an immense gathering there from Eastern Ontario. Mr. Burnham's subject has been advertised to be "The Pope or the People—which shall Rule?" His remarks will refer particularly to the recent decree of His Holiness the Pope, that the world must submit to him and that all nations must obey him.

G. T. R. PROPOSES FAST OTTAWA RUN

May Get Rights Over New York and Ottawa Line Via Cornwall--Improved Road

Ottawa, Ont., July 11.—It is learned today that the Grand Trunk Railway has made proposals to the New York and Ottawa Railway Company, which operates a line railway between Ottawa and Tupper Lake via Cornwall, which will possibly result in a more direct Grand Trunk train service between the Capital and Toronto.

The Grand Trunk proposes to secure running rights over the New York and Ottawa to Cornwall, where connections would be made with the main line; this would save the long run around via Coteau Junction. Before such an arrangement is formally entered into the roadbed of the N.Y. & O. will have to be improved, as the Grand Trunk will not run passenger trains over the line in its present condition.

A SWEDISH PRINCE TAKES TO THE PULPIT

Stockholm, July 12.—Prince Oscar Bernadotte, formerly his royal Highness Prince Oscar of Sweden, and a brother of the king of Sweden, is one of the most interesting figures in royal circles in Europe at the present moment. He is perhaps the only royal prince of the present day who has bidden good-bye to the vanities of court life in order to marry the girl he loved, and, with her, to devote the future to the cause of religion. Now he preaches and gives religious addresses all over Sweden, and in other countries of northern Europe. Of the self-sacrificing services he has rendered to religious teaching he and the princess received abundant prood at the silver wedding the other day when the different religious societies amongst which they have worked heaped presents and congratulations upon them.

Prince Oscar Bernadotte, who followed the profession of his father and was an admiral in the Swedish navy, married 25 years ago, at Bournemouth, in England, Miss Ella Munck, lady-in-waiting to Queen Victoria and daughter of Colonel Munck. The Muncks were an old family and the newly-married pair proved to be an exceedingly happy couple, living as well-to-do private people in a good Stockholm town house but possessed of a delightful country seat on the island of Gothland.

The children are counts and countesses of Visborg. The eldest son, Carl, is a cavalry officer and the eldest daughter is a sister of mercy—a Sofia sister. They are a singularly happy family, living quietly but on terms of perfect friendship with the court.

CULTIVATING A POOR CROP OF POLITICAL MAZE.

NO FEAR OF A MONOPOLY BY STEEL TRUST IN DOMINION

Nothing Unusual in Patent Issued to the Big Corporation --Canadian Trade Perfectly Safe

Ottawa, July 11.—A despatch from Detroit to the effect that the United States Steel Company, under the terms of the letters patent covering the establishment of a branch at Ojibway, Ont., issued by the Department of State, has secured an absolute monopoly of the steel business of Canada created much amusement to-day in official circles. The terms of the charter granted giving the U. S. Steel Company the right to acquire by purchase, or otherwise, other steel companies, are identical with those set forth in all charters granted by the State Department to Canadian or United States companies doing business in Canada.

Can Be No Combine.

The various steel companies doing business in Canada under the terms of the charter could be secured by the United States Steel Trust only by their consent.

In the event of any such combination in restraint of trade being entered into, action could be taken under the Anti-Combines Act to prevent the creation of amonopoly in restraint of trade. Officials of the Department of State, declare, most emphatically, that there is nothing unusual in the patent issued to the United States Steel Company.

PROF. GEORGE JACKSON MUST NOW FACE CHARGES OF HERESY

Former Toronto Methodist Minister and Professor in Victoria University Is Attacked by Conservative Wesleyan Divine Because He Said Miracles Were Unhistorical

London, July 11.—Great interest is felt here in the charge of heresy against Professor George Jackson, the famous Toronto Methodist Divine, which will be heard before the Wesleyan Conference at Plymouth next week. Professor Jackson was last year appointed theological tutor at Didsbury Theological College, near Manchester.

His accuser, George Armstrong Bennett, a leading conservative Wesleyan divine, demands the rescission of Jackson's appointment and his expulsion from the Wesleyan ministry. Bennett has written and distributed a pamphlet to every Wesleyan minister, entitled "The Doctrinal Crisis in Wesleyan Methodism," charging Jackson mainly with teaching that the early chapters of Genesis and many Old Testament miracles are unhistorical.

The general belief here is that the attack will completely fail.

BASEBALL

A large and enthusiastic crowd of fans attended the game yesterday at St. Thomas, when the Petes put one over on St. Thomas aggregation, by defeating them in a double header.

Brodie (late of the Petes) was in the box for St. Thomas, and the Petes went to him good. The scores:—9-3—8-4.

POLICE COMMISSIONERS HOLD A MEETING IN SECRECY

Yesterday afternoon the Police Commissioners met in the City Board Room. There were present Mayor Bradburn, Police Magistrate Dumble and Judge Huycke, chairman. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. A number of accounts were presented and passed.

A report against two constables was presented and the local reporters who represent the tax payers, through the medium of the press, were ordered out, politely, but firmly from the room. The police methods are seemingly not open to inspection of those who pay them. Such secret conduct of business, where the public pays the wages, does not look well in these modern days where municipal affairs are supposed to stand the limelight of newspaperdom. Every man present at this meeting knows that when Peterborough reporters hear a whole story where parts of such story are inadvisable to print, in the public interest, such details are usually omitted.

Such a local oligarchy should be as obsolete as the Inquisition of old and such methods reflect credit neither on its members, the city, nor the police force.

ITALY IS HAVING THE WORST JULY IN SIX CENTURIES

Cold is Remarkable for Summer--Snow Has Fallen in the Alps

Rome, July 11.—A terrific storm is raging through Italy, in many places the country has been devastated and the crops destroyed. It is accompanied by remarkably cold weather for the time of the year, the temperature in Rome to-day at noon falling below 60 degrees fahrenheit. Such weather in the middle of July has not been recorded in Italy since the year 1313, when superstitious people attributed it to the repetition of the number 13.

Rain Mixed With Mud and Ashes.

Naples, Italy, July 11.—Extraordinary falls of rain and hail have flooded the surrounding country for the past few days. Torrents of water mixed with mud and ashes from Vesuvius have inundated the villages along the Gulf of Turin. Owing to a strong cold wind from the north accompanied by hurricanes the temperature fell to-day almost to freezing point. Snow is reported to have fallen in the Alps.

HARRY THAW DONATES $1,000 IN CHARITY

New Orleans, July 11.—Thaw has come to the financial rescue of General Daniel E. Sickles from his cell in Matteawan. He sent a letter to Chairman Schoonmaker, of the Pennsyvania commission having charge of the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg, in which $1,000 in cash was enclosed.

In the letter Thaw wrote that he felt the deepest sympathy of General Sickles because of the misfortunes that had come to him in his old age. This sympathy, the writer declared, was heightened by the fact that Thaw had two uncles in the union army and a near relative in the Southern army. These circumstances impelled him, he wrote, "to offer a thousand dollars with which to start a fund for the payment of the debts of a gallant union officer who had in his old age been bowed by financial misfortune."

MIKE WANTED TO "WALK"

"See you again, later, Moike," said court politely as he departed.

"I want to walk yer Worship."

"Where to?"

"To Port McNicholl, and in the procission to-morry. I want to carry the colors."

In this way did Moike McLoughlin plead for liberty when charged with drunkenness in the Police Court yesterday. Whereupon the Court smiled because Moike's name is not that of an Orangeman's exactly.

"How long have you been out of prison?"

"Wan week," said Moike.

"But don't you think it would be better if you had another rest after a week of drinking?"

"I lave it to your Worship."

"What do you think?"

"I think I could lead a sober and industrious life," says Moike, who patently chooses a few high-sounding phrases from street orators.

He was let out, but as the Court official sais politely—"See you later, Moike!"

ROUMANIAN MOVE TO END THE CARNAGE, WILL POWERS ACT?

Europe Invited to Intervene May Call Halt to Wholesale Killing of Men

London, July 11.—The Roumanian declaration of war on Bulgaria is expected here to assist in bringing to an end the carnage in the Balkan States by forcing speedy action on the part of the powers who have been invited to intervene.

The object of King Charles, of Roumania in assuming the part of a belligerent is to strengthen Roumania's claim to participate in the ultimate sharing out of territory in the Balkan peninsula. For the present, Roumania, it is thought, will probably content herself with occupying the strip of Bulgarian territory from Turtukai on the Danube to Baltchik on the Black Sea, including the city of Silistria. She has coveted this for a long time and it is believed she will accomplish her object under the prevailing conditions without Bulgarian resistance.

Will Not Resist Roumania.

Sofia, Bulgaria, July 11.—The Roumanian Minister to Bulgaria left his post to-day after notifying the Bulgarian Government that the Roumanian army had crossed the Bulgarian frontier.

Bulgaria has decided not to resist the invasion by the troops of her northern neighbor which she considers, however, an unprecedented provocation.

A PISTOL FIRED IN HOUSE OF COMMONS SCARES SOLONS

Simultaneously With Report Came Shower of Pamphlets: "Votes for Women"--Toy Mouse Traps Thrown To Floor--Militants Start Window-Smashing Campaign as King Visits Liverpool

London, July 11.—The report of a pistol shot fired from the strangers' gallery in the House of Commons to-day, accompanied by a yell of "Justice for Women," caused a panic among the members who were in session.

Simultaneously with the report a shower of pamphlets rained down on the members. They were printed with the words "Votes for Women."

Two persons pointed out as the perpetrators of the outrage were seized by the officials, hustled from the gallery, and detained pending investigation. It was later discovered that the weapon was merely a toy pistol.

A number of toy mouse traps satirizing the "Cat and Mouse" Act reached the members wrapped in the pamphlets thrown from the gallery.

Recognizes King's Visit.

Liverpool, July 11.—Militant suffragettes started a window smashing demonstration during King George's visit here to-day. Armed with pokers squads of women shattered several large windows along the route of the procession, but the police quickly rounded them up and order had been restored before the arrival of His Majesty.

Heiress Is Fined Fifty.

Newport, Eng., July 11.—A fine of $50 or one month's imprisonment was inflicted to-day on Mrs. Margaret Haigh MacWorth, daughter of the "coal king" David A. Thomas, by the police magistrate here for setting fire to a public mail box on June 26.

Mrs. MacWorth elected to go to jail. Her husband is Captain Humphrey MacWorth of the Royal Monmouthshire Engineers. He is the eldest son of Sir Arthur Macworth and heir to the baronetcy.

A BRAVE LIFE SAVING DEED LINDSAY LOCK YESTERDAY

(Special to The Times.)

Lindsay, July 11.—This afternoon a daughter of Mr. John Carew, the well known lumberman, had a close call by death. As the youngest daughter of Mr. Carew was viewing the busy scene of steamers passing through the locks here, she accidentally fell into the deep water of the lock. The undertow of the gates beneath at once drew the girl under the water and she never rose to the surface. Whilst scores of bystanders saw the accident, no one volunteered to dive to her assistance until Joe McFadden, a laborer, realized existing conditions. McFadden at once threw off his coat and vest and dived into the dark waters of the lock. Just as only the heels of his boots were visible, he succeeded in getting a grip on Miss Carew's skirt. He brought her to the surface in a semi-conscious condition, from which she later recovered.

PERSECUTION FOLLOWS WOMAN, DRIVES HER FROM HER HOME

Parcels Were Sent From Big Stores Marked "Collect On Delivery"

Toronto, July 11.—What looks like a mean pursuance of petty persecution which has resulted in a respectable woman being hounded out of the neighborhood in which she lived, has occurred in the east end of the city. Evidence of the annoyance to which she has been put is contained in the following communication which was received at The News office this morning:

240 Withrow avenue.

Daily News:—Kindly put this notice for 3 nights.

Notice.

Between 6 and 6.30 this morning The man who was seen picking up a black pup on Withrow avenue near Pape, kindly return at once and save trouble, as he was seen out of an upstair window, Put in 3 nights.

Mrs. Benoit, 240 Withrow avenue.

Circumstances investigated by The News this morning revealed that the above letter is only one of many practical jokes played upon Mrs. Benoit by some person or persons whose chief amusement is apparently the exercise of cheap malice.

Parcels Sent to Her.

For some time Mrs. Benoit had been receiving parcels sent C.O.D. from big departmental stores downtown, presumably ordered for her by some kind friend. This "black pup" story is but another attempt at persecution. Mrs. Benoit has now gone to the United States, vacating 240 Withrow avenue.

When a reporter called this morning on a neighbor of Mrs. Beniot's he was told of the state of affairs. "Mrs. Benoit had no friends in the neighborhood but us," said the lady. "and for that reason people were curious to know everything about her. When they could learn very little, someone began to play practical jokes on her, and to send her parcels from Simpson's and Eaton's C.O.D. Mrs. Beniot had no pup and never bothered her head about dogs, and I am sure she never wrote the letter. It is probably of a piece with the rest of the jokes."

The Landlady Laughed.

The News learned that no dogs had been lost, strayed or stolen on that part of the street. The landlady of the house, Mrs. T. M. Connor, of 267 Withrow avenue, possessed the only black pups in the neighborhood.

"Have you lost a pup?" said The News to the landlady.

"No, but I hear Mrs. Beniot has," she replied.

When The News told her that lady had never possessed a dog, she seemed very much amused, but could throw no light on the subject.

The house Mr. and Mrs. Beniot occupied is now vacant. They were a young couple and the neighbors say that the lady has gone to her parents and her husband has gone elsewhere.

RAILROAD BOAT FIRST

Winnipeg, July 11—The first boat through the canal will be a Panama Railroad boat, announced Colonel Goethals.

X-RAY INVENTOR DIED VICTIM TO THE RAYS

Burton Baker Continued Research Work Despite Warnings and Operation.

Hartford, Conn., July 11.—Burton E. Baker, inventor of the Baker X-ray tube and other machines of that type, is dead at his home here today following an illness since last September, since which time no less than nine operations were made. He was virtually a victim of constant exposure to the X-rays, and despite warnings of his danger four years ago, he had kept at his work until he had perfected one of the very best machines on the market.

MONTREAL POLICE CALLED CORRUPT

Good Templars Ask Sir Lomer Gouin to Put Force Under Competent Head

Montreal, July 11.—That the city police here are in league with a gang of hoodlums, who on Monday night almost killed John H. Roberts at the close of an open-air temperance meeting is one of the serious charges made by the Grand Lodge of Quebec, Independent Order of Good Templars in a letter forwarded to-day to Sir Lomar Goiun, the Provincial Premier, who is asked to control the Montreal police force, and place it under a competent head.

Mr. Roberts himself, in an interview, says that the local police administration "out-Beckers Becker," and values prudence and savoir faire more than honor, justice and right.

Mr. Roberts traces the alleged animosity of the administration to him to accusations, denied by the parties concerned, he has lodged that Chied Campeau and other police officials are connected with the Frisco Soda Water Company, whose products hotels and houses of ill-fame buy for "protection."

MORE EQUIPMENT FOR THE TIMES

It will be pleasing news to the many friends of The Times to learn that it has been decided to equip the office with a modern newspaper web printing press, with a capacity of from five to six thousand papers per hour. This has become necessary on account of the increasing circulation of the paper. This will make the third modern printing machine added to our equipment. The first of these was installed some weeks ago, and the second which is known to the trade as a double royal Optimus printing press, is now running in The Times building, and is a gem.

With the new modern newspaper press will come many improvements to the paper. It will enable us to classify our news, giving a sporting page, a society page, telegraphic, editorial, local and financial pages.

It is said that there is nothing that will do more to promote the healthy growth of a rising young city than a bright morning daily newspaper. Its advertising pages show the progressiveness of its business men, while its news columns likewise keep the outside world posted on what is going on within its borders. We therefore confidently appeal to the citizens of Peterborough to accord The Times a liberal support in its efforts to build up a strong morning daily newspaper that will be generally read and regarded with favor in all parts of Central and Eastern Ontario.

THE WEATHER.

To-day — Easterly, to southerly winds with rain.

BIG ADDITION TO CRESSMAN'S STORE

Rear to be Raised Two Storeys And Two More Floors Added

The A. W. Cressman Company, Limited, have found it necessary to enlarge their premises, and will proceed at once to add two storeys to the rear portion of their already extensive establishment.

This large addition will provide room for the over crowded departments on the second floors, and will add greatly to the appearance of the interior of this popular store. There will be seven new departments including one for furniture and children's goods. The whole ground floor will be entirely refitted.

COUNTESS TARNOWSKI

the beautiful and wicked "Venus of Venice," who was sentenced to eight years' imprisonment for the murder of her lover, Count Paul Kamarovsky

BELLEVILLE WOMAN MUST STAND TRIAL

Mrs. Nelson Shaw is Charged With Giving Oil of Cedar to End His Life

Belleville, Ont., July 11.—The preliminary trial of Mrs. Nelson Shaw, of Point Ann, on a charge of attempting to murder her husband by placing oil of cedar in his dinner pail was concluded to-day before Police Magistrate Masson of this city.

The result was that the accused was committed for trial at the fall assizes.

Mr. Carnew, counsel for Mrs. Shaw made application for bail, but the Magistrate said the charge was of such a nature that he had not the power to grant it. Mrs. Shaw was remanded to the County jail.

TORONTO MAN IS HELD AT BORDER

Sarnia, July 11.—Eugene Mayette, and a young woman are held in Sarnia to-day after being refused admittance to the States at Port Huron.

Mayette has a wife in Toronto. His companion will be sent back to her home, and Mayette will be held till the department at Ottawa is heard from. He is an Englishman having lived in Canada less than three years.

LOCAL ORANGEMEN FOR PORT HOPE TODAY

This is the "Glorious 12th." The local Orangemen leave for Port Hope to participate in the big demonstration in that town, at 9.30. It is expected that some 600 of the local fraternity will visit Port Hope, augmented by some 500 from Lakefield.

Mr. Burnham, M.P., is one of the speakers going to Hastings to address the Orangemen. There will be an immense gathering there from Eastern Ontario. Mr. Burnham's subject has been advertised to be "The Pope or the People—which shall Rule?" His remarks will refer particularly to the recent decree of His Holiness the Pope, that the world must submit to him and that all nations must obey him.

G. T. R. PROPOSES FAST OTTAWA RUN

May Get Rights Over New York and Ottawa Line Via Cornwall--Improved Road

Ottawa, Ont., July 11.—It is learned today that the Grand Trunk Railway has made proposals to the New York and Ottawa Railway Company, which operates a line railway between Ottawa and Tupper Lake via Cornwall, which will possibly result in a more direct Grand Trunk train service between the Capital and Toronto.

The Grand Trunk proposes to secure running rights over the New York and Ottawa to Cornwall, where connections would be made with the main line; this would save the long run around via Coteau Junction. Before such an arrangement is formally entered into the roadbed of the N.Y. & O. will have to be improved, as the Grand Trunk will not run passenger trains over the line in its present condition.

A SWEDISH PRINCE TAKES TO THE PULPIT

Stockholm, July 12.—Prince Oscar Bernadotte, formerly his royal Highness Prince Oscar of Sweden, and a brother of the king of Sweden, is one of the most interesting figures in royal circles in Europe at the present moment. He is perhaps the only royal prince of the present day who has bidden good-bye to the vanities of court life in order to marry the girl he loved, and, with her, to devote the future to the cause of religion. Now he preaches and gives religious addresses all over Sweden, and in other countries of northern Europe. Of the self-sacrificing services he has rendered to religious teaching he and the princess received abundant proof at the silver wedding the other day when the different religious societies amongst which they have worked heaped presents and congratulations upon them.

Prince Oscar Bernadotte, who followed the profession of his father and was an admiral in the Swedish navy, married 25 years ago, at Bournemouth, in England, Miss Ella Munck, lady-in-waiting to Queen Victoria and daughter of Colonel Munck. The Muncks were an old family and the newly-married pair proved to be an exceedingly happy couple, living as well-to-do private people in a good Stockholm town house but possessed of a delightful country seat on the island of Gothland.

The children are counts and countesses of Visborg. The eldest son, Carl, is a cavalry officer and the eldest daughter is a sister of mercy—a Sofia sister. They are a singularly happy family, living quietly but on terms of perfect friendship with the court.

NO FEAR OF A MONOPOLY BY STEEL TRUST IN DOMINION

Nothing Unusual in Patent Issued to the Big Corporation --Canadian Trade Perfectly Safe

Ottawa, July 11.—A despatch from Detroit to the effect that the United States Steel Company, under the terms of the letters patent covering the establishment of a branch at Ojibway, Ont., issued by the Department of State, has secured an absolute monopoly of the steel business of Canada created much amusement to-day in official circles. The terms of the charter granted giving the U. S. Steel Company the right to acquire by purchase, or otherwise, other steel companies, are identical with those set forth in all charters granted by the State Department to Canadian or United States companies doing business in Canada.

Can Be No Combine.

The various steel companies doing business in Canada under the terms of the charter could be secured by the United States Steel Trust only by their consent.

In the event of any such combination in restraint of trade being entered into, action could be taken under the Anti-Combines Act to prevent the creation of amonopoly in restraint of trade. Officials of the Department of State, declare, most emphatically, that there is nothing unusual in the patent issued to the United States Steel Company.

PROF. GEORGE JACKSON MUST NOW FACE CHARGES OF HERESY

Former Toronto Methodist Minister and Professor in Victoria University Is Attacked by Conservative Wesleyan Divine Because He Said Miracles Were Unhistorical

London, July 11.—Great interest is felt here in the charge of heresy against Professor George Jackson, the famous Toronto Methodist Divine, which will be heard before the Wesleyan Conference at Plymouth next week. Professor Jackson was last year appointed theological tutor at Didsbury Theological College, near Manchester.

His accuser, George Armstrong Bennett, a leading conservative Wesleyan divine, demands the rescission of Jackson's appointment and his expulsion from the Wesleyan ministry. Bennett has written and distributed a pamphlet to every Wesleyan minister, entitled "The Doctrinal Crisis in Wesleyan Methodism," charging Jackson mainly with teaching that the early chapters of Genesis and many Old Testament miracles are unhistorical.

The general belief here is that the attack will completely fail.

BASEBALL

A large and enthusiastic crowd of fans attended the game yesterday at St. Thomas, when the Petes put one over on St. Thomas aggregation, by defeating them in a double header.

Brodie (late of the Petes) was in the box for St. Thomas, and the Petes went to him good. The scores:—9-3—8-4.

POLICE COMMISSIONERS HOLD A MEETING IN SECRECY

Yesterday afternoon the Police Commissioners met in the City Board Room. There were present Mayor Bradburn, Police Magistrate Dumble and Judge Huycke, chairman. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. A number of accounts were presented and passed.

A report against two constables was presented and the local reporters who represent the tax payers, through the medium of the press, were ordered out, politely, but firmly from the room. The police methods are seemingly not open to inspection of those who pay them. Such secret conduct of business, where the public pays the wages, does not look well in these modern days where municipal affairs are supposed to stand the limelight of newspaperdom. Every man present at this meeting knows that when Peterborough reporters hear a whole story where parts of such story are inadvisable to print, in the public interest, such details are usually omitted.

PINE TAR CORDIAL

Advertisements under above heads, 20 words and under, one insertion, 15c.; 3 insertions, 25c.; 6 insertions, 40c.

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 25c. and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 7c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 25c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., [illegible] George St., directly opposite Crossman's store.

SOWING HIS WILD OATS
REAPING A HARVEST OF SORROW

How many young men can look back on their early life and regret their misdeeds. "Sowing their wild oats" in various ways. Excesses, violation of nature's laws, "wine, women and song"—all have their victims. You have reformed but what about the seed you have sown—what about the harvest? Don't trust to luck. If you are at present within the clutches of any secret habit which is sapping your life by degrees; if you are suffering from the results of past indiscretions; if your blood has been tainted from any private disease and you dare not marry; if you are married and live in dread of symptoms breaking out and exposing your past; if you are suffering as the result of a misspent life—DRS. HALF MAN, HALF METAL

Canadian Bridgeworker Greatest Piece of Human Patchwork in the World

That a man's mangled body could be patched up with nearly half a hundred weight of metal, and the man still be able to take some enjoyment out of life, might seem an absurd statement, but James Thompson came back to Montreal from a New York hospital carrying forty two pounds of iron, steel and other metals worked into his anatomy. He is probably the only man in the world who can say that he is strong and alive after having lost the majority of his joints and eight major bones.

Thompson was in a bad plight when he fell from a span of the Quebec bridge, on which he was working three days previous to the collapse of the structure. He dropped over two hundred feet into the river, and when rescued was found to have every major bone in his body broken. So the unconscious workman was hustled off to New York to be used for experimentation purposes at St. Luke's Hospital. The house surgeons there took charge of him and proceeded to patch him up. After three years he came back to Canada, looking for a job.

In his head is a gold plate larger than a silver dollar; between his ribs are special steel girders; his elbows are of steel; six feet of new bone has been engrafted into the legs and arm. A steel bar holds his head erect, but prevents it from turning.

Mr. Thompson was offered big money to go on the stage, but refused. Several famous museums applied for his body "post mortem," and he consented to be embalmed and placed in the British Museum when death comes his way.

Tombstone as Weather Prophet

Upton, near Peterborough, one of the smallest parishes in England, numbering only fourteen houses, possesses a mysterious tombstone of black marble, which emits a damp ooze in patches when it is about to rain. It is regarded in the village as an infallible barometer.

FORTUNE FOR QUEBECKER

Three Millions in Russia for Son of Former Political Prisoner

The eldest son of the late Rev. J. J. Theakston, formerly of Sutton, Que., is said to have fallen heir to a fortune of three million dollars in Russia. The young man now lives with his mother in Worcester, Mass.

The late Mr. Theakston, who was well known in the Eastern Townships, was born in Russia, where he spent the early years of his life. While still a young man, he became implicated in some political troubles, and was sent to serve a long term in the mines of Siberia. Upon the expiration of his sentence, he came to Canada, and settled with his wife in Sherbrooke. He later received ordination as a minister, and received a call to a Sherbrooke church.

It is understood that the fortune to which the son of Mr. Theakston has fallen heir was a family estate, and that the young Canadian will receive it through the death of an uncle. There are valuable coal lands on the estate, and which have never been worked, and the figure of three million dollars is a very conservative estimate of Mr. Theakston's wealth.

Turkish Baths in Lapland

Even the large cities have not much advantage over the Arctic regions so far as Turkish baths are concerned. In fact this kind of bathing is much favored in the frozen north. In every village stands a hut, in the centre of which is a hollow mound of stones. A great fire is lighted in this, and when the stones have become red hot, water is thrown upon them. The water, of course, instantly turns to steam, which fills the hut, into which the bathers go, each armed with a switch. They then lash each other to ensure lively skipping about, and when they are all dripping with perspiration they rush out and roll in the snow, which makes an excellent substitute for the familiar cold plunge.

Treat for Prisoner

The coal strike gave a Merionethshire woman the treat of her life. Owing to the disorganized railway service she had to be conveyed from Carnarvon Prison to Bala—a distance of eighty miles—by motor car.

Advised a Wife

A wife at Acton, England, told the magistrate that her husband had not worked for twelve years, and stated that he did not intend to do anything. The magistrate advised her to leave him.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Now that the American flag has been trampled in the dust by a mob in Canada, it is in order, of course, for the Yanks to turn loose a few wild shrieks and call out the horse marines.

— • —

Things are exceedingly quiet in Ottawa at the Liberal headquarters, just at present, and it is safe to say that nobody is hearing any merry chueckles in the immediate vicinity of Sir Wilfrid.

We learn that "a course in personal purity" is to be included in the curriculum of some of our colleges, but it is not likely to be taken by the boy whose ambition is to become a politician!

The wandering Jews have made their rounds once more, and have gathered up all the rubbers, even the pair we were saving to throw at the bride and groom, and paid us two cents a pound for them. We will get them back next fall or winter with a slight advance in the price.

THE LAW OF THE AIR

By a decision of court rendered in Paris, an aviator is ordered to pay $3,000 in damages for causing his aeroplane to come into collision with another flying machine Rhile the two were making exhibition flights. There have been several law suits over patent rights in aeroplanes, and one or two in connection with breach ol contract, but this suit is, we believe, the first growing out of the mishaps which seem to be inseparable from the sport of aeronautics.

It probably indicates that the science of flying has gone so far that it is now possible to fix responsibility for accidents, or that the lawyers have come to the conclusion that they might as well make a beginning of that new litigation whose possibilities have so far been guessed at. We may, therefore, expect law-suit after law-suit until there are tons of records, learned works on the law of the air, understandings as to the proper conduct of birdmen while aloft, together with the rights of persons upon whom aeroplanes may fall or drop things, rules of the aerial road and solknown who owns the air.

BI-LINGUALISM UNNECESSARY

The book of the year in Canada among thinking men appears to be that written by Dr. Norman Black, of Regina, "English for the Non-English," an extended review of which has already been published in the newspapers.

Everywhere Dr. Black's book is being eagerly discussed. Newspapers throughout the Dominion have taken up the cause he pleads and quote him at much length, and with great praise.

Dr. Black has undoubtedly rendered the cause of education a great service by compiling and publishing facts regarding the education of the non-English speaking children in the Dominion. He conclusively proves that bi-lingual schools are unnecessary, and in that he gives a heavy blow to many Canadian politicians.

A MUNICIPAL SALOON

Sisseton, South Dakota, is the scene of an interesting experiment—a municipal saloon, or at least, as near one as the laws of that state will permit.

All the licenses of the town have been granted to one man. The excise fees will cost $2,200. He is to be given a wage of $1-800. The profits of the business above these charges will be divided half in half between the good roads' fund of the town and the general fund of the city treasury.

Two leading citizens of Sisseton are to receive and audit the daily income of the saloon. But the name of the city is not to appear in any transaction relating to it.

The Minneapolis Tribune has little faith in the success of the experiment, nor does it believe in this method of securing revenue from such a source. In the following comments it freely expresses these opinions:

"It is altogether possible this plan may work no obvious harm to Sisseton. Generally speaking, the fewer the saloons the better the town. Nevertheless there are phases of this project which are not encouraging. South Carolina found the state dispensary a farce. Young men were encouraged to drink by the reflection that they were patronizing a branch of their own state government. Graft sprang up in many counties. "Blind-pigs" were never so numerous in the history of the State.

"The delusion that the cause of good roads, or any othes cause, can be greatly helped by the revenue from liquor should be plain to everyone. Sisseton is to obtain $2,200 a year from this source as well as an unestimated sum in the form of profits. How is the money earned? B the sale of intoxicants. If the average profit is 33 1-3 per cent, then Sisseton must sell three drinks to her own people, in order that the price of one may go into her treasury.

"Municipal or state saloons may some time be regulated so as to lessen the penalty of the liquor business. But the trials of the past generation in this country do not warrant much hope."

Saskatchewan has government owned hotelkeepers. From a political standpoint this is a great success. The revenue goes into the public treasury, but the contributions go into the government's election fund.

THE PAS

Something About the Gateway to Hudson's Bay

The Pas, Manitoba, is known as the gateway to Hudson's Bay. In history it will be known as Opasquia, the Indian name under which it was recognised by the pioneer. The Pas can look back as far as 1781, the year that Pierre Verandrye and his sons found the place, then a settlement of hostile Indians, on their search for the "Western Sea." Later on, in 1785, Alexander Mackenzie arrived at Opasquia on his historic journey to the Pacific coast. A valuable relic is to be seen at The Pas to-day of Mackenzie's journey. It is a beautifully carved pipe, which he used to smoke in a peace conference with the Indians. The pipe is now the valued possession of one of the residents at The Pas. In 1845 a party which started north in search of Sir John Franklin, the explorer who tried to find the northwest passage out of Hudson's Bay, spent the winter at Opasquia. While there the followers of Franklin built a mission church, carving all the pews by hand and inscribing the names of the party on a wooden slab, which adorned the inside of the little building for many years. The present Anglican church at The Pas still contains much of the handiwork of the Franklin party. The main historic landmarks of The Pas still standing are the Hudson's Bay post and the chief factor's house, within their barricade of pickets; the old mission graveyard, and the Indian cemetery, with its many fantastic adornments, situated about two miles up the river from The Pas.

ORIGIN OF CARDS

Can be Traced Only as Far as Fifteenth Century

The origin of playing cards is lost in a dim and obscure past, and their authentic history can only be traced as far back as the fifteenth century. Various theories have been brought forward as to the source from which European countries obtained them. Some contend that they came from the East; others, that they had an independent origin, like that of the Swastika, the Egyptian charm, which, though discovered in China centuries ago, was known at the same time in Mexico. An idea once prevailed that they were invented to amuse a mad French king, the fact that a French document, dated 1392, shows an entry of a payment made for painting cards for Charles VI. They seem to have been used by the Arabs and Saracens for divination, and even now they are still used to some considerable extent for that purpose. It is also an established fact that in past ages many Eastern peoples, especially those of India and China, possessed cards which differed materially both in use and in design from those known to the Western world at a later day. It is impossible for one to trace the beginnings of card lore, but there is little doubt that the people of the East held playing cards in high esteem as mediums for the partial revelation of the unknown and included them as a part of their mystic lore.

Stuffy Feeling About the Nose Relieved at Once

Tells How to Cure Hawking and Spitting, and Drive Out Catarrhal Colds.

Isn't it miserable to have a stuffed-up feeling in the nostrils — to be scarcely able to draw a full breath. When Catarrh gets into the nose you're bound to know something is radically wrong.

A dead sure cure, and a simple one to use, is Catarrhozone; you just breathe it—that's all. You see Catarrhozone Inhaler sends healing piney vapors through the nose, throat and lungs, and these antiseptic soothing vapors are death to colds or Catarrh.

Thousands testify every year that nothing ever discovered will cure a cold, or help the throat like Catarrhozone. Mr. Everett L. Wassen, of Blair, N.B., writes:—"About five years ago I took a cold in the head, and Catarrh set in. It kept increasing by leaps and bounds. I kept putting off getting anything unt I at last I found I would have to. After trying several things I heard of your remedy, "Catarrhozone," and procured a bottle and began using it. I was not long in finding out I had struck the right thing. I am recommending Catarrhozone to all who have Catarrh, etc."

Catarrhozone is the greatest remedy for colds, etc., since people began to have colds. Get the dollar package and let the whole family use it. Medium size, 50c.; sample size, 25c. All storekeepers and druggists or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

SPORTING NEWS

BASEBALL.

Boston, July 11.—It is announced that George Brinckley, young brother of the Harvard football star, has signed a contract with Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Americans.

Brinckley has played second base for the Everett High School for four years. He led his league in batting this season, having an average of over .500 and making a record of twelve home runs in twenty-one games.

Toledo, O., July 11.—Pitcher Josh Swindell, whom New Orleans sold to Cleveland, and was later relayed to the local club, has been granted a layoff for the balance of the season. Swindell doesn't think his arm good enough at present and hopes to do a "come back" next spring.

It's news to us that Guelph and Berlin are to give a farewell tour. At present Berlin is in the hands of prominent business while Guelph is in a flourishing condition. Sounds like a Hans Anderson.

CINDER PATH.

Stockholm, July 11.—Jean Bouin, the French runner, in the one-hour race at the Stadium, today, covered 19,021.90 metres (11 miles 1443 yds.) This beats the world's record of 11 miles, 1,136 yards, made by Alfred Shrubb, the English champion, in 1904, by 307 yards.

HAMMER THROWING.

Chicago, Ill., July 11.—Matt McGrath of the Irish-American Athletic Club, established a new world's record for the 16-pounds hammer, throwing the weight 188 feet 7 inches. The previous record was 187 feet 4 inches

RING.

Washington, July 11.—Jack Johnson's announcement that he would never return to the United States caused the department of justice officials immediately to consider steps to bring about the forfeiture of his $30,000 personal bond pending in Chicago for his appearance in connection with white slave indictments upon which he has not yet been tried

Judge Carpenter a few days ago declined to declare the bond forfeited until it was clear that Johnson would not appear when wanted. The department of justice, it is said, probably, will seek official confirmation of his announced purpose not to return, and present the matter again to Judge Carpenter.

MAY DEPORT.

Jack Johnson may not fine refuge in France, is the opinion of the state department officials. They say that while probably there is no provision in the extradition treaty with France under which his surrender could be demanded, the French authorities, even without a formal appeal from the United States Government, may deport Johnson, as like most European countries, France is understood to have laws prohibiting the immigration of a person convicted of crime in his own country.

Houston, Tex., July 11. — Police stopped the scheduled ten-round bout between Frankie Conley, of Kenosha, Wis., and Billy Doyle, of New Orleans, here Friday night at the end of the second round, when they raided the Houston Athletic Club and placed the two fighters and B. J. Parker, manager of the club, under arrest.

Los Angeles, July 11.—Mrs. Rhoda McCarty, widowed by the blow of Arthur Pelkey's fist that killed Luther McCarty in the arena at Calgary, Alberta, on May 24, is in Los Angeles to claim the $8,200 account her husband had with the German-American Savings Bank.

TURF.

Fort Erie, Ont., July 11.—Only three horses started in the Canadian Derby yesterday, and John Whalen's Buskin was the winner, after making the pace practically all the way, something he never did before. Horron was withdrawn because of an attack of high fever, which was, however, broken up during the night. First Sight was second and Barnegat third.

The Turney Stable won the handicap with Flabbergast and a selling race with Glint. Plate Glass, carrying 129 pounds, raced with Flabbergast for about six furlongs and then dropped back.

Mr. Seagram's Dark Rosaleen, in the race for Canadian-bred fillies, bolted to the outside fence at the head of the stretch, was taken back to the inside rail again, and still won comfortably from Diamond Cluster.

Steeplechase Jockey G. Peace was suspended for carelessly pulling up Jack Dennerlen, when fifty yards from the finish, and allowing Lizzie Flat to beat him for the place.

CRICKET.

In their annual cricket match Cambridge defeated Oxford by four wickets, bah Jove. All of which will be sad news for Longboat Taylor, who is taking a Rhodes scholarship.

Bladder and Kidney Troubles

Are caused by poisoning impurities which clog the Kidneys; intense pain is the result and sleepless nights follow. The patient becomes annoyed with sharp pains shooting through the back and up the spine. These pains often so violent and acute that the victim suffers the greatest agony and is driven almost to despair. The refuse and sediment which settled in the Kidneys must be removed in order to procure relief.

SANOL, the Kidney Cure, is the only reliable remedy which has a combined effect of acting on the kidneys, and restoring them to their natural condition, and removing Kidney, Bladder and Gall Stones by dissolving same. It cleanses and purifies the system, strengthens and invigorates the Kidneys, and encourages proper filtration. It relieves the pain and gives strength and energy to the body. Price $1.50 per bottle.

FIRST WESTERN PAPER

Made its Appearance on December 28, 1859

The Nor'-Wester, the pioneer newspaper of Red River, founded by William Buckingham and William Coldwell, made its first appearance on December 28, 1819. It consisted of four pages of five columns. The lengthy prospectus published in the first number took for its text the country watered by the Red, Assiniboine and Saskatchewan Rivers. The declared aim of the Nor'-Wester was to stimulate the industrial life of the Settlement and to assist in the work of Government organization. It is a curious commentary on the state of the country in the late 'fifties that most of the advertisements of the first number of the Nor'-Wester came from St. Paul. The paper constitutes a gold mine of information for the closing decade of the history of the Council of Assiniboia, the first local administrative body of the west. It reports the proceedings of the courts, gives agricultural and commercial intelligence, publishes the regulations of the Red River Post Office, gives in full Bishop Anderson's charge to the clergy of Rupert's Land, prints editorials on the progress of the Settlement, and protests against the Council of Assiniboia as a form of government.

MILLIONS IN FISH

Still the Industry at the Coast is Only in its Infancy

The fisheries of British Columbia are the most valuable in the Dominion. Of the $35,000,000 worth of fish produced from all the Provinces in Canada last season this one contributed fish to the value of $14,000,000. Salmon, halibut and herring are the three chief varieties of fish which inhabit the waters of British Columbia, and of these salmon are the most valuable. The Fraser River, especially that section of it flowing through the lower mainland, contributes most liberally to the fisheries of the Province. The salmon pack in all parts of British Columbia last year amounted to 996,576 cases, of which the lower mainland district, including the Province's largest canneries at New Westminster, contributed 173,921 cases, or almost twenty per cent. of the entire pack. The fishing business on "the coast" is only in its infancy. The rivers of the northern part of the interior are practically unknown, so far as their fertility is concerned, and the fishermen on the coast are only beginning to realise the immense wealth which lurks in the numerous bays and inlets of the Pacific coast.

TRADE IN TRACTORS

Some Idea of the Volume of Western Machinery Business

In one week a special freight train consisting of forty-five flat cars loaded with gasoline tractors arrived in Winnipeg from Minneapolis. The total length of the train was 1,800 feet, and was one of the largest shipments of one agricultural implement ever made in Canada. Each of these gasoline tractors will plow, disc and drill 2,000 acres in a season, so that the total acreage covered by the forty-five tractors would amount to 90,000 acres. It is also estimated that each engine will travel 3,000 miles in a season. The tractors are all thirty horsepower and identical in every way. The value of the shipment was $175,000, while the duty amounted to $24,000, and the freight charges $3,150. The train went to Regina, where one-half of the engines were unloaded, the other half going to Saskatoon.

Every Coin Has its Jingle

Dr. Bickersteth, vicar of Leeds, inveighed at a vestry meeting against the niggardliness of worshippers at the Leeds Parish Church. People, he said, sat in a stall and contributed little or nothing to the church's expenses. It was really abominable and scandalous. There were people who expected everything for nothing. A churchwarden, endorsing the vicar's regret at the poor response made to the collections, recalled that on a recent Sunday he received from a lady in the stalls the magnificent sum of a halfpenny. "Some people," he said, "think that if they put a copper under the lid we do not know whether it is a shilling or a halfpenny. That is quite a mistake, for every coin is known by its jingle."

Edible Insects

Certain insects, resembling the northern June bugs, are found in great quantities in the high plains about Quito, and are toasted by the natives and eaten as a delicacy. They are also sold in the streets, just as peanuts or other nuts would be. A traveller tasted one and found that it was very much like toasted bread with no particular flavor. While this may seem a curious and perhaps repulsive form of food, it is really no worse than soft shell or oyster crab which last-named is generally eaten while still alive. It is a matter of custom.

Warships to Fight Fires

The big battleships of the United States are to be used to fight fires in cities along the Atlantic coast, according to letters of inquiry received by the fire chiefs of these cities from the Government relative to the sizes of hose and kinds of couplings in use by their respective fire departments. As all the warships are equipped with powerful pumps that can throw large streams of water a long distance, the Government proposes to couple these pumps to the city's fire hose in case any of the vessels should happen to be in port at the time of a fire.

The Tramp's Tale

A tramp called upon a pronounced advocate of woman's right. His tale was a very plausible one, but did not seem to meet with much sympathy.

"Why don't you go to work?" asked the lady.

"Please, ma'am," explained the beggar, "I made a solemn vow ten years ago that I would never do another stroke of work till women were paid the same wages as men."

He was taken in. So was she.

CANADIAN SCHOLARS IN UNITED STATES

A Few of the Eminent Men From Canada Who Are Prominent in American Education

Cyrus McMillian, writing in the Canada Monthly, has the following to say of eminent Canadian scholars who have reached great prominence in the United States:

"Canada's population is comparatively small, and her educational history is comparatively brief. Yet Canada has done more than her share in giving to the world a number of eminent scholars whose writings and researches have increased the store of human knowledge. She has contributed largely in brains and service to the greatest American universities, until almost every university of note in the United States numbers one or more Canadians on its staff. The majority of these men are leading authorities in their special fields of study, and the results of their researches are accepted with espect by scholars throughout the world. This latter fact accounts, perhaps, for the eagerness of American colleges to secure their services. That this band of outstanding scholars should be lost to Canada at the time of her growth and critical development is unfortunate. Why they are lost is an unanswered question. It is pointed ut in explanation that Canada has no strong graduate school in which students are trained for educational careers; that consequently students seeking graduate instruction must enter the large graduate schools of the United States colleges; that because of liberal inducements they remain in the alien country and are lost to their own land. This explanation is not without force. The graduate school problem is one which the larger Canadian colleges are to-day trying hard to solve.

Recognition in Canada

Another theory is the old one of the prophet without honor in his own country. It is said that Canadians in college work have no recognition in their own land; that, when a vacancy occurs on the staff of a Canadian university, Canadians are ignored and the vacancy is invariably filled by a man from an overseas school or college who is frequently but poorly qualified for his task. "A Canadian university is a good place for a Canadian scholar to avoid, if he wishes promotion," said a noted Canadian-born professor in the United States recently. How well-founded is this theory, the Canadian colleges can answer. The regrettable fact is that a glance at the faculty of the majority of Canadian colleges shows it to be not without truth. Some of the foremost American universities have Canadian-born presidents. President J. G. Schurman, of Cornell, is a native of Prince Edward Island; he received his early college training in Canada. President Hill, of the University of Missouri, is a native of Nova Scotia; he took his first college degree at Dalhousie. The group of Canadian-born professors connected with the teaching forces of American colleges is a very large one. Professor Le Rossignol, the noted economist of the University of Colorado, and Professor MacDougall, the eminent psychologist of New York, are both graduates of McGill, and claim Canada as their home-land.

But of all United States colleges, Harvard University has the largest number of Canadian-born professors on its staff. Of these, the majority are from Ontario. Canadianism at Harvard is illustrated not alone by the number of Canadian students and professors.

Numerous at Harvard

Of the distinguished group of Canadian-born professors at Harvard, the oldest is Dr. S. M. McVane, Emeritus Professor of History. Dr. McVane is a native of Prince Edward Island. He was graduated from Acadia College in Nova Scotia in 1866. Dr. Benjamin Rand, Librarian of the Philosophical Library at Harvard, is well known to Canadians. He was one of the founders of the Harvard Canadian Club, and is still its leading spirit. Dr. Rand is a native of Nova Scotia, and like Professor McVane a graduate of Acadia College. Dr. W. A. Neilson, Professor of English, is a Scotchman by birth, but he has lived long enough in Canada to be called a Canadian. After graduating from Edinburgh University, he came to Ayr, Ontario. For a time he was connected with the staff of Upper Canada College.

Dr. E. C. Jeffrey, Professor of Botany, is a native of St. Catherines, Ontario. He was graduated from Toronto University in 1888. He became a Fellow in Biology in Toronto University in 1889, and two years later lecturer in that subject. Dr. W. H. Schofield, Chairman of the Department of Comparative Literature, was born in Brockville, Ontario. He was graduated from Victoria University, Toronto, in 1889. Dr. W. B. Munro, Professor of Government, is a native of Ontario. He was graduated from Queen's University, and later received his Ph.D. degree in Government from the Harvard Graduate School.

Dr. W. S. Ferguson, Professor of Classical History, is a native of Prince Edward Island. He was graduated from McGill University in 1896.

Dr. K. G. T. Webster, Instructor in English, is a native of Nova Scotia. He was graduated from Dalhousie University in the early nineties. The members of the above group of Canadian scholars at Harvard are more than investigators and authorities; they are sympathetic teachers. To Canadian school-boys they are outstanding and brilliant examples of the results of industry, perseverance, and study.

Explosive Manufactures

South Africa not only supplies itself with explosives, but exports dynamite in large quantities to Australia and the East. The saving to Australian mines by this means is estimated to be £125,000 a year.

Fancy Flat Braids

Most unusual in their combination of colors are many of the flat braids shown for trimming gowns. They come from the tiniest of edgings not a quarter of an inch in width to one three or four inches wide. While the Bulgarian note is sounded in many of them, the softer colorings, especially when combined with tinsel, are decidedly fetching. The blues and greens combined with the metal, whether separately or in combination, are charming.

ALLURING ISLES

Queen Charlotte Islands Have Oil and Coal Possibilities

Neglected, yet alluring, is the Queen Charlotte group of islands, about eighty miles from the mainland of British Columbia. With a mild climate, a rainfall of less than 40 inches, and a fertile soil, Graham Island, the and the reservation of lands by the group, could become an agriculturist's paradise. Fortunately, or unfortunately, the island has large coal measures, and the reservation of lands by the coal-staking companies has greatly retarded settlement. On its west coast several companies are now engaged in boring for oil, a large district having been declared by the Dominion Geological Survey, and by numerous oil experts from California, to be oil lands. One bore, after reaching 1,200 feet depth, and bringing up oil with the cores, had to be abandoned, as, in the haste to find out if they had great riches, the engineers had allowed the bore to get out of plumb, and the work had to be begun over again, if the 1,700-foot level—at which oil is prophesied—is to be reached. The north shore of Graham Island has a great, sandy beach twenty files or more long, two miles broad and as level as a billiard table. Some day the mining millionaires of the north may use it as a race-track for their automobiles.

WESTERN TRAVELLERS

Commercial Men in the West Number a Small Army

The growth of a country is well told in the growth of the commercial travellers within its confines. And the story that the knights of the grip tell in their annual report for the past year is but the story of the great and rapid strides that the northwest has made in the way of progress in this last year. Nearly thirteen hundred new drummers made the prairies their field of operation last year, and the total is now swollen to the high figure of 7,015. Trade continues to progress at a rapid rate, and the travellers say that their numbers will still continue to increase in similar fashion in the years to come. Where are these travellers located. Mostly in Winnipeg, but they have scattered their homes over the face of the west. Here are their locations: Winnipeg, 3,190; Brandon, 190; Regina, 700; Saskatoon, 462; Calgary, 977; Edmonton, 279; Lethbridge, 114; Vancouver, 810; Victoria, 61; Nelson, 106; Fort William, 36.

The Hawk and the Crows

Day after day and week after week as I look through the big, open barn door I see a marsh-hawk beating about low over the fields. He, or rather she (for I see by the greater size and browner color that it is the female), moves very slowly and deliberately on level, flexible wing, now over the meadow, now over the oat or millet field, then above the pasture and the swamp, tacking and turning, her eye bent upon the ground, and no doubt sending fear or panic through the heart of many a nibbling mouse or sitting bird. She occasionally hesitates or stops in her flight and drops upon the ground, as if seeking insects or frogs or snakes. I have never yet seen her swoop or strike after the manner of other hawks. It is a pleasure to watch her through the glass and see her make these circuits of the fields on effortless wing, day after day, and strike no bird or other living thing, as if in quest of something she never finds. I never see the male. She has perhaps assigned him other territory to hunt over. He is smaller, with more blue in his plumage. One day she had a scrap or a game of some kind with three or four crows on the side of a rocky hill. I think the crows teased and annoyed her. I heard their cawing and saw them pursuing the hawk, and then saw her swoop upon them or turn over in the air beneath them, as if to show them what feats she could do on the wing that were beyond their powers. The crows often made a peculiar guttural cawing and cackling as if they enjoyed the sport, but they were clumsy and awkward enough on the wing compared to the hawk. Time after time she came down upon them from a point high in the air, like a thunderbolt, but never seemed to touch them. Twice I saw her swoop upon them as they sat upon the ground and the crows called out in half-sportive, half-protesting tones, as if saying, "That was a little too close; beware, beware!" It was like a skillful swordsman flourishing his weapon about the head of a peasant; but not a feather was touched so far as I could see. It is the only time I ever saw the hawk in a sportive or aggressive mood. I have seen jays tease the sharp-shinned hawk in this way, and escape his retaliating blows by darting into a cedar tree. All the crow tribe, I think, love to badger and mock some of their neighbors.—John Burroughs.

Projectile's Gain of Speed

Experiments with improved instruments for measuring the velocity of projectiles have shown that the speed goes on increasing after the missile has left the mouth of the cannon. Leaving the muzzle with a velocity of 1,474 feet a second, a projectile has been observed to increase its speed to 1,689 feet a second within the first six feet. It is only after having travelled twenty-five yards that the projectile's velocity becomes reduced to the speed it had on leaving the muzzle. This is ascribed to the impulse of the expanding gas being felt for some distance beyond the cannon's mouth.

Alabaster Sphinx Found

Another sphinx, weighing 90 tons and carved from a single block of alabaster, was unearthed at a point between the world-famed Colossi on the water-logged plains of Memphis in Egypt. For hundreds of years it has lain in a recumbent position buried beneath the sands on the road to Sakkareh. This newly found sphinx was betrayed in its hiding place by its tail, which Mr. Mackay, one of the students of the British school in Egypt, discovered about a year ago. The figure bears no inscription, but it is considered by Prof. Flinders Petrie, the director of the British school in Egypt, to have been carved about 1800 B.C.

Pelting a Motorist

For throwing a stone through the glass screen of a motor-car and injuring two of the occupants, Edith Willis, a middle-aged woman, was sentenced at Bromley to six weeks' hard labor. Miss Dot Laird, the owner of the car, was cut on the lip by broken glass and a companion's ear was cut. Willis, it was stated, said that some motorists had laughed at her; "I will have my revenge," she added.

When to Take a Bath

A cold sponge bath on rising is a good tonic. But the bathroom should be warm; and vigorous friction with a rough towel should follow, says John B. Huber in "Good Health." A cold bath in a chilly room may depress a weak system; here tepid water should be substituted for cold. The feeble might stand, while taking a cold sponge bath, in a bath-tub in which there is very warm water up to the ankles. A warm water bath at bedtime is excellent, if one can immediately get to bed without exposure.

HEALING AFFECTIONS

Methods of Various Countries in Dealing With Love Affairs

From the point of view to the plaintiff England is said to be the most satisfactory spot to instigate a breach of promise suit. Other countries seem much less inclined to try and heal the snapped cords of affection by any pecuniary recompense and unless the case is wonderfully strong it doesn't pay the aggrieved party to go to court. Germany, for instance, has taken serious measures to prevent such ruptures and is loath to side with either party in case a break occurs. When a couple becomes engaged in that land they must go through a public betrothal, signing their willingness to marry in the local town hall. Later, should either party wish to withdraw they have to take a trip back to the same hall and sign some more documents. Often a man seeks a recompense for his wounded affections, and the usual award is one-fifth of the marriage dowry. In Italy the law demands that the person instigating the breach of promise suit shall produce a written promise to marry. Otherwise the suit is dropped. In France the suits are rare, for the law there requires that the plaintiff prove a definite loss. This is no easy thing for the suffering lady to do, especially in a country where the girl with no dot has a poor chance of ever becoming engaged. Austria has also adopted the French system and the relatives of the injured girl generally have to take the law into their own hands.

The illustration shows an afternoon dress of gold colored panne velvet. The skirt of this frock is slightly gathered about the waist and is caught up at the side just over the front with buttons.

THE MAGNETIC WEST

Roman Catholic Church Caring for its People—Much Wealth From U.S.

So great has been the migration of United States farmers to western Canada during the past few years, that the Roman Catholic Church in the United States, finding that the movement included many of its members and communicants, has formed an association for the purpose of aiding and directing the settlers to a section where they could be in touch with communities of their own faith.

The association acquired a large acreage, known as St. Peter's colony, in the Quill Plains district of Saskatchewan. A monastery was established, and there is now a considerable Catholic population. The wealth of the immigrants settling in the west during the five years estimated as follows: British, cash, $37,546; effects, $18,773,000. United States, cash, $157,260,000; effects, $110,982,000.

The Brampton Jersey herd is the largest registered herd of Jerseys ever owned under the British flag.

Norwegians are Literary

The Norwegian publisher of Amundsen's book on the South Pole assured a German colleague, Herr Lehmann, who paid him a visit, that of the 200 tramway conductors in Christiania at least 75 per cent. would buy that work. He said this by way of illustrating the general interest of the Norwegian people of all classes in literature. Putting this with various other things he had observed, Herr Lehmann came to the conclusion that Scandinavia is the paradise of the book trade. In Denmark he found that 20,000 persons had subscribed for a new history of their country which cost the large sum of 80 crowns. Denmark has a population of only 2,800,000.

ANIMALS AS DOCTORS

Both Wild and Domestic Creatures Know How to Treat Illness

It is held that the simple remedies of nature generally suffice to cure beasts of their ailments and that they are guided to them by instinct.

A large number of species wash themselves and bathe—elephants stags, birds, ants, etc. Animals rid themselves of their parasites by using dust, mud and clay. Those suffering from fever restrict their diet, keep quiet, seek darkness and airy places, drink much water, and sometimes plunge into it from time to time. When a dog has lost its appetite it eats that species of grass known as "dog's grass." Cats also eat grass and catnip, when sick. Sheep and cows in the same circumstances seek out certain herbs. An animal suffering from chronic rheumatism invariably keeps as much as possible in the sun. The warrior ants maintain regularly organized ambulances.

Latreille cut the antennae of an ant. Other ants covered the wounded part with a transparent fluid from their months. If a chimpanzee is wounded it stops the flow of blood by placing its hand on the wound or dressing it with leaves and grass.

A terrier had an injured eye. It remained lying under a counter, avoiding heat and light, although it had been its habit to keep close to the fire. It adopted a general treatment—rest and abstinence from food. The local treatment consisted in licking the upper surface of its paw, which it then applied to the wounded eye, again licking the paw when it became dry.

Cats also when hurt treat themselves by this simple method.

Canadian Government Destroying Millions of Dollars in Old Bills

The Canadian Government has money to burn. During the past few months the stokers of the furnaces in the Finance Department have burned four and a half million dollars' worth of one-dollar bills, and over three million dollars' worth of two-dollar bills. And in eighteen months some twenty-seven and a half millions in small bills went up in smoke.

It may be explained, however, that this has nothing to do with the Government's aptitude for "reckless expenditure." The money burned consisted of worn or dirty Dominion notes and they were replaced with crisp, new, clean sanitary bills. The Treasury really lost nothing except the small expense of printing the new bills. But in a figurative sense the Government may be truly said to have "money to burn."
